Mosquitoes May Mean Trouble For Your Dog

Spring has arrived and you may already have found yourself whistling about those April showers. But if you're a dog owner, don't forget that besides May flowers spring showers bring mosquitoes — and mosquitoes can mean problems for your pet.

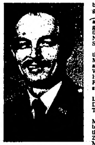
Canine heartworm disease is spread by mosquitoes. Minnesota veterinary medical association warns that if left untreated, this disease can lead to extensive organ damage and death to your dog.

Variable spring weather makes it hard to predict just how many mosquitoes to expect this year. According to Dr. Robert Sjogren of Metropolitan mosquito control, heavy rains interspersed with dry spells produce the greatest number of mosquitoes because of fluctuating water levels in low areas where eggs are likely to hatch.

Since 13 species of mosquitoes found in Minnesota are capable of carrying the disease, both indoor and outdoor dogs are susceptible. Minnesota veterinary medical association explains that when a mosquito bites an infected dog it takes up blood which may contain immature stages of the heartworm. A two-week incubation period then develops these tiny infective worms. If these worms are transmitted by the mosquito to another dog, they migrate through the body to the heart, where they grow to adult size.

Heartworm disease can be prevented. But your veterinarian needs to test your dog before any preventive program can begin. Treatment is most effective if the disease is detected in its early stages — before obvious symptoms appear and before the infection causes serious damage. This requires the services of your veterinarian.

Watch your dog. If you notice any of the symptoms common to heartworm disease, such as rapid tiring, coughing, labored breathing and general weakness, see your vet.



SECOND LT. Jesse A. Schimtke, Thief River Falls, graduated from the Minnesota military academy this month, culminating a year of part-time and full-time study at the state's officer candidate school. The program, recognized and approved by the U.S. army, graduated 53 new lieutenants for service in the Minnesota army national guard or local army reserve units. Curriculum included small arms training, drill and ceremonies, first aid, basic tactics and all facets of military leadership.

Career Women Face Various Obstacles

by Ronaele Sayre
U of M News Service

"Many women have climbed the ladder of success and pulled it up after them."

And that, according to Koryne Horbal, United States representative to the United Nations commission on the status of women, is just one of the problems women face in establishing a successful career.

Horbal, who is also the chief United States delegate for women's rights and human rights, discussed the obstacles women face from both men and women in politics and in the work world at a recent conference sponsored by continuing nursing education at the University of Minnesota.

"Men are used to helping other men. They know all about acting as mentors, sharing and forming networks, but women are just learning about those things," she said.

Horbal, who has long been active in DFL politics in Minnesota, said politics has become an extension of her education. "I have learned skills and learned from others," she said.

As a representative to the U.N. commission, Horbal said she is representing American women and not the Carter-Mondale administration. She told about her efforts on behalf of resolutions condemning sexual mutilation of young girls in some areas of the world.

State department officials were reluctant to involve the United States in the issue. Horbal contacted a women's group that actively supports the United Nations, and member of the group wrote letters to the State department. Contacts were also made with representatives of other countries, and a resolution was eventually passed.

Although she regularly speaks out for the rights of women and equality, Horbal told the women at the conference it is something that should not be done alone.

"Do it alone for only a short time because you will not be able to take the abuse. You will need others to establish credibility and a consistuency," Horbal said.

Many women have clout but don't know how to use it, she said. A women board member, for example, should pick out an important issue and become an expert on it. "You must understand rules and procedures, decide on your strategy and set priorities," Horbal said.

Nina Rothchild, executive director of the council on economic status of women, told conference participants that women find themselves dealing with myths, some old and some new.

In the old Cinderella myth the high school cheerleader married the captain of the football team and lived happily ever after. The new Charlie myth (the name comes from a perfume ad) is that all women have it made. "We have gone from the Cinderella myth to the Charlie myth without a period of equality," Rothchild said.

She said two thirds of Minnesota women are currently in the labor force, but many are in the same kinds of low-level jobs that have been held for women for years.

"Eighty per cent are in clerical, office, service or factory positions — an extension of roles in the home, subordinate roles, few jobs that are positions of authority or that recognize contributions," Rothchild said.

Gap between men's and women's income continues to widen, Rothchild said. Result is especially severe in households headed by women. Although such households are fewer than a quarter of Minnesota households, they constitute a majority of the households with incomes under $5,000 a year.

Frustration of nurses with their profession and the large number that have left have received considerable public attention in recent years. In a session on stress and burnout conducted by Ellen Betz, University associate professor of psychology and student counseling bureau staff member, participants were asked to fill out a sheet describing burnout problems they might have had.

Burnout is a debilitating psychological condition caused by work-related frustration. A person who finds ideals frustrated and is unable to accomplish goals is a likely candidate for burnout, Betz said.

Lack of recognition, advancement and challenge all contribute. Symptoms of burnout, according to Betz, may be depression, boredom, carelessness, lack of concentration and overreaction to everyday events.

Although some nurses have solved the stress and burnout problem by leaving the profession, Betz said there are a number of other solutions. They include cultivating outside interests, developing a support system, getting outside help or even just changing one's environment for a while by taking a vacation.

Ronald Prater Appointed U.S. Air Force NCO

Ronald K. Prater Jr., son of Mrs. Dennis W. Gage, of Thief River Falls, has been appointed a noncommissioned officer (NCO) in the U.S. Air Force.

The sergeant completed training in management, leadership, human relations and NCO responsibilities, before being awarded this status.

Prater is a bombardment navigation systems mechanic at Fairchild Air Force Base in Spokane, Washington.

The sergeant is a 1978 graduate of Pilchuck high school, Marysville, Wash.

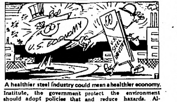
WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?



A healthier steel industry could mean a healthier economy.

A higher employment rate, a lower inflation rate, a greater amount of national security, and a smaller likelihood of your business being adversely affected, are all more possible if America's steel industry is strong and healthy.

If, however, current trends in the steel industry continue, with no significant changes in government policies, the future holds unprecedented reliance on imported steel, a huge steel trade deficit, accelerating declines in the industry's efficiency and competitiveness, further facility close-downs and substantial job losses in both steel manufacturing and related support industries.

The actual steel trade deficit in 1978 was $5.6 billion. It could be $20 billion by 1988.

If present trends are allowed to continue, producing capacity for raw steel could slide to as low as 130 million tons by 1988, compared with 158 million tons in 1978.

Translated into jobs, this could mean that the industry would employ 360,000 persons in steel operations in 1988 compared with 449,000 in 1978.

According to experts at the American Iron and Steel Institute, the government should adopt policies that would encourage and permit steel companies to achieve competitive rates of return accompanied by provisions for accelerated capital recovery.

It also advocates modifications of government-mandated regulatory programs (notably environment) that would reduce nonincome-producing capital demands.

In addition, the industry is looking for firm assurances that imported steel either by excessive volumes or unfair pricing will not disrupt the domestic steel market, particularly during the industry's revitalization effort.

The American steel industry has spent huge sums and implemented far-reaching and effective programs to protect the environment and reduce hazards. Although environmental benefits have been obtained, these expenditures have diverted capital from income-producing and cost-reduction applications. Meeting environmental standards has also had an inflationary impact by significantly increasing the operating cost of producing steel.

A modernized domestic steel industry would deliver important benefits in the conservation and optimal use of energy and thus contribute to the nation's energy goals. The domestic steel industry is, by its very nature, a large consumer of energy and has long been committed to diligent energy conservation efforts. Only far-reaching modernization, however, can produce further energy economics of real significance.

Persistent Cough Could Mean Trouble

Persistent coughing is one of nature's warning signals. It indicates that all may not be well, advises the Minnesota medical association.

Many of the coughs affecting residents of this area can be traced to simple irritations of the mucus membrane of the throat caused by variations in upper midwest weather conditions.

When these areas of the respiratory tract become irritated, there is frequently an accompanying increase in the flow of post nasal discharge. Coughing may result when excessive amounts of this mucus discharge descend and deposit in the area of the vocal cords. Allergy producing substances can affect the respiratory tract similarly, thus producing a cough. Allergic substance which provokes the cough may be present in the air or other environmental surroundings of the affected person.

Nervous tension or a feeling of insecurity may cause some persons to develop a coughing habit not based upon a specific physical disorder. Individuals affected by this type of cough are advised to seek professional help because unnecessary stimulation of the respiratory tract may produce permanent harmful effects.

"The cigarette cough" may signal a chronic respiratory tract irritation. With mounting evidence of the link between lung cancer and smoking, users of tobacco products are advised to have regular examinations to detect the possible presence of cancer, a cough may be the only tangible symptom.

A persistent cough during warm weather months may also indicate the presence of an infection in the lung bed. Often such infections are lightly dismissed as a summer cold. Result may be a case of "walking pneumonia" because of the relative unimportance attached to a respiratory infection in warm weather months.

Other cough provoking factors may be the effect of inflamed respiratory tissues upon the nervous system, disorders of the middle ear, pressures upon the Eustachian tube. Other disorders which may stimulate coughing include disturbances in certain areas of the brain, neck, mid-chest, heart and great vessels of the chest and the chest cage.

Most coughs are harmless and will disappear with proper treatments.

Commercial preparations may control the cough and offer varying amounts of relief from the accompanying pain. The important thing to remember, points out the Minnesota Medical Association, is the fact that these "over the counter" cough medicines seldom correct the underlying cause of the cough. Consult a physician when a cough does not disappear within a reasonable length of time.

Working Wives Make Homes More Affordable

Salaries earned by working wives continue to have a major impact on home buying trends, especially among those entering the housing market for the first time, according to a national survey by the Family housing bureau, a public information service of a Chicago insurance company.

In its fourth annual home buyer survey, the housing bureau reports that in 1979, 82.8 per cent of those surveyed were married. Among these couples, 49.1 per cent of the women were employed.

While these figures are down slightly from a year earlier when 86.9 per cent of those surveyed were married and 56.2 per cent of the women were employed, there's no doubt that the second income is making it possible for many couples to enter and move up in the housing market, the study seems to indicate.

Among first-time buyers, those families in which the wife was employed accounted for 64.1 per cent of the total, and 53.6 per cent of working wives were employed full time.

Among repeat home buyers, 41 per cent of the wives were employed but only 22.9 per cent were employed full time.

Survey showed that as a group, first-time buyers had a median household income of $24,070 and paid a median price of $50,800 for their homes. However, those with full-time working wives had a median income of $27,720, and paid $51,300.

Median income dropped to $22,718 among first-time buyers when the wife was not employed, and the median price for a house purchased was $51,250.

In the first-time buyer group, when the wife was employed part-time, the median family income was $17,650 and the median house price was $46,600. However, this category represented a statistically small 10.3 per cent of the total.

Family housing bureau noted that among repeat buyers in the 1979 survey, those with working wives had a slightly higher median income but nevertheless paid less for their homes.

Median income for repeat buyers with full-time working wives was $27,610. When the wife was employed part time the median income dipped to $27,200, and for families in which the wife was not employed the median income was $25,140.

However, those families with non-working wives paid a higher median price — $68,500 — compared to a median of $56,600 for those with full-time working wives and $61,900 for those with part-time working wives.

A possible explanation for this is that in families which have both spouses working there are more job related expenses and fewer opportunities to make economies in household maintenance. As a result, the couples can afford less for housing, the family housing bureau concluded.

WORCESTERSHIRE FLAVORS LOW-SODIUM COMPANY DISH

For those of you who must—or choose to—restrict your salt intake, here's a delightfully seasoned low-sodium recipe for Worcestered Orange Chicken with Almonds. It's so flavorful it's good for "mixed company" (those on and not on low sodium fare). Although it has an oriental flair, it does not use any soy sauce. Soy sauce, which contains three hundred sixty-five milligrams of sodium per teaspoon, is replaced in this dish by original Worcestershire—at only fifty-five milligrams per teaspoon. Per portion, the two teaspoons of Worcestershire in this recipe contribute only about 18 milligrams of sodium when the recipe serves six.

ORANGE CHICKEN WITH ALMONDS

- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 3 pounds chicken parts
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 teaspoons original Worcestershire sauce
- 3/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons unsalted sliced almonds, toasted

In a large skillet heat oil until hot. Add chicken; brown on all sides. Drain off drippings. Combine orange juice, Worcestershire sauce and ginger; pour over chicken. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 35 minutes. Mix cornstarch with water. Add to skillet; cook and stir until thickened, about 2 minutes. Sprinkle with almonds. Serve with rice, if desired. Yield: 6 portions. Approximate total sodium content per portion: 85 mg.

What Spring Is

Warren Strandell, editor and publisher of the recently created East Grand Forks Exponent, recently shared with his subscribers his thoughts on what spring is:

What is Spring? I can tell you.

Spp-rrr-innngg . . . is kids, puddles, taxes, dirty snow, muddy alleys, bicycles, kites, sunken manholes, wet feet, muddy pants, weddings, anticipation, and the school janitor's nightmare.

Spring is a new jacket, potholes, water on both sides of 220 (south of Alvarado), dirty windshields, someone's driveway ice on the street, when classrooms should have drapes, flowers, Easter, splintered hockey sticks, revealing, squealing tires, and unrealistic.

Spring is when boys notice girls (girls always notice boys), washing cars, ditching puddles to the sewer, outdoor conversations, dirty kids, running dogs, dirty yards, peeling paint, Mother's Day, flooding, black fields, daydreaming, ruined shoes, colds, invigorating, and garden hoses.

Spring is ticket sales, clear skies, banquet showing off, graduation, flat bike tires, smiling, big plans, track meets, engagements, skipping school, peaceful, wipe your feet notes, buds, going out at night, baseball, and when teachers can't concentrate either.

Spring is hosing the driveway, tennis, groups, golf, jumping dogs, speed traps, confirmation, Sunday mornings, raking yards, nursing blisters, Band Aids, oil changes, wet basements, last fall's candy wrappers, friendly, pudgy people, and the end of farmer vacations.

Spring is kicking squashed pop cans, derailers and bike chains, planting time, bad tap water, the stars, sloppy country roads, uplifting, the end of the heating season, changing tires, throwing out old gloves, a broken window scraper, and thunder.

Spring is fertilizer, softball, faster traffic, cleaning car trunks, plastic trikes, cluttered sidewalks, broken shoelaces, garbage bags, old fuel bills, new bank loans, musicals, in-the-way snowblowers, door-to-door sales, muddy rugs, and even more muddy rugs.

Spring is mental therapy, craft shows, pregnant, used cars, PTA's, cracked concrete, wet garage floors, banged up garbage cans, late nights, tax refunds, new ideas, less television, garage sales, cut fingers, birds, car insurance, ruts, and even deeper ruts.

Spring is Girl Scout cookies, storing snowmobiles, brown grass, seeing neighbors, cleaning the garage, seeing the principal, painting screens, fresh, thoughts of fishing, regreasing elm trees, dry cleaning, short sleeves, noisier, less steam from American Crystal, and mud streaks on the backs of bikers.

Spring is new found rust, spoiled spuds, pre-schoolers, education plans, open windows, machinery repair, muddy doorbells, school plays, auction sales, restless people, mud, outdoor clotheslines, line-ups of muddy shoes, and tripping over line-ups of muddy shoes.

Spring is home improvements, leaf-clogged rain gutters, broken fences, thin morning ice, undisciplined, sand on the streets, popped nail heads, lawn mowers, rain gauges, distracting, house cleaning, spark plugs, foggy mornings, detention, and boat and camper shows.

And spring is nine months away from winter.

Immunization Value

How soon we forget! Scarcely have we received something we appreciate a great deal when we have a total loss of memory about how important that item was. Immunity from diseases which once ravaged the people is one of those blessings soon forgotten. Elnora Bixby, a nurse who lives in Williams, couldn't have stated the situation better than she did in this letter published in the Minneapolis Tribune:

I read an item in Ann Landers recently about a young mother who didn't want her children immunized. Another mother told me that she thought "natural immunity" was better than "artificial immunizations." How soon we forget! It seems incredible that in my lifespan so many diseases that haunted my parents and me are so readily dismissed.

One of my early recollections is of hiding in a closet when a bachelor neighbor came to visit. He looked so ugly he scared me. It wasn't his bowed legs or his short stature that bothered me: it was the huge scars on his face that made him look cruel in my eyes. Smallpox had left them there. Only gradually did I come to realize that the pockmarks were just the rough exterior. Inside was one of the kindest, most gentle people I ever knew.

Smallpox has been eradicated worldwide through mass vaccinations.

I never realized how beautiful the sign language of the deaf is until I attended the wedding of a cousin. When the soloist sang the Lord's Prayer she also did the sign language for it. It added new grace and beautity a familiar song. The sign language was necessary. Both the bride and groom were deaf. He had had scarlet fever, which destroyed his hearing.

Modern antibiotics make scarlet fever a relatively mild disease.

I grumbled when I worked in the polio ward, putting on Kenny packs in the sweltering heat, trying to outwit Clementine, the large nurse's aide who could put on packs faster and better than any of us students. The days lasted forever as we ran back and forth replacing packs and counting the times we changed them for each patient. And then there was Rosie, who sang the wrong words to the "Trolley Song" as we wrapped her in steaming packs and exercised her legs.

It's funny how age gives perspective to events. The wrong words irritated me then. Now I think about Rosie and wonder if she was ever able to walk again, and I hope that she is still singing. And I realize that singing in the face of adversity is much more important that knowing the right words to a song.

We don't have polio epidemics any more, or the long worrisome summers, wondering if and where it will strike this time. Polio vaccines took care of it.

I remember the young father and the wracking convulsions of tetanus before he died. It was only a slight crushed finger, but it was more than enough, since he had never had tetanus shots.

I remember the priest coming into the clinic and asking the doctor to come to the car to see a young boy. The doctor came back in again looking shaken. He didn't say anything for a few moments, and then almost angrily he said, "He's already dead. He has diphtheria," and then going in to wash his hands. We couldn't order vaccine fast enough to keep up with the demand the next month.

When my son got mumps followed by encephalitis, no reassurance by the doctor that it was benign would convince me. The child lay so frighteningly still and white.

The vaccine for mumps became available the next year.

There are others I remember. They run the whole gamut of preventable diseases.

I suppose if we got a vaccine to prevent cancer we would stand in long lines to get the shot, and two generations later someone would say, "I think getting the disease by natural means is better."

Black Is White, Etc.

In his book "Beyond Language", Dimitri Borgmann proves that black is white and ugly is beautiful. It just depends on how you interpret the language. Borgmann explains:

"Black is dark; dark is obscure; obscure is hidden; hidden is concealed; concealed is snug; snug is comfortable; comfortable is easy; easy is simple; simple is pure and pure is white."

"Ugly is offensive; offensive is insulting; insulting is insolent; insolent is proud; proud is lordly; lordly is stately; stately is grand; grand is gorgeous; gorgeous is beautiful."

You're Worth More

The day of the $10 man is almost here. The 98-cent homo sapien from 10 years ago is no more; inflation has driven up the cost of humans once again.

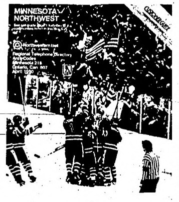
According to Harry Monsen, PhD, anatomy professor at the University of Illinois college of medicine, the price tag on chemicals in the human body now reads about $7.28.

A 160-pound human, Monsen says, has about five pounds of potassium, a pound and one-half of phosphates, an ounce of magnesium and small amounts of other minerals. If there is gold in the teeth, that would raise the value but can not be considered a natural part of the anatomy.

Borrowed Nonsense:

A smart woman is one who can make her husband feel as if he is head of the house when actually he's only chairman of the entertainment committee.

The only advice Uncle Jake took from the doctor was to take a hot bath or shower before retiring. The problem is the doctor didn't know Uncle Jake doesn't retire until 1982.



NEW DIRECTORY for Northwestern Bell telephone company in this area salutes the 1980 U.S. Olympic hockey team. The cover (above) is a dramatic color photograph taken the moment the team rushed onto the ice to celebrate the victory over Finland that brought home the gold medal for the United States. Al Bacon, manager, said the directories are in the mail and should be in customers' hands in the near future. He admitted that a sports scene on a directory cover might be considered highly unusual, but pointed out that the team's accomplishment was a particular source of pride for people in Minnesota, home state for 12 of the team members. "We wanted to honor the team, especially those players from our area," Bacon said. The directory includes alphabetical and classified listings for Baudette, Crookston, Roseau, Thief River Falls and Warroad, and alphabetical listings for Badger, Beltrami, Fisher, Goodridge, Holt, Malung, Wannaska, Middle River, Newfolden, Roosevelt, St. Hilaire, Viking, Williams and Rainy River, Ontario.

NEWS OF HEALTH

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

In the continuing national health insurance debate, an important fact is often overlooked: America already has an experienced, effective and economical health insurance system. One hundred and eighty million people are protected by some form of private health insurance. By integrating this system into a national health insurance program, the country might realize important savings and efficiencies. This article outlines some thoughts on the subject from Aetna Life and Casualty, one of America's largest private health insurance companies.

Everyone should be protected from ruinous health-care expenses. The private health insurance system already protects 90 percent of all Americans under age 65. Using it as the foundation of a national health insurance plan would lead to protection for virtually everyone from catastrophic costs. And, importantly, it could be implemented quickly, at reasonable cost, eliminating the need for a new and expensive federal bureaucracy.

In extending health protection on a national scale, a combined government-private effort would set a reasonable, single, out-of-pocket limit on the amount a covered person would have to pay for health care. Above the limit, all covered health-care bills would be paid in full. And, because most people are already covered by private health insurance, they would spend little or no money from their own pockets—even for serious illnesses involving thousands of dollars in care.

As an important part of the program, strong tax incentives would encourage employers to provide catastrophic coverage for their employees. Employers would also extend group health insurance benefits to terminated employees and their dependents and to dependent children up to age 26.

While the private insurance companies—through employer-sponsored programs and individual health insurance policies—would cover self-supporting Americans and their families not now protected, the government would extend catastrophic health-care coverage to the poor, long-term unemployed and aged through improved Medicare and Medicaid programs.

Thus, the government would concentrate its resources on these groups, while private insurance companies would concentrate on protecting the majority of Americans who can afford to pay.

Persons presently unable to obtain protection through the private sector may also not qualify for government health-care insurance. These "high medical risks" would be covered under the plan Aetna supports by establishing insurance "pools," administered by private insurance companies. This would ensure that anyone who could afford to purchase coverage would be able to do so at a reasonable price, regardless of his or her health.

This program would fill critical gaps in the nation's present insurance coverage and assure all Americans access to adequate catastrophic health protection. Further, it would be quickly implemented without the need of additional costly bureaucracy because it is an extension of private insurance programs that have been in operation for many years.

MN. Inventors Congress Set For June 13-15

"You can't go anywhere in this country without seeing something that was once on display at the Minnesota Inventors Congress" boasts Robert Starr, one of the originators of the 23-year-old event. The four-legged cane and the pocket fisherman are two such items that once were just the brainchild of some unknown but ingenious person.

The Minnesota Inventors Congress helped these inventors get started. Through exposure to the public and contacts with manufacturers, their creations are now familiar products currently on the market. That is the whole idea behind this annual event which will be held June 13-15 at Redwood Falls and is open to the public.

Among the many programs offered at this year's Congress are:

—Breakfast and dinner for inventors featuring guest speakers from the department of commerce, Minnesota department of economic development, Small Business administration and patent law association;

—Seminars where inventors can get questions answered, find information on possible funding and learn what steps to follow in getting their product manufactured;

—An awards presentation in which cash prizes up to $500, trophies and ribbons will be awarded for exhibits judged best in the categories of agricultural-implements, electronics and chemistry, sports and recreation, automotive, personal, household, industrial tools, energy conservation and alternative energy; and —An energy fair, offering valuable information on new forms of energy and new products related to energy.

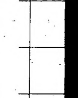
A brochure describing the event, including a detailed schedule of the three days, information on lodging and recreation in the area, and an application form for exhibitors can be obtained by writing to Minnesota Inventors Congress, Box 71 Redwood Falls, MN 56283.

In 1938, the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) covered 15 million workers; forty years later, the act covered more than 50 million workers. The act is enforced by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Views On Dental Health®



By Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

WHY DENTAL FLOSS?

Dental plaque is the primary cause of tooth decay and gum disease. A tooth brush can help remove plaque from visible surfaces but cannot remove it from between the teeth and beneath the gum line. Unwaxed floss is most often recommended to remove plaque from these hidden areas. Here's how to use it:

Cut off about 18 inches of floss and wrap the ends around the middle fingers, leaving about 2 inches between the hands. Guide it with thumbs for the top teeth and index fingers for lowers. Pass the floss gently between two teeth, sliding several times to the gum and back along the side of one tooth. Repeat the scraping on the side of the adjacent tooth and move on until all teeth are flossed.

A word of caution: Always control the floss. Try never to snap the floss suddenly between two teeth as the gums may be sensitive. Use a gentle, sewing motion. If gums bleed, you may be flossing too hard, or they may be in poor health. It makes sense to have your dentist or hygienist demonstrate the flossing method to you. It will help insure the future health of your teeth and gums.

Clothing Care ALERT!

SUMMER CARE FOR WINTER WEAR

Snow-lovers know that eventually the frost will thaw. Although your bodies may be in prime condition from the rigors the ice and snow sports have put you through, your winter sports clothing may not have fared as well.

The Rest and Recuperation season is near for this vital part of your wardrobe. The International Fabricare Institute (IFI), the world-wide association of professional launderers and drycleaners, suggests that you begin preparing your winter sportswear for storage as the end of the chilly season nears.

Winter this year meant warm wool and puffy down.

Wool was rediscovered by outdoorsmen and women and was worn in 100 percent wool and wool-blend tights and underwear, in layers of shirts, sweaters and pants, and in outer coats. All expensive. All worthy of the best care.

With tender, professional attention your wool garments can continue to serve you well, even after seasons of hard winter wear. Your professional drycleaner can add fabric finishing to maintain looks during the storage months and water repellents to maintain serviceability.

Increasingly popular down-filled sports garments—vests, jackets, parkas, pants and mittens—also deserve proper attention after a season of intense use.

Drycleaning down garments will lengthen their useful wear-life. An IFI drycleaner will use the proper solvent while carefully controlling the timing. The fragile down and its stitched fabric casing require this gentle handling. Proper and sufficient airing to dispel residual fumes is an important final step of the professional cleaning process.

After cleaning, store your down garments in a cool, dry, uncrowded spot in your closet. They need space to retain the loft that provides their warmth and good looks.

Your winter wardrobe probably included some winter fun wear, made of fanciful fabrics such as satins, quilting, luxury knits and piles. Because these garments spent more time around the hearth than in the elements, they need the pampering that includes professional spot removal, button and zipper repair and other expert attentions. Proper storage—careful folding of knits and careful hanging of woven garments on shaped hangers in a closet that allows some breathing space—will guarantee additional seasons of beauty.

Careful tending to your cold-weather sportswear now will have you ready to go even before the summer suns begin to fade, and you find yourself checking snow conditions at your favorite get-away spots again.

FREE FUEL
when you purchase a Koehn ROW CROP CULTIVATOR!

"The high speed Koehn Row Crop Cultivator is remarkably fuel efficient. You can do 90 to 100 acres a day with a four-row unit and proportionally more with larger sizes."

But Koehn says — "THAT'S NOT ENOUGH!"

In these times of high energy costs, Koehn wants to help more. So every farmer who buys a Koehn Row-Crop Cultivator this spring and settles up before June 1, 1980, will receive a rebate check equal to four gallons of fuel for each row of the unit you purchase. (Example 4 row unit x 4 gallons 16 gallons)

So make your best deal. When you settle up, we'll give you an Energy Saver postcard to send to Koehn. Koehn will send you a check within 4 weeks.

WELCOME SPRING WITH DESSERT

The fresh fruit season and the promise of spring are reasons enough to prepare this luscious dessert. Strawberry Chantilly Tarts have all the convenience of preparation that you'll need—vanilla flavor pudding and pie filling and strawberry flavor gelatin—right from the cupboard. Top with a dollop of whipped topping and a slice of strawberry before serving.

STRAWBERRY CHANTILLY TARTS

1 package (4-serving size) Jell-O vanilla flavor pudding and pie filling
1 package (3 oz.) Jell-O strawberry flavor gelatin
2-1/2 cups water
1 container (4 oz.) Birds Eye Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
12 commercial pastry shells in aluminum foil cups

Combine pudding mix, gelatin and water in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil and is thickened and clear. Remove from heat and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in whipped topping, blending well. Chill. Spoon into tart shells. Garnish with additional whipped topping and halved strawberries, if desired. Makes 12 tarts.

Almonds Add Romance And Magic To Salads

Throughout time, food has been offered as an expression of love. Recognizing the romance often shared with fine food, the Magic Pan restaurants across the country are featuring a Salute to Great Lovers. Appropriately, the promotion is in February, the month of hearts and flowers. Great Lover's menus honor famous couples such as Romeo and Juliet, and include special menu items featuring the Sweetheart Nut, almonds.

Create your own at-home Salute to Great Lovers with this adaptation of the Magic Pan's Orange Almond Salad. There's no magic to making this savory salad or its sweet and sour dressing. Toasted slivered almonds provide a festive garnish and flavorful crunch. They also add a good nutritional balance. They're full of protein, vitamins and minerals. Most important—for a Valentine month of romance and roses, or anytime of the year—the Sweetheart Nut will work its own special magic with the foods you serve.

ORANGE ALMOND SALAD

6 cups lightly packed torn romaine
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments, drained
3 green onions, sliced
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¾ cup Sweet and Sour Dressing (recipe follows)
½ cup slivered almonds, toasted

Place romaine, oranges, onions and parsley in large bowl; just before serving toss with Sweet and Sour Dressing. Spoon onto individual serving plates; top with almonds. Makes 6 servings.

SWEET AND SOUR DRESSING

½ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup white wine tarragon vinegar
1½ teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon tarragon
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash liquid hot pepper sauce

In small bowl whisk together all ingredients until mixture is creamy and thoroughly combined. Refrigerate at least 20 minutes to blend flavors. Mix before serving. Makes ¾ cup.

The largest whale in the world, the Great Blue, can grow at maturity to 100 feet and weigh at least 150 tons. Once severely threatened, the Great Blues since 1966 have been protected by strict prohibitions on whaling established by the International Whaling Commission.

Of the 90 species, only one is harvested by the pelagic (sea-going) ships of Japan. It's the minke whale, which is used primarily for food. All of the great whales — the blues, the humpbacks, the rights, the greys, the sperms — are fully protected from pelagic whaling.

Scientific studies show the minke whale to be in abundance. Its numbers continue to grow, because harvesting is kept well below their reproduction rate. Scientists agree that by harvesting minke whales, greater access to the feeding grounds is preserved for other larger species so they can replenish their herds faster.

The International Whaling Commission, dedicated to the preservation of whale species and protection of those that are endangered, is no longer dominated by whaling nations. Scientists from nonwhaling countries now far outnumber those from whaling countries on the Commission.

Now's The Time To Buy A Business!

This may be the ideal time for you to make your move to own your own business. Sure there are headaches and times are uncertain. But rewards come only to those who are willing to take a chance. Look around. Business owners almost always do better, even when things are tough. The secret to success is buying the RIGHT BUSINESS with a consistent track record of earnings and growth - the only kind we sell. Consider this:

- * Price and selection are the best ever
- * Most are owner financed with reasonable downpayments
- * Interest rates are far below current bank levels
- * Inflation often works for the business owner, increasing income, equity, and business value as prices go up
- * Tax advantages are favorable to shelter the profits
- * Living quarters are often included with the business
- * Ownership ends the uncertainty about personal employment

You may be able to TRADE IN YOUR HOME EQUITY without selling it on some of our businesses. ORION COMMERCIAL, a Twin Cities headquartered business brokerage firm, has profitable business opportunities across Minnesota and Wisconsin including some great buys in Northern and Northwestern Minnesota (all profitable).

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN BUYING OR SELLING A BUSINESS, OUR BEMIDJI/NO. MINN. BROKER WILL BE IN THIEF RIVER FALLS AT THE BEST WESTERN ON THURSDAY, APRIL 24. CALL US TO ARRANGE AN APPOINTMENT. We'll have information on our properties and we'll be happy to meet with you to discuss them with no obligation on your part. WE MAY HAVE THE KEY TO YOUR PERSONAL FINANCIAL SECURITY!

3 From Area Attend Girls State Session

Three junior girls from three area schools have been chosen to represent their schools at the 34th annual Girls State session June 8-14 at the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, sponsored by Ecklund-Holmstrom unit 117 of the American Legion auxiliary.

Delegates and alternates from each of the three schools include: Lincoln high school — Stacy Ehrenstrom, delegate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ehrenstrom, and Kim McFarland, alternate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane McFarland, all of Thief River Falls;

Goodridge — Bernice Anderson, delegate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Roy Anderson and Robyn Johnson, alternate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary B. Johnson;

Grygla — Chris Foss, delegate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ell-Kay Foss, and Jill Saurdiff, alternate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saurdiff Sr. This is the first year that a girl is being sent from the Grygla school, according to Mrs. Ormond Johnson, Girls State chairman for the local auxiliary.

In high school, Stacy has been co-captain of the girls' volleyball team, a member of the student senate for six years, track for six years (she holds the Lincoln high girls' record in shot-put), in the junior high musical "Calamity Jane" and the senior high musical, "Where's Charley?" Her hobbies include sewing, macrame and horse training. She was baptized and confirmed at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and she has attended White Earth church camps and volleyball camp for two summers.

Alternate Kim McFarland is currently involved in Usherettes and yearbook staff, and will participate in the spring play. She has been involved in girls' basketball, being on varsity in her sophomore and junior years and starting as guard this year. She has also been a member of Lincoln choir for three years, and acted in the musical, "Where's Charley?". She is enrolled in the Community Action program in

Auto Showtime Plans Advance

Prairie Schooners and Street Wizard car clubs of northwestern Minnesota are finalizing plans for the North Country Auto showtime to be conducted at the sports arena in Thief River Falls May 17 and 18.

Approximately 20 of the planned 65 show entries have been received. Open show has classes for street machines, street rods, antique and special interest vehicles. Entries also are encouraged for vans, cycles and boats. Commercial displays will be available in the arena. For more information, interested individuals and businesses should contact either Leon Raiter at 681-1984 or Lonnie Nyflot at 681-5932 or write North Country Auto Showtime, Box 233, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Invite Artists To Enter Art Show May 15th

Exhibitors are being sought for the Region One art show to be held May 15-18 at the Falls Mall in Thief River Falls, according to the sponsoring Thief River Falls community arts council.

Artists are invited to exhibit and have their works for sale at the show, according to Mrs. Duane (Betty) Walton, entries chairman for the arts council. Arrangements are being made for purchase awards at the show and sales to the public will also be encouraged.

Any practicing artist of high school age or older is eligible to participate and each artist may submit up to three original works. Entries will be accepted in oil, watercolor, acrylic, tempera, pen and ink, pencil, pastels and charcoal as well as prints and sculpture. All works must be matted or framed and securely wired for hanging.

All pictures for sale must be priced for sale as displayed. Works of art entered and subsequently sold by the artist before the opening of the show must be reported as sold. Works selected to tour the region following the show cannot be delivered to the purchaser until completion of the tour. There will be no commission on sales.

Thirty works will be selected from the juried show to tour Region One from June 1 through August 20. Any work entered must be available for this tour. All art work received will be insured for its full value from receipt to return shipment.

All entries must be sent prepaid or delivered in person to Mrs. Walton at Mr. Duane's, 214 LaBree av. N., Thief River Falls between Saturday, May 10 and Tuesday, May 13, between 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. each day except Sunday. Entries may not be removed from the show before 4 p.m. on Sunday, May 18, but those not selected for the regional tour must be picked up between 4 and 6 p.m. May 18 or on May 19 between 9 a.m. and noon.

Tight Farm Credit Worries Farmers, Bankers, Dealers

Times Editor

If one word has been used most extensively in the discussion of farm credit and the situation facing area farmers as they head into the 1980 crop year, that word would have to be "tight" It was used by bankers, rural credit officers, farmers and implement and farm supply dealers who were contacted during the past week.

Rumors had been heard that some farmers would not be able to plant a crop this year because they would be unable to obtain credit to do so. Among the people contacted by the Times, however, none had heard of anyone forced into that position.

A combination of factors have changed the farm credit picture this year from other years and affect not only the farmers but those who deal with farmers. Among the main points mentioned are:

(1) Farm prices for grain and livestock at a comparatively low level;

(2) Increased costs for necessary farm supplies and equipment, especially gasoline, diesel fuel and other petroleum products;

(3) Tight money supply and interest rates in the 16 to 18 per cent area on short-term borrowing;

(4) Restriction by farm supply dealers to 30 days or less on farm credit.

It was generally agreed that the three-part series of trucker strike, grain handlers strike at the Duluth port and embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union had dealt with a severe blow to the farm economy. If there is any optimism among farmers this spring, it is because of the weather which is permitting early field work.

"It's good that the weather broke so that farmers can get out and get going and get their minds on their work instead of their problems," one farm supplier said. "It couldn't help but be depressing when they would sit around in here and drink coffee and bitch to each other about how tough things are."

Lee Sorenson, agricultural representative at First Northwestern state bank, said the bank has placed a priority on production loans and has tried to meet the demands of its regular customers. Money is tight, he admitted, and the bank has referred more than the normal number of farmers to other credit areas, particularly the Farmers Home administration.

Demand has been unusually heavy because dealer credit is being cut to 30 days or less, he said, and because smaller banks in the area are unable to meet demand and have been referring their customers to the larger banks. Farm suppliers have had larger than normal carry-over debt from a year ago which has forced the 30-day limit.

"There is the potential for a farmer not being able to get the money to plant a crop," Sorenson said, "but I am sure that less than 10 per cent of the farmers in the area would not be able to borrow under any circumstances. Some farmers who own land are putting it out for cash rent in place of planting it themselves."

Sorenson said that there will be a number of farmers reaching their debt capacity this year, but expects that if weather cooperates this year can be no worse than last. He noted that farmers are being "victimized by the economic situation — they must plant wheat while the nation presently has too large of supply of wheat."

Ollie Botner at Northern state bank said it has become necessary for farmers and bankers to watch expenditures a little closer than normal, but said the bank has been able to meet most of the requirements of its regular farm customers. He added that pressures have been put on lenders because of the demand for short-term credit previously provided by dealers.

Ferdie Mandt, manager of Farmers Union Oil company, said the cooperative has been forced into the credit restrictions by high interest costs, high cost of inventory and larger than normal accounts receivable. In 27 years of farm supply experience, including 13 years here, he doesn't recall the money situation ever being as tight.

Mandt said he expects farmers to cut back to some

FmHA Scrambling To Provide Credit

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When farmers are unable to obtain credit from commercial lenders, they come to the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) in quest of financial help. In Thief River Falls that means they come to Francis (Butch) Koehmstedt, manager of the Pennington and Red Lake county FmHA office. This year they have been coming in droves.

"This is as tight as I've ever seen credit in 10 years with the FmHA," Koehmstedt says. "We are being as lenient as we can possibly be in extending credit, but it is entirely likely that some people will be forced out of farming because of losses and high debt."

Koehmstedt said that the eastern third of Pennington county and the eastern half of Red Lake county were the hardest hit by weather last fall and that farmers there are in the most financial difficulty this spring. A poor crop, poor prices and a heavy debt load combine to create some real financial problems.

Disaster emergency loans are available to farmers who had crop losses of 20 per cent or more last year, he said. Funds appear to be ample in his program although about 140 loans have been approved and another 140 are in process. Loans range from $600 to several hundred thousand dollars, he said, with interest rate at five per cent on funds covering the actual loss in a major crop area.

An operating loan program for annual expense in machinery and livestock had about $500,000 available but has been out of funds since March 20. About 20 loans were made under the program and no more funding will be available until October 1.

Economic emergency loans have been made available with a $2 billion federal allocation for the nation, $1 billion of which is available through Dec 1, 1980. Of this total, Minnesota was allocated $40 million

After only 10 days of processing the economic emergency loans, half of the total was committed, Koehmstedt said. Loans locally average about $50,000, he said, and range up to $350,000 as the largest loan made locally. To be eligible, farmers must have been in farming last year. There have been about 25 applicants for loans under this program with the interest rate now at 14 per cent.

Koehmstedt said that FmHA can help farmers with dealer credit problems by providing them with a letter indicating a loan has been applied for and is being processed. This should permit the farmer to get the materials he needs for planting a crop or continuing his other farm enterprises.

2 Women File For Goodridge School Board

Two women are among the three candidates who have filed to date for two positions open on the Goodridge board of education, according to Dr. David Brown, superintendent of schools.

Incumbent clerk Larry Vigen, who is completing his first three-year term on the board, has filed for reelection. Marie Adams and Joanne C. Cullen have also filed for the board. J. Duane Nelson, present chairman and past treasurer of the board who is completing his third term, has not filed for reelection.

RAISING HER HAND when she hears the "beep" is Jennifer Saustad, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Bruce Saustad, Thief River Falls, one of several children who attended the annual kindergarten roundup conducted last week in the St Bernard's Catholic church basement. Pictured in the background is Lillian Ranum, Franklin middle school nurse.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Reber And Charlson Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reber of Arlington, Texas announce the marriage of their daughter, Penny, to Mark Charlson of Arlington, and formerly of Thief River Falls.

The wedding took place February 16 at the Prince of Peace Lutheran church at Arlington.

For her wedding, the bride chose a candlelight gown of English net and Alencon lace designed by Galina. The molded bodice was fashioned of net and appliqued with Alencon lace reembroidered with seed pearls, forming a scooped yoke, outlined in a scroll pattern of lace and pearls. A high wedding band collar closed the neckline. Repeated appliques of lace and beading complemented the long tapered sleeves of English net. Her A-line skirt of English net fell to carpet length and flowed into a chapel train with an inset of accordion pleats of satin in front and a border of lace and pearls at the hemline. A tiara style cap held her veil of sheer illusion. The veil was outlined in seed pearls and swept beyond the train of her gown.

Her attendants were Shiela Murdock, a sister, as matron of honor, and Janie Reber, a sister, Gena Shanks, a cousin, and Stacy Alexander, a friend, as bridesmaids. They were attired in identical carpet-length gowns of aubergine siesta crepe with modified blouson bodices, scoop necklines, elbow-length capelet sleeves and full accordion pleated skirts falling from a natural waistline.

Her flower girl, Shelly Murdock, a niece, was attired in a gown to match the bridal attendants. The ring bearer, Justin Murdock, a nephew, and Jason Murdock, another nephew, who served as altar boy, wore black tuxedos similar to those worn by the groom and his attendants.

Dennis Kleve of Edina, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Tom Nepper, Plymouth; Roger Lee, Edina, and Eric Charlson of Thief River Falls. Serving as ushers were Steven Charlson, Tucson, Ariz.; Danny Reber and John Reena, Arlington, Tex.

Ragna Reber, grandmother of the bride, was a special guest.

A reception followed in the church annex with sisters of the groom: Karen Schmitz, Arlington, Tex., Kirsten Charlson, Minneapolis, and Elaine Charlson, Tucson Ariz., together with Mrs. Steven (Judy) Charlson presiding at the punch bowls and serving both the wedding cake and groom's cake. Leda Proulx, a friend of the bride, was at the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mex., the bride and groom are at home at 807 Cottonwood Creek Circle, Apt. 1076, Arlington, Tex., 76011. The groom is currently managing the Country Kitchen restaurant in Arlington.

Attending the wedding from Thief River Falls were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Charlson, and his brother, Eric. Photo, Gittings, Fort Worth, Tex.

Hodge-Podge Homemakers Plan Annual Barbecue

Hodge-Podge homemakers club annual barbecue was discussed at the meeting of the club held recently at the home of Corrine Flynn.

The event was scheduled for May 20, in the evening, at the home of Mary Numedahl. Husbands will be invited as special guests. Plans were also made for summer picnics.

The lesson for the evening was given by Janet Lundbohm and Peggy Kraemer, who led the informative presentation on the importance of weight control, proper food consumption and exercise to maintain physical fitness. To stress the necessity of exercising, members participated in an exercise routine.

Lunch featured a low-calorie raspberry dessert served by Janet Lundbohm.

New Program Studied By Happy Homemakers

Happy Homemakers' program plans for next year were studied at the meeting of the club held Monday evening at the Ethel Aase home. Leading the discussion and reporting on the program was councilor Ann Hanson.

The lesson, "Physical Fitness and Your Diet," was presented by Opal Dargus. Adding special interest to the meeting was the displaying of a crib quilt made by Signe Miller, and a yarn coaster set made by Inga Hendrickson.

During the business session, members decided to have a picnic in the Hartz park in June. The May meeting will be held at the home of Inga Hendrickson and will include a craft session in making corsages.

Present at the meeting, in addition to those mentioned, were Gladys Isaacson, Judy Kjensrud, Regina Gustafson and Alice Iverson.

Kathy Boelk-Tom Vraa Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Boelk, of Embarrass, announce the engagement of their daughter Kathy, to Thomas Vraa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Vraa of Embarrass and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Vraa of Goodridge.

Miss Boelk is a senior at Biwabik high school and is employed at Four Corners, Embarrass. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Milbridge, reside at Virginia.

Vraa is a 1979 graduate of Babbitt high school and is employed by Erie Mining company at Hoyt Lakes.

A November 29th wedding is being planned.

Mortensen-Thompson Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mortensen of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Thompson of Newfolden announce the engagement of their children Dawn Marie and LtCpl. Roger Clay.

Miss Mortensen is attending Warren high school and is a candidate for graduation with the class of 1980. She plans to attend the University of Minnesota, Crookston, following graduation.

L-Cpl Thompson is presently serving in the Marine Corps in Okinowa, Japan, where he will be stationed for a year.

No wedding has been set.

The first pension was established by the Plymouth Colony for disabled soldiers in 1636, according to a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

State President Speaks At MFWC District Meet

"Federation Jewels," was the topic of the address given by State president of the Minnesota Federation of Women's club (MFWC) Mrs. Harry (Jean) Larson of East Grand Forks at the ninth district meeting held in Thief River Falls on Saturday, April 19.

In speaking to the 180 members and guests, Mrs. Larson stated that the federation jewels were like diamonds with many facets. As the diamond gives off individual brilliance to the eye of the beholder, the federation jewels, in the form of members, reflects the lights of service, such as love, patriotism and charity, by sharing talents, providing leaders and developing social, moral and cultural standards by membership involvement in public affairs. She warned against placing the needs of any organization before the needs of the family.

Also speaking to the group was Mrs. Leola Furman, assistant professor of social work at the University of North Dakota. Mrs. Furman traced the different age groups in ones life, from infancy to old-age, and told how each age affected a person's life. She also paid tribute to a member of the group, Miss Geneva Overum, who was her first grade teacher.

The meeting was held at Northland Community college with District president Mrs. Sidney (Alice) DeLisle of East Grand Forks presiding. It began with the presentation of the Colors by junior Girl Scout troop 132, Thief River Falls, and the group singing the National Anthem with Dee Forney as accompanist. Following the pledge of allegiance, by the group, the "Club Collect" was sung by Jan Peterson of this city. Mrs. Verne Green, Newfolden, welcomed the group, Mrs. Wilho (Irene) Kemp of Fosston, gave the response; Dr. Alex Easton, president of Northland Community college, extended the greetings, and Mrs. Harry Brodin of East Grand Forks gave the invocation.

Music for the event was provided by soloist Ruth Ferber, Thief River Falls; a Triple Trio from Newfolden high school, and the Newfolden Jazz band.

Election of officers resulted in the selection of Mrs. William (Joyce) Reynolds, Crookston, as president; Mrs. Gene (Marge) Busch, Newfolden, first vice-president; Mrs. Mae Kersting, Mahnomen, second vice president; Mrs. Roger (Treasure) Omdahl, Warren, treasurer; Mrs. Don (Kay) Fulp, Wahpeton, N.D., secretary; Mrs. Ann Paulson, Crookston, historian; and Mrs. Robert (Bonnie) Dondelinger, Thief River Falls, auditor.

The meeting concluded with an awards program, a Remembrance service given by the Columbia Study club of East Grand Forks, and a Silver tea hosted by the Newfolden study club.

Hosting the meeting were the Newfolden Study club and the DeCor, Laurel and Zehlian clubs of the Thief River Falls Federated Women's clubs. To correspond with the program theme, "Viking Land," the tables in the college dining room were graced with Viking ceramics made by the Newfolden club. The two fresh floral arrangements, were gifts from the two local banks. The dinner was catered by Lon's.

Immigrant Exhibit In Roseau County

"Documents the experiences of some of the thousands of families immigrating to Minnesota during the 19th and 20th centuries. The photographic exhibit, on loan from the Minnesota historical society, opens May 1 at the assembly room of the Roseau county museum and continues until Saturday, May 24.

Moving to a new country radically transformed the lives of most immigrants. Some 55 photographs and posters depict that transformation, showing who settled in Minnesota, what persuaded them to move, what they found when they arrived and how they adapted to their new homes.

"The Immigrant Experience" also uses photos of churches and club activities to illustrate the efforts of these new settlers to preserve old ways. Exhibit will be open to the public Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., May 1-24.

Screening Set In Area For Four-Year-Olds

Thief River Falls school district is offering screening to all children in their district who will be four as of September 1.

Purpose of this screening is to provide the school with a complete health history on every child and identify children who may have health or developmental problems so they may receive educational services — such as speech and language — or they may be referred to health sources prior to kindergarten attendance.

Participation in any part of this program is voluntary but this early identification is very important. If a child is screened and found to have a need, he will receive services this fall prior to kindergarden.

This year's screening program will take approximately two hours, if a child has all the following components: vision, hearing, growth and development, nutrition and immunization review, health history review, dental and physical inspection and lab tests. If a referral recommendation is made for a child at the screening, please indicate which provider would be preferred for the referral. Those who do not know what providers are available in the area will be informed of various resources to assist in making a choice.

Parents whose child is four and have not received a letter in the mail are asked to call 874-6215 in Newfolden.

Regional FFA Winners Are Recognized

More than 150 young Minnesotans from over 75 Future Farmer of America (FFA) chapters were honored Monday at the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus during the state FFA convention.

Regional winners from the area and their proficiencies include: Dale Mekash, Greenbush, crop production; Florence Hemp, Greenbush, dairy production; and Terry Drangstveit, Goodridge, home and farmstead improvement.

MCC Plans Kindergarten Roundup May 9

Marshall county central school district will hold its annual kindergarten roundup Friday, May 9. Any child residing in the district who will be five years old by September 1 is eligible to attend kindergarten during the 1980-81 school year.

Letters to parents of all known eligible children are being sent out. Any parent of an eligible child who does not receive a letter by April 30 should call the Newfolden elementary school at 874-8805.

Farmers Cut Sunflowers, Plant Wheat

Planting season is underway and Minnesota farmers say they're cutting back on soybean and sunflower plantings. Only a three per cent cutback on soybeans is in the works but a sharp 21 per cent decline from last year is indicated for sunflowers.

However, state farmers are kicking up their wheat acreage by more than one-third, and if this materializes, total wheat plantings will hit just over 3½ million acres this year. Growers also say they'll plant almost seven million acres of corn, one per cent more than last year. Slight increases are also underway for barley and sugarbeets but oats and flax will slip.

LUTHERAN DEACONESS HOSPITAL
SCHOOL OF NURSING
Approved by the State Board of Nursing
Accredited by the National League for Nursing

If you want to be a part of a dynamic human services profession where you have the opportunity to help others in a personal way, you may find career success and personal satisfaction in nursing, the caring profession.

We, at the Deaconess School, have been dedicated to this tradition of helping individuals prepare for nursing careers since 1916. Lutheran Deaconess features a three year diploma program. Our students study nursing in small classes in a school designed only for that purpose, and they have the opportunity to practice and refine their skills during all three years of the program in a diverse set of clinical facilities that we feel are some of the best in the Minneapolis Metropolitan Area. These facilities include Lutheran Deaconess Hospital, Fairview Hospital, Fairview Southdale Hospital, Children's Health Center and Hospital. In addition we have a relationship with Augsburg College, a private liberal arts college, where they take supporting courses in science, social sciences and humanities.

Our fine program is reflected in the performances of our students. 78 percent finish the program and 96 percent pass the State Board examinations. Our graduates are in high demand by employers and they hold a variety of positions in the health care system.

If you think you have what it takes to be part of the nursing profession today, contact Mary Joel (Registrar) at 721-2933, extension 253 for additional information and application forms or write 2315 14th Ave. S., Minneapolis, MN 55404

Herbers Take Part In Texas Convention

Local state delegates Dr. and Mrs. Leo Herber of Thief River Falls, were among the 30,000 at the 53rd session of the Seventh-day Adventist church worldwide in Dallas, Texas recently.

Throughout the week (April 17-26), Adventist musical groups from Poland, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic and Mexico joined with other local groups for city mall concerts.

From 190 countries of the world, the delegation renamed Neal C. Wilson of Washington, D.C., president, and elected the first black executive secretary, G. Ralph Thompson from Barbados. An Australian, Lance L. Butler of Sydney, is the new treasurer. Both the secretarial and treasury posts were open following retirements.

April 20 two airplanes were dedicated to mission service in Indonesia and the Philippines. Adventists operate the largest missionary air fleet of any denomination. Each pilot is required to take special training at the church's aviation center at Andrews university in Berrien Springs, MI.

Delegates took steps to streamline organizational structure at the world headquarters for both management and cost efficiency. Health and temperance departments were merged as well as stewardship with the ministerial association.

"If we could reduce our staff by just 10 individuals," president Wilson explained, "we might be able to put as much as $500,000 out in the world field where it counts rather than in office positions."

A COVER TEST and corneal reflection test were performed on each child being screened last week during the annual kindergarten roundup for all children who will five on or before September 1. Corneal reflection device (flashlight) is a new method used to check the child for eye problems, according to Marcia Stanislawski, district 564 school nurse. Kristi VanHorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl (Roger) Van Horn, keeps her eyes focused on the flashlight during the eye testing.

☒ ELECT ELAINE

What Can Elaine Offer To The Board of Education?

- I have the time, concern, and complete sincerity . . .
- I am willing to face the issues before us and to listen . . .
- I am appalled at the conditions of Lincoln High . . .
- I am amazed at the spending we must do, just to temporarily insure safety and provide classrooms for our children . . .

Don't we have an obligation? Can negative attitudes produce quality education and uphold the traditions of Ind. School District 564?

Shrine Circus Tickets Now On Sale Here

Kem Shrine circus will be staged in the University of North Dakota fieldhouse May 2, 3 and 4 with a total of seven performances spread over the three-day period.

Business and professional people of the area will again furnish free tickets for children, through the ninth grade, which will be distributed to area schools. Pre-school children are admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Adult tickets may be purchased at T. G. Sporting Goods, Narverud Cleaners and First Federal Savings and Loan association. Adult pre-sale tickets are $3.50 each until Wednesday, April 30, after which the regular price of $4 will take effect. Tickets may also be purchased at the gate prior to each performance.

Show times are Friday, May 2 — 4 and 8 p.m.; Saturday, May 3 — 10 a.m., 2 and 8 p.m.; Sunday, May 4 — 2 and 6 p.m.

Eighteen displays of big top stars from many countries will be presented on the bill of events.

In the giant steel arena will be an unusual mixture of the three species of tigers in the world — the Sunatran, Siberian and the Bengal — all together and trained and presented by Bill Golden. Also among the animal acts will be the liberty ponies, chimpanzees, bears and eight beautiful white malamutes. This year's edition of the circus will feature Bimbo, the elephant, who entertains with tricks not common in elephant acts today.

Included with the many other acts are the lovely flying ladies; the funniest guy on the trampoline; the Shrine circus clowns, Sir Chadwick Chase and his comedy car; the world's youngest and greatest hand balancer; the Cortez family's flying trapeze act featuring nine-year-old Robinson and the double somersault; and the dangerous South American high wire act of the youthful Zomudio Brothers.

The Shrine Circus band will play at each of the seven performances.

C. L. "Bud" Linfoot is chairman of the circus committee and Duane Herrala is secretary. Committee members include Robert Helland of Thief River Falls.

Holt 4-H Club To Meet Wed.

Holt 4-H club will meet at 7:30 Wednesday at the Holt Village hall. Parents night will be noted and all members are asked to bring their parents to the meeting.

CORRECTION

Incorrect information supplied to the Thief River Falls Times resulted in an error reported in the LEC reports in Wednesday's edition of the Times. Incident occurring April 14 at 10:41 a.m. involving a pickup driven by Myron Johnson of Karlstad and a school bus driven by Elizabeth Carlson of Thief River Falls read that the bus struck the pickup in the right side. Report should have been that the pickup struck the bus, causing the pickup's load of pipe to shift and cause damage to the tailgate. The Times regrets any inconvenience caused.

which she assists Maureen Greentree at St. Bernard's Catholic church who teaches fourth grade. She has been in Explorer Scouts (medical) at Northwestern hospital.

She is a member of the All Lutheran choir, and her own church choir. This summer she will travel with the Zion Hi-league to Indiana to attend the national Christian Youth Congress which she also attended as a freshman. Her hobbies consist of playing piano and guitar, tennis, basketball, swimming, sailing and art crafts, besides being outdoors and going camping.

Goodridge delegate Bernice Anderson is secretary-treasurer of the junior class and of Faith Lutheran Luther league. She participated in the school's class play and has been football and basketball cheerleader. She also participated in volleyball for one year. She is a member of the newspaper and annual staff.

Robyn Johnson has been a member of the girl's basketball team, and was a football cheerleader. She is also active in chorus and is a member of the annual staff and the newspaper staff. She is a member of Future Homemakers of America, and she performed in the school's class play. Community activities include being a former member of the Kratka 4-H club.

In school, Chris Foss, delegate from Grygla, has been in band, chorus (she sings in the Triple Trio), and is yearbook editor. She also participated in basketball, enjoys photography, and had the leading role in the school's musical last year. She has been a class officer every year, and is a SCYO officer in her community. She is also a Miss Minnesota Teen USA pageant candidate.

Jill Saurdiff has also been involved in band and chorus and is a member of the student council. She was captain of the basketball team and has been in many of the school's musicals. She has been counselor for Lake of the Woods Bible camp and is a member of the school paper and annual staff.

Girls State is a practical application of Americanism and good citizenship. Over 470 girls will attend the session where they will be given the opportunity to live together as self-governing citizens. They will be informed about the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizens in order that they may better understand and participate in the functioning of their government, and to help them grasp the meaning of some of the responsibilities which they must assume when they become adults.

Constitution and the statutes of the state of Minnesota are the patterns from which the fundamental laws of Minnesota Girls State have been developed. Participants learn government by "living" it in mythical cities, counties and state. They campaign for office, form party platforms, participate in caucuses, elect officials and pass legislation. They will spend one working day at the State Capitol. The entire Girls state program is non-political, non-partisan and non-sectarian.

Tight Credit Worries Local Farms, Banks

extent on fertilizer use and perhaps on machinery purchases. Farmers Union has no problem in obtaining diesel fuel, he said, and the cooperative has to concentrate on increasing the rate of its cash flow to remain solvent.

Wally Sparby of Sparby-Johnson, Inc., the local John Deere dealership, said the pinch may be felt in sales of new equipment as a whole but that credit plans offered through the company have helped a great deal. The company will finance approximately 70 per cent of equipment cost with interest rate currently at 18.9 per cent, including an insurance policy.

Farm implement parts sales have been good, indicating that farmers are more inclined to repair and use what they have rather than buy something different. And the shop has never had idle time since the day the dealership was purchased several years ago.

Leo Nelson of Furuseth-Nelson, Massey-Ferguson dealer, said that the "farm plan" arrangement made through local banks has been a big help to implement dealers, and therefore to farmers needing parts of equipment. Under the farm plan, the implement dealers pay banks a commission to handle the credit and collections.

Nelson was optimistic that the current problem would work its way through and that the picture is not as dark as some would try to paint it. "It isn't the most pleasant of times, that's for sure," he said, "and there is no question some folks have it tough. But the farmers will just have to buckle down and do the best job they possibly can and things are bound to get better."

Farmer Verner Arveson of the eastern Pennington county area is among those feeling the pinch of low market prices and high costs for goods and credit. In 40 years of farming he has never experienced such tight financing, he said.

Arveson has been raising feeder pigs and is presently farrowing 53 sows. He said "the bottom dropped out" of the feeder pig market and cash grain prices are far too low to compensate for high production costs. Except for commercial feed for young pigs, Arveson raises all his own livestock feed on the farm.

Orlando Chervestad, who also farms in the Oklee area, lamented the costs of machinery and interest particularly for farmers who are not well established in farming. High land costs also add to the difficulty of running a profitable operation. He expressed the opinion that farm credit agencies, such as FmHA, were too slow in processing applications and in some cases were making loans to farmers who should have been able to obtain commercial credit.

For information on the FmHA program, see the separate story on page one.

Possibility Of HMO Reviewed At County Meet

Gordon Sommers, administrator of Warren hospital, was host at the Marshall county health care team meeting Friday, April 11 in the hospital board room in Warren.

Marlys Jackson of Fosston, representative of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota, gave a two-hour presentation on health maintenance organization possibilities for the area. The HMO plan discussed was HMOM — Health Maintenance organization of Minnesota.

HMOM blends together essentially independent medical groups, hospitals and other providers into a coordinated health service system.

Organizationally, HMOM has established regional HMO networks throughout the state, each comprised of a number of provider outlets capable of meeting the health needs of the subscriber population in that particular geographic region.

Dear friends,

Allow the bereaved family the opportunity of being together as a family unit immediately after a death. There are many intimate things to discuss these first few hours after a loved one has died, including the funeral arrangements. Interruptions add to the problems of a distraught family.

Respectfully,

$1,599 Grant Received By History Group

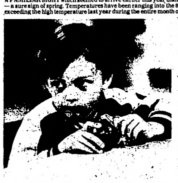
Kittson county historical society, Lake Bronson, has received a $1,599 grant from the Minnesota humanities commission for the development of a slide presentation and public lecture about the history of transportation in Kittson county.

Keith Rosengren, former history teacher and museum curator, will develop the slide presentation that will illustrate how the development of transportation changed family life and the county's economic picture. Professor Clarence Glasrud of Moorhead state university, a scholar of Red River Valley history, will be the featured speaker and will answer questions at the slide presentation to be held at Lake Bronson.

Grants from the Minnesota humanities commission are made possible with funds provided by the national endowment for the humanities. Guidelines and grant application forms are available from the commission office, LL 85 Metro Square, 7th and Robert Streets, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

The commission invites proposals for public humanities programs from non-profit groups and organizations in Minnesota and meets four times each year to consider proposals. Next meeting will be June 6. Proposals to be reviewed at that meeting should be received by the commission no later than May 9.

A FAMILIAR SIGHT which seemed to arrive earlier this year than most years is this plump robin — a sure sign of spring. Temperatures have been ranging into the 80s and 90s in Thief River Falls, exceeding the high temperature last year during the entire month of April of 64 degrees.



APPLES KEPT CHILDREN attending the annual kindergarten roundup busy while their mothers filled out the needed forms. Here, Chad Carriere, son of Robert and Karen Carriere of Thief River Falls, kept a close eye on mom while holding his apple. The roundup, conducted all last week, was open for children who will be five on or before September 1.

Gas Supplies Plentiful Says AAA Report

Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) reports that gasoline supplies are plentiful and that due to a decrease in consumption, there is presently more product than retailers can sell.

Jake Crandall, general counsel for Minnesota AAA, noted that, "You would think that if the law of supply and demand were allowed to work, we would be seeing a decline in pump prices. We are being told by the oil industry spokesmen that they have more gasoline than they know what to do with and, yet, the average price of a gallon of gasoline purchased at a full-service station increased 2.2 cents per gallon during the past month."

Crandall further stated that President Carter's imposition of a $4.62 per gallon fee on imported oil will only make matters worse at the gasoline pump.

According to Minnesota AAA, the import fee will raise gasoline prices for the consumer from 10 cents to 14 cents per gallon. It is difficult to estimate what that will mean to the family budget on an annual basis but it appears to be an expensive conservation measure in that it is estimated it will only reduce consumption by about one per cent.

Crandall observed that Minnesotans have already done a commendable job in voluntarily conserving energy. It appears now that gasoline consumption in the state of Minnesota is down approximately 11 per cent so far this year.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full-service stations is $1.26 for regular, $1.346 for permium, $1.298 for unleaded, $1.344 for premium unleaded and $1.077 for diesel.

At self-service stations, the average price per gallon is $1.192 for regular, $1.248 for premium, $1.242 for unleaded and $1.277 for premium unleaded.

USDA Orders Sales Figures On Food Stamps

U.S. department of agriculture's food and nutrition service (FNS) has announced that the annual updating of sales figures for stores participating in the food stamp program will take place in May. Information regarding the project will be mailed by FNS to each grocer currently authorized to accept food stamps.

Included in this mailing will be a form to be used for listing changes in ownership as well as updated food and gross sales figures. Forms are to be returned to the local FNS field office using a pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope included in the mailing.

Failure by a grocer to return the form will automatically result in withdrawal action by FNS of the authorization to accept food stamps. All of the requested information will be kept confidential.

Fergus Falls State Hospital Is Accredited

Psychiatric division and the drug dependency rehabilitation center at the Fergus Falls state hospital have received accreditation for a period of two years from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, an independent accrediting body.

This accreditation was granted by the commission after reviewing reports made by a three-member survey team. Team surveyed the programs using criteria set up by the commission to define quality of treatment.

Fergus Falls state hospital serves a 17-county area in northwestern and west central Minnesota. During 1979, the drug dependency rehabilitation center provided residential treatment for 1,281 persons who sought help for chemical dependency problems; and the Psychiatric division provided mental health treatment services for 522 individuals.

Worker Safety Training Aids Now Available

Looking for ways to enhance your employee safety training program? Minnesota safety council has films and slide series available to help do the job.

All Minnesota companies are eligible to use films and slides from the safety council film library. Some subjects covered are proper lifting techniques, industrial housekeeping, use of personal protective equipment, safety attitudes, machine guarding, employee motivation, supervisor training, office safety as well as off-the-job topics in traffic, home, recreational and general safety. There is no charge to Minnesota safety council members, and a minimal charge to non-safety council members, for film rental.

To receive a free copy of the Minnesota safety council film catalog, or to book films for your company safety program, write or call: Film Librarian, Minnesota Safety Council, 145 Hamm Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102, telephone 612-291-9150.

1,500 Dodge Otter Tail Electric Bill

About 1,500 Otter Tail power company customers in Minnesota were delinquent in paying their electric service bills when the moratorium on power cutoffs expired on April 15, according to Jim Brewer, Otter Tail's vice president for Minnesota operations.

"While that number is substantially more than in previous years," Brewer said, "we're confident that most of them will accept their responsibility and make necessary arrangements." The company serves more than 51,000 customers in Minnesota.

Brewer said that the delinquencies will be handled in a normal fashion. Notices will be sent first, and the notices will give customers time to respond. If they don't respond, personal contact is made before service is cut off, Brewer said. First notices will go into the mail shortly.

"We believe most customers are anxious to clear up their past-due accounts," Brewer said. "Historically, our customers have been people of integrity, and we don't believe very many of them will change now."

Wedul Attends Career School

Jerry Wedul of Thief River Falls was among a group of Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives who successfully completed one of the fraternal insurance society's career schools at the society's home office in Minneapolis.

The school concentrated on various aspects of estate planning, business insurance, tax-deferred plans and corporate pension plans.

Minnesota Man Treasurer Of Dairy Ass'n.

George L. Rydeen, Stillwater, recently was reelected treasurer of United Dairy Industry association (UDIA) at the organization's tenth annual meeting in New Orleans, La. He also was reelected to the boards of directors of UDIA and National Dairy council (NDC).

Rydeen, who was honored at the meeting for 20 years of service to UDIA and its family of organizations, is an active dairy industry leader. He is treasurer of American Dairy association of Minnesota, secretary of the Minnesota Dairy promotion board, treasurer of Minnesota Dairy, Food and Nutrition council, and a director of Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., northern division.

Rydeen owns and operates a 160-acre dairy farm and leases 300 additional acres. The operation includes a herd of 110 Holsteins with 60 milking cows and major crops of corn, hay and oats.

UDIA, funded mainly by dairy farmers, works to increase sales of U.S.-produced milk and dairy products through a total promotion program consisting of American Dairy association's advertising and marketing activities, Dairy Research Inc.'s support of product and process research and development and NDC's nutrition research and education programs.

The Baseball Strike

As comments have flowed back and forth regarding the brief major league baseball strike in the preseason and the second strike planned in May if agreement is not reached, most of the criticism has been leveled at the greed of the ballplayers. It is difficult for the average wage-earner to feel much sympathy for the play for pay boys who pad their pockets with the gate receipts extracted from those same wage-earning fans.

But it's true the owners brought a lot of the problem on themselves. It is they who put the price on players by giving contracts far beyond reason in consideration of ability to produce. Nobody, but nobody, is worth what the top major leaguers are getting today. The success of a few has stimulated the greed of the group.

We think the situation should be handled in baseball style. That preseason walk-out is strike one. A termination of play in May would be strike two. And if that threat materializes (a 316-1 vote by the players is fairly decisive!), a fan strike should be strike three. Major league players should certainly realize that when strike three is called, the player is out.

Editor Bob Johnson at Wadena notes that a baseball strike is a nice strike not to have to worry about. It won't hurt anyone, he says, except the taxpayers in cities which have built expensive stadiums (he calls them factories) in which professional athletes can perform, and some unfortunate park vendors and their employers.

Johnson says he has no quarrel with the players attempting to get all they can from the owners. What he objects to is a system "that has furnished dozens of stadiums at taxpayers' expense so athletes can make big money and owners are not required to build their own factories. And that's all a stadium is — a factory from which the working athlete and owner can sell their wares.

"Prior to World War II, virtually every stadium in the land was built by the man who owned the ball club — the Comiskeys, Wrigleys, Connie Mack and more. As it is now, the taxpaying citizen of cities with stadiums has been made an innocent pawn."

Social Security Thoughts

President Milt Smedsrud of Communicating for Agriculture (CA) issued some thoughts on social security and the dilemma it poses in a recent issue of "CA Highlights", the organization's official publication. His comments follow:

Peter Drucker, one of our most noted economists, has recently pointed out that if the social security law is not changed by 1995, there will be only two working adults in the U.S. to support each older person.

He said the ratio is already down to three to one. It was 11 to 1 when the social security act was passed in 1935.

We have to wonder just how many more retired workers the working force under 65 can afford to support.

Since most of the CA members are self-employed, we wonder if they would not be supportive of allowing people over 65 to keep on working while drawing their social security — without being penalized. These workers would still be on the tax roles, thus sharing in the cost of their own harvest, or start benefits at age 67, like most European countries.

In encouraging people over 65 to continue working, the big stumbling block is that so many of them do not want to work full time. Yet if they take part-time work, they are limited to earning $5,000 a year. Above that, they will lost $1 in social security benefits for every $2 earned. This limit will be increased to $6,000 in 1982. People over 72 can draw full social security benefits and work full time without pay limits. This age will be lowered to 70 in 1982.

Drucker states that the threat to the social security system would not have developed and the burden on the working people of supporting retired people would not have become so great if the fixed 65 retirement age had not been written into the law in 1935.

He stated the original law should have provided a flexible age for starting retirement benefits based on changing life expectancy and changing working conditions. He states that in 1980, age 75 really corresponds to age 65 in 1935.

He also notes there is much less arduous physical work today than there was then. In addition, many Americans then started working at age 15 or 16, while today most are still in school until 18 or even longer.

The White House conference on small business, which met January 13-17, 1980 in Washington D.C., and represented more than 30,000 small business owners from every state, acted upon 60 recommendations of which social security is one of the 15 recommendations designated as top priority.

The small business conference recommendation states: "Reform the social security system by including, where constitutionally possible, all public and private sector employees as contributors and more closely tie benefits to contributions to move the system toward acturial soundness, limit benefits to the original old-age survivors benefit, freeze the tax base and tax rate at the January 1980 level. Eliminate double dipping."

I feel the time has come where we are going to have to bite the bullet on social security before it engulfs the worker and impoverishes the elderly.

Swedes OK Nuclear Power

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Recently, the Swedish people, in a nationwide referendum, OK'd the used of nuclear power and a limited expansion of nuclear generating facilities. This comes after a sophisticated campaign on the part of both viewpoints, dealing with hard, tangible questions as opposed to the emotional "no nukes" pleas so familiar in this country.

What the Swedes decided was simply that the economic costs of reducing and-or eliminating the use of nuclear power in Sweden were far too extreme for the nation to endure. As evidence, economists argue that dismantling of Sweden's nuclear generating facilities would cost $16 billion — an amount equal to four or five years of industrial investment in that country. In addition, it was estimated that the national economic growth rate would fall by one half, an amount not great enough to service Sweden's foreign debt.

In addition, the possibility, indeed probability of factory closings, job layoffs, and a general decline in lifestyle for the nation proved to be of overwhelming importance even in sight of the question of nuclear waste disposal. We feel that the United States should take interest in and learn from the Swedish experience. No form of power generation is without environmental consequences. Coal causes air and water pollution, hydrogeneration causes water and thermal pollution, and of course, nuclear generation produces toxic wastes.

But the current world situation regarding fossil fuels and the cost of energy mandates that this nation be in the forefront of energy technology. More than any other country, the United States must supply herself with sufficient power to produce her national product as failure on our part to produce has global consequences. We favor the continued, but limited use of nuclear energy while we would urge development of fusion and other forms of energy. If for no other reason, the economic times in which we exist would seem to mandate this approach.

Biting The Bullet

Following editorial is from the Cottonwood County Citizen at Windom:

President Carter had hardly gotten the words of his anti-inflation speech out of his mouth when the cries of anguish started on all sides.

Labor unions started screaming.

The truckers hollered.

Congressmen said it was too little and too late.

The general attitude about anyone sacrificing seems to be: "Why me?"

Maybe the President's anti-inflation program isn't what it should be. There will be flaws and inequities, of course.

But it is at least a start toward trying to get a handle on the inflation which is crippling our country.

Americans have a way of uniting when the going gets tough. We did it in all the wars with the exception of the Vietnam War.

Apparently, a war against inflation doesn't turn anyone on. Yet it is as much a threat to our nation as a war with guns and bullets.

The people of this country need to get together. We should bite the bullet. The sooner we make that decision, the less painful it will be.

Borrowed Nonsense:

At the bridge table the conversation drifted around to men. "I read," one lady confided, "that hunger and passion produce the same look on a man's face." "My gosh!" blurted out another. "You mean that all these years I could have just fed him?"

Bumper sticker of the times: "Nuclear plants are built better than Jane Fonda."

PEEKING FROM BEHIND the safety of his chair during the annual kindergarten roundup conducted all last week in the St. Bernard's Catholic church basement is Chad Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Larson of Thief River Falls. Session involved filling out needed forms, and screening those children who will be five on or before September 1.

U.S. Senator

Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

The Tough Decisions aren't Being Made in Washington

For all the talk of balancing the budget and trimming the increases in spending, there are absolutely no hard decisions being made in Washington these days.

After having just completed committee action on the budget for 1981 and the third version of the budget for 1980, the Senate will be hard pressed to claim it is balancing the books by a cut in spending proposals.

I am afraid, that the majority has spoken long and hard about making tough decisions only to pass those decisions on to the taxpayer. And so the tough decisions aren't being made in Washington — they are being made by housewives, wage earners, small businessmen, farmers, and those living on fixed incomes who must decide how they can meet ever rising prices of goods, services and taxes.

I would like to briefly review just what has not been done in the last couple of weeks to fight inflation or more directly what tough decisions have not been made.

1. The Senate refused to adopt a Republican sponsored measure to hold the 1981 federal budget to 21 per cent of the Gross National Product. That resolution would have held spending in the next fiscal year to about $596 billion or some $17 billion less than the President is proposing and the Senate Budget Committee has now adopted.

I supported the move to hold down the budget in 1981, but the majority party adopted its own proposal which called only for a balanced budget. Balanced I might add along the lines suggested by the President which means only some $15 billion in reduced spending and an addition of $17 billion in new taxes. Those new taxes include the 10 cent a gallon boost in the gasoline tax and it is still beyond me how you fight inflation by raising taxes.

2. The action of the Budget Committee recently in regard to the 1980 budget leaves small hope that the 1981 budget will remain in balance. For the third time in a year the Administration has come to the Congress asking for a raise. Last year about this time we passed the budget for 1980 giving the federal government $532 billion for the year (that was, of course, an increase from the previous year). Then they came back in the fall and said we hadn't given them enough. So over my objection, the Senate put more money in the kitty. The new total was $547 billion for 1980.

And now, before we could even consider the 1981 budget, the Committee had to deal with another request for a raise from the Administration. This time for an additional $19 billion raising the 1980 budget to $566 billion. That move passed (again over my objection) after the majority had defeated a Republican attempt to hold the 1980 budget to the $547 billion level.

So we have seen the Administration come to the Congress for three raises in the last year. I don't believe the country is in good enough shape to pay out three raises in one year. And, I am quite confident that most wage earners are not receiving that many raises in a year.

But, we can not avoid the obvious. If the 1980 budget can be raised three times, that will prevent the Administration from requesting raises in the 1981 budget down the road? And I can already hear the weeping that will come with the request for these raises. And, if the Senate refuses again to make the tough decisions it will be bye-bye balanced budget in 1981.

3. Finally, we adopted a budget for 1981 (over my objection) which calls for $612.9 billion in spending. That is even higher than what the President recommended and I wasn't all that pleased with his proposal. But, what is most disturbing is that the budget is not based on significant cuts in spending down the road but it includes revenue projections based on added and new taxes. Seventeen billion dollars in new taxes are being proposed by the President and based on this, the Budget Committee took the responsibility to cut only some $13 billion from future spending. That figure for cutting should have been much higher and could have been, but again some members of the committee would not make the tough decisions needed.

After all the talk of balanced budgets and reduced spending the actions of the Senate Budget Committee and the majority party in the Senate have been disappointing to say the least. The action needs to start here in Washington and it hasn't.

This failure to act means that every household in America will be facing some very tough decisions as inflation increases. The leaders have refused to take the responsibility for tough decisions and passed them on to the people who pay the bills.

That is wrong. Those people who caused the problem with their excessive spending in the past, should be providing the solution by cutting the increases in the budget.

Legislative Report

Marv Hanson

District 1 State Senator

This is a legislative wrap-up of some of the major subjects addressed in the recent session of the Minnesota State Legislature. If you would like more specific information on these and any other legislative measures call me at my home, telephone 843-2783, or write me at Rt. 1, Hallock, Minnesota 56728.

Reapportionment Commission

Legislative and congressional districts will be reapportioned after the 1980 census is completed. In the past, reapportionment has been completed by the Legislature or the courts. This fall Minnesota voters will decide if reapportionment should be drawn by a 9 member bi-partisan commission. To establish the reapportionment commission requires an amendment to the Minnesota State Constitution. It is proposed that the State Senate and the House of Representatives will each appoint two members to the Commission. The remaining 5 members will be appointed by unanimous agreement of the legislative members and no more than 5 of the 9 members can reside in either the 7 county metro area or in the other counties of rural Minnesota.

Juvenile Justice

Legislation passed this last session will hold juveniles, particularly the older juveniles, more accountable for their actions. Juveniles will now be prosecuted as adults where there is probably cause supported by clear and convincing evidence that public safety is not protected under juvenile laws and that the juvenile of 16 or older and alleged to have committed an aggravated felony, a planned and premeditated crime, first degree murder, or has been adjudicated delinquent within the past two years for an offense that would be a felony if committed by an adult.

Victims of juvenile crime will be entitled to notice of the reference or adjudicated hearings and the disposition of the case.

Juveniles will be subject to fines as well as restitution programs. These measures should impress on juvenile offenders the impact of their actions.

Real Estate Taxes

The maximum state based homestead credit was increased to $650.00 which can be used to pay up to 58 per cent of taxes owing on a homestead. This is an increase from $550.00 and 50 per cent in 1980. Classification percentages were changed for homesteads and farms to try and hold any shift in taxes between properties.

Additionally, for those areas where taxes might go up substantially there will be targeting providing for a property tax refund of 50 per cent of the amount of increase over 10 per cent to a maximum of $300.00.

Income Taxes

Beginning in 1981 the first $200 ($400 per couple) of interest income will be excluded from income for Minnesota income tax purposes.

Various provisions of our Minnesota income tax code were updated to match changes made in the federal income tax code.

The income tax credit from moderate and lower income families was increased so that taxes payable for a family of four in Minnesota would only begin with an income of $10,000 and above.

Dependent and child care credit was increased to match the federal credit with the maximum set at $400 for one dependent and $800.00 for two or more dependents.

Small Business Agencies

A small business finance agency was established with authority to issue and sell tax exempt obligations to provide loans to small businesses.

Small businesses eligible for loans would include those which have twenty or fewer employees and not more than $1 million in annual gross revenue.

This agency will be able to participate in providing with private financial institutions in making business loans. A goal is to have at least 50 per cent of the loans in principal amounts of $100,000 or less.

Contracts for Deeds

The 8 per cent interest limit was removed and interest permitted on contracts for deeds will now be able to float like that allowed for conventional home mortgages. This should free-up additional financing for home purchases as well as for farms.

School Transportation Aids

Escalating gasoline prices have hit the transportation budgets of our school districts. Many faced taking funds from the operating budget in paying for these costs. $16 million was appropriated this session to offset those rising gas costs for our school districts.

Road and Bridge and Highway Funding

Northwest Minnesota, in particular, knows the importance of maintaining our roads, bridges and highways. We have to have a good road system to get our ag and industrial products to market. Revenue for highways has leveled off, yet highway maintenance costs continue upwards — 21 per cent last year. In view of this need the gas tax was increased to provide extra revenue. Bonds were to be issued to match the federal funds for bridges and interstate completion. The bill authorizing those bonds was defeated, however, in the House of Representatives. It may be that some of the gas tax revenues will be used for that match. If that occurs it will reduce the revenues available for highway maintenance which will be unfortunate.

Initiative and Referendum

Minnesota voters will decide this fall whether the state constitution should be amended to provide for initiative and referendum. The proposal provides that to place a matter on the ballot a committee has to be formed of 50 or more sponsors which has collected signatures equivalent to 5 per cent of the votes cast in the last gubernatorial election in each congressional district.

Before the matter is voted on, however, the State Legislature will be given time to enact legislation addressing the concerns of the measure proposed by its sponsors. The sponsors can then decide to accept the legislative action and not pursue the matters on the ballot or they can elect to place the measure on the ballot notwithstanding the legislative action. In that case, however, the legislative action is also placed on the ballot and the voters will choose between the two proposals.

'After that course, nobody ever intimidates me!'

Mary Carlson, associate publisher of The Waconia Patriot, has this to say about the annual Newspaper Skills Course:

"That course by itself was the single best preparation I had for entering the newspaper field.

"I had a BA in business management, and had worked four years on a college staff. Then I decided to go into newspaper work. It was a quick career change. Fortunately I got into the Newspaper Skills Course. They told me that if I got through it, I'd be 'intimidated by nobody!' I got through, and they were right. The course not only gave me a lot of concentrated knowledge abut newspaper work, it gave me self-confidence. We learned by doing in that course. It was really a hands-on experience.

"I liked the course so well that I took another one immediately after it—a course which taught me how to sell newspaper advertising. Both of these courses were lucky events for me."

The 12th annual Newspaper Skills Course takes place June 2 through June 27, at Anoka AVTI. Two other newspaper-related courses immediately follow: the 5th annual Advertising Skills Course, and the 2nd annual news Photography Skills Course. Both the ASC and the PSC take place July 7-11 at Anoka AVTI.

If you're interested, write the Minnesota Newspaper Association, 84 S. 6th St., Minneapolis, for entrance qualifications. Cost of the NSC is $70, plus $40-$50 for supplies; for the ASC $60; and for the PSC $50, plus $15 for supplies. Students in the NSC and PSC will be required to have their own 35mm single lens reflex camera with self-contained light metering system.

Subcommittee To Subpoena Energy Records

A motion to issue a subpoena to Energy Secretary Charles Duncan has been approved by the subcommittee on environment and energy. Congressman Arlan Stangeland, a member of the subcommittee, said "It's unfortunate the subcommittee has been forced to go this far, but we just haven't received cooperation from the department of energy and the Carter administration and I'm afraid the people are being misled.

"All we wanted were certain documents which we believe could point out that the President's decision to impose a 10 cents per gallon import fee on gasoline could also increase the prices of other petroleum products including home heating oil. This type of response to a subcommittee request is unheard of and indicates to me something is being hidden," Stangeland said.

President Carter signed a proclamation April 2 raising the duty on oil imported after March 15, which is expected to increase gas prices by 10 cents a gallon, possibly as early as the middle of May. Congress has until May 15 to revoke authority for the import fee and prevent higher gasoline costs at the retail level while saving taxpayers millions of dollars.

"There is no doubt, as far as I'm concerned, that the President's import fee will be passed on to consumers and, in this economic period when inflation is running around 20 per cent, this proposal is totally unacceptable. All it will do is add to inflation and further penalize every American who must drive.

"I am particularly upset with the method the Carter administration has chosen to hold back these important documents from Congress and the general public. The administration has always claimed to be open, but it appears because of this incident things are being kept quiet in hopes the American people will not learn the facts," Stangeland said.

The Carter administration is threatening to invoke executive privilege if the subcommittee persists in reviewing the documents in question.

"My opposition to this unnecessary and inflationary import fee is great and I have joined over 100 other members of Congress in supporting legislation to eliminate it. We need taxes cut, not new taxes, and we certainly shouldn't be adding to the financial burden of those who live in rural areas like the Seventh district."

Cookbook To Help Benefit March Of Dimes

"Cooking for Kicks" is a special cookbook containing recipes from famous national sports figures, compiled by Dotti Dekko, co-owner of the Minnesota Kicks.

The cookbook serves a dual purpose in that 50 per cent of the $5.95 selling price will be contributed to the March of Dimes birth defects foundation for research, public and professional health education, community services and medical service grants in the prevention and cure of birth defects.

Recipes include Billie Jean King's "Giant Polka Dot Cookies," Lou Nanne's grilled flank steak, and Dave Moore's "Moore and Moore Baked Beans." Mike and Barbara Bailey offer "Queen Mother's Mother's Favorite Cake," a recipe that the Queen Mother requested never be given away, but rather bought for 10 cents and the money given to charity.

Copies of "Cooking for Kicks" or more information are available through the March of Dimes, 6701 Penn Ave. So., Mpls., Mn. 55423.

Trail VFW Post 6426 celebrated its 34th anniversary by having a dinner and dance Sat., April 12. About 100 people were in attendance including John Quint Jr., vice commander of the state VFW department, Harold McCullum, commander of the Ninth District VFW and his wife Muriel, Sr. vice president of the Ninth District auxiliary Al Gerner, ninth district chaplain Allie Jullen, ninth district chief of staff and his wife, Dellas and Arnold Gucarder, ninth district officer Wayne Tommervik and his wife Opal from the Bejou post. The Trail post had been picked by the state VFW earlier in the year as a potential grass roots post to see what a post could do in a campaign to increase membership. The Trail post proved it could be done, stated John Quint, state department junior vice commander. He presented Dennis Halvorson, post quarter master with a VFW jacket and Oscar Flateland, sr. vice commander, with a VFW jacket and David Anderson, post commander with a plaque for outstanding endeavors in increasing the post's membership. Post commander David Anderson was also named commander of the month in the ninth district. Trail post increased their membership from 43 to 76, an increase of 33 new or reinstated members.

Arne Godtland, post service officer, presented the ninth district commander Harold McCollum and David Anderson, post commander, with a service record book of pictures and information of servicemen and women of WWI and WWII in our surrounding communities, produced by the Fosston VFW Post 8854 in 1950.

The VFW objectives are: to insure the national security through maximum military strength; to speed the rehabilitation of the nation's disabled and needy veterans; to assist the widows and orphans and the dependents of disabled and needy veterans; to promote Americanism through education in patriotism and constructive service to the communities in which we live.

Hams To Play For Northmen

Lincoln high school senior Kyle Hams, who earned a spot on the prestigious WCCO radio all-state high school basketball team of the year this winter while enjoying a banner season with the Prowlers, told Northland community college basketball coach Chet Engelman Thursday that he has decided to attend Northland and play basketball for the Northmen in 1980-81.

The best guard in northwestern Minnesota high school basketball this past winter, Hams averaged 16.7 points and 7.3 assists per game. A three-year starter for the Prowlers, he was trying to decide between attending Northland and playing basketball, or attend the University of North Dakota and give up the sport.

"We're happy to have him," acknowledged Engelman. "There's no question Kyle can play well for us. He had to be our first (recruiting) choice in the area. I don't know if there's ever been a better guard prospect in the area. Kyle can do a lot of things. He passes the ball extremely well; he can shoot; and he's a smart basketball player. I'm sure he'll make a definite contribution."

Hams could step in next winter and quarterback the Northmen from the point guard, a spot filled the last two years by Vince Parker, the 5-5 crowd-pleaser from Inkster, Mich. who averaged 20 points and 4.4 assists per game this season when he combined with 6-5 freshman Terry Harris for a potent one-two Northland attack.

An excellent play-maker, Hams will probably spend a lot of time feeding the ball to the talented Harris next winter. According to recently announced NJCAA national statistics, Harris finished the 1979-80 season as the nation's No. 6 leading scorer and No. 8 rebounder with a 27.8 scoring average and a 14.4 rebounding average per game.

EGF Lands Section 8 Tournament

Joint committees of Region 8A and Region 8AA, meeting in Detroit Lakes Wednesday, announced that East Grand Forks has been selected as the site for the 1981 Section 8 high school hockey tournament, with the event, hosted by Thief River Falls in 1980, returning here in 1982.

With the decision, officials continued a pattern started in 1977 that alternates the Section 8 tournament site between Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks. Construction of the Thief River Falls sports arena brought the tournament here from 1971 through 1975. East Grand Forks' new civic center arena won the tournament in 1976 and 1977. It went to Thief River Falls in 1978, back to East Grand Forks in 1979 and once again to Thief River Falls in 1980.

The joint committees of Region 8A and Region 8AA invited both Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks to make tournament presentations at Wednesday's meeting.

Although not unexpected, the decision to award the 1981 tournament to East Grand Forks was still a bit surprising to some observers. Crowds at Thief River Falls have consistently out-drawn those at East Grand Forks-hosted Section 8 tournament games. And in 1980 Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith, the Section 8 tournament manager, turned over a check in the amount of $21,011.50 to Dave Harris of Alexandria, the executive secretary-treasurer of Region 8AA, from tournament gate receipts. That was almost double the $11,957.00 produced by the 1979 tournament at East Grand Forks that ran into weather problems. Some 11,623 fans attended the 1980 Section 8 tournament in Thief River Falls, compared to 6,797 at East Grand Forks in 1979.

"They (Region 8A, 8AA committee members) were highly complimentary about the way Thief River Falls handled the tournament this year," noted Smith, who attended Wednesday's meeting. "They just couldn't say enough good things about it. But I guess they felt obligated to sent it back to East Grand Forks."

The 1981 Section 8 tournament will feature quarterfinal games February 27-28, semifinals March 2-3 and the championship game on March 6. Sub-section games, played at various sites around the section, will be played February 23-24, following a February 20 playoff game between the No. 17 and No. 16 finishers in the regular season Section 8 point standings.

+Father Robert Bester, newly appointed headmaster of Mount St. Benedict Academy, announced that 1979-80 marked the final hockey season at the Crookston Catholic school. Bester said Wednesday that he will "proceed immediately" to apply for cooperative sponsorship of hockey with Crookston Central high school. He had earlier requested cooperative sports programs in tennis, golf, cross country, wrestling, swimming and basketball. Faced with financial problems that threatened to shut down the school, Mount St. Benedict will be under the operation of the Crookston Diocese next year, rather than the Sisters of St. Benedict.

+Baudette area arena association has received word that a Farmer's Home Loan of $85,000 to put in an artificial ice plant and a cement floor has been approved. The association has put $50,000 into arena improvement projects over the past two years.

TEAMMATES WAITED in line to congratulate Tony Smith after he hit a game-winning two-run home run on a full-count pitch with tow out in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday to give Northland community college a 4-3 come-from-behind victory over Fergus Falls in the second game of an MJCAA Northwest Division baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls. The Spartans won the first game 8-2.

TRF No. 1 At Stillwater, Hibbing Invitationals . . .

Prowlers Win Two Tournament Titles

Final exams won't be given until state tournament time next month, but the No. 1 rated Lincoln high school tennis team passed its mid-term tests with flying colors over the weekend when the Prowlers pulled off back-to-back invitational tournaments wins at Stillwater and Hibbing.

Thief River Falls players, coaches and fans had eagerly awaited the Friday-Saturday cross country jaunt that was expected to provide the Prowlers, rated No. 1 throughout the season in Class AA tennis, with their first stiff competition of the spring.

They weren't disappointed. Thief River Falls edged Blue Earth, rated No. 2 in the Class A polls, 27-26 to win the Stillwater event Friday, then finished with a 23-18 winning margin over runner-up St. Cloud Apollo at Hibbing Saturday.

At Stillwater it was Thief River Falls 27, Blue Earth 26, Stillwater 22, St. Cloud Tech 18, Minneapolis Roosevelt 16, Duluth East 15, Mounds View 8, Wayzatta 6.

At Hibbing it was Thief River Falls 23, St. Cloud Apollo 18, Hibbing 16, Duluth East 13, Virginia 13, St. Paul Academy 7, Anoka 6 and Grand Rapids 4.

It was a lot of tennis for the Prowlers, but they'll be even busier this week. Thief River Falls will host Crookston today (Monday) in a 3:15 p.m. dual; entertainment Detroit Lakes and Roseau in a 2 p.m. triangular Tuesday; participate in the Northwest Athletic Conference meet at Fergus Falls Thursday at 9 a.m.; and compete in an eight-team tournament at St. Cloud Saturday starting at 10 a.m.

Double weekend winners for the Prowlers were Mitch Rustad at No. 2 singles and Thief River Falls' No. 2 doubles team of Bill Holmes and Mark Lundin. Rustad swept through seven eight-game pro sets at Stillwater and three full matches at Hibbing without a single defeat.

Paul Koppang supplied Thief River Falls with a first at No. 3 singles at Hibbing after finishing second at Stillwater to Scott Weber of Duluth East.

At No. 1 singles, Thief River Falls' Bill Jury was second to Greg Anderson of Blue Earth at Stillwater and finished third at Hibbing where St. Cloud Apollo's Casey Merickel was the winner.

Thief River Falls' Tom Bjorkman and Mark Collins were fifth at Stillwater and third at Hibbing. Rob Heimermen and Pete Schneider won the Stillwater title while Tom Miller and Pete Mulder took the Hibbing crown.

"It was a good trip for us: the victory the first day and the challenge to come back and play well the second day," explained Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "The thing I was most pleased about was the way we played the second day. It was a tribute to their concentration and desire to come back like that."

Prowlers Lose To Jacks; Tackle Moorhead Today

Stranding 11 base runners, Thief River Falls dropped a 4-1 Northwest Athletic Conference high school baseball decision at Bemidji Friday, snapping the Prowlers' season-opening three-game winning streak.

"We didn't hit the ball in clutch situations," sighed Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell whose Prowlers challenge North Half Region 8AA favorite Moorhead today (Monday) at 4 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond here.

Thief River Falls scored first Friday when Tom Drury singled in the top of the first inning and walks issued to Dave Odegaard and Mark Harder loaded the bases. Another walk, this one with two outs issued to Kelly Gutterud, forced in a run, but the Prowlers' frustration started early when they left the bases loaded without doing any more damage.

That 1-0 edge stood up until the bottom of the fourth when Bemidji's Roger Degerman led off with a double and Daryl Strunk singled. A one-out bases-loaded single by Tom Buckanaga scored both runners.

Bemidji lost two runners at third base on fielder's choice plays in the sixth, but still came up with two runs — the first run crossing the plate on a controversial call at first base. With two outs, Bryan Hickerson was ruled safe at first when Greg Harder pulled a low throw out of the dirt. The Prowlers thought he was out. A wild pitch scored the second run of the inning.

"We played well in the field," offered Cornell. "We just didn't hit the ball."

FERGUS FALLS CATCHER Todd Smith dropped the throw to the plate, allowing Northland's Lonnie Serfling to score the first run Wednesday in the second game of the community college baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls. Serfling scored from third on a fielder's choice ball hit by Dan Parent in the second inning. The two teams split the MJCAA twinbill, with the Spartans winning the opener 8-2 and the Northmen taking the nightcap 4-3.

Northmen, Trojans Split Saturday Doubleheader

Northwestern Minnesota college rivals Northland and Crookston split an MJCAA Northwest Division baseball doubleheader Saturday, with the visiting Northmen taking the opener 11-3 and the Trojans winning the nightcap 13-8.

The results left Northland with a 2-4 Minnesota junior college athletic association record, one step ahead of Northwest Division basement cellar-dweller Crookston, 1-5.

Northland 8

Northland pitchers Tony Smith and Bruce Williams did not walk a single batter as the Northmen beat Crookston 11-3 to start the twinbill.

The Northmen, leading 3-1 after two innings, broke it open with three runs in the third on a two-out-two-run double by Williams, who later scored on a single to right by Bob Benson.

Another three-run Northland burst in the sixth wrapped it up as Joe Kraska hit a ground rule RBI double and Lonnie Serfling and Williams came through the run-producing singles.

Smith scattered six hits through the first six innings to pick up the win. The Northmen collected 14 base hits off losing pitcher Scott Morse.

Northland started the second game with a 2-0 lead in the top of the first and led 7-4 in the top of the second but still lost the loosely played contest 13-8.

Tony Smith's two-run first inning home run got the Northmen off on the right foot, but Northland's Lonnie Serfling walked three Crookston batters in the bottom of the inning, hit another and served a two-run single to Jeff Ferguson as the Trojans answered with four runs.

Northland got those runs back in the second on an RBI single by Marques Woods, a two-out error on a fly ball to center field that scored two runs and an infield error for another.

But Serfling, tagged for 10 runs, six hits and four walks in just two and one third innings, surrendered five more runs in the third inning to fall behind 10-7 before leaving the game.

Only five of the 13 Crookston runs were earned.

Area Special Olympics Set At Crookston

Northwestern Minnesota Special Olympics for handicapped persons will again be held in Crookston this year. The event will be on Thurs., May 8, in the Winter Shows building starting at 9:30 a.m.

Special Olympics track events have been co-sponsored by the Crookston park and recreation department and the Agassiz Rotary club of Crookston. This year Crookston Coca-Cola Bottling Co. is also participating as a sponsor. Gary Zitzer of the Crookston park and recreation department, along with several volunteers, conducts the track meet. The public is invited and urged to attend, to cheer on the participants.

Noon luncheon for all participants is served in the Crookston Armory by the Agassiz Rotary club members and their wives. Following the luncheon, awards are given to all winners and participants.

In previous years about 200 persons from several communities in northwestern Minnesota have entered the many track and field events, and more entries are expected this year.

Some of the winners of certain events and divisions may compete in the Minnesota state Special Olympics for handicapped persons. The two-day state meet this year will be at the Moorhead State University and will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 27, 28 and 29.

WITH TEAMMATE Mark Lundin awaiting a return at the net, Thief River Falls' Bill Holmes followed through on a serve Saturday during a high school tennis tournament played at Hibbing. Holmes and Lundin were winners at No. 2 doubles both Friday and Saturday during eight-team tournaments at Stillwater (Friday) and Hibbing (Saturday). The Prowlers won the team titles in both events.

Northmen, Spartans Split Doubleheader . . .

Smith Homers In Bottom Of Seventh For 4-3 Win

Tony Smith hit a two-run home run on a full count pitch with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday to give Northland community college a dramatic come-from-behind 4-3 victory over Fergus Falls for a split in the MJCAA Northwest Division baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

Fergus Falls took the opener 8-2 and appeared headed for a twinbill sweep over the mistake-prone Northmen before Smith got a high fly ball into the wind to clear the left-center field fence.

Hard-throwing, sidearm righthander Jim Hinzelman, who pitched a three-hitter for the first game victory, came on in relief in the seventh inning of the nightcap and gave up Smith's homer to take the loss. Smith made himself a winner on the mound with his fence-clearing blast.

The split left the Northmen with a 1-3 Minnesota junior college athletic association record. They'll host Northwest Division leading Brainerd Saturday in a 12 noon doubleheader.

In nonconference competition, Northland will be hosting Bottineau today (Monday) at 1:30 p.m.

Fergus Falls 8
Northland 2

Lacking fundamentals, the Northmen gave Fergus Falls numerous scoring opportunities and at the same time took themselves out of an equal number of scoring chances as the Spartans won the doubleheader opener 8-2.

An RBI single by Mark Buermann plated the first run in the top of the second inning and the tone of the game was then set when Buermann intentionally got himself caught in a run-down between first and second in an attempt to score teammate Mark Aho from third base. Northland messed it up terribly as Aho scored and Buermann ended up at second.

Vince Parker, batting in the clean-up spot despite his small size (5-5) homered over the center field fence to lead off the bottom of the second. But that was the only offense Northland produced in the game.

Fergus Falls scored twice when Northland committed three errors in the third and was never threatened the rest of the way. Two Fergus Falls errors plated a sixth inning run for the Northmen.

Northland continued its poor play in the second game, but Fergus Falls didn't capitalize this time and lost it on Smith's game-ending homer, 4-3.

Walker issued to Lonnie Serfling and Bruce Williams to start the bottom of the second inning were followed by two Fergus Falls errors to supply the Northmen with a 2-0 lead.

Fergus Falls tied it on a sacrifice fly by Mark Buerman in the fourth and an RBI single by Paul Golberg in the fifth, then took a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh when lead-off batter Mark Johnson walked and promptly stole second, third and finally home on a delayed double steal.

Pinch hitter Scott Chapman gave Northland a shot in the bottom of the seventh with a lead-off double off the left-center field fence. Then with two outs, Smith sent the final pitch of the day out of the ball park for the victory.

PAUL KOPPANG was champion at No. 3 singles Saturday for Thief River Falls in the Prowlers' title-winning performance in an eight-team high school tennis tournament at Hibbing. He ran down this return in one of his three tournament matches. Thief River Falls was also a winner Friday in an eight-team tournament at Stillwater.

HOME PLATE UMPIRE Terry Sullivan took a good look before calling Northland base runner Joe Kraska out on a tag by Fergus Falls catcher Todd Smith during Wednesday's Northwest Division community college baseball game played in Thief River Falls. Kraska was cut down at the plate by Fergus Falls centerfielder Mike Schultz when he tried to score from second base on a single by Vince Parker in the first inning of the doubleheader nightcap. Northland, beaten 8-2 in the opener, won the second game 4-3.

TRFAHA Will Meet Tonight

General meeting of the Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA) will be held tonight (Monday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Franklin middle school cafeteria.

Election of officers for the 1980-81 season will take place tonight, and a special invitation is being made to anyone interested in coaching in the Thief River Falls youth hockey program next winter.

Women Slow Pitch Players Meet Tonight

All women interested in playing in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league this summer are asked to attend a park and recreation department meeting tonight (Monday) at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

LHS Track Teams Face Busy Week

It's going to be a busy week for the Lincoln high school track teams. The boys will be at Roseau today (Monday) at East Grand Forks Tuesday and will host their annual Quetin Jones Invitational Thursday. All three meets start at 4 p.m. The girls run at Detroit Lakes today and will host Red Lake Falls Friday. Those are also 4 p.m. meets.

Both teams ran in the Grand Forks service clubs invitational Saturday.

Grand Forks Red River won the boys title with 108½ points followed by Fargo North 84, East Grand Forks 76, Fargo Shanley 66, Fargo South 66, Grand Forks Central 62¼, West Fargo 47, Detroit Lakes 25 and Thief River Falls 18¼.

Thief River Falls' top finish was an 8:45.10 second place finish in the 3200-meter (two-mile) relay by Mark Broadwell, Lon Aune, Kevin Grochow and Steve Kruta.

Steve Hvidsten placed third in the 110-meter hurdles in 16:46 and was fourth in the intermediate hurdles in 43.29 for the Prowlers.

Langdon won the girls title with 143 points, followed by Fargo South 138, Grand Forks Red River 73, Grand Forks Central 66, Fargo Shanley 52, East Grand Forks 47 and Thief River Falls 7.

Thief River Falls places included Stacy Ehrenstrom, fourth in the discus with a toss of 98.6; Patty Langlie, fifth in the 100-meter hurdles in 17:83; and the 800 medley relay team of Patti Blackstad, Marsha Erickson, Langlie and Shari Sabo, sixth in 2:10.96.

Bemidji Beats LHS Baseball JV Team 11-2

Bemidji scored five runs in the first inning en route to an 11-2 junior varsity high school baseball win over Thief River Falls Friday.

The youthful Lincoln squad jumped out to an early lead on a two-run first inning home run by sophomore Kevin Sanders, but couldn't hold the lead.

Thief River Falls, a 6-1 season-opening winner over Roseau earlier in the week, will host Moorhead today (Monday) at 4 p.m. and will entertain Roseau Tuesday at 4:30.

NCC Golfers Open Season In Twin Cities

Playing with just three golfers, the Northland community college golf team began its 1980 season with a dual and an invitational meet in the Twin Cities area last week.

The Northmen edged North Hennepin 244-248 in a Thursday dual at Silver Springs as Gary Johnson shot a 77, Jeff Reese 82 and Charlie Boyer 85.

Northland did not field a complete team to count in Friday's Normandale Invitational at Braemer won by Normandale with a 307, followed by Inver Hills 320, Lakewood 321, Anoka-Ramsey 323, North Hennepin 326, Rochester 331, Willmar 333, Waseca 359, Minneapolis 378 and Brainerd 423.

Jim Wilson of Normandale was meet medalist with a 72. Boyer and Johnson turned in strong 77s for the Northmen and Reese shot an 89.

Northland meets the Moorhead State University junior varsity today (Monday) at Oxbow in Fargo at 2 p.m. and will be at the Fergus Falls Invitational Thursday at 10 a.m.

Elementary School Swimming Title Goes To Mark Twain

Mark Twain was named team champion Friday at the first annual elementary school swimming meet held in the Franklin middle school pool.

Over 400 spectators and participants were on hand as Mark Twain collected 296 points, Knox 146, Washington 133, Northrop 60, St. Bernard's 35, St. Hilaire 17 and Seventh Day Adventist 11.

Ribbons — over 300 of them — were given to the place winners, and a traveling team trophy was presented to Mark Twain. Northern State Bank purchased the ribbons and First Northwestern State Bank donated the trophy.

Members of the Thief River Falls AAU swim club, who helped conduct a week-long clinic for the elementary school swimmers prior to the meet, served as coaches. They include Craig Goodrich, Rochelle Farmes, Franki Kuyath, Mark Twain; Shelly McGann, Jay Achenbach, Georgia Howard, Knox; Karla Lokken, Bonnie Delage, Dawn Engelstad, Washington; Jim Hustad, Sue Anderson, Kathy Rueter, Denice Anderson, Northrop; Cheryl Amundson, Janelle Smidt, Sue Pfeifer, Dave Ose, St. Bernard's; Tim Penn, Steve Carriere, St. Hilaire; Leslie Gengler, Colleen Cullen, Delane Johnson, Seventh Day Adventist.

With the use of the new electronic timer purchased for the Thief River Falls track and swimming programs, the entire meet was completed in 1½ hours.

Plan Silhouette Shoot Sunday

Thief River Falls Sportsmen club will sponsor a sanctioned silhouette shoot Sunday beginning at 10 a.m. at the Sportsmen club grounds located north of Thief River Falls.

Trophies and pins will be awarded and all interested shooters are invited to participate. Rimfire and centerfire handguns will be used in various divisions of competition.

Two Posts Are Filled In DNR Administration

Appointment of administrators for Region 5 (southeastern Minnesota) and Region 6 (seven county metro area) have been announced by Commissioner of Natural Resources Joseph Alexander.

Named by Alexander to the Region 5 post is John Chell, formerly regional hydrologist. The position has been vacant since the death of former administrator Robert Story on Christmas day.

Region 5 headquarters is located in Rochester.

New administrator for Region 6 is Karen Loechler, formerly executive director of the Minnesota environmental education board.

The post has been vacant since Oct. 31 when its occupant, Donald Carlson, was appointed special assistant to the commissioner and given the responsibility of supervising a new "Trails and Waterways" unit.

Region 6 headquarters is located in St. Paul.

KTRF Fishing Program Set For Tuesday

Area fishermen are invited to attend a free fishing program Tuesday beginning at 7 p.m. at the Elks club in Thief River Falls.

Sponsored by KTRF radio, the program will feature guest speakers John Christianson of the Lindy-Little Joe tackle company and Dale Telle of the Telle launch service on Lake of the Woods.

Christianson will discuss fishing techniques for this area while Telle will explain some of the changes in fishing laws and the outlook for fishing success on Lake of the Woods this summer.

The program is open to the public.

RLF Slow Pitch Meet Is Set Sun., May 11

An ASA-sanctioned men's slow pitch softball tournament will be held Sun., May 11, in Red Lake Falls.

Entry fee for the eight-team event is $40. Tournament chairman is Bob Philion in Red Lake Falls, telephone 253-2725.

State Man Is Conservation Award Winner

Arthus S. Hawkins of Hugo, Minn. has been named among winners of the 1980 American Motors conservation awards. The awards are given to dedicated workers in the cause of renewable resource conservation, according to officials of the awards program.

Hawkins is a senior waterfowl biologist employed at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) regional office in Minneapolis. "Mr. Hawkins has made extraordinary contributions to the waterfowl resource of North America," said Harvey K. Nelson, FWS regional director. "His experience has proved invaluable to the Fish and Wildlife Service and to biologists throughout the country who regard him as the 'Grand Dean' of waterfowl managers. Indeed he is deserving of this distinguished award."

Hawkins has been active in the research and management of North American waterfowl for more than 40 years. His pioneering efforts led to the formation of the Mississippi Flyway council, an organization of resource managers whose attention is focused on waterfowl management.

During much of his career the award recipient served as flyway representative for the Mississippi Flyway, one of four such positions in the Fish and Wildlife Service. His work took him annually from the Arctic, to the Gulf Coast, and to Mexico. He was also involved in extensive cooperative research in the Canadian prairie "duck factories" of southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

American Motors awards program covers all aspects of renewable natural resource conservation. Over the years the accomplishments and concerns of award winners have comprised a worthy encyclopedia of modern conservation activity and the inter-relatedness of its various branches, program officials said.

Winners receive bronze sculptured medallions and honorariums of $500.

Some Boundary Waters Fishing Opens On May 3

Anglers fishing the waters of Minnesota that form the boundary between this state and neighboring states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa will open the season May 3 this year for gamefish species. One exception is the May 24 opening for taking of bass on the St. Louis and St. Croix rivers.

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources advised anglers to read the 1980 fishing regulations, available from license agents, to determine the lakes and rivers that are open to the taking of walleyes, northern pike or other species on May 3.

Although Governor Quie proclaimed May 12-18 as national fishing week in Minnesota the season for walleyes, northerns and muskies does not open on inland waters until May 17, officials noted.

AVOIDING THE TAG by Northland catcher Scott Chapman, Fergus Falls base runner Mike Jorgenson hooked his leg across the plate to score from second base on a single to right field by teammate Mike Schultz in the seventh inning of Wednesday's community college baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls. Umpire Paul Williams, on-deck batter Steve Ellingson and Fergus Falls coach Steve LeGrand watched the action. The Spartans won the game 8-2.

Northwomen Collect First Softball Win

A season-opening nine-game losing streak came to an end Saturday for the Northland community college softball team as the Northwomen outscored Itasca 13-11 in the second game of a doubleheader played at Grand Rapids.

The Northwomen scored six times in the first inning and built a 10-4 lead in just two innings, but had to break a 10-10 tie in the fifth to claim the win.

Itasca took the first game 6-4 with a four-run fourth inning.

Brainerd handled Northland 12-2, 14-8 in a Saturday twinbill.

The Northwomen, 1-9, will host Crookston today (Monday) at 3 p.m. on the Northland softball diamond and will be at Fergus Falls Wednesday for another 3 o'clock twinbill.

Lincoln Net JV Beaten At Roseau

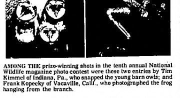
Andy Odegaard defeated Jack Oseid 6-0, 6-0 Friday at No. 1 singles to lead the Roseau varsity to a 3-2 high school tennis victory over the Lincoln junior varsity.

Thief River Falls will play three matches this week, hosting Crookston today (Monday) at 3:15 p.m., going to East Grand Forks Tuesday for a 3:30 match and entertaining Mahnomen Thursday at 3:15.

Roseau 3, TRF 2

1. Andy Odegaard (Roseau) def. Jack Oseid 6-0, 6-0.
2. Chad Broadwell (TRF) def. Dave Provance 6-1, 6-1.
3. Blake Stotts (Roseau) def. Scott Hickerson 6-1, 6-3.
1. Dale Nelson, Brent Schmitz (TRF) def. Bob Peterson, Mark Vatnsdal 7-6, 3-6, 7-5.
2. Richard Larson, Scott Leverington (Roseau) def. Rod Helm, Curtis Hanson 6-1, 6-0.

A three-game Minnesota Twins vs. New York Yankees series played at Met Stadium July 6-7-8, 1962 attracted a record 120,956 fans — 40,944 Friday night; 39,665 Saturday afternoon; and 40,347 Sunday afternoon.



AMONG THE prize-winning shots in the tenth annual National Wildlife magazine photo contest were these two entries by Tim Kimmel of Indiana, Pa., who snapped the young barn owls; and Frank Kopecky of Vacaville, Calif., who photographed the frog hanging from the branch.

Twenty photographers have been awarded prizes for their color photographs depicting "Nature in America" in National Wildlife magazine's tenth annual photo contest. The winning photographs appear in the April-May issue of the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication.

W. Perry Conway, of Louisville, Col., took the grand prize-winning photograph of four mule deer jousting in unison. Conway's photo was picked from more than 30,000 entries in National Wildlife's contest. In the magazine's first photo contest a decade ago, there were only 1,700 submissions. Coincidentally, the grand prize-winner in 1969 was also a photo of a mule deer.

Conway, a 35-year-old environmental education specialist, took his winning shot in a wildlife refuge near Boulder, Colo., during the rut. Conway's grand prize is a trip for two to a National Wildlife Federation Summit in the Rockies, the Adirondacks or Blue Ridge Mountains, or on Wisconsin's Green Lake this summer.

Other prize-winning photographers, who will share $2,000 in prize money, are:

Alaska — Jim Hawkings, Fairbanks, for his photograph of a flock of whistling swans; Jerry Hout, Juneau, whose prize-winner was of two musk-ox bulls; and Helen Rhode, Cooper Landing, for her photograph of a gray jay casually perched on a human admirer's hand.

Arkansas — Murry Ruggles, Arkadelphia, for his action photograph of a white-water kayaker challenging the treacherous western Arkansas river.

California — Frank S. Balthis, Forrestville, who took a photograph in Yellowstone national park last winter of two snow-encrusted bison browsing near a hot spring; and Frank Henry Kopecky, of Vacaville, for his close-up shot of a nimble frog dangling from a tree branch.

Colorado — Don Domenick, Denver, who photographed two long-tailed weasels huddled together in a hollow tree.

Idaho — Terry L. Schocke, Burley, who while driving through Ohio, spotted a great blue heron rookery, and returned to the site to photograph it just as the sun was setting, and Larry B. Thorngren, Boise, for his close-up of a curious ground squirrel clasping onto a flower.

Minnesota — Bob Firth, Excelsior, who took a shot along the Temperance river, not far from where it feeds into Lake Superior, while the fall colors were at their most dazzling.

Montana — Robert Duncan, Choteau, for his aerial shot of eight elk, dwarfed by their shadows while prancing through the snow in the northern Rocky Mountains; and Tom Ulrich, Hungry Horse, who photographed last winter a bright red male cardinal.

New Jersey — Breck P. Kent, High Bridge, who photographed a captive-born, year-old cougar belonging to a neighbor with a special federal permit to raise the cats.

New York — Paul G. Merriman, Fairport, for his shot of a grasshopper perched on a bright pink Lady's slipper; and Paul E. Meyers, Utica, who photographed a young common gallinule attempting — and failing — to camouflage itself with duckweed.

Pennsylvania — Tim Kimmel, Indiana, whose photograph of young barn owls in an abandoned silo is on the cover of the April-May National Wildlife; and Forrest G. Moyer, Allentown, for his photo taken in the Pocono Mountains of Mycena mushrooms.

Texas — Perry Shankle, Jr., San Antonio, whose prize-winner is of a tiny green heron, too young to fly, clinging shakily to a branch.

Wisconsin — Harvey Hansen, Clearwater Lake, for his striking shot of a ruffled grouse displaying his tail feathers.

Entries for the 1981 National Wildlife photo contest are now being accepted until the deadline on June 30, 1981. A total of $2,000 in cash prizes will be awarded, and all winners will be included in the December-January, 1982, National Wildlife magazine.

The 1981 contest theme is "Nature in the World". For the first time, photos may be taken not only in the U.S., but anywhere else in the world, as well. All entries must be in color, and may be of wildlife, plants, scenery or people participating in outdoor activities.

Entries are limited to five per person. Slides are preferred, but prints up to 8"x10" are acceptable. Each entry must bear the name, address, and telephone number of the photographer, and should be sent with a brief description of where, when and how the shot was taken, the make and model of the camera and lens used, and the exposure setting.

Largest crowd ever to watch a baseball game at Met Stadium in Bloomington was 50,596 for an Oct. 14, 1965 World Series game matching the Twins and Dodgers.

Changes Made In Steel Shot

Two important changes in the steel shot regulations for waterfowl hunters will be implemented in the fall of 1980, the Department of Natural Resources announced.

The department first called attention to the fact that changes were being made in the steel shot rules for 1980 on page 7 of the 1979 waterfowl regulations.

Starting next season, anyone hunting waterfowl in any steel shot zone will have to use steel shot shells regardless of the gauge shotgun they are using. Previously, only those hunters shooting 12 gauge guns were required to use steel shot shells in a steel shot zone.

The change in regulation raises the question about the availability of steel shot shells in gauges other than 12 gauge. DNR wildlife officials said that Federal Cartridge Corp. has recently announced that 20 gauge steel shot shells will be available in three inch magnum by late summer. The shells will be loaded with 1 oz. of No. 4 steel shot. Performance is said to be equivalent to that of 1 oz. of Federal's 20 gauge lead loads at ranges up to 40 yards.

Earlier, Federal announced that 10 gauge steel shot shells will also be available in 1980. No steel shot 16 gauge or 2¾ inch 20 gauge shells will be available.

Another change being made in the regulations for next season is that all waterfowl hunters must use steel shot shells throughout the Lac qui Parle goose management zone that is bounded by highway U.S. 212 on the south, U.S. 75 on the west, U.S. 12 on the north and county and state highways 17, 9, 40 and 29 on the east.

Decision to require steel shot for all waterfowl hunting within the zone was made after examining crippled and dead geese found in the refuge during the past three years. It was determined that a large number of ducks and geese are picking up lead pellets while feeding in agricultural fields where waterfowl hunting has occurred.

Incidence of ingested shot has been as high as 50 per cent of all geese examined and indicates a significant mortality that must be reduced.

Waterfowl hunters who are planning to hunt at Lac qui Parle or any of the other steel shot zones should study the 1980 waterfowl regulations that will be available in late August, officials emphasized.

Wildlife Meet Conducted By Grygla SWCD

Annual wildlife meeting sponsored by the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district was conducted recently at the Grygla office.

Representatives from Thief Lake refuge, Agassiz National Wildlife refuge and the state DNR attended the meeting.

Ron Bell from Agassiz reviewed work in the past few years. In 1978 projects included rebuilding three miles of dike and bridge on the Thief river, two miles of clean out on Ditch 1 to improve water capabilities, building the Thief Bay dike and rebuilding a structure. Main project for 1979 was the beginning of construction of a maintenance building complex including shop and storage facilities. Work for 1980 will be the development of pool 8. The old dike on the west side of the Thief river will be rebuilt making it possible for this pool to be managed separately from the Agassiz pool.

Ralph Rundell, soil conservation service, Grygla, reported on work for Larry Bernhoft, area game manager from Baudette and Phil Watt, resident game manager for the Red Lake Wildlife management area at Norris Camp. They were unable to attend because of hazardous fire conditions in their areas.

Bernhoft reported that they were working on controlled burns at Gates Corner, Mud Lake and Big Grass. They are working on a plan to gain additional funding through timber marketing to Bemidji and are working on road building to get to the areas where these timber stands are.

Plans are to expand work on seeding openings, according to Phil Watt. Two hundred ninety acres of new seedings have been planted in these openings. Thirty-eight wood ducks boxes, 2640' level ditches, maintenance on seven dams, eight feed sites using big bales, 216 acres shearing, 88 forest openings (293 acres were chemically treated to retain openings), 60 acres prescribed burnings and 63 miles of road maintenance were reported for the past year. Twenty-two man days were used for big game registrations and 75 man days were used for census activities of deer, moose, grouse, etc.

Gerald Maertens reported that the Thief Lake refuge is in the process of writing a master management plan. Preliminary plan is near completion and possibly in the next couple of months another meeting will be conducted for more public input.

Thief Lake was lowered about two feet below average over the fall and winter months and is now only three to four inches above normal. Depredation prevention work continues and food plots are a practice used on the refuge and also on private lands.

Thief Lake refuge is having a hydrologist doing studies on what effect there would be on adjoining farmland if the Haroldson dam were to be put into operation again. Since Robert Farmes was appointed to the regional office in Bemidji, Maertens is also taking care of the Elm Lake and Eckvoll Wildlife management areas until a new appointment can be made.

Paul Hansen, citizen participation coordinator, department of natural resources, St. Paul, said that deer season, which will begin November 8 would be a nine-day season. Duck season would begin October 4 at noon. There are still problems with the timber wolf and they are hoping the U.S. department of interior will turn responsibility for the wolf over to the state. They are also planning to go to court with the federal government to get control of the mineral rights in the boundary waters canoe area.

Other subjects discussed included the elk herd. It now numbers 17 as five calves were born last year. Elk management plan is to maintain a remnant population and they are trying to move them further east. A 1,000 acre burn in Big Grass and a 5,000 acre burn near Gates corner are being planned to improve the habitat for the elk. There was concern as to possible problems arising because of their increased liking for sunflowers. Another concern was the possible transferring of bulls from another area to prevent too much inbreeding.

Wildlife was a popular topic as deer, grouse, blackbirds, wild turkeys, raccoons, bears and sand hill cranes were discussed. Of the road-killed deer this winter, 96 per cent of the does were found to be pregnant which indicates a good rate of reproduction even with the taking of the bucks during hunting season.

Beaver were also discussed as several reports have been heard that large numbers of the animals have been found dead. They are believed to be diseased and should not be handled as this disease can be transferred to humans.

Senior Citizen News

When the Senior Citizens met for their weekly meeting April 17 the center seemed to turn into a factory assembly line. Some of us took our places in the fluffing up of Arctic scraps circle, others took the fluffed up material to fill bed pillows and still others sewed up the ends of the pillows and lo and behold we even had a buyer for a pair of pillows once they were finished. We also stuffed some cloth dogs adding mouth and eyes making them look very real.

Polly was busy pricing items and putting them up on display for sale. We are now charging $8 a pair for our bed pillows, but we still feel you are getting a bargain.

It was announced on Thursday that from now on the hostess each Thursday must serve only two things. If you serve more you may be fined.

Mabel Borsvold gave 2 door prizes that Evelyn Kline and Elsie Kimbrough received. Irene gave one that Mabel Borsvold won. If we play Bingo on Thursday the 24th some prizes are needed, please remember to bring some.

Judy Larson and children and Leonard Torkelson were our visitors on Thursday. There were 17 present.

Dolly Larson was our hostess Thursday.

Sealed Share Crop Proposals

The Board of Education of Independent School District No. 564, Pennington County, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, will receive sealed share crop proposals on 60 acres of land and 20 acres of hayland located by the Area Vocational Technical Institute until 3:00 p.m. May 1, 1980.

Information on this share crop proposal can be obtained by contacting Harry Nelson, Business Manager, School District Service Center; Zeh & LaBree, 218-681-2700, Ext. 204.

FARMLAND FOR CASH RENT

Sealed bids will be received for cash rent of the following Pennington County farmland:

The Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section One (1), Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153), Range Forty-two (42); and Lots Three (3) and Four (4) and the South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S½ NW¼) of Section One (1), Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153) North of Range Forty-two (42) West of the 5th Principal Meridian, in Minnesota.

All bids must be submitted in writing on or before April 28, 1980, to Anderson Law Office, 602 2nd Avenue North, P.O. Box 724, Wahpeton, North Dakota 58075, and should be submitted by individual tract and not by acre. The top six bidders will be notified and allowed to raise their bids following the opening of the bids at 8:30 a.m. on April 28, 1980. Telephone (701) 642-5539.

The owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Myrle L. Carlson
Candidate for School Board

In my first message I stated that we should get the best for our tax dollar from both sides. So I feel that as a member of the School Board I will be ready to serve everyone. Be fair and impartial in my decisions. I don't have any other reasons for serving on the School Board except to do the very best for the School District and the Communities I represent.

Anything less does not meet my requirements for this position.

Pol. Adv. Prepared and to be paid for by Myrl C. Carlson.

The following position is available in Independent School District No. 564, Thief River Falls, MN 56701:

DIRECTOR OF SPECIAL EDUCATION

RAC Board Meeting

April 28, 1980
Northwest Regional Inter-District Council
Special Education
RIC-RAC Board Meeting
April 21, 1980

On April 21, 1980, the all RIC meeting was held at 7:30 PM in the RIC offices. Those present were: Keith Kilen, Jim Johnson, Ken Wiese, Allen Larson, Kay Turn, Laverne Isaacson, Lois Peterson, Walter Steinhauer, Homer Kenner, Bob Sorvig, Donald Horner. Superintendents present were: Keith Kapphahn, Glen Peterson, Jacob Klein, Ken Helling, Peter Jurkovich, Phil Dyrud, Gene Busch, Herb Benz, William Corliss, and Stuart Blackorby. Those absent were: Darrell Warne, Duane Nelson, Glen Larson, John Hailey, Gordon Borsvold, David Brown, Sal Hoffert, James Polsaant, Milt Anderson. Guests were: John Steidl, Mavis Benson, Jill Geidel, Jan Westra, Colleen Rekdal, Betsy Werre, Joneen Kaisnes.

Moved by Isaacson and seconded by Larson that the minutes be approved as written and mailed out to the membership. Motion carried.

Moved by Larson and seconded by Horner that the monthly bills be approved as reviewed and signed by board members. Motion carried.

An informational presentation was provided by the Director covering the following topics: Cooperative review of 37 special education providers, statistics covering local, state and federal handicapped population, review of RIC staff time and job descriptions. A question and answer time was held to field concerns of the membership.

The proposed tentative budget was presented by the Director. Superintendent Busch spoke to the creation of the budget and the feelings of the RIC Superintendents. The following action took place: Moved by Kilen and seconded by Steinhauer to ammend the proposed 1980-81 budget by reinstating the speech coordination component to the total budget. Roll call vote requested. All in favor were: Kilen, Johnson, Wiese, A. Larson, Turn, Isaacson, Peterson Steinhauer, Sorvig. Those opposed were: Kenner, Homer. MOTION CARRIED. Moved by Turn and seconded by Steinhauer to ammend the proposed 1980-81 budget by reinstating the physical therapist component to the total budget. Motion carried. Discussion followed, concerning the reduction in time of the RIC Nurse position to half time. Concensus was that this position should be reviewed at the fall meeting. Moved by Kilen and seconded by A. Larson to ammend the proposed 1980-81 budget by reinstating the social worker position to half time within the total budget. Motion carried. Moved by Larson and seconded by Isaacson, Be it resolved that the proposed tentative 1980-81 RIC Budget be approved as submitted, to be reviewed again in the fall with appropriate changes if needed. Motion carried.

Moved by Isaacson, seconded by Larson, Be it resolved that Mark Denzl be allowed attendance at a regional conference for school psychologists concerning programs for emotionally disturbed students. Furthermore, the approval of attendance by the board shall mean that RIC policy be followed as to reimbursement. Motion carried.

The Director provided the board an update on the latest legal action of Greg Herling against the board.

A brief informational presentation was made by the Director covering the recent BEH educational audit and the upcoming state department of education audit. It was pointed out that the district Superintendents will be inserviced as to the actual format on April 24, 1980, with the audit taking place during the entire week beginning May 5, 1980.

Moved by Isaacson and seconded by Steinhauer that it be resolved, to empower the Director to seek legal advice resolving the withdrawl question in Roseau Public Schools, with the resolution to be brought before the RAC Board for final action. Motion carried.

Moved by Steinhauer and seconded by Turn, Be it resolved that the RIC extend the 1979-80 contract year for Loren Lusignan in the area of special needs. Furthermore, this extention will be of no financial cost to the RIC as 70 per cent State Department of Education reimbursement will be coupled with 30 per cent reimbursement from YETP to cover salary. The factor of mileage will be covered by YETP in total. Furthermore, may it be resolved, that this extension covers 35 working days for a total of $3,000.00. Motion carried.

Moved by Horner and seconded by Isaacson, Be it resolved that the leave of absence request for the 1980-81 school year by Mr. Herling be denied on the grounds that RIC Policy states that such a request shall be made prior to March 1st. Motion carried.

Moved by Corliss and seconded by Busch, That be it resolved that the RIC Board of Directors appoint two (2) Board Members and three (3) Superintendents and the Director of Special Education, to work with other delivery systems (State, ECSU, Mental Health, Counties, Private, etc.) of special education in the geographic area for the purpose of improving said delivery systems for the 1981-82 school year with a report due prior to February 1, 1981. The above mentioned resolution was moved by Larson and seconded by Steinhauer. Motion carried. A brief discussion followed with the following suggestion: The chairman of the Board in conjunction with the Chairman of the Superintendents Advisory Committee and the Director get together and select the members for this team.

Mr. Kilen under new business, said that he was in receipt of a letter from Mr. John Steidl and wondered what it meant. The Chairman stated that he was just given a copy of the letter prior to the start of the meeting, and said the letter should be reviewed at the next regularly scheduled meeting.

Moved by Larson and seconded by Horner to adjourn. Motion carried.

Council Studies Airport, Signal Project In City

Two special city council meetings conducted recently in the council chambers of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls concerned discussion of airport projects and the proposed signal program in the city.

Meeting set April 25 called city council members, Lawrence McCabe, commissioner of aeronautics under the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn-DOT) in Minneapolis and Dave Nybakken, Mn-DOT division of aeronautics to discuss the airport layout plan including the cross-wind runway and runway length at the Thief River Falls regional airport, the airport development aid project (ADAP) including an addition to the crash fire rescue (CFR) building and ADAP fund transfer to Brainerd.

No action was necessary on any of the items as the meeting was for discussion only, according to Robert Wurst, city attorney, who presided at the meeting.

In the transfer of ADAP funds to Brainerd, discussion concerned the transfer of funds from one city to another for airport construction assistance.

Although the transfer of funds form one city to another is not allowable under federal guidelines, according to a discussion by McCabe, it was noted that Thief River Falls is supportive of aiding Brainerd in the plea, if the transfer was possible.

Cost was an important factor in the discussion of the addition to the CFR building.

"It's one thing to build something but another thing to obtain the dollars to maintain that building," McCabe said.

Discussion by McCabe and George Singer, airport manager at the Thief River Falls regional airport, concerned the addition of one or two bays to the CFR building.

Discussion of the runway length at the Thief River Falls regional airport examined the preliminary plan to construct the runway at 3,400 feet in length, while the master plan called for by the APLP is 6,900 feet. It is the opinion of the council members that a runway of this magnitude would not be needed now, according to Wurst, who summarized the background

2 From Area Go To Boys' State

Two area boys will attend the 32nd annual American Legion Boys State to be conducted on the campus of St. Olaf college, Northfield, June 8-14, according to Ike Hoglin, commander of Eklund-Holmstrom American legion post 117 of Thief River Falls.

Boys selected are Ross Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards of Thief River Falls, and Mark Grabowska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grabowska of Goodridge. Alternates selected for the special session if the delegates are unable to attend are Marty Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne D. Johnson of Thief River Falls, and Randy Henrickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Henrickson of Goodridge. Boys state chairman is Terry W. Soine, of Thief River Falls.

Richards, the Thief River Falls delegate, is presently involved in FCA, has been a class officer for two years and is active in the church youth group.

Grabowska, Boys State delegate from Goodridge, is a member of the National Honor society and of the annual staff. He also lettered in football and basketball, is a member of the Ekelund church and is treasurer of the Goodridge parish Luther League.

Johnson, Boys state alternate, is active in football, is a member of the Children's Readers Theater, is a member of VICA, and has been in basketball and track. He has also been involved in many junior class activities. He enjoys hunting, bowling, and is a member of a bowling league.

Henrickson, Boys state alternate from Goodridge, is involved in varsity basketball and football, is vice president of the Lettermen's club, was in the junior class play, and is on the annual staff. He is a former Boy Scout and 4-H member and is a member of the Goodridge parish Luther League.

Students to Boys state must be juniors in high school. They are signally honored in view of the outstanding qualifications set forth as requirements in selecting them, and are named through cooperation of the Post, high school faculty and leading citizens in the community.

Objectives of the program include teaching boys who attend actual learning experience in how city, county and state governments function, so as to arouse in them an enduring interest in government affairs; develop better civic behavior; obtain for the young men a higher appreciation of and wholehearted allegiance to the democratic way of life. It is in no way a military training camp. Programs will be considered without reference to any existing political party and will be free from political propaganda. It is not a recreational outing.

Legion Boys state was first conducted in Minnesota in 1949 with 169 boys attending on the St. Paul campus, University of Minnesota. In 1979 there were 458 Boys staters on the campus at St. Olaf college.

Eklund-Holmstrom American Legion post 117 of Thief River Falls has been represented by two boys throughout most of the history of the program.

School Election Interest Grows

Interest in area school board elections should be high this year with 34 candidates, including 12 women, seeking positions on the eight school boards in the Times area. In only two of the districts — Middle River and Strandquist — is there no competition for board positions as of the close filings Tuesday. Several veteran board members, however, have decided not to seek reelection in area districts.

Thief River Falls has 11 candidates for the three positions expiring on the board this year. Incumbent Bob Sorvig filed for reelection Monday evening and was joined in the race on Tuesday by Jonathan Bolen, Sue Fredeen and Bonnie Folkedahl. Bolen is employed by Arctic Enterprises as corporate research manager and has been with the company since 1976. Mrs. Fredeen is owner of The Sue Line on Third street in Thief River Falls, a business she has operated for the past four years. Mrs. Folkedahl is employed in an area health services position.

Previously filing for the board were Larry McDowell, incumbent board chairman; Elaine Borsheim, Roger Shaffer, Gary C. Erickson, Merle L. Carlson, Greg Pribula and Merle Sorteberg. Long-time board member Maynard Wedul did not file for reelection.

At Goodridge there will be four candidates for two positions on the board, including two women. Marie Adams, Joanne C. Cullen and Paul Troska have filed along with incumbent clerk Larry Vigen who is completing his first term. Nine-year board member J. Duane Nelson will not seek reelection.

Seek Comment On Sunflower Price Support

Sunflower seed farmers could become eligible for government price supports — beginning with the 1980 crop — if the U.S. department of agriculture determines there is a need for such a program, according to secretary of agriculture Bob Bergland.

Bergland said USDA is asking the public to comment on whether the department should start a price support program for sunflower seeds and will evaluate the responses before making specific proposals.

Bergland said USDA studied the feasibility of enacting a sunflower seed support program for the 1979 crop but decided that starting a program in the middle of the marketing year would be unfair to some sunflower farmers.

Nearly three-fourths of U.S. sunflower seed production is exported, primarily to western Europe. A support program could provide interim financing for producers from mid-December to April when the St. Lawrence Seaway, the main U.S. sunflower export route, is closed by ice, Bergland said.

North Dakota is the major producer of sunflower seed, followed by Minnesota and South Dakota, Production of U.S. sunflower seed for 1979 was almost double the previous year. Although 1980 acreage is expected to decline moderately, USDA officials forecast a long-term increase in sunflower seed production.

Public comment on the proposal is sought, with a deadline of June 2, Bergland said. Written comments should be sent to: Director, Production Adjustment Division, ASCS-USDA, 3630-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C., 20013.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

50th Anniversary Noted By Adam Lendobejas

Large number of relatives and friends gathered at Bethany Lutheran church on Sunday, April 20, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja on their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married April 19, 1930 at the Methodist church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Crawford Greys officiating. Their attendants were Leon Lendobeja and Mrs. Emily Johnson. Both are deceased.

Hosting the open house were the couple's daughter, Diane, and her husband Jerry Claffy of Rochester. During the program, she introduced her husband, their daughter, Terry and her husband, Marv Billins, and their children: Michelle, Marv, Jr., and Courtney, all of Rochester; and their son, Mike Claffy, his wife, Shirley, and their daughter, Stacy, also of Rochester.

Maurice Newton, a longtime friend of the family, was in charge of the program that began with everyone joining in singing "How Great Thou Art." Newton gave the welcome and reminisced about the family, and Rev. Gene Broughton, was in charge of the devotional meditation and prayer. Mrs. Olga Nelson also spoke to the group, telling of her association with Mrs. Lendobeja in 4-H club work, in homemakers club and the Moccasin garden club. Several short readings, including Edgar Guest's, "It Takes a Heap of Living to Make a House a Home," were given by Barbara Lendobeja, a niece. Special tribute "To Grandpa and Grandma," was given by Terry Billings. Vocal selections were a solo, "You'll Never Walk Alone, by Jerry Claffy; a duet, "The Wedding Song" by Claffy and Grace Hammer, and the solo, "One Day at a Time," by Mrs. Hammer. Of special interest was Newton's presentation of a plaque from the congregation. In making the presentation, Newton commended the couple for their many years of dedicated service to the congregation. He noted that Mrs. Lendobeja had been a member of the ladies aid since her marriage; had held every office in the organization; and that Lendobeja through the years had been in charge of cooking the lutefisk for the fall suppers. The program concluded with words of appreciation by the Lendobejas, followed by the Lord's Prayer and the table grace.

A reception in the church parlors followed with members of the ladies aid in charge of serving. For the occasion, the dining hall was decorated with white and gold streamers, white wedding bells and "Happy Anniversary," in gold letters. Among the floral arrangements were yellow mums from their daughter, a bouquet of roses from Marv Billings, and a potted plant from the waitresses at Best Western. The flowers that graced the altar were gifts from the great grandchildren.

The couple's grand nieces: Shelly Jacobson, Minneapolis, and Rhonda Bodel, Warren, served the punch as Carol Johnson of Thief River Falls registered the guests. The wedding cake, baked and decorated in the golden anniversary theme by Mrs. Leonard Melin, was cut and served by Clara Mae Swanson, Thief River Falls, a niece, and Shirley Claffy of Rochester. Terry Billings presided at the coffee service.

Among the many relatives and friends attending the event were Mrs. Lendobeja's only sister, Mrs. Steve Jaenette of Thief River Falls, and Lendobeja's brother and sister, Julian C. Lendobeja and Josie Johnson, both of Thief River Falls. Unable to attend, but sending greetings were another brother and sister: Walter Lendobeja, a resident at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital, and Mrs. A.J. (Agnes) Gerend of Akron, Ohio.

Other out-of-town relatives and friends were from Maryland, Ohio, Washington, Washington, D.C., Oakhurst, Calif.; Salina, Kans.; Thunder Bay, Ontario, Canada; Detroit Lakes, Rochester, Minneapolis, Browerville and Wolverton.

Following the reception, a supper was served at the church for the family, relatives and friends by the members of the ladies aid. Highlighting the buffet table was a birthday cake in honor of Mrs. Jerry Claffy, whose birthday was that day.

For the day, the honored couple wore a coordinating corsage and boutonniere of yellow roses and gold ribbon made by Beatrice Wilson of the Moccasin garden club.

Bjorgaard And Holmaas Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bjorgaard of Newfolden announce the engagement of their daughter, Vickie Darlyne, to Russell Wayne Holmaas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Holmaas, also of Newfolden.

Miss Bjorgaard is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden, the Association Free Lutheran Bible school, Minneapolis, and Northland Community college, Thief River Falls. She is presently employed at Northern State bank in this city.

Holmaas is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school and also attended the Association Free Lutheran Bible school. He is employed by Cwikla Signs in Thief River Falls.

A July 26th wedding is being planned.

Halvorson And Finseth Engagement Announced

Mr and Mrs. Edwin Halvorson of Trail announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Doreen Kay, to Danny Finseth, son of Mrs. Pat Finseth of Trail and Darrell Finseth of McIntosh.

A July 12th wedding is being planned.

LaLeche League Will Meet At Treat Home

"Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby," is the topic that will be discussed at the meeting of the LaLeche league to be held Monday at 8 p.m., at the Barb Martin home, 405 Evergreen. Kathy Treat will lead the meeting.

All interested mothers and their infants are welcome to attend. Those wishing further information may call Sandra Holmstrom 964-5468 or Kathy Treat 681-5440.

JoAnn Reeve Is Honored At Ninth District Luncheon

Approximately 200 women attended the Ninth district spring luncheon held here Saturday honoring Ninth District American Legion Auxiliary President JoAnn Reeve of this city.

The luncheon, held at the American Legion club, was hosted at the Ecklund-Holmstrom American Legion auxiliary of Thief River Falls.

Among those attending were a number of auxiliary officers, including Betty Radeke of Red Lake Falls, Minnesota department president; Eleanor Johnson Minneapolis, Minnesota department secretary; Annabelle Cuppett, city, Ninth District secretary; Marilyn Winters, Thief River Falls unit president; and Lynette Hartman, Dalton, junior auxiliary president. Also present were several ninth district officers and chairmen, past ninth district presidents and auxiliary members from throughout the district.

A brief program was given with Marilyn Winters welcoming the guests and leading the Pledge of Allegiance. District first vice-president Leona Rapacz of Argyle gave the response, Annabelle Cuppett led the opening and closing prayer in place of District Chaplain Ruth Fladeland; and JoAnn Reeve made the introductions. Two vocal selections were provided by the auxiliary sextette. Special greetings and words of commendation for the work done by Mrs. Reeve were given by Betty Radeke and Eleanor Johnson. Gifts were also presented to Mrs. Reeve in appreciation for her work in the auxiliary. Included was a corsage, a gift from District Commander Ken Orvik of Crookston.

Margaret Lambert To Wed Stuart Peterson

Mrs. Dewey Lambert of Oklee announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Margaret, to Stuart Peterson, son of Mrs. Earl Peterson of Thief River Falls.

Miss Lambert is a 1976 graduate of Oklee high school and is a senior at Bemidji State university. Her finance is a 1976 graduate of Lincoln high school and is presently engaged in farming.

A June 21st wedding is being planned.

City Studies Airport And Signal Project

of the project.

A portion of Ray Oen's land lies in one of the zones designated for the runway, he said, and his intended use doesn't conform to the zoning. (Previous variance request by Oen called for permission to develop housing in zone B north and east of the proposed cross-wind runway strip). If the cross-wind runway was reduced, Oen would not have to apply for a variance, it was noted.

Recommendation from McCabe suggested the idea of constructing a 2,500 foot runway — the minimum needed at the present time which would accommodate light aircraft, and when need arrives, build on. The 2,500 foot addition would not effect Oen at all, he added.

Noon meeting yesterday brought Bob Wolfe, district highway engineer from Bemidji; Arvid Olson, county engineer from Thief River Falls; Albert Koop, county board member from Thief River Falls; Neal Bryant, Mn-DOT district office member from Bemidji; Cliff Larson, Mn-DOT employee; and city council members together to discuss the proposed signal construction on First street and Pennington avenue in front of the Valley 24 grocery store in Thief River Falls. Also in attendance were Wayne Bjerken and Floyd Hagman, Valley 24 store owners.

According to rules specifying that parking may be no nearer than 30 feet from the nearest signal and no nearer than 20 feet from the painted crosswalk, parking in front of the store would be eliminated, and "the business would be eliminated," according to Hagman.

Major questions centered around possibly waiving the requirements on the parking in connection with the signal construction, or moving the signal construction to a different section in the city, thus making use of the contract.

Alternatives to the problem included constructing a parking lot on the other side of First street for store parking, or to possibly eliminate the signal altogether.

"We are maybe anticipating damage that doesn't even exist," was the opinion of alderman J. J. Womack.

The city council and county board will meet to further discuss the situation.

Interest High In Area School Board Filings

Plummer has six candidates for two posts on the board, including veteran board member Arthur Hamrum of Brooks and three women. Others are Karen Fossell and Mary Mercil of Brooks, Ray Franklund, Clayton Larson and Carol Torkelson of Plummer. Charlotte Skjerven, completing her first term as an appointed board member, did not file for reelection.

Oklee will lose a 12-year board member with Don Stenberg deciding not to seek reelection this year. Filing for the two board positions open are incumbent Lloyd Mercil, who has served one term, Jim Dulka and Darlene Solie.

Newfolden school district will also lose a veteran board member as Larry Bjorsness has not filed for reelection. Incumbent Tom Yutrzenka, who has served one term, has filed for reelection along with Mark Carlson and Daniel Olson. Two candidates will be elected.

Grygla School District 447 has three candidates for two positions open on the board, including incumbent Glenn Larson, who has completed his first three-year term. Mrs. Rodney (Marie) Anderson and ElKay Foss of Skime have also filed for election. Carl Barton, also completing his first term, will not seek reelection.

At Middle River incumbents Nilo Rantanen and Lois Peterson are the only two candidates to file. At Strandquist incumbents Gordon Borsvold and Janice Borowicz will be on the ballot, Mrs. Borowicz' name having been filed by petition of five other residents of the district.

Lois Prichard Services Held Here Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Lois Prichard, 91, of this city were held Saturday at 10 a.m., at the Green Funeral home. Mrs. Prichard, a resident of this city since 1909, died Wednesday, April 23 at Northwestern hospital.

Officiating at the services was Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir, pastor at the United Methodist church. Mrs. Jarvis Prichard was the soloist and Mrs. Sherman Ideo, the orgnist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Prichard, the former Lois Burton, was born April 29, 1888 at Alden to Theodore and Susie Babcock Burton.

She was a graduate of the University of Minnesota. In 1909, she came to Thief River Falls and taught school here for several years.

On June 5, 1913, she was married in Thief River Falls to William W. Prichard. Since then, she had made her home here.

She was active in community affairs, especially in the work of the United Methodist church, the Thief River Falls Federated Woman's club and the Winslow chapter of the Eastern Star. She was choir director at the Methodist church for many years and was active in the Wesleyan Society of Christian service, serving for a time as president. She also served as president of the Women's club and a worthy matron of the Easter Star.

Surviving are a daughter, Anita Sue Prichard, Thief River Falls; four sons: William W. Prichard, Hockessin, Del.; Jarvis and Philip, both of Thief River Falls; and Bruce of Phoenix, Ariz.; 11 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents, two brothers and one sister.

Rites Thursday At Zion For Melvin Grinde

Funeral services for Melvin Grinde, 73, of this city and formerly of Silverton township Pennington county, will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Grinde died Monday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Richard Larson will officiate at the service with Jerry Joringdal as organist and Norman Midthun, soloist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers will be Einar Barstad, Gust Homme, Obert Homme, Richard Hruby, Sr., Edwin Helgeland, Nordeen Urdahl, Melvin Molden, Lloyd Urdahl, Roger Skime and Orlin Lerol.

Serving as active pallbearers will be Marvel Enerson, Kenneth Ose, Leighton Hamre, Wesley Johnson, Jerry Wedul and Arthur Welter.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Sigurd Melvin Grinde was born Oct. 21, 1906 in Silverton township, Pennington county, to Ole and Karen Johnson Grinde, now deceased. He attended the Banner school and grew to manhood in Silverton township. In 1927, he went to Chicago, Ill. and worked there for two years in a print shop. He then returned to Silverton to join his father in operating the family farm. He later bought the farm and operated it until his retirement in 1968. Since then, he had made his home in Thief River Falls.

While living in Silverton, he was a member of the Silverton Lutheran church and served for a number of years as deacon and treasurer. At the time of her death, he was a member of Zion Lutheran church.

He was married at Silverton on Dec. 6, 1942 to Estelle Hanson. She survives.

Also surviving are two sons: Milton Grinde, Plummer, and Homer, Thief River Falls; four grandchildren, two stepgrandchildren, two sisters: Mrs. Herb (Clara) Rogness, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Richard (Ellen) Baughman, Walnut Creek, Calif.; and a half-brother, Herbert Grinde, Thief River Falls.

In addition to his parents, he was preceeded in death by two brothers, Arnold and Arthur; a sister, Rina Blomberg, and a half-brother, Elmer Grinde.

Mrs. Josephine Finnerud, 79, Of Grygla Dies

Mrs. Josephine Finnerud, 79, of Grygla, died Tuesday evening at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine Finnerud are pending. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Services Set For H. Stanley Larmoe, 80

Hubert Stanley Larmoe, 80, of Thief River Falls and formerly of the Thief Lake community, rural Middle River, died Monday at Northwestern hospital. Among his survivors is a sister, Gladys Larmoe of this city.

Funeral services for Herbert Larmoe will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Thief Lake with Rev. Robert Amundson officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will repose at the Collins Funeral home, Middle River, after 4 p.m., today (Wednesday) and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in Monday's edition of the Times.

JUNGLE AVIATION and radio service of the Wycliffe Bible translators will be presented Sunday evening, May 4, 6:30 p.m., at Faith Lutheran Brethren church in Thief River Falls. Everyone is welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Schwartz will present the ministry of JAARS, showing a color film of flying with Wycliffe jungle aviation and radio service pilots, from North Carolina to hidden, otherwise inaccessible areas of the world. Norman will be graduating in June as a two-year Bible student at the Lutheran Brethren schools in Fergus Falls and is an aviation radio technician and commercial pilot. Wycliffe is presently translating the Scriptures in about 680 languages. There are about 3,000 to 3,500 groups today that don't have a single word of the Bible in their own language.

Annual Meet Of Midwest Breeders Held

Nearly 300 people watched Midwest Breeders cooperative receive the prestigious Presidential "E" award for excellence in exporting at their 40th annual meeting, Saturday, March 29, in Shawano. Russell Leitch, district director from the U.S. department of commerce, Milwaukee, presented the award to Don Ausman, Midwest's director of distrobutor marketing.

Foreign sales rose 238 per cent in the past three years, thanks to aggressive marketing efforts and training provided for distributors and foreign representatives.

Tom Lyon, general manager, told the audience that 1979 was the greatest year in the cooperative's history, with $10,825,000 total income, 20.5 per cent above 1978, and net income of $819,950. "It was also a vintage year in product and service quality."

President Robert Thompson stated in his address, "Midwest Breeders has the strongest sire battery ever, if financially sound and staffed by highly competent people. We move into the decade of the '80's more capable than ever before to provide the production 'results' which the membership deserves."

Some of these very deserving members received awards for their herds' milk or fat production. From the 396 member herds honored for high production, the top ten in either milk or fat were recognized and awarded "results" awards by public relations director Jim Leuenberger.

A special tribute was also paid to Allen 'Pete' Peterson, advertising and promotion manager, who will be retiring this year after 33 years with the cooperative.

In the elections, Mark Wilhelm, Princeton, replaced Merlyn Cordes, Henning, on the board of directors. Robert Thompson, Clarks Grove, was reelected president.

Dairy Princess Applications Now Available

Pennington county American dairy association has announced that applications are being taken for Pennington county dairy farm girls to compete in the 1980 dairy princess contest.

Candidates must be high school graduates not yet 24 years old as of July 1, 1980. The candidate must be single and her parents must be engaged in a dairy operation in Pennington county.

Up to three girls can be selected — the county princess and her two attendants — and they will all compete in the Region I competition on June 10 during Northwest Dairy day in Thief River Falls. Winner of the regional contest will advance to the state fair and compete for the title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Applications are available from the county extension office and application deadline is May 16.

Rural Youth Institute Set At Waseca

Leadership skills for rural Minnesota is the foundation for the fourth annual Minnesota rural youth institute, which will be held July 13-18. Current high school juniors and seniors are eligible to apply for the 100 delegate positions.

This year the institute is being hosted by the University of Minnesota technical college, Waseca

All expenses while at the institute will be paid for the 100 delegates selected. William Nelson, coordinator, said the institute is cosponsored by UMW and the Minnesota rural development council. Three previous programs have been held at Southwest state university.

Activities which will be a part of this intensive workshop program include personal goal-setting workshop, stimulating multimedia presentation on the pride of rural Minnesota, observation and investigation of selected rural communities and businesses and how they operate, leadership skill development and dialogue with key Minnesota leaders.

Minnesota rural youth institute was established in 1977 at the urging of the Commissioner of Agriculture Jon Wefald because he felt there was a need for a program which would highlight the excellent work and leadership opportunities in rural Minnesota, and that would begin to develop some of the skills which would provide success in these areas. It is patterned after similar programs in Nebraska and South Dakota.

Current high school juniors or seniors who are interested in applying for the Institute may contact local high school officials, Country Agricultural Extension Service or write to William Nelson, Coordinator, Minnesota Rural Youth Institute, University of Minnesota Technical College, Waseca, Waseca, MN 56093.

Application deadline is May 12, 1980.

Wednesday, May 7 Veal parmesan, oven brown potatoes, frozen peas, tossed salad, peach sauce, bread and butter, milk, coffee, tea

Thursday, May 8: Glazed ham loaf, baked potato, spinach, relish plate, ice cream sundae, bread and butter, milk, coffee, tea

Friday, May 9 Turkey ala king on rice, wax beans, carrot-raisin salad, fruit cocktail, bread and butter, milk, coffee, tea.

May is "Older American's Month"!

Wednesday exercises will be done at 11:45.

Senior meals and activity program is sponsored by Tri-valley opportunity council, Inc. and is made possible in part by the State of Minnesota, by Title III of the Older Americans Act through a grant from the Minnesota board on aging and the support of local communities.

State Tourism Calendar Lists 450 Events

Nearly 450 events are listed in the Minnesota spring-summer calendar of events available free from the Minnesota tourist information center.

Sporting events in the calendar include the Sit N'Spit marble tournament, rolle bolle competition and the First International Crappie fishing tournament. The fleet of foot will be interested in both jogging competitions and polka festivals, while those with ravenous summer appetites pursue turkey races — where the losers will be barbecued — and corn feeds celebrating the bounties of the harvest.

Scattered among the traditional water carnivals, art fairs and flea markets are ethnic celebrations, summer playhouses, recreation of life and events in the 1800s, a Mississippi river showboat and a jamboree for CBers.

Copies of the calendar are available from the Minnesota tourist information center, 480 Cedar St., St. Paul, MN 55101. Minnesota residents may call toll-free 1-800-652-9747.

County ARC To Meet Mon.

Pennington county association for retarded citizens will meet on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Falls day activity center in Thief River Falls. Everyone interested in having the ARC continue is urged to attend.

Company Gives $3 Million To UM Technology

Grant of $3 million from Honeywell has been awarded to the University of Minnesota.

Two-thirds of the gift from the manufacturer of computer and controls systems will be used by the institute of technology to develop its center for microelectronic and information sciences. The remaining one-third will be used by the college and graduate school of business administration to endow a Honeywell chair in management information systems and to support its instructional and fellowship programs.

Grant was announced Thursday by Ed Spencer, chairman and chief executive officer of Honeywell, at the company's annual meeting. "This is a truly magnificent action on the part of one of our leading corporations," said university president C. Peter Magrath. "It demonstrates an increasing commitment to education and a favorable response to the dynamic new leadership of deans Roger Staehle and David Lilly."

"The gift signifies a substantial commitment to the future of productive collaborations between industries and universities," said Roger W. Staehle, dean of the institute of technology.

Center for microelectronic and information sciences emphasizes advanced research in three interdisciplinary areas: Microelectronic design, distributed and parallel processing, and automation and applications.

In addition to advancing science, the center is committed to expanding educational opportunities in high technology, Staehle said.

"The Honeywell grant encourages the pooling of resources by the major institutions of soceity. Such pooling is appropriate at a time when energy, materials, environment and labor are in progressively shorter supply," Staehle said.

An initial $2 million was contributed for the support of the center by Control Data corporation. Staehle expects an additional $6 million from other sources to be given by the end of the year.

Board of directors, chaired by Staehle, is overseeing the development of the center. Acting co-directors of the center are William R. Franta and Richard Y. Kain of the institute faculty.

Of the $1 million given to the college and graduate school of business administration, $750,000 will be used to endow the Honeywell chair (management information systems deals with the management of information as an organizational-resource to support operations and decision making); $125,000 will fund a visiting professorship in accounting; and $125,000 will support fellowships in the school for students pursuing master of business administration degrees through a joint program with the institute of technology.

"This is truly a leadership grant. It brings private contributions to CBA to $5.2 million since January 1979, when the college announced a five-year $10 million fund-raising campaign," said David Lilly, dean of the college. "It will be used to help accomplish educational goals mutually shared by the college and the business community.

"With this support we are well on our way to building the kind of excellence this business community needs in the form of new management employees, research and the training of existing management personnel."

Bake Sale Aids Bible Campers

Calvary Lutheran church of St. Hilaire will hold a bake sale Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the church basement. Lunch will be served. This is a matching funds project sponsored by the Lutheran Brotherhood and all proceeds will be used to send children to Bible camp.

SWCD Notes Stewardship Week In May

Pennington Soil and Water conservation district (SWCD) will join in the nationwide celebration of Soil Stewardship week to take place May 11-18, according to an announcement by Danny Johnson, vice-chairman of the Pennington SWCD board of supervisors.

Theme of this year's celebration is, "The Judgment of Nature." Its focus is especially appropriate as the United States considers the current condition of its soil, water and related resources, Johnson said.

"Through nature, we are linked with the past and committed to the future," it is said in the 16-page "Judgment of Nature" reference booklet, which presents thoughts for consideration not only during Soil Stewardship week, but throughout the year. Nature is defined in the publication as the continuing system of life created by God.

"Nature is neither fixed nor static; it is a continuing process and inherently dynamic . . . it rewards care and constructive attention, even as it penalizes negligence and deliberate damage," the booklet states.

"The loss of some three million acres of productive agricultural land each year through urbanization and other uses, the decline in productivity of the topsoil as the result of destructive erosion, and continuing pollution of the nation's waters is serious cause for everyone's concern," the sponsors believe. Participation in soil stewardship week activities offers an opportunity to reflect on the nation's natural resource problems and consider actions to resolve them or reduce their impact.

National association of conservation districts has sponsored Soil Stewardship week in the United States since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts. Informative material on the soil stewardship week theme each year is distributed through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, civic and educational organizations and to individuals interested in participating in the celebration. More than 6.6 million pieces of literature were distributed last year.

Information and materials for the 1980 celebration of soil stewardship week can be obtained from the Pennington soil and water conservation district at 681-3348.

4H CLUB

City View 4-H

City View 4-H club was called to order by president Nanci Kezar April 14 in the city auditorium. Flag pledges were said and roll call was taken by giving a favorite "fool." Secretary's and treasurer's report were given. There was no old business. In new business, Stacey Kjellberg was welcomed as a new member. A potluck supper and softball game will be conducted by the City View 4-H club at East Side beginning at 2 p.m. in honor of 4-H Sunday May 4.

Banner ideas are due by May 1 and should be given to either Nanci Kezar or to one of the leaders. 4-H plays were conducted April 18 and the share-the-fun skits were presented April 21 at Lincoln high school.

Leaders council report: Anyone interested in the Hennepin county exchange should call the extension office and get applications in. Leaders are to call Deb or Howard at the extension office and set up a time for kitchen conferences.

There was a sheep shearing class April 21 and 22. A dog obedience class is being offered every Wednesday and runs for nine weeks at no charge. Junior leader conference will be conducted June 16-21. Applications must be in by May 23.

Club congratulated Cindi Solem, who won the region soil and water conservation speech contest and will now advance to state competition.

Demonstration was given by Lori Reierson on, "How to Make a Styrofoam Picture." Happy Birthday was sung to Diane Ayers and Kirk Hamre.

The play cast put on its play for the 4-H club, and the meeting was adjourned.

Vigstol Will Take Part In Foreign Visit

Maribeth Vigstol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Vigstol of Plummer, is among 320 students and faculty who will be participating in the May seminars abroad program of Concordia college. The group will leave Moorhead May 6 by bus to Winnipeg, flying from there non-stop to London. They will return to Winnipeg June 10.

Vigstol will participate in the seminar entitled "Scandinavian Immigration: Beyond Yesterday's Memories", which examines the conditions that encourages millions of Scandinavians to leave their homeland and go to other countries, particularly to the United States. The 20-member group will visit Stavanger and Oslo in Norway, Stockholm and Uppsala in Sweden, and Copenhagen and Lolland in Denmark, in addition to other cities. Leading the seminar is Dr. Verlyn Anderson, coordinator of Scandinavian studies and head librarian at Concordia.

Each May seminar participant is required to attend a pre-seminar course during the second semester to obtain background on the topic of study. Academic credit is given for both the seminar and pre-seminar course as part of the first summer school session.

Even though they knew he was coming, some of the students couldn't suppress giggles and glances at classmates to confirm that, yes, a genuine Iranian had just walked into their sixth-grade classroom.

Masoud Kazemzadeh, a 19-year-old Iranian student of economics, wrote his name in Persian and English on the blackboard. "Okay," he said, "ask me anything you like. The shah, the hostages, anything. Don't be ashamed."

People from other countries, much less Iranians, are not a common sight around Hills and Beaver Creek, towns of fewer than 600 residents in the extreme southwest corner of Minnesota. But this month, a University of Minnesota program brought the towns seven foreign students for a three-day visit.

The idea behind the traveling program is that foreign students can teach American kids about other countries. Sponsored by the international student adviser's office, the workshop is also traveling to Crookston, Rochester and the Twin Cities during April and May.

Masoud walked among the desks, waving his hands as he spoke. "Six months ago I was afraid to talk about Iran — afraid that I would be arrested by SAVAK agents and my parents put in danger. I hate the shah. I want the shah to be brought to Iran for trial, but I oppose the takeover of the embassy. It is against the religion of Islam and against humanity. I hope the crisis is resolved as soon as possible."

He tried to explain why some Iranians are militant, a story he feels the American press hasn't told. "Americans thought the shah was a nice guy because he sold them oil," Masoud said. "They did not hear that there were 100,000 political prisoners in Iran, most of them being tortured to death. Letters were censored, phones were tapped. There was one doctor for every 3,000 Iranians and one SAVAK agent for every 450. More money was spent for torture instruments than for medical care."

He said Iranians so feared the shah they felt his entry into the United States was a plot to return the shah to power — the way the CIA brought the shah back when he was kicked out of Iran in 1953.

Masoud paused to call on Charles, who was frantically waving his hand in the air. Glancing at notes he had jotted on a piece of paper, Charles asked: "What about justice in Iran? I mean they chop people's hands off after mock trials. They don't seem to hold much of a trial at all and then they chop their hands off. Do you approve of that?"

"I am not a follower of Khomeini," Masoud said, "but I support him as a leader. I never heard of anyone in Iran getting his hands chopped off. The shah executed people for their beliefs, not because they were criminals. Khomeini executed generals who ordered massacres of Iranian people."

Masoud responded to several more intense questions from Charles, asked with the sincerity only an intelligent 11-year-old can must. Then the discussion turned to lighter topics. Masoud taught the kids a two-handed Iranian finger snap that sounds like a firecracker, and demonstrated how Iranians use the finger snap while dancing to Iranian pop music on a cassette player.

Then there was a classic exchange that showed an essential similarity among cultures. "What's dating like in Iran?" he was asked. Masoud scratched his head. "Guys take note," he laughed. He scratched his head again. "My gosh, I dunno! Okay, say you ask a girl if she'd like to see a movie. If she says she doesn't like movies it means she doesn't like you." he shrugged. "Give up." The class broke up.

In other classrooms, Jorge Dergam from Uruguay taught kindergarteners how to say buenos dias, and they taught him what a C.B. and a disc (a contraption for tilling the soil) are. Silvia Wilke of West Germany asked a class of first graders to guess where she is from. One boy suggested South Dakota.

After coaching soccer on the playground, Masoud was coaxed to eat lunch with his players, his second lunch of the day. At the high school cafeteria, the hotdish had cooled on his plate while he kept busy signing autographs for students.

"When the guys at the dorm heard I was coming here, they said, 'Masoud, they're going to shoot you!' I was shocked when I got here. I was not expecting this much hospitality. It's the first time in my life people ask me to sign my name," Masoud laughed.

The hospitality continued after the school day. The foreign students stayed with area residents. Ashar Hamid of Pakistan sat down to a meal of swiss steak, mashed potatoes, green beans and strawberry pie at Cletus Nuffer's farmhouse.

"I had watched American T.V. shows, and when I came here I thought I knew the United States," Ashar said. "When I got here it was so different! America is not 'Ironside' or Newsweek. The biggest mistake of Pakistan and the United States is failing to develop people-to-people friendships. You can't really understand a country without that kind of contact."

Over dessert, Cletus said, "I hear you're quite a dancer." Ashar attempted to deny it, but Cletus pulled out an ad from the Hills Crescent announcing a show by the foreign students featuring Ashar and Silvia Wilke in a Pakistani dance.

The next night, the dance was a hit. Although some of the steps were a bit tentative, it was entertainment enough to witness two people in Pakistani garb whirling on the stage of the Hills gymnasium. Vera Alves of Brazil demonstrated the samba, saying, "It's a good thing to learn the samba. If any time in your life you go to Brazil, what are you going to do?" Accompanying himself on an electric guitar, Hubert Temba of Tanzania sang African melodies. The show ended with an impromptu belly dance by Vera and Masoud while Wadad Alsuwayeh of Kuwait pounded out Middle Eastern dance music on a piano.

Jenny was observing. She's in eighth grade, and says that she's had about 18 boyfriends. "All the girls are saying, 'Have you seen that guy from Iran? Geez, he's so cute!" Jenny shook her head with a certain amount of condescension for those less worldly than herself. Then she asked for her picture to be taken with Jorge.

Ernest Morben Commander Of District VFW

Ernest Morben of Thief River Falls was elected commander of the Ninth District Veterans of Foreign Wars at the annual Loyalty day convention held at Detroit Lakes last weekend. Election and installation were held on Sunday with Morben to take office on June 21.

Appointed to the commander's staff were Roger Nyland of Thief River Falls as adjutant and Paul Halverson of local Post 2793 as Loyalty day and parade chairman. Post 2793 of Thief River Falls will host the annual Loyalty day convention in 1981.

Loyalty day parade was held Saturday afternoon at Detroit Lakes with about 20 units participating. Business meetings were held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 to 5 p.m. Sunday with Commander Harold McCullom of Mahnomen presiding at post sessions and president Grace Sandes of Frazee presiding at auxiliary sessions.

Representing the department at the convention were Department Commander Archie Pavek of Prior Lake and Department President Patricia Horack from Ogema. Memorial services were held Sunday at 10:30 a.m., followed by a noon banquet. Speaking at the banquet was Ann Hanson of Newfolden, district Voice of Democracy contest winner.

Attending from Thief River Falls were Commander Aaron Hook and wife Lois, auxiliary president Cathy Jorgenson and husband Roy, senior vice commander Ray Olson and wife Ardith, junior vice commander Earl Efteland and wife Eunice, Harold and Katie Anderson, Ernest Morben and wife Lorraine, Roger Nyland and Paul Halverson.

Small Cities Seminar At Detroit Lakes

Congressman Arlan Stangeland will be the keynote speaker during the small cities seminar, sponsored by the American Association of Small Cities May 7 in Detroit Lakes.

The seminar, to be held at the Holiday Inn, will feature representatives of various federal agencies. Included are the departments of labor and energy, economic development administration, federal emergency management administration and the farmer's home administration.

Congressman Stangeland is currently in his second term in the U.S. House or Representatives, and is a member of the House government operations committee and the House public works and transportation committee.

The AASC is sponsoring the seminar for the benefit of small communities in this area to assist local officials in obtaining a stronger voice in the federal government and getting a fair shake through Congressional legislation.

"We represent small cities at the national level, working with legislation, to cut back red tape with agencies to meet the capabilities of the smaller city", says Mayor Helen Shaw, AASC founder.

Local officials and community leaders in the 7th Congressional district are invited to participate in the seminar entitled "Small Cities: 1980". Registration will begin at 8 a.m. For further details, you may contact the AASC Service Center Manager, Rich Carr, at 206 Hood Street, LaCrosse, WI 54601, or call (608) 784,9260.

4th-5th Grade Band To Play

Fourth and fifth grade band will present its spring concert Tuesday (May 6) in the Franklin middle school gymnasium. A complete list of students and their selections will be included in Monday's edition of the Times.

Aim Institute At Improving Writing Skill

A five-week summer institute aimed at improving the skills of writing teachers is scheduled in Fargo June 9 through July 10, part of the Prairie writing project's third year of reaching out to regional elementary and high school teachers.

Sponsored by the Tri-College university (a consortium of Moorhead state university, North Dakota State and Concordia college), the project is one of 75 in the country trying to help teachers shore up the declining writing skills of students.

Summer institute will run from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays on the NDSU campus. It will also include one or two evening sessions during each of the five weeks of classes.

Keith Tandy, an assistant professor of English at Moorhead State and director of the Prairie writing project, says the intent of the program is to bring together successful writing teachers and let them exchange their best techniques.

"Much of what we do in the project boils down to giving teachers the opportunity to share their own successes," Tandy said. "We've found that the best teachers of teachers are successful teachers. Besides that, we present them with the latest and best of writing research and then we require them to write themselves. The best writing teacher is a teacher who writes."

Research indicates, Tandy said, that the ability to write clearly is closely related to the ability to think clearly. Writing also plays a central part in learning, he said. "Students seem to remember more information if they have to write about it. That's why we feel that this project is an essential part of improving education in the region."

During the project's past two years, over 35 regional writing teachers have completed the summer institute.

Tandy says the project tries to recruit a select group of teachers who are willing to go back to their schools after completing the summer institute and share their knowledge with other teachers through in-service workshops.

Stipends may be available for teachers enrolling in the summer institute. Eight graduate credits in English will be offered through the program.

Prairie writing project is patterned on one begun six years ago at the University of California, Berkeley. The Berkeley project was so successful that it was awarded grants of over a half million dollars for each of the past four years. Tandy said that verbal test scores shot up 50 points among students affected by the Berkeley project, four times the increases achieved by other students.

Since then over 75 similar projects have sprung up across the country.

Prairie writing project will also offer four-five-day writing workshops this summer for teachers at regional colleges and universities. They're scheduled May 27-31 (for business teachers), June 2-6 (for education teachers), July 14-18 (for social science teachers) and July 21-25 (for humanities teachers). Because writing is central to all learning, Tandy said, these faculty workshops are aimed at all teachers, not just English teachers.

A limited number of stipends may be available for these workshops, too.

In the past two years, over 120 faculty members — mostly from Fargo and Moorhead schools — have completed one of the week-long faculty workshops.

Tandy said that the Prairie writing project has joined six others across the country — all modeled on the Berkley project and with their own faculty programs — in an effort to exchange fresh ideas and evaluate each other's successes and downfalls. Those other programs are at George Mason university in Fairfax, VA; the University of Montana; the University of Nebraska; Michigan Technological university; the Associated Colleges of the Twin Cities; and the Tri-College system in Winona, MN.

Tandy and other representatives of these seven writing projects will present one of the 11 scheduled full-day workshops at the National conference of teachers of English in Cincinnati this fall.

For more information about the summer institute of college faculty workshops, contact Tandy at the MSU English department, 236-2235.

State Requires Farm Vehicle Light System

Relatively good news about Minnesota's reduced traffic toll through the first three months of 1979 (107 compared to 139) could be reversed in a hurry unless motorists and farm vehicle operators pay close attention to safety matters.

Spring planting season has arrived earlier than last year. This means more potential hazards for a longer season.

Tractors and other self-propelled units are reminded that state law requires at least one white or amber light in the front and two red reflectors covering at least 15 square inches, in back.

Minnesota state patrol urges farmers to review this and other laws relating to lights and the slow moving vehicle emblems.

Roger Ledding, state patrol chief, said that in no case is a red light permissible in the front of a white light in back of a vehicle. Since Jan. 1, 1968, slow moving vehicle emblems have been required on all vehicles moving 25 miles per hour or less.

All farm vehicles are subject to traffic regulations and all motorists should be acutely aware of the farm vehicle and the rights of its drivers.

Details of the law are spelled out in a pamphlet available from the Department of Public Safety Information office, 318 Transportation Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Urge Everyone To Be Counted In US Census

Anyone not yet counted in the 1980 census of population and housing has one last chance to answer the rollcall, according to census district manager, Carole Wilson. The population count in this area is virtually complete, but the census bureau wants to make sure no resident has been overlooked.

If there are any who believe they or their families have been left out, they should notify the Bemidji district office immediately by means of the "Were You Counted?" form which the Times is running as a public service in this issue. The address is 1705 W. Hwy. 2, Bemidji, MN 56601, or call 751-3244.

"Each of us has a substantial stake in seeing that the census is complete," the manager said. "If some of the people in this district are missed, all of us in the district could be under-represented, not only in Congress and state legislature, but in county and city governments and in such close-to-home elective bodies as the local school board.

"What's more, we could be short-changed in the division of money for things like crime prevention, garbage collection, health care, road maintenance, job training, welfare and a host of similar services, Wilson said. "With budget-cutting the order of the day, it's important to make sure this money is allotted equitably. If you know of anyone who hasn't been tallied, urge them to count themselves in now."

The manager stressed that information given in the census is strictly confidential, and can not be used to embarrass or harm any individual, family or household.

Views On ® Dental Health

By Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

SETTING THE FACTS STRAIGHT

It is not a "fact of life" that several or all of the permanent teeth have to be lost as we grow older. Except for accidents or malformations, teeth are lost as a consequence of decay or periodontal (gum and bone) disease — conditions which can be prevented or arrested by timely and proper care. The primary cause of loss of teeth is neglect!

A toothache that "goes away by itself" does not mean that the tooth has recovered from whatever affected it. Pain is a warning signal that something is wrong and that no time should be lost in consulting a dentist.

Fillings do not weaken teeth! The truth is that unfilled cavities weaken teeth, and if neglected lead to loss of a tooth which timely filling could have completely prevented.

Drinking lots of milk does not prevent tooth decay. Milk is the richest dietary source of calcium, needed for teeth and bone-building, and an excellent food. But milk cannot arrest the process of tooth decay or prevent its inception.

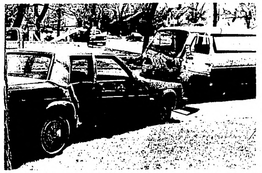
SENIOR CLASS MEMBERS at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls elected a number of classmates for special awards presented at the annual senior banquet Monday evening in the school cafeteria. Among the winners (left to right) are Tony Loeffler and Marlene Kasprick. best laugh and giggle; Dennis Krause and Kathy Paulson, tomorrow's Einstein and Curie; Kyle Anderson and Roberta Engel, most polite; John Dillon and Jody Swanson, best physique and bod; Brian Ranum and Cheri Hunt, best wiggle; Dan Thorstad and Kathy Melvie, best dancers; Tom Bjorkman and Nanci Kezar, best all-around; Bill Jury and Patty Langlie, most athletic.



MINOR INJURIES were sustained by three people and these two vehicles were considered total losses in a collision at the intersection of Arnold avenue and Sixth street at 11:21 a.m. Tuesday. The car was driven north on Arnold avenue by George Paulson, 81, Thief River Falls and went through the stop sign at Sixth street. It was struck on the right side by a van owned by Richard Smith, route 3, Thief River Falls, and driven by Kenneth Matthew, 21, route 1, Goodridge. The van was traveling west on Sixth street. Impact caused the Paulson car to spin 180 degrees and come to rest against a tree on the lawn at 603 Arnold av. N. Paulson, Matthew and Smith, a passenger in the van, were all taken to Northwestern hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

May 4-9 Is Designated Clean Air Week

Air pollution — does it effect you? Probably, says the Minnesota Lund-Christmas Seal association, a sponsor of Clean Air Week, May 4-10.

Although many Minnesotans live in areas free from the pollution of industrialized large urban areas, they still may be exposed to dirty air every day — indoor air pollution. Gas appliances, tobacco smoke, wood burning stoves and many building materials are the primary sources of indoor air pollution.

Studies indicate that most people spend 75 per cent of their time indoors (at home or work), and therefore dirty indoor air may be a more intensive threat to healthy lungs.

Foul air breaks down the lungs' defenses, making them more susceptible to acute respiratory diseases (asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis). Air pollution particularly hurts those already suffering with respiratory diseases or heart ailments.

Higher incidences of acute lung diseases in children and impaired breathing are considered a result of air pollution, especially exposure to tobacco smoke in their homes.

Work related air pollution can be hazardous to health. Fire fighting, welding and auto repairing expose workers to dirty air. Grain elevator operators and farmers are exposed to fumes, vapors and dust. Minnesota Lung association suggests protective measures for people in these occupations.

For information on air pollution or specific occupations and air hazards, write: Minnesota Lung Association, 614 Portland Av., St. Paul 55102. Clean air is a matter of life and breath.

Taxpayer May Amend Return After Filing

If a taxpayer decides to change something on a federal income tax return after it has been filed, a corrected return can be filed on a Form 1040X, the internal revenue service says.

A return can be amended using the 1040X any time during the three years following the due date (including extensions) of the original return, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later.

The 1040X and other filing information is available by calling the IRS toll-free number found in the white pages of your directory.

SCIENCE FAIR award winner at the annual northern Minnesota regional science fair held recently at Bemidji state university was Sheri Swanson of Goodridge high school. She received a red ribbon for her project on "Trails of Movement", and also was awarded the national aeronautics and space administration certificate of recognition and an honorable mention from Eastman Kodak. Seven students from the Goodridge school participated in the science fair, including Leah Dahlen, Robert Johnson, Lisa Kriel, Robert Paulson, Patrick Troska and Donny Wayne in addition to Sheri Swanson. Johnson and Paulson also received red ribbons.

Groundbreaking At Crookston Slated May 6

Area legislators, state and University of Minnesota officials, outstanding present and former athletes and representatives of educational institutions, business and industry will be among groundbreakers Tues., May 6, at ceremonies marking the initial phase of construction activity on the University of Minnesota — Crookston physical education complex. The groundbreaking program will be held outdoors on the campus mall, weather permitting. Ceremonies are set to begin at 4:30 that afternoon at a site near the present physical education building, Knutson Hall.

Work on a new physical education building began earlier this spring. That facility, together with additional outdoor playing fields for intramural as well as intercollegiate athletics, is being built at a cost of approximately $3.4 million. When completed, the new fieldhouse at Crookston will accommodate in excess of 3,500 spectators for various sports events. The gym and adjoining facilities will measure about 40,000 square feet and will be open for community use at times when intramural or intercollegiate events are not scheduled.

Bids are now being taken for various stages in the development of the outdoor areas for practice and competition. College officials anticipate that earth moving for the outdoor phase of the complex will commence within the next month to six weeks.

Athletic Director Marv Bachmeier, acting on behalf of the Crookston faculty and administration, has announced that anyone interested in the project is welcome to attend the groundbreaking ceremonies. It is expected that the public event will last approximately one hour.

Presiding over the ceremonies in the absence of Provost S.D. Sahlstrom will be Dr. Michael Smith, chairman of the school's division of general education. Following welcoming remarks by Smith, Bachmeier will trace the background of the project, for which an appropriation was first sought from the state legislature ten years ago. AMong others who will be called upon for brief comments are Senator Roger D. Moe (DFL-Ada), Representative Tony E. Stadum (I-R—Ada) and Herschel H. Lysaker, former Crookston athletic director and coach.

Open House At Nursing School In Fargo, N.D.

Spring open house for all high school students and other interested persons is being held on Wednesday, May 7, at St. Luke's hospital school of nursing in Fargo, N.D. There will be three sessions: 10 a.m. to 12 noon, 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The school will provide information on types of nursing programs (LPN, AD, diploma, and baccalaureate), financial aids, St. Luke's hospitals, St. Luke's hospital school or nursing, and our advanced standing program for LPN's.

LPN's who are interested in advancing their careers and becoming RN's are especially invited to attend the open house for information about the advanced standing program.

House To Hold Hearings On Agriculture

House agriculture committee began holding hearings Tuesday on the serious income crisis facing farmers all over the country, Congressman Arlan Stangeland has announced.

"Congress and the administration have made some moves to deal with the economic problems facing the farmer — low farm income, inflated costs and tight high priced credit. For example, the Federal Reserve board recently moved to offer farmers money at its discount rate to any tank that will lend it to farmers. In the long run, these loans could cost the farmers as much as 17 per cent but, without this federal action, the rates for farmers would have gone well over 20 per cent. This was helpful, but the total of what has been done so far is not enough. Further action by Congress is a necessity," Stangeland said.

The hearings, according to agriculture committee chairman Thomas Foley, will include consideration of steps taken by the administration and Congress to offset the impact of the suspension of further grain sales to the Soveits last January in response to the invasion of Afghanistan. The sessions will also take into account the way farmers have been affected by major economic factors which are not directly embargo-linked.

"Chairman Foley's decision to hold agriculture committee hearings on the economic problems of the farmer is long overdue. I have been meeting with groups of farmers in the Seventh district for the last several months and one of their main complaints was the apparent lack of action by Congress to improve the farm economy. As a farmer, I am concerned about the future of the agriculture industry and I will be testifying before the agriculture committee to voice my concerns and those of Seventh district farmers," Stangeland said.

New Director Of Nurses At St. John's

Mrs. William (Jan) Muldoon has accepted a position as director of nurses at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls beginning May 1. Former Director of Nurses, Gail Bergland of Thief River Falls, resigned from this position as of May 2.

Mrs. Muldoon graduated from Sisters of St. Josephs school of nurses of North Dakota at Grand Forks, N.D. in 1964. While attending school she worked at the nursing home at Mountain, N.D. She has been a staff nurse at Red Lake Falls for 1977 and 1978.

Sibling Rivalry Is Topic At Parenting Meet

Another parenting resource session will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. at Washington elementary library with the topic on sibling rivalry — brothers and sisters fighting. Henrietta Ness will lead the discussion. A $1 fee is charged.

Some of the topics discussed will be what parents can do to diminish fighting in a family, what useful purposes does some bickering accomplish, what is a child's need and how can the parent respond to that need effectively, and what is the real reason behind every child's fight.

Pre-register by contacting adult education, Thief River Falls AVTI, phone 681-5424. Drop-ins are welcome too.

2 TRF Piano Students In State Contest

Advancing to the state contest of the Free Church youth fellowship piano competition following participation in the district contest this past weekend are Rick Trontvet and Renelle Twistol of Thief River Falls. State competition will be conducted at Bethel college in Minneapolis May 29.

Rick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Trontvet, received the highest score in the senior high division (10th — 12th grade) for his piano solo at the district contest conducted April 26 in Thief River Falls. He performed "A Might Fortress Is Our God," arranged by Tedd Smith.

Renelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Twistol, received the highest score in the junior high division (7th — 9th grade) for her piano solo "Hallelujah Chorus," arranged by George F. Handel.

Both Rick and Renelle are piano students of Marcia Knuttila. Renelle, a freshman at Lincoln high school, has taken lessons for seven years, while Rick, a sophomore at Lincoln high school, has taken lessons for six years.

That was an athletic rarity Monday when Thief River Falls edged Moorhead 1-0 in a high school baseball game played on the fairgrounds diamond here. It was only the Prowlers' second baseball win over the Spuds in ten tries since they first met in 1968.

Thief River Falls won that first meeting 2-1 when lefthander Dennis Ptacek tossed a four-hitter at the Spuds. The Prowlers finished 14-6 that spring, reaching the Region 8 championship game where they lost to Bemidji 4-0.

Moorhead beat Thief River Falls eight straight times before Monday's surprise result. The Spuds crushed the Prowlers 18-1 and 9-0 in 1969 and took a 1970 doubleheader 4-3 and 18-8. The series was then dropped until 1976 when Moorhead won 4-0. The Spuds added a 10-9 victory in 1977, won 10-2 in 1978 and triumphed 3-0 a year ago.

Thief River Falls' win has to open some eyes around the area. The perennially strong Spuds opened the year 5-0 and were stamped as the favorite in North Half Region 8AA.

But Moorhead coach Jim Hurley scoffed at the idea his team was No. 1. "No way. Anybody can go with us this year. Any one of the seven teams can win it this year," said Hurley.

Like Thief River Falls, Moorhead isn't strong offensively. Monday's 1-0 score shows both teams lack offensive punch.

"We're not exactly rattling the ball around the park," offered Hurley. "Our pitching has held up for us," he noted, even though Chad Sheets, the top pitcher in the area, passed up his senior year with the Spuds to play in this week's all-star basketball game. Athletes participating in the all-star game are ineligible to play spring sports under Minnesota State High School League rules.

Thief River Falls proved Moorhead can be beaten. The Prowlers will find out how they stack up against other North Half Region 8AA foes next week when they host Crookston Tuesday and entertain Bemidji Thurs., May 8, before finishing the week with a doubleheader at Fergus Falls Fri., May 9. Bemidji beat the Prowlers 4-1 last Friday, just three days after losing to Moorhead 10-4. A strong showing next week could get the Prowlers a very favorable seed for the 1980 North Half Region 8AA tournament, scheduled to be played May 20-22 at Detroit Lakes.

TRF Track Is Not Converted To Metrics

Fans who have been following high school track this spring have noticed the conversion to the metric system for the high school meets, making the mile run the 1600-meter run, the two-mile the 3200-meters, etc.

However, for athletes, coaches, officials and spectators at Thursday's scheduled Thief River Falls Quentin Jones invitational track meet, running distances will remain in yards — the 100, 220, 440-yard dashes, etc.

That's because of the prohibitive cost figure for converting Thief River Falls' track from yards to meters. The Minnesota State High School League requires an experienced engineer to be on hand to make the conversion, an expensive job that Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith figures would cost School District 564 upwards of $10,000 by the time new curves and such were added.

And with the tight school budget facing additional cuts, that type of project isn't in the works here.

Miscellaneous

+ Northwest Division leader Brainerd, scheduled to be in Thief River Falls to play Northland Saturday in a 12 noon community college baseball doubleheader, swept Vermilion 15-14 and 15-7 in a recent MJCAA twinbill. The losing Ironmen banged out 19 base hits in the opener, but four Vermilion pitchers issued 27 walks in the three-hour game. "It was unreal," said Vermilion coach Bob Altuvilla. "I've never seen anything like it. Twenty-seven walks; that's unbelieveable." The second game was understandably shortened because of darkness.

+ Mount St. Benedict hockey standout Matt Baab, the target of college hockey recruiters from across the country this year, announced that he will attend Yale University next fall.

+ Warren high school senior Kim Brekke, a 1,000-point scorer during her high school basketball career, announced she will attend North Dakota State University next fall.

+ Former Lincoln high school athletic standout Sheldon Joppru will be playing Saturday when the University of North Dakota football team stages its third annual alumni game to complete its spring drills. The game will be played at 2 p.m. in UND's Memorial Stadium in Grand Forks. Joppru, an all-state football and basketball player with the Prowlers, was an All-North Central Conference wide receiver with the Sioux as a senior in 1972.

+ University of North Dakota will host the 50th annual North Central Conference men's tennis championships this weekend in the Grand Forks Racquetball and Tennis Centre. Freshman Bill Michalek of Thief River Falls will be competing for the Sioux at No. 5 singles, where he's 11-4 for the year, and at No. 3 doubles, where he's 12-3 with partner Terry Wynne, a junior from Grand Forks.

+ Northwest Athletic Conference high school baseball race featured a surprise Tuesday when Crookston opened its NWAC schedule with a 10-0 five-inning drubbing of Bemidji. The Lumberjacks' 4-1 win over Thief River Falls last week began league play. Bemidji will serve as another NWAC opening opponent Thursday when the Lumberjacks host Fergus Falls.

Ulrich Pitches Four-Hitter, Beats Spuds 1-0

Jeff Ulrich pitched a four-hit shutout Monday and drove in the game's only run to lead Thief River Falls to a surprising 1-0 high school baseball victory over Moorhead, the preseason favorite in North Half Region 8AA this spring.

Ulrich, a senior righthander with more experience in the infield than on the mound, surrendered just one base hit over the final six innings after the Spuds collected three singles in the top of the first — without scoring, obviously. He walked five and struck out five.

"I thought Ulrich pitched a fine ball game," said Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell, "and I thought we played super in the field; we played really heads up ball."

The game's only run was scored in the second inning when freshman designated hitter Jim Hallamek connected on a solid shot to left field that faded away from Moorhead outfielder Dan Hartel and rolled to the fence for a lead-off double. Kelly Gutterud walked and Ulrich hit a sharp single through the left side of the infield to score Hallamek. Moorhead pitcher Mitch Volk avoided further damage by striking out the next three batters.

That was the Prowlers' only run, but not their only scoring opportunity. Tom Drury and Mark Harder also led off innings with doubles and three Thief River Falls base runners reached third base. Harder was an easy out at the plate when Ulrich failed to get his bat on the ball on a suicide squeeze in the sixth.

Moorhead, too, had chances to score, especially in the first inning when Jim Laske, Bob Thom and Jeff Miller collected three straight singles. But Ulrich picked Laske off first base and Thom was cut down at home when he tried to score from first base on Miller's two-out opposite field single on the left field line.

Two inning-opening walks set Moorhead up with another scoring opportunity in the second, but a short-to-second-to-first double play by Kelly Gutterud, Jeff Mongoven and Greg Harder took the Spuds out of the inning.

Ulrich toughened over the middle innings before running into a two-out seventh inning jam. Two walks and the Prowlers' only error of the afternoon — an errant throw to first by third baseman Mark Harder — loaded the bases. But a fly ball to centerfielder Paul Drees ended the threat, the inning and the game.

Thief River Falls, now 4-1, will host Red Lake Falls Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The Prowlers will compete in a four-team tournament at Moorhead Saturday, facing Grand Rapids in a 10:30 a.m. first round game, with the Spuds playing Minot, N.D. in the other semifinal.

MOORHEAD RUNNER Jim Laske was an easy out when he was picked off first base by Thief River Falls pitcher Jeff Ulrich in the top of the first inning of Monday's high school baseball game played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds baseball diamond. Laske singled with one out in the first, but was caught leaning the wrong way and Thief River Falls first baseman Greg Harder was waiting on the bag with the ball after taking the throw from Ulrich. The Prowlers upset the Spuds 1-0.

TRF Named Winner Of 1979-80 Region 8AA Sportsmanship Award

Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith announced this week that Thief River Falls has been awarded the 1980 Region 8AA Sportsmanship Award.

Selection of Thief River Falls as winner of the Minnesota State High School League-sponsored award for the second straight year was made at a Region 8AA committee meeting last Wednesday at Detroit Lakes. But news of the contest winner did not read Smith, the local project coordinator, until Monday with the 1980 plaque arrived from Dave Harris of Alexandria, Region 8AA committee executive secretary-treasurer.

"We're just tickled pink to win the award again this year," smiled Smith. "We worked awfully hard to get it. We had a lot of help from the community — the newspaper, radio, civic organizations and the mayor. Everybody in the community worked darn hard to get the award. I don't think there has even been a more total community commitment to a project."

The 1979-80 school year marked the second season of the MSHSL Sportsmanship Award contest, a project intended to promote a school community good sportsmanship program.

Board of directors of the MSHSL provide Sportsmanship Awards on a Class A district and Class AA region level, and present special Sportsmanship Awards for schools participating in the state volleyball, basketball and hockey tournaments.

Fundamentals of sportsmanship for players, coaches, faculty, cheerleaders, students and adult fans, as outlined by the MSHSL, include showing respect for the opponent at all times; showing respect for the officials; knowing, understanding and appreciating the rules of the contest; maintaining self control at all times; and recognizing and appreciating skill in performance, regardless of affiliation.

It was announced earlier that Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes, St. Cloud Apollo and Cold Spring-Rocori were finalists for the 1980 Region 8AA Sportsmanship Award. Rest of the region members eligible to compete for the award are Alexandria, Melrose, St. Cloud Tech, Brainerd, Little Falls, Sauk Rapids, Fergus Falls, Moorhead, Park Rapids, Bemidji, Crookston and East Grand Forks.

Lincoln Softball Team Opens Its First Season

Interscholastic softball competition for Lincoln high school girls began Saturday when the Prowlers initiated the sport by absorbing a 13-1, 17-1 doubleheader defeat at Alexandria.

The Cardinals, who have been at it for a while, broke open a 1-1 first game tie with eight runs in the third inning. They made quick work of the nightcap, scoring seven times in the bottom of the first inning. Both games were shortened on the 10-run rule.

"I think the kids were a little psyched out when they stepped on the field," admitted Sharon Stauss, who is coaching the first-year Prowlers. She isn't discouraged, though.

"These kids have made so much progress since day one, it's unbelieveable," mentions Stauss. "I just hope the program goes and kids come out."

Sharon Stauss

Kron is the pitcher in a sport where pitching is the name of the game. Lynette Huot is the catcher, "our strongest position," according to Stauss.

"We've got a real strong infield," the coach explained, "but our outfield is young and inexperienced."

The trip to Alexandria represented half of the Prowlers' 1980 schedule, severely limited by lack of competition in the area.

"The limited schedule does present problems," acknowledged Stauss, but the extra practice time isn't necessarily bad.

Thief River Falls' only other regular season trip will be a Sat., May 10, appearance at a four-team tournament at Wadena against the Indians, Glenwood and Menaga. Wadena is the defending Class A state champion.

The Prowlers will be eligible to compete in the 1980 Region 8AA softball tournament at St. Cloud May 21 and 23.

Thursday Track Meet . . .

Quentin Jones Field Completed

Tenth annual Quentin Jones invitational high school track meet will be held Thursday on the Thief River Falls track, beginning with the field events at 4 p.m. Running events will start at 4:30.

A strong East Grand Forks squad headlines the ten-team event, named in honor of long time Thief River Falls coach Quentin Jones. Rest of the field will include Roseau, Crookston, Warroad, Red Lake Falls, Karlstad, Stephen, Marshall County Central, Warren and Thief River Falls.

"East Grand Forks has got to be the favorite," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann, the meet manager. "They're loaded with sprinters and field event people."

"Warren," added McGann, "Could have some good individuals, too."

Thief River Falls' youthful squad, whose top point producers are sophomores and freshmen, will not figure in the title picture, but McGann urges spectators to take in the event, one of only two home meet appearances of the year for the Prowlers.

"We've got some exciting young people that are fun to watch," noted McGann. "They've been turning in some real good times for their ages."

The meet, open free of charge to the public, is scheduled to be completed with the mile relay at 7:45 p.m.

Warren, based on its 1978 title, is the meet's defending champion. The 1979 Quentin Jones invitational was canceled because of poor weather and poor condition of the track — twice.

SENIOR RIGHTHANDER Jeff Ulrich pitched a four-hit shutout Monday to lead Thief River Falls to a surprising 1-0 high school baseball victory over Moorhead Monday in a Region 8AA game played on the fairgrounds diamond here. Ulrich limited the Spuds to four hits, striking out five and walking five, as the Prowlers improved their season record to 4-1. They'll host Red Lake Falls Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

Prowlers Over Pirates . . .

Tennis Team 5-0 Winner

Lincoln high school tennis line-up, juggled because of the absence of No. 1 singles player Bill Jury, was still too powerful for Crookston to handle Monday as the Prowlers drilled the Pirates 5-0 in dual meet action on the Lincoln and Northland community college courts.

Jury missed the match because of a thumb injury suffered in Saturday's eight-team tournament at Hibbing. That moved Mitch Rustad and Paul Koppang up a notch in the singles charts and brought Bill Holmes from No. 2 doubles into third singles. All three won in straight sets.

Mark Lundin worked with Dale Nelson for the first time at No. 2 doubles, while Tom Bjorkman and Mark Collins stayed together at No. 1 doubles. The both bounced back from first set losses for relatively easy wins.

Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson was not pleased with the play of Bjorkman and Collins. "After the first set they played as well as I've seen them play all year. They really took over," praised Olson after watching his two seniors take care of Jeff Melsa and Dan Hoff 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

"The Others all played well, too," said Olson about the rest of the Thief River Falls line-up.

Northmen Sweep Twinbill From Bottineau 8-7, 8-4

A four-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning Monday lifted the Northland community college baseball team to a come-from-behind 8-7 victory over Bottineau in the first game of a nonconference doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

The Northmen completed a twinbill sweep by taking the second game 8-4, improving their season record to 6-4.

Northland returns to Minnesota junior college athletic association action Saturday when the Northmen host Brainerd in a Northwest Division doubleheader that starts at 12 noon on the Northland diamond.

Northland 8
Bottineau 7

Trailing 7-4 going into the bottom of the seventh inning of the opener, Northland scored four times without the benefit of a base hit to pull out an unlikely 8-7 victory.

Bottineau pitchers Darrel Tengesdahl and Eric Kelsh did the Northmen a favor by walking seven batters in the seventh inning. Tengesdahl walked the first three — Lonnie Serfling, Dan Parent and Marcus Woods — to load the bases; Kelsh walked the next three — Morice Hendricks, Bob Benson and Tony Smith — to tie the game; and a passed ball scored the game winner. All that happened without a batter being retired.

Northland trailed 3-1 until the fourth when the Northmen sent nine men to the plate and scored three times with two out. A two-run bases-loaded single by Smith was the big blow in the inning.

Bottineau tied it with a run in the fifth, then went ahead 7-4 with a three-run sixth that included a ground-rule RBI double by Brad Tengesdahl, a run-producing sacrifice bunt by Harvey Schultz and an RBI single by Rob Olson.

Northland 8
Bottineau 4

A four-run fourth inning carried Northland from a 4-3 deficit to an 8-4 second game triumph.

Morice Hendricks got the Northmen going in the fourth with a one-out triple into the left-center field gap. He scored on a single by Lonnie Serfling. Joe Kraska later added a two-run single and scored himself on a double by Scott Chapman.

Serfling added an RBI single in the fifth to close out the scoring.

Bottineau started with a two-run first inning home run over the center field fence by Rob Olson.

An RBI single by Jim McCue put Northland in the books in the second inning, with the two teams matching third inning runs. Bottineau scored on back-to-back doubles by Brad Tengesdahl and Harvey Schultz while Northland scored when Tony Smith singled, stole second and third and came home on a balk, and Dan Parent beat out an infield hit that drove in a run.

Fitzgerald, Prowlers Win Invitational Golf Titles

After back-to-back third place finishes at Crookston and Alexandria last week to open the 1980 season, the Lincoln high school golf team broke into the win column Tuesday with a two-shot victory over Fosston in the Bagley-Fosston invitational.

Thief River Falls won the 17-team affair with a 323, followed by Fosston 325, Ada 331, Bemidji 332, Roseau 334, Walker 345, Bagley 351, Moorhead 355, Fosston JV 362, Erskine 364, Warren 389, McIntosh-Winger 393, Halstad 398, Bagley JV 417, Blackduck 423, Cass Lake 424 and Fertile-Beltrami 442.

The Prowlers' Bob Fitzgerald was meet medalist with a 75. Rest of the Thief River Falls' four meet-counting scores included Jon Onkka 80, Jim Geatz 83 and either Dave Geatz or Tony Loeffler — both coming in at 85. Wade Hoppe finished with a 90.

Tuesday's field wasn't as strong as the Prowlers faced at Crookston or Alexandria, but the Prowlers, said their coach Jack Boyer, are notoriously slow starters anyway.

"We always start slow," admitted Boyer. "We get stronger as the year goes along. We don't put much emphasis on the meets anyway. We try to point to the region."

Thief River Falls' veteran cast make the Prowlers a Region 8AA contender this spring.

"We're very optimistic," acknowledged Boyer. "But it looks like a real battle. There are a lot of good teams around this year: Fergus Falls has a good team, Moorhead is strong, Brainerd will be all right and St. Cloud Tech has an excellent team. We're pretty much of a darkhouse."

The Prowlers have proven top-notch golfers in Fitzgerald, Hoppe, Loeffler, Dave Geatz and Tim Imgrund, all seniors, and they're joined by younger members like Onkka, Jim Geatz, Mike Anderson and Jeff Imgrund.

"If they counted the top six scores I'd win the region every year," mused Boyer. "I have some good golfers. At Crookston (a wind-blown affair) I had the only team without somebody in the 100's. I have kids who can shoot consistently in the low 80's, but I don't have anybody in the 70's."

They aren't going to count six scores at the 1980 Region 8AA golf meet at Fergus Falls May 21, but they have expanded the team score from three to four golfers.

Alexandria took their own invitational tournament Friday with a 304, followed by Perham 312, Thief River Falls 326, Detroit Lakes 330, Melrose 332, Little Falls 333, Moorhead 340, Alexandria JV 345, Bemidji 353, Park Rapids 356, Mahnomen 360, Bagley 370 and Osakis 374.

Pat Herzog of Alexandria was meet medalist with a 72, followed by Bob Cavanaugh of Perham at 74 and Fitzgerald at 76.

Hoppe with an 82, Anderson 84 and Dave Geatz 84 rounded out the Prowlers' four-man score. Jeff Imgrund shot an 86 and Tim Imgrund had an 89.

Thief River Falls will golf at Park Rapids Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Lincoln Track Team Runs At Roseau, EGF

Lincoln high school track team ran Monday and Tuesday in back-to-back meets at Roseau and East Grand Forks.

The host Green Wave won Tuesday's meet with 87 points, followed by Roseau 74, Thief River Falls 67, Fisher 12½ and Climax 12½.

"It was a good meet for us," noted Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann. "A lot of kids got a lot of points for us."

Pacing the youthful Prowlers was sophomore Steve Hvidsten who won the 110 high hurdles in 17.34 and took the 300 intermediate hurdles in 44.4.

Other Thief River Falls winners at East Grand Forks were Bruce Johnson, 4:42.6 in the mile; Kevin Grochow, 55.3 in the 440; and Keith Grochow, 5-8 in the high jump.

At Roseau Tuesday, East Grand Forks finished with 188 points, Roseau 68½, Crookston 62, Warroad 52, Thief River Falls 41, Karlstad 37, Red Lake Falls 31, Stephen 20½, Marshall County Central 3 and Hallock 0.

Thief River Falls' top place finish was a first place tie in the high jump by sophomore Keith Grochow with a jump of 5-10.

Baseball JV Splits Against Spuds, Rams

Beaten 7-0 by Moorhead Monday, the Lincoln high school junior varsity high school baseball team bounced back Tuesday to out-score Roseau 16-11 on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

Thief River Falls, 2-2, will take part in a four-team junior varsity tournament at Moorhead Saturday beginning at 10:30 a.m. against Moorhead, Grand Rapids and Minot, N.D.

Jim Heckroth Is All-State Trap Shooter

Jim Heckroth of Newfolden, who competes in the Thief River Falls trap league, was named earlier this month as the men's captain on the 1980 Minnesota all-state trap shooting team.

Board of directors of the Minnesota trap shooting association selected the prestigious all-state teams which included top ranking shooters in six categories: Men, women, juniors, sub-juniors, veterans and industry representative.

Heckroth owns and operates the Marshallton gun club, site of the Thief River Falls trap league competition. Marshallton traps will be open tonight (Wednesday) for practice rounds, and league shooters may bank scores tonight for the 1980 league competition, scheduled to get underway Monday.

Johnson, NCC Capture Golf Titles Monday At Moorhead

Led by meet medalist Gary Johnson, the Northland community college golf team came out a winner Monday in a quadrangular meet hosted by the Moorhead State University junior varsity at Oxbow Country Club in Fargo.

Counting the three low scores, the Northmen finished with a 245, followed by the Moorhead State junior varsity 247, North Dakota State University junior varsity 288 and Fergus Falls community college 291.

Johnson a freshman from Mahnomen, shot rounds of 42-35 for a 77 over the par 71 course.

Jeff Reese shot an 80 for the Northmen on rounds of 41-39 and Charlie Boyer had an 88 on rounds of 49-39.

Northland will participate in an invitational meet at Fergus Falls Thursday beginning at 10 a.m.

THIEF RIVER FALLS catcher Jim Nyland tagged out Moorhead runner Bob Thom at the plate in the first inning of Monday's high school baseball game played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond. Thom tried to score from first base on a two-out single by teammate Jeff Miller, but was cut down on a relay throw from shortstop Kelly Gutterud who threw to Nyland after leftfielder Dave Odegaard ran down Miller's opposite field base hit on the foul line. The Spuds collected three base hits in the first inning but failed to score and wound up losing a 1-0 decision to the Prowlers.

Jury Beats Odegaard 6-2, 6-2 . . .

TRF Takes Triangular

Bill Jury shook off the effects of a thumb injury and returned to the Lincoln high school tennis line-up Tuesday to post an impressive 6-2, 6-2 victory over Andy Odegaard of Roseau in the Prowlers' home court triangular victory over the Rams and Detroit Lakes.

Jury suffered a badly cut thumb in a tumble during Saturday's eight-team tournament at Hibbing and missed Thief River Falls' 5-0 dual meet victory over Crookston Monday. And he played only against Odegaard yesterday. But it was enough to impress Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson.

"Bill really played well," mentioned Olson, who said his No. 1 singles player has been slowed by a cold recently. "That the best I've seen him play in some time. He really went after it."

Odegaard is tanked No. 10 in the state Class individual rankings. Jury is No. 2 in th Class AA.

Thief River Falls finished the afternoon with 9 points, followed by Roseau with 4 and Detroit Lakes 2. It was the Prowlers's fifth triangular victory of the year and their tenth win in ten outings — duals, triangulars and invitationals — this spring.

Northwest Athletic Conference meet awaits the Prowlers Thursday at Fergus Falls beginning at 9 a.m. The Prowlers will compete in an eight-team tournament Saturday at St. Cloud. The 10 a.m. event will feature many of the teams Thief River Falls faced in winning back-to-back tournament titles at Stillwater and Hibbing last week — Hibbing, Stillwater, Virginia, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Techn and Anoka, along with St. Cloud Cathedral.

Park Rapids, Nancy Harris Top Golfers

Nancy Harris was meet medalist with an 86 and Park Rapids was team titlist with a 394 Monday in the Moorhead invitational girls high school golf meet.

Staples and Fosston shared second place, just two shots behind Park Rapids at 396, followed by Roseau 405, Perham 410, Barnesville 417, Moorhead and Crookston 424, Pelican Rapids 429, Fergus Falls 454, Detroit Lakes 479, East Grand Forks 487 and Thief River Falls 502.

It was the 1980 season opener for the Prowlers who will be at Fosston Thursday before hosting their annual Thief River Falls invitational Monday at 10 a.m. on the Thief River Country Club course. It'll be the only home appearance of the spring for the Prowlers, coached by Sylvia Sjoberg.

Anette Haugestul of Fosston was runner-up to Harris at Moorhead with an 88 and Pam Boldenow of Fergus Falls was third in the medal chase with a 90.

For Thief River Falls, Kathy Walker shot a 101, Tammy Bergan 128, Sue Gere 133 and Patty Meyer 140.

Rod Carew, Cesar Tovar, Larry Hisle, Lyman Bostock and Mike Cubbage are the only Minnesota Twins baseball players to hit for the cycle — hitting a single, double, triple and home run in one game.

TOM BJORKMAN looked on as Thief River Falls teammate Mark Collins stretched to return a shot Monday against Crookston in a high school tennis match played on the Northland community college courts. Bjorkman and Collins defeated the Pirates' Jeff Melsa and Dan Hoff 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 at No. 1 doubles. Their play after the first set loss, said Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson, was the highlight of the Prowlers' 5-0 victory.

Lincoln Girls To Host Meet Friday

One of only two home meet appearance of the 1980 season awaits the Lincoln high school girls track team Friday when the Prowlers will host Red Lake Falls in a 4 p.m. dual meet on the Thief River Falls track.

Annual Thief River Falls invitational will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Thief River Falls ran at Detroit Lakes Monday where the Lakers came out a winner with 62 points, followed by Bemidji 58, East Grand Forks 42½, Crookston 35½ and Thief River Falls 19.

Sophomore Patti Blackstad, with a 34.0 in the 200-meter hurdles, was the only winner for the shorthanded Prowlers who had no relay teams and no entries in the long jump or 200-meter dash because of injuries or other commitments. They were shut out in nine events.

In freshman competition, Detroit Lakes finished with 72½ points, Crookston 54, East Grand Forks 43½ and Thief River Falls 34.

Eight of the nine Thief River Falls girls entered in the freshmen meet collected points, including firsts by Kristy Peterson, 4-2 in the high jump; Sheila Bailey, 2:52.7 in the 800-meters; and the 1600-meter relay team of Wanda Sylvester, Peterson, Shari Nelson and Yvette Loehr in 4:53.3.

Youth Baseball Registration Is Set Saturday

Registration will take place Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Franklin middle school for youngsters interested in participating in the Thief River Falls summer baseball program.

All players ages 7-12 planning to play baseball this summer are asked to register for the program Saturday. Most 13-15-year-olds have already been placed on Babe Ruth or prep league teams, but those players in that age group not already registered may do so Saturday.

Thief River Falls' summer baseball program includes the 7-8-year-olds; 9-10-year-old Minor League West Division; 10-12-year-old Minor League East Division; 10-12-year-old Major League; 13-year-old Prep League; and 14-15-year-old Babe Ruth League.

For additional information contact Ron Novak, program director, at 681-3959.

Former City Resident Wins Marthon Title

Cindy Koubsky, the former Cindy Schoonhoven and a 1972 Lincoln high school graduate, was a recent marathon winner in Maryland, covering the 26-mile St. Mary county marathon in 3:13.13 to win the women's 20-29-year-old age group title.

Now a resident of Patuxent River, Md. where her husband, Dr. Robert Koubsky, is a dental officer in the U. S. Navy, Cindy was the only competitor in her class to finish the race.

She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schoonhoven of Thief River Falls.

OPEN HOUSE

MAY 4, 1980 — 1:00-5:00 P.M.

SHOW A NEW AND A REMODELED HOME

The New Home located at Little John Court is a 2600 square foot house with a wood foundation and an attached garage. The first floor consists of an open space which includes kitchen, dining, and living areas. Also included are two bedrooms, a bath, and utility room.

The second floor presents two bedrooms, a full bath; and hall that overlooks the lower area. The house is heated by natural gas supplemented by a wood burning parlor stove. The crawl space acts as a plenum and directs heat through the house. The roof has been designed for the use of solar collectors.

Sealed bids will be received for the house and lot by School District 564 at the Office of the Superintendent of Schools until 3:00 P.M. on June 3, 1980. Bidding forms are available at the Open House or at the Office of the Superintendent of Schools.

A BIGGER WORLD

There comes a time, even in a chick's life, when the way must open to a greatly expanded world. When his confining shell no longer allows proper growth, he makes a point of throwing off his shackles and steps out into a big, strange world.

This comparatively simple phenomenon is paralleled in human existence as each child grows toward adulthood, and reaches out for the wider horizon. What he finds there will depend in great part on what he has been taught.

For this reason the early and continued guidance of Christian home and church are all-important. From these things the foundation of faith is built. Through faith and understanding the shackles of fear and bondage are dispelled, and your child grows spiritually strong to meet the ever-widening horizons and challenges of a modern world.

cancer answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

If You Are A DES-Exposed Daughter — What Should You Do?

The Synthetic estrogen hormone called diethylstilbestrol or DES, when given to mothers during pregnancy, has been associated with changes in the vagina or cervix of their daughters.

If it is likely that a girl has been exposed before birth to DES-type drugs, she or her parents should try to document the exposure.

You have a right to complete information about medication taken during pregnancy from the attending physician or the hospital where the delivery took place. Find out when the medication began, the dosage, and the length of time it was taken.

In many cases, however, it may be impossible to determine whether DES-type drugs were prescribed. Whether or not documentation is possible, any girl who may have been exposed should be examined by a physician without delay, if her menstrual periods have begun.

In the rare cases of DES-related cancer that do occur, there may be no symptoms, and therefore promptness in having an examination is important. Such an examination is not necessary for girls under 14 who have not yet begun to menstruate, unless vaginal bleeding or discharge occurs.

The physician should perform a pelvic examination, take a Pap smear, and use an iodine solution to stain temporarily the lining of the vagina and cervix. A magnifying instrument called a colposcope occasionally may be used for the initial examination and for followup of DES-exposed daughters. The colposcope does not enter the vagina. The physician should explain the findings to the young woman, or to the mother or father if the girl is a minor.

Treatment for DES-related noncancerous conditions generally will not be necessary. If a physician suggests treatment, get a second opinion from a gynecologist familiar with the changes in DES-exposed daughters.

The doctor will recommend followup examinations at regular intervals. Even though a vast majority of DES-exposed women will be found to be free of cancer, followup is important to ensure early detection if cancer should develop.

DES-exposed daughters may have miscarriages and still-births somewhat more frequently than women not exposed to DES before birth. Many DES-exposed daughters have given birth to full-term, live babies. If you become pregnant, your physician may recommend more frequent examination than usual as your pregnancy progresses.

The lack of information on the long-term effects of estrogens requires caution in the use of oral contraceptives and other estrogens. Indications against their use, and various warnings and precautions including adverse reactions, must be listed in a package insert by the manufacturer.

Ask your physician to discuss with you possible hazards of this form of contraception. As other patients, DES-exposed daughters should be followed closely by their doctors if they choose oral contraceptives. Other standard means of contraception can be used.

Postcoital contraception with estrogens ("the morning-after pill," consisting of a large amount of DES twice daily for five days) should be used by a DES-exposed woman only after she has been fully informed about possible hazards, and if she and her physician judge that no alternative is acceptable. Use of DES as a morning-after pill is approved by the FDA only in emergency situations of rape or incest.

DES or DES-type drugs should not be used to dry up milk in breasts of new mothers who do not breast feed their infants.

For further information write to DES, National Cancer Institute, Office of Cancer Communications, NIH-SH, Bethesda, MD 20205.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My mother is being treated for breast cancer. She had surgery and now she is starting on chemotherapy. I've read that there are many different combinations of treatment being used against breast cancer. How does a doctor decide which type of treatment to use for each patient?

Ella

Dear Ella:

The doctor decides which treatment to use for each individual breast cancer patient by considering a number of factors. These include:

— the patient's medical history

— her general health

— whether or not menopause has occurred

— the type of cancer she has — the location of the tumor

— whether the cancer has spread to lymph nodes, skin, muscles or other organs.

The doctor knows from his or her own experience and from the experience of other doctors treating breast cancer, how each of these factors can affect the course of the disease. The type or types of treatment most likely to control the patient's disease can then be selected on the basis of these considerations.

DES-Exposed Mothers and Sons — The Problem

If you have been exposed to DES or a DES-type drug — while pregnant — or before you were born, you should be aware of possible effects on your health.

Since 1940, several million women have been treated with synthetic female hormones (estrogens) for complications of pregnancy. If it is likely that a physician may have prescribed a hormone for you or your mother during pregnancy, such as DIETHYLSTILBESTROL (di-ethyl-stil-bes-trol, sometimes called STILBESTROL or DES), you should try to get the facts.

You have a right to complete information about medication taken during pregnancy from the attending physician or the hospital where the delivery took place. Find out when the medication began, the dosage and the length of time it was taken.

If you are the mother who may have received DES, or a DES-type drug, you should inform your son or daughter about his or her possible exposure before birth. It should be recorded as part of the medical history of the son or daughter to help physicians evaluate any DES-associated conditions now and in the future.

Mothers, sons, and daughters exposed to DES or similar drugs during pregnancy or before birth should be examined by a physician who will check for any noncancerous changes, and for any indication of cancer — a very unlikely development.

Recent studies supported by NIH's National Institute of Child Health and Human Development have raised serious concern about the cancer-causing potential of DES in women who took the drug during pregnancy.

More cases of cancers of the breast, cervix, endometrium (lining of the uterus) and ovary were observed in the DES-exposed women then were observed in a comparable group of mothers who had not been exposed to DES. However, the numbers of cancers reported are not considered by some scientists to be significantly higher than those reported in unexposed women. Further study of these exposed mothers is underway.

Studies have determined that certain reproductive and urinary tract changes may occur more frequently in DES-exposed sons than in sons not exposed before birth to DES-type drugs. Whether such abnormalities affect the fertility of DES-exposed sons is under study. Increased cancer risk has not been identified in DES sons.

Research is continuing in order to establish or disprove higher risks of cancer in women who took DES in pregnancy, and to learn more about long-term effects of DES exposure before birth on daughters and sons.

EASY, UNUSUAL CHINESE MEAL FOR TWO

You table-for-twoers try something new and interesting from one of the world's oldest cultures. In addition to inventing pasta, Oriental cooks have always known how to conserve fuel by cooking foods quickly. This dish cooks in just minutes and makes liberal use of vegetables and minimal use of shrimp or chicken.

An off-the-shelf canned ravioli in rich tomato sauce that the Chinese would be proud of is the base for this dish. Here's a substantial, unusual main course for two people, that's easy to prepare as well as economical.

FAR EAST RAVIOLI

1 cup chopped raw chicken or shrimp
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup sliced celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 package (10 oz. size) frozen Chinese pea pods
1 cup bean sprouts, drained
1 jar (2 1/2 oz. size) sliced mushrooms
Dash soy sauce
Dash ginger
1 can (7 1/2 oz. size) Chef Boy-ar-dee® Mini Ravioli
2 tablespoons toasted almonds (optional)

Saute chicken, onion and celery quickly in butter in a medium size (8") skillet. Add remaining ingredients, except almonds. Cover; cook for 5 to 7 minutes. Garnish with almonds. Serves two.

NUMEDAL . . .

Numedal homemakers club met Thursday afternoon at the Effie Pederson home. Roll call was taken. Arlene Molskness reported on a recent council meeting and a discussion on upcoming events were held. The lesson on physical fitness was led by Florence Knutson. The May meeting is scheduled to be held at the Ella Swenson home. This will be the annual exchange of flower bulbs and seeds and also garden seeds. Congratulations, Seniors!

Adults who think that teenage wardrobes of today consist entirely of blue jeans and shirts should have been at the Lincoln high school senior banquet Monday evening. The array of color and style in the suits and formals there was almost breathtaking.

Carefully groomed hair, niftily applied make-up, polished oxfords and spike heels bore testimony to the fact that here was a group of boys and girls in transformation to young men and women. The transition is not an easy one — it never has been easy — but the young people appeared to be handling it in stride and ready to meet the challenges outside the confines of high school life.

It was great to look around the Lincoln cafeteria and recognize the many students who we have come to know over the past several years through their participation in school activities. Talent abounds among them — in music, athletics, art, scholarship, technical areas, drama . . . you name it.

Principal Frank Hamerlinck made the point that the class has the highest average scholastic standing of graduating classes in the past 10 years. We feel it is significant that the announcement of academic standing was greeted with cheers and applause. Recognition of the value of scholarship is a worthy attribute of the 1980 graduates.

We would like to thank the seniors for the opportunity to share their banquet and awards program with them. Moreover, we would like to thank them for sharing, through the years, their talents and abilities with us, the Thief River Falls area public. We have appreciated your efforts in athletics, drama and music in particular, for they are the most visible public events.

Along with our wish for continued success in post high school life goes the request that members of the Class of 1980 become active, concerned and positive citizens of whatever community they choose as their homes. The nation needs people of their caliber and it would be a tragic waste if the abilities possessed by these young folks were suppressed rather than developed.

Congratulations, seniors, on your past and present accomplishments. Sincere best wishes for attainment of your future goals.

Trust Is Imperative

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Shoddy as they are, the Watergate conspirators may finally be alerting Americans to the fact that no agency of the federal government can be permitted to maneuver freely and secretly behind national and international scenes.

G. Gordon Liddy, the latest character from the Watergate cast to write a book, cooly informed columnist Jack Anderson last week that he would have killed the writer if the White House had approved and that it would have been "justifiable homicide." Liddy is obviously looking for publicity for his book, but there is little question that the man sought the destruction of Anderson.

Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, another White House colleague, agreed that they had discussed with a retired CIA doctor the possibility of drugging Anderson with LSD to make his behavior in public attract attention. The doctor said LSD was too unpredictable, and they reluctantly discarded the idea.

And now Spiro Agnew, the ex-vice-president who hastily left office under a barrage of charges, says that he feared for his life. Oddly enough, he's written a book, too.

Stansfield Turner, the present director who has given some creditability to the CIA, revealed an un-suspected lack of sensitivity when he informed the American Society of Newspaper Editors that he reserves the right to enlist journalists in secret missions. That brought a strong response from editors who decry the practice of recruiting journalists for CIA work. A convention of ministers reacted favorably to Turner's declaration that he felt he had the right to ask clergymen to work secretly for the CIA.

An editorial in the New York Times makes the point well:

American reporters cannot long function abroad if forced to operate under a cloud of suspicion. They need to be what they represent themselves to be: independent seekers of information which they communicate to the public. They may be suspected of national, political or personal bias, but they should never be plausibly suspected of also being C.I.A operatives. For Admiral Turner to contend that some journalists are fair game for his pressing work is to suggest that any and all may be. That is a burden the press cannot bear.

Clergymen must operate on a platform of trust, too. They can not afford to be entrapped in the machinations of the CIA at any level.

If Turner's thinking is this fuzzy on such an important point, it raises questions about the modifications in oversight he is seeking in the CIA's charter. President Carter has expressed support for the director and his proposals. He had better take a good look and reconsider or revise them.

Profits — A Nice Word

Following comments are from an article in the Otter Tail Power company "Hi-Lites" publication:

The next time you hear someone say the profit making system is bad, consider this: You use profits every day!

Profit is what's left over from the cost of doing business. It's the reason anyone starts a business.

But not all profits are paid to the investors. A lot of them go right back into the company to make more profits. When this happens, it creates more jobs, higher wages and more fringe benefits, such as better pension funds.

When a company doesn't make a profit, it doesn't grow. No new jobs. No higher wages. No increased fringe benefits.

When a company loses money, it goes out of business sooner or later. Everybody loses. The employer, the employee and the investor.

The profits that go to investors are payments for the risks they took by offering their money to the company. These profits are called dividends. When a company goes broke (many do each year), the investor loses the dividends and the capital invested.

More jobs, higher wages and fringe benefits are not the only ways you gain from profits. The interest you get from your savings account is a profit. So are the dividends from your life insurance policy. When you retire, you will be living on the profits from your pension fund.

You can use your profits to make more profits by adding to your savings or buying stocks and bonds.

You can even use profits for recreation, a new color TV, a night on the town, or just plain fun.

In a system where everyone can share in the profits, profit making is good.

So the next time you hear someone complain about the profit making system — set 'em straight.

Bite Gets Bigger

Following editorial is from the Henning Advocate:

This week finds a great number of citizens walking around with a stunned expression, a glazed look in the eye, or outrage and pain in their demeanor. This is, of course, a result of the passing of Income Tax Day, April 15.

We have been promised tax reform, tax cuts, tax relief in various ways . . . but each year the bite gets bigger.

On the one hand our legislators express great concern for the overburdened taxpayer and on the other hand we hear that they are searching for more new sources of tax revenue. But no matter where those sources are, the ultimate payer is going to be the average American citizen, and that means you.

The taxes may be well-disguised, but in the final analysis, you, the average taxpayer are the one who gets hit.

We have new windfall taxes on oil companies — but you are the one who will pay. The cry is to increase taxes on corporations and big business — but you will pay. There is a call for a value-added tax, but that still means that you will pay.

We have had a liberal element in government which has created so many, misbegotten, mismanaged and wasteful programs that no one can even count them. These representatives are being told in no uncertain terms that the American taxpayer is fed up, has finally reached the saturation point, and will no longer stand for bloated budgets and out of control bureaucracies. But they still don't seem to be getting the message.

They are getting nowhere in cutting the size and shape of the government and saving tax dollars. They're still looking for "new sources of revenue" and that still means "you".

Borrowed Nonsense:

"I really don't want an awful lot of money," the young executive confided. "In fact, the wife and I would be happy if we could afford to live the way we are living now."

Crustless Mushroom Quiche For Brunch

The availability of fresh mushrooms year round now makes it possible to do all sorts of marvelous things with them: broil them for breakfast, stuff them in pita for lunch, serve them sauced with pasta for supper, slice them raw for snacks or salads. This Crustless Mushroom Quiche is an elegant and unusual dish for brunches or light suppers. It's put together in a half-hour and baked while your guests are lingering over conversation and chilled fruit juice. Broiled tomatoes and bacon would be ideal complements.

CRUSTLESS MUSHROOM QUICHE

3 cups milk, scalded
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
2 slices stale bread, cubed
8 ounces fresh mushrooms
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 eggs, beaten
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Preheat oven to 325F. In a medium bowl combine milk, 1 tablespoon of the butter and bread cubes; set aside for 10 minutes. Rinse, pat dry and slice mushrooms (makes about 3 cups). In a large skillet melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Add onion; saute until tender, about 3 minutes. Add mushrooms; continue to saute for 5 minutes; let cool. Add eggs, salt and black pepper to cooled mushroom and onion mixture; mix well. Pour into a greased 1-quart baking pan or quiche pan. Set pan in a larger pan containing hot water. Bake, uncovered, until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Serve for brunch with bacon and broiled tomatoes, if desired. Yield: 4 to 6 portions.

Listening To Seventh District Concerns

During the Easter recess I had the pleasure of listening to and helping many of you — the residents of the Seventh District of Minnesota. Your concerns are real and the problems you expressed with our Federal government are complex. I appreciate your willingness to take time to personally meet with me and explain how our lives are being affected by the Federal government.

I am very concerned with the state of our economy and have acted to improve this growing problem. Apparently my views are in line with the views of Seventh District residents because dissatisfaction with the economy was the number one topic of discussion.

People told me they are fed up with skyrocketing inflation and the inability of President Carter and Congress to reduce inflation. Constituents told me they want a fiscally responsible Congress that is more willing to hold down government spending, remove unnecessary expenditures, balance the budget and reduce the tremendous national debt. Furthermore, many people said they are tired of the Carter Administration and bureaucratic economists blaming them for high inflation when the true cause is the economic inefficiency practiced by government big spenders who have no regard for the taxpayer. The fact is the private sector is being called upon to sacrifice for the sins of the Federal government's overspending.

Farmers and small businessmen expressed their displeasure with the Carter Administration and its new economic policy of fighting inflation by raising interest rates. This action has increased the prime interest rate to near 20 per cent while allowing the rate of inflation to rise at an alarming, uncontrollable rate and is devastating capital intensive businesses. The farmer, auto dealer, construction worker and the Main Street merchant are slowly being strangled. They are dependent on credit for buying seed to plant crops, feed for livestock, machinery and operating costs, goods to stock the shelves and operating supplies, and funds to pay employees' salaries.

Agriculture is the mainstay of the economy in the Seventh District. We are dependent on the ability of the farmer and the agriculture industry to produce and earn a profit and when our farm economy is healthy, the general economy is healthy. But high interest rates and runaway inflation are forcing farmers out of business, and the cost of borrowing, which is a fact of life for the farmer, is so high they cannot afford to farm.

Ultimately, the farmer is not able to buy goods and services provided by local merchants and, as a result, many of them are being forced out of business. Jobs are being threatened because the small businesses are unable to show a profit and the only way they can reduce expenditures is to lay off employees.

I favor reducing government spending and balancing the Federal budget because I believe these elements are the key factors to curing runaway inflation. Thus far I have introduced two bills requiring a balanced budget and have voted numerous times against bills which would add to inflation. I have also introduced legislation to reduce the rate of interest allowed on loans in hopes of bringing the cost of borrowing back to reasonable levels. These measures should help return our economic position to one of stability and I will continue to work in Congress for their passage.

I have never favored the President's inflation fighting policy. It places the burden on the private sector and not on the Federal goverment where the problem originates. Judging from the questionnaires returned and discussions with constituents, most Seventh District residents are unhappy with the President's economic decisions and support my proposals. Let's work together to bring this grave problem to an end.

Looking Backward

1940 — 40 YEARS AGO

Glen C. Anderson, 42, of this city was killed when the car he was driving left highway 59 on a curve southeast of Thief River Falls and crashed into the end of a culvert. — The 180-foot Smiley bridge over the Red Lake river was completely destroyed when battered by ice during the spring break-up April 19. — Roy M. Barzen is president of the newly organized Barzen Mercantile Co. of Thief River Falls. — A.C. Jahr is erecting a new one-story building on East Second st.

1950 — 30 YEARS AGO

Roland Erickson was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Thief River Falls, succeeding Glenn Carlson, — Included in a group of Thief River Falls Boy Scouts who will attend the national jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. are Gene Bratsch, David Thompson, Duane Lawrence, Jim Winjum, Bruce Williamson, David Fast, Jack Haugen and Dick Bjorkman. — Annual Red Cross drive in Pennington county netted $3,053, well over its quota. — Dave Norton, manager of KTRF radio since December, resigned. — J.M. Roche, acting postmaster here, received orders calling for only one delivery of mail each day instead of two. — More than six inches of snow fell here April 24-25, delaying field work.

1960 — 20 YEARS AGO

Stan (Sandy) Wilson, Jr. of Thief River Falls has been named to the Sports Afield magazine All-American junior trapshooting squad, according to Jimmy Robinson, the magazine trap shooting editor. — Clean-up week is being noted in Thief River Falls May 2-7. — Marv (Whitey) Helling, head football coach at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, will be the guest speaker at the tenth annual Lincoln high school letterman banquet. — Four inches of snow blanketed the area April 25. — Over 3,000 high school musicians will converge in Thief River Falls for the annual state area music festival.

1970 — 10 YEARS AGO

Area delegates to Boys State for the 1970 session include Leslie Iverson and Grant Lillevold (alternate) of Goodridge and Dave Cameron and Roger Lee (alternate) of Thief River Falls. — Twelve medals and badges, among them the Bronze Star for Valor, were presented posthumously to Specialist Four Robert J. Swendenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Swendenburg, who died as a result of wounds received in action in Vietnam on Dec. 9, 1969. — Joe Loeffler was selected commander of the newly formed World War I VFW Barracks 3520 of Thief River Falls. — Assuming his duties April 15 as Pennington county deputy sheriff was Jim Myrah, a former professional baseball player. — First appearance for the 70-member TRFinettes drum and bugle corps, successor to the Bridgeman's Bridgettes, was noted on the Loyalty Day parade for Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FREE FUEL
when you purchase a Koehn ROW CROP CULTIVATOR!

But Koehn says — "THAT'S NOT ENOUGH!"

In these times of high energy costs, Koehn wants to help more. So every farmer who buys a Koehn Row-Crop Cultivator this spring and settles up before June 1, 1980, will receive a rebate check equal to four gallons of fuel for each row of the unit you purchase (Example: 4 row unit x 4 gallons: 16 gallons)

So make your best deal. When you settle up we'll give you an Energy Saver postcard to send to Koehn. Koehn will send you a check within 4 weeks.

COMPARE
THE QUALITY, FUNCTIONAL DESIGN AND SENSIBLE PRICE OF A SNAPPER RIDER.

The rear engine SNAPPER rider gives you a smooth, even cut. Plus: immediate response steering for cutting in tight places; on-the-go adjustment of cutting height and speed; and a floating cutting unit which minimizes scalping and damage.

SNAPPER Hi-Vac™ models can vacuum cuttings, leaves and litter into an optional 6 or 30 bu. catcher; even during high moisture conditions.

Before you buy a rider, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER. You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more. And its price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Aphasia Results From Adult Stroke

Perhaps you know someone whose speech has been affected by a stroke or brain injury. The condition is called aphasia. It happens in about one-quarter of the two million adult strokes that occur annually in this country, according to Mary Beth Ferguson, speech and language pathologist at United hospitals, St. Paul.

Aphasia results from injury to the brain's language — dominant side, in most persons the left hemisphere. Recovery depends on the extent of injury. Some persons never learn to speak more than a few words; others recover almost completely. Right-sided weakness often accompanies the language loss.

"Language includes speech, comprehension of speech, reading, writing and the ability to do arthmetic," Ferguson explained. "However, aphasia does not result in impairment to a person's sensitivity, alertness or judgment."

Ferguson and United speech pathologist Anita Kozan founded the St. Paul Aphasia group which meets bi-weekly at United hospitals. The support group complements individual language treatment sessions by giving aphasia victims an opportunity to practice their skills in a protective setting where people aren't impatient with their comprehension difficulties of halting attempts to speak.

Most persons with aphasia have some trouble understanding what is said or what they read. One member of the support group likened his situation to confrontation with a foreign language. When reading, he could see the letters and their groups, but couldn't comprehend a word. As he improved, he could understand simple statements and questions, but still can't deal with complex sentences.

Ability to recall words is often the area of expression most severely impaired. Another group member remembered that after her stroke she couldn't name anything in her hospital room. She knew what the items were but couldn't say the words.

Another young aphasia victim, who suffered a stroke at age 29, speaks in complete sentences, but the sentences are meaningless to the listener. The sentences make sense to him, but he can't express himself with the right words. Only the clues from other people's faces tell him he isn't understood.

Some persons with aphasia cannot form words. They know exactly what they want to say but correct impulses from the brain are not received by the muscles used to articulate speech. Others are not able to spell or write even simple sentences. One former office worker who now attends the hospital support group is particularly disburbed by her inability to do simple arithmetic, a function she performed everyday before her stroke.

Treatment for the adult with aphasia involves more than speech re-training, Ferguson said. Onset of the affliction is primarily a medical problem, requiring prompt medical treatment. The problems are best met by a team approach consisting of a physician, physical and occupational therapists, counselors, speech pathologist and the family.

"It's important that families set their goals for recovery realistically," Ferguson said. "With proper treatment about 60 per cent of aphasia victims will recover enough to be functional in daily life, although only about 15 per cent will be able to return to their jobs. The other 40 per cent will make some progress toward maximizing their potential — a right every person, regardless of age, should have."

Families and friends of persons with aphasia should understand that the disturbance is an inability to express or understand the symbols of language, not a general intellectual deficit, Ferguson said. Communication limitations are mental torture and family members should remember not to demean or dehumanize the aphasia victim by talking about the person as if he or she weren't present.

"Persons with Aphasia need the self-confidence that comes from helping themselves," Ferguson added. "They need to do things for themselves as often as possible."

Speech should be encouraged but not demanded. "Exert every effort to understand what the person is saying. He may speak in nonsense syllables, say things you know to be wrong, or use obscene language," she said. "Such behavior is stroke-related and should not be interpreted as a result of ignorance, mental breakdown, stubbornness, meanness or vulgarity. All are typical results of aphasic persons' attempts at expression."

Families should also remember to speak slowly and use simple sentences. Often the patient will catch the beginning and ending of sentences but will miss what is said in between. Aphasia rarely brings with it any hearing loss, although this is a mistaken conclusion when the victim doesn't respond appropriately. Nor does shouting improve understanding, Ferguson said.

Persons with aphasia are extremely susceptible to emotionally-toned situations. They easily become anxious, frustrated or ecstatic. Their speech will deteriorate rapidly when there are too many visitors or when visitors express too much sympathy. It will also regress when family problems arise or if they are left alone and not exposed to good speech models.

Information about the St. Paul Aphasia group can be obtained by calling United hospitals speech and language pathology department, (612) 298-6288.

YOUR GARDEN

Two of the biggest problems facing the home gardener, both indoors and outdoors, are waterlogged and diseased soils. If either of these situations exist, it's virtually impossible to grow the kind of plants you'd like to grow.

Professional gardeners have found the answer to these problems and you can too! Many growers use a soilless growing mix consisting of equal parts of perlite and peat moss plus plant food.

Perlite will aerate the soil and keep your plants from becoming waterlogged while still retaining the proper amount of moisture for luxuriant growth. It's also sterile and free of weeds and disease.

Perlite is available under various brand names at nurseries, supermarkets, garden centers and hardware stores everywhere.

Mrs. Frank Armstrong attended a Presbyterian Women's meeting at Crookston Friday. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were among the many attending the 4-H plays which were held at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Frank Armstrong also visited at the Ervin Broten home at Viking on Friday.

Mrs. Edith Dyrdal was a Tuesday noon luncheon guest at the Don Dyrdal home.

Wednesday afternoon visitors at the Allen Gjerde home were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wakefield of Hartland, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Hugg, Eldred Ayers, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Furuseth all of Sanders, Mrs. Ernest Melvie Sr. and Darleen, Mrs. Ervin Melvie and Mrs. Ernest Melvie Jr., all of Viking, Mrs. Douglas Wahl of Greenbush and Mrs. Edith Dyrdal. The birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Hugg on Saturday and Mrs. Wahl on Sunday were observed, and two decorated birthday cakes highlighted the luncheon.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo accompanied Mrs. Marvin Olson of Rocksbury to Warren Tuesday where they picked up Mrs. Wallace Lamb and continued on to Grand Forks. There Michelle Lamb joined them for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong were among those attending the wedding Saturday of Marlys Steer and Craig Halfman at the St. Peter and Paul Catholic church at Warren.

We were sorry to hear that Brent Olson received a sprained neck during physical education at school Tuesday morning. He is presently spending a few days in traction at Northwestern hospital. Speedy recovery wishes, Brent. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Olson.

Wednesday evening coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dyrdal and Dick Hoglo of Thief River Falls.

Wayne Hannon, Todd and Troy of the Grand Forks air base were weekend guests at the Ervin Olson home.

Mrs. Lilas Klefstad and Norman Olson were Sunday afternoon coffee guests of Mrs. Eleanor Joyce.

Tricia Olson was among the girls attending the Girl Scout banquet at Redeemer church in Thief River Falls a week ago Monday evening. Tricia also spent the previous Saturday with her grandmother, Mrs. Glen Olson.

Lloyd Dyrdal of Thief River Falls and Don Dyrdal were Tuesday forenoon coffee guests of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal.

Mrs. Ervin Olson was a Wednesday afternoon visitor at the Don Lindeman home in Sanders.

40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jablinske of Sanders were honored on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary Saturday evening, April 19, at a supper at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, the Jim Stolps in Thief River Falls. Highlighting the supper was an anniversary cake, inscribed and decorated with ruby floral accents. Present were the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. James Stolp Sr. of Greenbush, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jablinske, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Olson, Tron, Brent and Tricia, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jablinske, Mr. and Mrs. Hazo Beito, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stolp and Lana.

Mrs. John Bugge of St. Hilaire was a Thursday evening visitor at the Ervin Olson home.

Congratulations to the City View 4-H club on winning the Share the Fun show held at the Lincoln auditorium Monday evening. The skit, which was narrated by Cindi Solem, was entitled "'Twas the Night Before the Fair", and contained an original composition by pianist Coreen Larson, "Decision of the Marchers". Lori Reierson was cast in the role of Mom; Steve Waswick as Dad; Jason Boughton as Mouse; Robin Bruggeman as Robin; the little pigs as follows: Denise Ayers as Dasher; Scott Beito as Dancer; Debbie Souto as Prancer; Karen Schmitz as Vixen; Jeff Hamness as Comet; Diane Ayers as Cupid; Nichole Boughton as Donner; and Stacey Vagle as Blitzen; also Jodi Femrite as Jodi; Kirby Hamre as Kirby; and Steve Erickson as Steve. The club will now advance to state competition.

Ideas For Spraying Equipment Given

As springtime advances, many Minnesota farmers are giving serious thought to their 1980 weed control plans. Faced with the prospect of ever-rising fuel and labor costs, one of the farmer's key concerns is insuring that his investment in weed control chemicals is fully optimized by making effective, efficient use of every dollar's worth of herbicide purchased.

According to one weed control specialist, there are three important factors which are often overlooked by Minnesota farmers as they rush to spray their fields in the spring: proper equipment maintenance, correct adjustment of application equipment, and use of proper mixing and agitation procedures.

"All too often, inconsistent weed control or crop injury is the byproduct of herbicide misapplication — too little or too much herbicide. This can result from improperly functioning equipment, improper adjustment or calibration of equipment, improper mixing of the chemicals, or insufficient agitation," explains Dr. Dave Duncan, product development representative who works with Minnesota farmers throughout the year in designing weed control programs.

Dr. Duncan has compiled a checklist of guidelines for farmers to follow during the spraying season. "One of the first things that should be done before spraying is to make certain the spray nozzle is matched to the carrier volume, pressure, field speed and type of application desired," he suggests. Manufacturer nozzle equipment books should be consulted for recommendations of proper nozzle assemblie: to use.

He also cites the importance of checking nozzle tips to be sure they are not worn. "Stainless steel, nylon and brass tips each wear with different degrees of speed and should be checked and replaced at regular intervals. When a nozzle tip gets worn, the orifice becomes larger and the spray rate increases accordingly," the weed specialist contends. A worn nozzle tip may also give a poor spray pattern resulting in nonuniformity of herbicide application, Dr. Duncan adds.

When replacing nozzle tips, farmers should be sure to take care in choosing the proper size and type of nozzle tip. Brass nozzle tips may cost less than nylon and stainless steel initially, but they wear out two to four times as quickly, he says. "Since nylon tips have about the same wear life as stainless steel, they offer a cost advantage," Dr. Duncan notes.

Recalibrating the sprayer can help correct misapplication due to nozzle tip wear, Dr. Duncan adds, but he cautions there is no substitute for a new nozzle tip. As pressure is changed to offset nozzle wear, spray patterns can change and the new distribution pattern may not be uniform and can cause weed control problems.

"A once-over for the spray tank is also in order to insure that it is clean and free of chemical residue, dirt and rust. Foreign particles can plug the nozzles and cause misapplication and streaking," he continues. "In addition, contaminants in the spray tank can cause poor mixing and result in unacceptable weed control. The cleaning of spray tanks, lines and booms between application of different herbicides is also vitally important since an unsafe chemical mix can damage crops."

The pump should also be examined closely at the start of every season to avoid possible breakdowns during spraying when timing is vital to successful weed control, he believes.

According to Dr. Duncan, the importance of achieving proper mixing and agitation in the tank cannot be overemphasized. The bypass agitation return, which directs herbicide flow from the pump back into the tank, is another part of the sprayer that deserves some scrutiny. If it is simply returning the chemical into the top of the tank, it may not be fostering a good chemical mix. Rather, it could produce foam by splashing and introducing air into the tank.

Growers should be certain to direct the bypass flow to the bottom of their tank as one step to insure adequate agitation and minimize foaming, he suggests. For wettable powder and flowable formulations, additional agitation capacity may be needed to keep the chemical thoroughly mixed. Growers should consider use of jet or mechanical agitation systems.

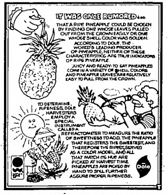
"If some chemical remains when spraying operations are suspended in the evening, the contents of the tank should be agitated thoroughly before spraying is resumed the following morning," the weed control specialist asserts. Whenever possible, growers should plan to have the contents of the spray tank emptied by day's end, he adds.

Growers should also take precautions against spray drift. "Proper spray pressure adjustments are essential to reducing chemical drift," he said. "Generally, when applying a preemergence herbicide such as Lasso, pressure should be kept at less than 40 psi to avoid spraying a fine mist containing many small particles that are susceptible to drift. This can result in reduced weed control efficiency as well as endangering neighboring crops." Always follow manufacturer's recommendations for spray pressures.

"Because potential for herbicide drift increases with higher pressure, higher nozzle heights and increasing wind speeds, we recommend that farmers maintain their nozzles no higher than necessary for adequate distribution of herbicides, use only recommended pressures according to nozzle types, and spray only during periods of low wind," Dr. Duncan continues. "Other alternatives for drift reduction include using low pressure nozzles, or flood-type nozzle tips."

Boom height, too, must be adjusted properly to give uniform distribution over the ground, the weed control specialist points out. "For flat fan-type tips with tapered end spray patterns, boom height should be adjusted to produce a two-inch overlap at the bottom of the spray pattern to give uniform spray coverage. This helps prevent streaking, which leaves some weeds uncontrolled, or overlapping, which can cause crop injury from excessive herbicide rates."

The final point Dr. Duncan stresses is perhaps the most important consideration: correct calibration. "The rate per acre, which can be modified according to individual requirements, is determined by three factors: the speed the rig travels, the spray nozzle utilized, and the spray pressure. Before applying any herbicide, farmers should check their calibration to be sure the spray volume is correct and they are utilizing the recommended rate of herbicide," he states.



IT WAS ONCE RUMORED...

THAT A RIPE PINEAPPLE COULD BE CHOSEN BY FINDING ONE WHOSE LEAVES PULLED OUT FROM THE CROWN EASILY OR ONE WHOSE SHELL COLOR WAS GOLDEN.

ACCORDING TO DOLE, THE WORLD'S LEADING PRODUCER OF PINEAPPLE, NEITHER OF THESE CHARACTERISTICS ARE TRUE INDICATORS OF RIPE PINEAPPLE.

JUICY AND READY-TO-EAT PINEAPPLES COME IN A VARIETY OF SHELL COLORS AND PINEAPPLE LEAVES ARE RELATIVELY EASY TO PULL FROM THE CROWN.

TO DETERMINE RIPENESS, DOLE HARVESTERS EMPLOY A SPECIAL INSTRUMENT CALLED A REFRACTOMETER TO MEASURE THE RATIO OF SWEETNESS TO ACID. THE PINEAPPLE THAT REGISTERS THE SWEETEST, AND THEREFORE THE RIPEST, SERVES AS A COLOR MODEL, AND ALL THAT MATCH ITS HUE ARE PICKED AT HARVEST TIME. PINEAPPLES ARE PICKED BY HAND TO STILL FURTHER ASSURE PROPER RIPENESS.

10 More YFU Students To Arrive In U.S.

Ten more Youth for Understanding (YFU) students will be arriving in the United States to attend schools next year, according to John Helley, area representative for YFU, an international student exchange program.

The list of students, which is an addition to the list of students included in the April 23 issue of the Times, includes the following, along with their ages upon arrival and their native countries.

Minna Salonen, 17, Pori, Finland; Wolfgang Schulze, 16, Langenhagen, Germany; Christiane Buhner, 16, Osnabueck, Germany; Sari Pelttari, 16, Kiviranta, Finland; Olavi Koskinen, 17, Pattijoki, Finland; Claudia Sisveking, 16, Hamburg, Germany; Udo Steffens, 17, Kuchlintein, Germany; Jorien, Kerstjens, 18, Joppe, Netherlands; Rosemaua Behimann, 16, Davelsen, Germany and Maree Koll, 17, Selby, Australia.

Again, families are reminded that if they are interested in becoming a host family for a foreign exchange student, they should contact Mr. and Mrs. John Helley, P.O. Box 192, Plummer, MN 56748; telephone 218-465-4587, for further information.

Forest Service Seeks 'Hosts' At Deer River

Chippewa national forest is offering a program for people who like to camp, enjoy people and have some extra time this summer. The name of the program is "Campground Host". This summer the U.S.D.A. forest service will need five volunteers to serve as "hosts" at selected campgrounds on the Deer River district.

Campground openings for host assignments are at Williams narrows, Tamarack point, Mosomo and North and South Deer lake campgrounds. Typical host duties will include: Two to three hours a day doing light cleanup in the campground, keeping toilet buildings neat between visits of regular cleanup crews, helping visitors select a campsite, explaining how to pay camping fees and supplying information about the general area.

Under this program, campsites will be free for designated "host" volunteers. Some other benefits also may be provided. Retirees, especially couples, have enjoyed their experience as campground hosts, and the forest service has found that the campground with a host has fewer problems and less vandalism.

Campground hosts are expected to have their own camping equipment. The normal recreation season is from May 15 through Labor Day, but schedules can be flexible to meet the requirements of the individual host.

Persons interested in more information about the campground host program should telephone or visit the district ranger's office in Deer River, phone (218) 246-2123.

MN/DOT To Ease Weight Restrictions

Springtime weight restrictions on several routes in northwestern Minnesota will be raised from five and six tons to seven tons, according to Glenn Ellinger, MnDOT area maintenance engineer in Crookston. These changes went into effect April 25.

However, since adverse weather conditions may cause changes in the condition of these routes, truckers are advised that the posted weight restriction will prevail.

Changes in weight restrictions are as follows:

Raised from five ton to seven ton: TH 89 from TH 219 to Wannaska; TH 220 from 10 miles north of East Grand Forks to Alvarado; TH 102 from TH 2 east of Crookston to Fertile; and TH 113 from Syre to Waubun.

Those raised from six ton to seven ton are: TH 219 and 89 from Goodridge to two miles east of Grygla; TH 89 from Wannaska to Roseau; and TH 89 from TH 1 to the Canadian Border.

These revised weight restrictions will remain in effect until all restrictions are lifted, possibly as early as May 15. An early lifting of restrictions may be possible due to the mild dry weather experienced this spring. This final action will be coordinated with the lifting of restrictions state-wide.

Eased weight limits and possible early lifting of restrictions is expected to help ease the effects of last year's grain handlers strike in Duluth which are still being felt at area grain elevators.

Arbitrator Makes Award In School Dist. Impasse

Arbitration award granting a seven per cent salary increase for 1979-80 and an additional seven per cent for 1980-81 was granted by arbitrator Richard John Miller in his decision announced April 30. The award settles the contract agreement between School District 564 of Thief River Falls and the Thief River Falls education association.

Miller had heard final positions and testimony at an arbitration hearing in Thief River Falls April 21. Nine issues had been certified at impasse for arbitration, but the matter of extra curricular salary was settled by the two parties without arbitration, as were salaries for assistant to the principal ($2,993) and Title I and Title IV director ($3,565).

The new salary schedule reflects the seven per cent increase across the board, plus the advancement of one step on the experience level from the 1978-79 schedule. Starting salary for a teacher with BS degree for 1979-80 was set at $10,750 and for 1980-81 at $11,510.

Salary schedule at the BS degree level advances through 16 steps of experience over a 20-year period to a maximum of $16,950 for 1979-80 and $18,140 for 1980-81. No increment is granted from 15 years of experience until 20 years of experience. Teachers with an MS degree or BS with 60 credit hours would start at $12,530 for 1979-80 and advance to a maximum of $18,730. For 1980-81 the starting point for MS degree is $13,410 with an advancement in 20 steps to $20,050.

At the PhD level the first year salary in 1979-80 would be $14,340, advancing in 20 steps to $20,550. Next year the starting figure will be $15,530 with advancement to $21,990.

Arbitrator Miller said that the effect of the award reveals that in most selected lanes of the salary schedule, the relative ranking or position of the school district increases or remains status quo when compared to the school districts contained in the comparability groups suggested by the parties.

"This is especially warranted when progressing to the maximum of the selected lanes," he said, "where the data establishes a need to increase the ranking of the school district."

The arbitrator also ventured the opinion that the award given "... does not jeopardize the financial status of the school district in light of the excess balance gained through the general fund K-12 from the 1978-79 school year. Furthermore," he said, "the award should not curtail any educational policies which are currently being administered by the school district."

In other areas at impasse the decisions were as follows:

Health and Hospitalization Insurance: The district's share of hospitalization insurance was increased to $65 per month in 1979-80 and $75 per month in 1980-81 from the $60 per month paid in 1978-79. The TRFEA had asked for $80 and $85 in its request while the school district had offered $64.20 and $68.94.

Arbitrator said the contribution rate of the school district for the 1979-80 and 1980-81 school years maintains an approximate average position among comparability groups and that the differential between rate of contribution and cost of the premium is relatively maintained when compared to the 1978-79 school year.

Severance Pay: TRFEA had asked that eligibility for severance pay be based on 10 years full time service, written resignation or death of the teacher, with the beneficiary to receive the severance pay on the teacher's death. The board had asked maintaining of the present contract language which does not grant severance pay on the death of a teacher. Arbitrator upheld the position of the school district.

The arbitrator said the district had established that most school districts in Director District XII do not even grant severance pay, and that the district provides death benefits via a life insurance policy.

Emergency Substitute Pay: The TRFEA asked retention of contract language which calls for substitute pay when a

Jaycees, Jaycee Women Present Awards Friday

Thief River Falls Jaycees and Jaycee Women held their joint annual awards banquet Friday evening at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. Diane Paulson and Randy Adamson, presidents of their organizations for 1979-80, presided at the awards programs.

Special guest at the banquet was Jane Olson, Miss Thief River Falls, who spoke on her duties and appearances as the community's royalty during the past year. She will compete soon in the Miss Minnesota pageant in Austin.

Awards presented by Mrs. Paulson for the Jaycee Women went to the following recipients: Marijo Nabben, outstanding Jaycee Woman; Nancy Tofte, outstanding chairwoman; Lana Christianson, outstanding board member and project; Amy Schroeder, outstanding first year Jaycee Woman; and Judy Adamson, outstanding project.

Tom Wang received the Keyman award from president Adamson and David Olin was named outstanding project chairman for handling the 1979 Aquacade. Chapter key awards went to Gerry Paulson (bronze), Gary Rux (silver) and Tim Wang (gold). Gary Rux was named director of the year and John Anderson was cited as vice president of the year.

Rux also received the John H. Armbruster Keyman award presented to an outstanding Jaycee after his first year of membership while Larry Morrison won the C. William Brownfield award for first year participation. Tom Przybylski won the speak-up award for winning the district speech contest and media awards were presented to the Times, KTRF-KOSN radio and KKAQ radio.

Five-year membership awards were presented to Tom Wang, Gary Rux and Dave Olin. Certificates of merit for service while serving in a special capacity with the chapter went to Tom Wang, Doug Volk, Ron Hanson, Bob Stroble, Jim Bowen, Dave Jones and Gary Hamness.

Winners of Jaycee of the Month awards were as follows: June — Gary Hamness; July — Dave Miller

School Intends RIC Withdrawal

Thief River Falls school district board approved a resolution Monday calling for participating in the Northwest regional interdistrict council (RIC) program for the 1980-81 school year with intent to withdraw from the program as of June 30, 1981.

The RIC program was established a dozen years ago and deals primarily in the area of special education and handicapped. Continuation of the contract for the coming year will result in RIC handling funds allocated to the district for programs included under the scope of its coverage.

A separate resolution was adopted directing the administration to develop a report indicating areas in special education that require supervision and to submit the report to the board, with a plan for delivery of that supervision, no later than Dec. 31, 1980.

The board authorized expenditure of $400 for a half-page advertisement in an adult drug education booklet in cooperation with county and city organizations. Booklets will be used by police chief Ken Froschheiser in his work to increase drug awareness among adults.

The board approved hiring of Cynthia Vennes as long-term substitute at Franklin middle school, resignation of Merle Rolland as bus driver, transfer of Jerald Brown from half-time warehouseman to full-time custodian at Franklin, extra-curricular assignment of David C Peterson to boys' track in grades 6, 7 and 8 and military leave for Jerel Melhouse June 14-28.

Hired as election judges were Vivian Brekke, Avis Hoium, Lillian Ranum, Marion Cork, Verla Erlandson, Denise Helgaas, Carol Moschner, Julie Peterson, Jody Hoglo, Karin Hanson, Lynn Gallant and Kathy Hanson.

Approval was given to the following as tentative teachers for summer school: Marilyn Adams, Billie Blankenfeld, Jack Boyer, Jean Buhl, Christine Burnham, Doug Engstrom, William Fogarty, Dale Folger, Don Fugleberg, Marian Gigstad, Elda Hanson, Cheryl Hinschberger, Sharon Iverson, Julie Jossund, Beverly Kays, Pat Klemisch, Alan Krause, Ed Krystosek, Susan LeMoine, Cal Lindberg, Lowell McDougall, Phil Nelson, Ron Novak, Linda Olson, Jean Petterson, Dave Peterson, Janice Peterson, Walter Redinger, Judith Schmit, John Schmitz, David Stromlund, Bonnie Swantek, Vern T[illegible]t, Peter Tri and Richard Tyler.

The board gave its support to Loraine Olson, second grade teacher at Northrup elementary school, as the Thief River Falls Education association's nominee to education day at the Minnesota state fair.

Bids were accepted from Bridgeman division of Land

Goodridge Sets Sewage Hearing

Goodridge city council will be conducting the final public hearing on its 201 Facilities Plan for waste water collection, treatment and disposal Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the agricultural lab room at the Goodridge school.

Mayor David Brown, appointed by the council as public liaison for the study process, stated that Stewart & Walker, Inc., the city's engineering consultants, have completed a "preliminary draft" of the facilities plan. Copies of that draft and fact sheet No. 3, which gives a synopsis of the proposed plan and the rationale for its selection, are available for inspection by the public in his office.

The facilities plan recommends that the city construct a pressure collection system which would serve the whole community, including businesses on the west side of highway 219, and a zero discharge mound type of treatment facility. The mound facility is basically an elevated soil absorption system which functions like a common septic drain field.

The physical appearance would be long, low grassy mounds with a trapezoidal section about four feet in height and with a base width of up to 45 feet. There would be four parallel mounds, each about 250 feet in length. A site located somewhere adjacent to the east side of the city about eight acres in size would have to be acquired for the facility. The site would be fenced.

The pretreatment required for this type of treatment facility would be provided by septic tanks. Existing septic tanks in good working order would be used, but others may have to be replaced. Gravity lines from the septic tanks will flow to common wet wells and effluent pumps which could serve up to 12 residences. Waste waters would then be pumped to a charge station at the mound facility which would distribute the wastes within the mound. In addition to these facilities, the city would have to acquire a one-acre site for sludge drying beds somewhere removed from the city.

Environmental assessment portion of the plan has found that there would be no significant environmental impacts due to the operation of these facilities. Some minor, short-term detrimental impacts will occur with construction associated activities. Some odor may occasionally be emitted from the sludge drying beds.

Also Karoline Ketchum, Baudette; Jane Daniels, Fosston; Julie Wayne, Goodridge; Karen Sparby, Grygla; Gary Johnson, Mahnomen; Lori Kotok, Middle River; Arlene Knutson, Newfolden; Bernadette Paradis, Red Lake Falls; Jill Walseth, St. Hilaire; Joanneth Brateng, Wannaska; Bruce Wilmer, Warroad; Chris Kneen, White Bear Lake; and Tom Berggren, Williams.

Donors responsible for this scholarship program which is based upon academic achievement and financial need were 15 area organizations and individuals, including the Hartz foundation, Alliss foundation, First Federal savings and loan, First Federal scholarship in memory of Stan Dahlen, Goodridge educational loan fund, NCC bookstore, Citizens State bank-Roseau, Rich Lyttle, Northwestern hospital medical staff, TRF Rotary club, TRF Elks club, Yon and Moren, Knights of Columbus, American Legion auxiliary of Thief River Falls and Badger state bank.

"The Northland scholarship program provides an educational opportunity for many NCC students by helping them finance part of the educational costs", Wiebolt said, "and it is a program that the college indeed views with pride."

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Green And Russell Vows Exchanged In Washington

Miss Bonnie Jean Green of Bridgeport, Wash., and Kevin Maurice Russell of Stevenson, Wash., exchanged marriage vows on Sunday, March 30, at the Lake Chelan Lutheran church in Chelan.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eva Rowland of Bridgeport. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Russell of Stevenson, and formerly of Thief River Falls.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor-length, princess styled gown. It featured a scalloped neckline accented with rows of white daisies, matching the daisies that trimmed her veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and babies' breath.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Maureen Wise of Bremerton, as matron of honor; Mrs. Doris Chavez, Bridgeport, sister of the bride, and Kristy Russell, Wenatchee, Wash., sister of the groom. All wore street-length gowns of peach polyester knit and each carried a peach rose and a white daisy.

Dave Socci was best man. Groomsmen were Kurt Russell, brother of the groom, and John Heller. The groom wore a white tuxedo, his attendants' were dark green and his father, and Al Campbell, a close friend of the bride who escorted her to the altar, were attired in silver-gray tuxedos.

The mothers and Mrs. Campbell wore street-length dresses corresponding with the bride's chosen colors.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake baked by the groom's mother. The cake was frosted in peach icing, decorated with white daisies, and topped with a bride and groom ornament, surrounded by daisies.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Dora Adams, who cut the cake; Mrs. Salley Searcy, who served the ice cream, and Janet Rowland, sister of the bride, who presided at the coffee service. Kelley Russell, sister of the groom, attended the guest book, and Nancy Adams was at the gift table.

Honored guests at the wedding were Mrs. Helen Russell, Thief River Falls, grandmother of the groom; the bride's grandfather Hombard; Mr. and Mrs. William Meyers, Crescent City, Calif., great uncle and aunt of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Panek, Susan and Steven of Goodridge.

Following a brief wedding trip touring Vancouver Island, B.C., the couple is at home at Port Angeles, Wash. A later trip will be made to Australia.

The bride and groom are 1978 graduates of Bridgeport high school. The bride also completed a course in cosmetology at Mr. Lee's school at Bremerton. The groom is a Petty Officer, third class, with the US Coast Guard.

DID YOU KNOW?

IT ONLY TAKES

THREE SECONDS

In just three seconds a cigarette:

(1) Makes your heart beat faster
(2) Shoots your blood pressure up
(2) Replaces oxygen with carbon monoxide in your blood
(4) Leaves cancer causing chemicals to spread through your body

The cumulative effect of smoking one cigarette plus all those others you have smoked that causes trouble

If you start smoking when you're 15, and smoke a pack a day that's 109,000 cigarettes smoked by age 30. That's 36,500 more than if you started at 20

NOW LOOK on the bright side — the younger you are the easier it is to quit!

Look what happens when you quit:

(1) Your body starts repairing itself right away
(2) You have better wind
(3) Food tastes better
(4) Everything smells better
(5) You'll have more money
(6) And no bad breath

It only takes one second to quit smoking and start living

WCTU District Report Heard At Local Meeting

Report of the District 7 North Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention held in April at Bemidji highlighted the April meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls WCTU.

It was noted that the convention theme was "Open Channels," based on the Bible verse was "Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of Grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." Heb. 4:16.

Unions represented at the convention were from Bemidji, Wannaska, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Crookston and Warren with district president Pearl Loe of Wannaska presiding. Doris Persson and Olga Peterson, presidents of the Bemidji and Warren unions gave the welcome and response.

Robert McWaters of Crookston was the guest speaker. He read Romans 13:11, and stated that Time is running out for America. He said that homes, as homes, are decaying, the divorce rate is rising, violence is increasing, Christianity is declining, morals are decaying, cults are increasing, and people are turning to the worship of other gods, such as sports and money. He challenged the people to awaken from complacency and do the work of the Lord. He concluded by reading Rom. 8:38-39.

The memorial service was led by Lois McWaters, also of Crookston. Of the four in the district who had died this past year, two, Tessie Netteland and Marie Ytesund, were members of the Thief River Falls union.

Resolutions presented by the Crookston union were adopted, together with two additions: The additions were continued effort to erase abortion by working together with the Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCL); and to assist in the fight against child abuse by supporting local efforts. Other resolutions were to continue work in opposing liquor and tobacco advertising by supporting the George Brown, Jr., bill H.R. 167 and Kastenmeir bill H.R. 1515; the work to raise the minimum drinking age to 21 years; to support the Youth Temperance Education week program; and to support Thurmond's bill S. 249, prohibiting obscenity on television programs.

The convention also included reelection of all district officers, a report on the National convention by delegate Pearl Loe, a speech contest with the contestant reciting the eighth chapter of Romans, a poster contest with Kristen Anderson and Julie Wik of Thief River Falls among the winners, and a White Ribbon recruit service.

The local meeting was held at Our Saviour's Lutheran church with Mrs. Olga Larson giving the devotional meditation, "A Channel of Education." To correspond with the union's observance of Youth Education week, she read II Tim. 2:15-19 and the first gospel sermon, Luke 2:10. She stated that parents have an obligation to instruct their children in the Christian faith, to read and study the scriptures with them daily, to attend worship services with them, and to teach them the joy of tithing.

Mayor Bob Carlson attended the meeting as a special guest, together with teenagers Randy Erickson, Joy Enderlein, Kristie Peterson and Todd Peterson, who witnessed Mayor Carlson's signature on the proclamation declaring April 21-27 as Youth Temperance Education week. Supporting the proclamation were the city council members, Milan Borsheim, Donald R. Goodrich, Clayton M. Restad, Ole Engelstad, John J. Womack, William S. Penning and Ambrose Wysoski.

Following the signing of the proclamation, Mayor Carlson presented a check for $135 to the Union from him and his wife, to defray the cost of sending three young people to Youth Temperance camp June 9-15.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Hildur Linn and Mrs. Valborg Hanson.

The meeting concluded with the members counting and labeling 4,000 Youth Temperance education leaflets for distribution to the schools and churches.

LWML Circuit Elects Rev. Henke As Counselor

Rev. Barrie Henke, pastor at St. John Lutheran church, was elected pastoral counselor of the Crookston circuit of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) at a meeting held Tuesday at the Zion Lutheran church. He replaces Rev. Paul Preisinger of Warren.

Also elected and installed by Rev. Preisinger, pastor of the host church, were Mrs. Beverly Erdmann, first leader and Mrs. Enda Butenhoff, treasurer. Both are residents of the Crookston area.

The theme of the rally was "Grow and Sow," with Rev. Preisinger leading the devotions by reading Isaiah 64:8 and Jeremiah 1:5. He said, "The Lord refers to Himself as the potter, and we, His people, are like clay in the Master's hands. He shapes and molds us. Each is special in His sight. As believers, we are a unique creation and a valuable tool serving a special purpose in His kingdom. We don't need to depend upon our abilities, instead we are given strength and wisdom through the Holy Spirit; and with the study and use of God's Word, we will grow that we may sow."

The workshop Bible study, "The Anatomy of the Redeemer," prepared by Laurain Jurchen of Crookston, District Christian growth chairman, featured the believing mind, the faithful voice, the bended knee, the willing feet, the loving and compassionate hand, the hearing ear and the seeing eye. Leaders for the studies, based on Rom. 12:4-5 and Col. 1:18, were Mrs. A. A. Drevlow, Twin Valley; Mrs. Betty Kezar, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Earl Wagner, Fisher; Mrs. Herb Hasz, Mrs. Edna Butenhoff, Mrs. Beverly Erdmann and Laurain Jurchen, all of Crookston.

To summarize the workshop, a skit "One Body In Christ," written by Betty Kezar, was presented by St. John LWML members: Connie Mehrkens, Naomi Monroe, Evelyn Forsman, Carrie Nicholson, Ruth Wilkinson, Aloma Koop and Pat Henke.

First leader, Mrs. Allan Dragseth, Eldred, presided at the business meeting. Routine reports were read by Mrs. Maxine Wagner, Crookston, and Mrs. Arnold Lehrer, Red Lake Falls. Other reports were given by Betty Kezar, Christian Growth chairman, and Mrs. Alice Patten, Thief River Falls, Mission service chairman.

Mrs. Earl Wagner, Fisher, regional vice president, encouraged members to attend the seminar retreats at Lutheran Island camp August 22-24 and September 19-21, and the Minnesota-North district LWML convention June 17-19 at Thunder Bay, Ont. She stated that a chartered bus, originating at East Grand Forks June 16, will be stopping at other pick-up points on the way for the convenience of delegates and guests.

The one-day rally was attended by 162 members and seven pastors. Attending from Thief River Falls, in addition to those already mentioned, were Esther Beiswenger, Peggy Miller, Irene Mehrkens, Elaine Wentzel, Elaine Anderson, Elaine Koop and Alice Wassink.

A luncheon was served at noon by the women of Zion congregation of Warren.

The fall rally will be held in Crookston in October.

featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Dennis Strandlund
Rural Roseau

Rhubarb Puffs

2 eggs
¾ cup milk
¾ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
one-fourth cup butter
1½ cups rhubarb
½ cup grape jelly
one-fourth cup water

Beat the eggs with the milk. Stir in the flour and salt, and beat until the mixture is smooth. Put the butter in a 9-inch pie tin and warm it in the oven until it is bubbly. Pour the batter into the pian immediately, and pour the rhubarb into the center. Bake for 25 minutes.

While the puff is baking, make the sauce by melting the grape jelly with the water in a saucepan. Remove the puff from the oven and serve it immediately, spooning the sauce over each portion.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Serves six.

A teacher's aide in the Roseau public school, Mrs. Strandlund lives on a farm with her husband and two daughters, Debbie and Diane, who are in the elementary grades at Roseau. In addition to farming, her husband is a school bus driver. They are active members of the First Baptist church at Roseau.

Co. Red Cross Seeks Summer Camp Applicant

Pennington county chapter of the American Red Cross is again offering scholarships for one male and one female to attend the annual national Red Cross aquatic, first aid and small craft school this summer. Ten-day school will be held at Camp St. Croix at Hudson, Wisconsin June 4-14.

Only requirements are that the participants be at least 17 years old and in good physical condition. All fees and board and room will be paid for by the Pennington county chapter of the Red Cross. Pam Kotschevar, Thief River Falls, attended the school last year.

American Red Cross national aquatic, first aid and small craft schools offer training and certification for water safety, first aid and small craft instructors in an educational environment that combines work with play. Educators have termed these intensive 10-day schools "the most exceptional system of schools in America".

Taught by experts in swimming, life saving, small craft safety and first aid, students learn by doing, as trainees and in practice teaching sessions, with remarkably successful results.

National Red Cross Aquatic, first aid, and small craft school is conducted at YMCA camp St. Croix on the St. Croix river at Hudson, Wis. Students stay in cabins and use a group dining facility. All students remain at the campsite from registration, June 4 to the time of graduation, June 14.

A student may choose instructor training in water safety, first aid, CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) or small crafts, including sailing and-or canoeing. All expenses will be paid by the Pennington county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Local chapter would like to send at least one man and one woman, age 17 or older to attend Camp St. Croix. Additional financial support will be arranged for additional students who wish to attend. Anyone from Pennington county or service area is eligible to apply.

Please apply by May 15 to: Dr. Charles R. Samuelson, Chairman, Pennington County Red Cross, in care of Northland Community College, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, phone 218-681-2181.

Citizens Will Appreciate New Insurance Law

If you drive a car in Minnesota and ever have an accident which requires an insurance claim, you will be relieved that legislation was passed to make the claims process work better for you. Senate File 744, sponsored by Sen. Gerry Sikorski of Stillwater, and House File 535 sponsored by Rep. John Rose of Roseville does just that.

For example, the legislation requires that appraisers must carry and display identification, that legible copies of appraisals must be provided by both repair facilities and insurance companies, that reinspection of the repair can be requested under certain circumstances, and that repairs do not have to be made in recommended repair facilities.

Legislation also reinforced the freedom of the insured or claimant to choose a repair facility of his choice, and prohibited both insurance companies and repair facilities in attempting to secure authorizing signatures to act in a claimant's behalf.

"We believe that this legislation will go a long way in resolving many of the problems occurring between consumers, auto facilities, and insurance companies," stated Al Brodie, executive vice president of the Automotive Service Councils.

Legislation received the support of the insurance industry, auto repair industry, and consumer groups.

Arbitration Award Made In Dist. 564

teacher is required to fill in during emergency absences of other teachers. The district had asked that the pro-rated pay of the teacher doing the substituting be deleted. The arbitrator upheld the faculty position, stating that a teacher loses preparation time during the normal workday when substituting and to be properly prepared must work outside of the normal workday.

Class size: The faculty had asked that a committee be formed to hear individual class size problems and make written recommendation on class size to the board of education through the superintendent. The board had maintained that the matter of class size was not arbitrable.

The arbitrator ruled that class size is arbitrable because it has a direct relationship to the workload and responsibility of a teacher. But he denied the faculty request, stating that meet and confer conferences can accomplish the same goal as a separate class size committee.

The arbitrator also said that the association's proposal precludes input from parents and other collective bargaining units, and that there was no evidence that the school district abuses class size to the detriment of teachers.

Transfer Policy: No change was allowed in the contract language regarding transfer policy of teachers within the district. Miller pointed out that the transfer policy language was a product of an arbitration award in 1976 and that the same language had been litigated.

"To award the language proposed by the school district could upset the precedent established by the court," he said. "Furthermore, the school district's suggested modifications do not appear to stabilize the turmoil caused by the transfer policy. Rather, the proposed language appears to rekindle the confusion which culminated in the litigation of the transfer policy."

Pay Rate for Use of Personal Car: The TRFEA had requested that mileage be paid at the maximum provided by the Minnesota commissioner of personnel for state officers and employees. The school district had offered 18 cents per mile. Arbitrator's award was for 18½ cents per mile — the amount recognized by the IRS as the average expenses incurred by an individual while driving a personal car for business related affairs. Any amount over that 18½ cents would have to be approved by the commissioner of internal revenue or be reported as other income.

The arbitrator also submitted his statement for $1,340 with that amount to be equally divided between the two parties. The statement showed one hearing day at $180, 1.5 days to review impasse issues and evidence at $270, 3.5 days for preparation of the award at $630 and expenses of $260.

More Cycles, More Mishaps State Predicts

Because of the energy situation, 1980 is likely to bring an increase in motorcycle use, according to commissioner John Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Bicycle and moped popularity will also compound the traffic hazards this year.

Ninety-seven Minnesotans died in motorcycle accidents in 1979. There were 106 in 1978 and 94 in 1977. One moped operator and 14 bicyclists were killed in 1979.

Motorcycle collisions with other vehicles accounted for more than half of the motorcycle accidents in 1978 (1,666 out of 2,827).

Car drivers in most cases do not even see the motorcycle before an accident. They (car operators) should assume that motorcycles are a part of normal traffic flow. A motorcycle driver has the responsibility to glance over the shoulder to check for other traffic before changing lanes.

The intersection crash involving motorcycles is the most common. Failure of drivers to yield is often the cause. Left turns in front of oncoming cycles account for a large percentage of accidents.

Driver and vehicle services has developed a specialized test for motorcycle operators, one that is required for licensing, and the office of public information is producing a new information booklet for motorcyclists.

All of the safety points for motorcyclists apply equally to bicyclists. American bike month in May is stressing these points. This is the second year of the observance.

Best general advice for both the bicyclist and motorcyclist is to use common sense and courtesy.

Dear friends,

A mother raising her child — is there any greater example of devotion? Think of the long years of toil, of repeated instruction and correction — of cooking and washing — of training in wholesome attitudes and good living habits.

One day a year is Mother's Day. Let us remember her with deep love and appreciation.

Sincerely,
Belmont Funeral Home

Denise Olson Is Winner In Essay Contest

Among the 37 high school students recognized recently for their essays on employment of handicapped people, written in the national "Ability Counts" essay competition was Denise J. Olson, Newfolden, certificate winner in the contest.

The five state "Ability Counts" contest winners, whose essays were judged to be the best in the nation, will receive cash awards totaling $5,500 from Paul L. Thompson, national commander of the 660,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV). The remaining 32 state winners will receive DAV certificates from Commander Thompson.

Designed to increase awareness among young people of the employment needs of disabled people, the "Ability Counts" contest is a joint project of the DAV, the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped and the AFL-CIO. Thompson said his organization has presented cash awards to top "Ability Counts" winners for more than 30 years to help emphasize the need to provide employment opportunities for disabled veterans and other handicapped people.

Summer Youth Program Will Hire 1 Million

Assistant secretary of labor Ernest G. Green has announced that about one million economically disadvantaged youth, 14 through 21, will be hired this summer under the department's $745 million summer youth employment program (SYEP).

Green made the announcement on Friday, April 18, in connection with the 15th anniversary of the summer youth jobs program which was launched in 1965.

Assistant secretary Green said that the $745 million is being apportioned among 473 state and local governments serving as prime sponsors under the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA). Funds are expected to provide youth with 10-week summer jobs in community service agencies at the minimum wage of $3.10 an hour.

In making the announcement, he said prime sponsors had received estimates of funds for their summer programs as early as December to give them plenty of time to plan extensive and enriched summer job programs in their communities.

A review of the nation's 1979 summer youth jobs program found "an overwhelming majority of worksites provided meaningful, supervised productive work experience," he added.

Under SYEP, youth get experience in a variety of job settings. These include X-ray, laboratory, medical) and dental assistants: library, teacher, museum and legal aides; maintenance helpers; lifeguards; clerk-typists; junior coaches and counselors; and trainee positions in such skills as sheet-metal shaping, boiler room operation and warehousing.

SYEP projects include community beautification, tree planting and neighborhood clean-up, construction of bike and hiking trails, developing historical information, and weatherizing houses of low-income families.

The 1980 summer jobs program will supplement the various activities and programs now underway under the year-round CETA youth programs. These programs, like SYEP, are administered by the department's employment and training administration.

Summer program participants are recruited from families that are economically disadvantaged — receiving welfare or having an annual income (for a family of four) of between $7,200 and $12,500 depending on location. Special youth, such as those who are handicapped or in sheltered workshops or institutions, may qualify without regard to income levels.

Last year's summer program provided jobs for an estimated 900,000 youth, at approximately 165,000 worksites. Jobs were available during late June, July, August and early September. All participants were paid the minimum wage.

Since the program was created in 1965, it has served more than nine million youth.

Accreditation In Accountancy Exam At UMC

University of Minnesota campus at Crookston (UMC) has been selected as a testing center for the national accreditation in accountancy examination. UMC will be the one official examination site in Minnesota when the standardized test for public accountants is given throughout the country on Saturday, May 10.

Six-hour examination will be administered in two segments, the first half from 9 a.m. to noon and the second part from 1 to 4 p.m. in Dowell hall 204-5 on the UMC campus, according to Dr. Larry Huus, assistant professor of accounting, who is proctor for the test. Those with questions about eligibility criteria, applications procedures, registration fee or about contents of the exam may direct their inquiries to Huus at Dowell Hall Annex or by phone at 281-6510, ext. 245.

Test is designed for professionals in the field without certified public accountant (CPA) credentials, Huus explained. It is not intended in any way to be a prerequisite for the CPA examination, he added. Huus also pointed out that some undergraduate students in advanced accounting at four-year institutions may also qualify to take the exam, which is offered twice each year in May and November at testing locations across the nation.

Sponsor of the examination is the accreditation council for accountancy, a non-profit professional society headquartered in Washington, D.C. Credentials earned in successfully completing the written test, with a score of 70 points or more, are meant to give accredited status to individuals only, Huus stressed. Passing the test, he said, brings recognition of professional achievement to practitioners in accounting, but accreditation does not extend to the firm or association that employs these individuals.

Cub Pack 199 Helps Clean-Up Effort In City

Cub scouts, leaders and parents from Pack 199, sponsored by St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, picked up litter and trash recently as part of the city clean-up efforts and community service, according to Art Heinze, cubmaster.

Seven Cub scout dens, under the leadership of den leader coach Peggy Bruzek, picked up litter and trash at the fairgrounds and ball diamonds. The Webelos den, under the leadership of Winton Dahlin and Heinze, and seven parents assisted in the cleanup of the Pioneer Village historical park. The boys and parents raked leaves, pruned trees, readied flower beds and picked up trash and sticks.

Marv Enerson, historical society board member, assisted the Webelos in the clean-up project. After the work was completed the Webelos had a picnic lunch in the park. Cubmaster Heinze expressed his sincere thank you to the boys, leaders and parents who assisted in the project.

Pack 199 will have its May pack meeting on Monday, May 19 at 7:30 p.m. in St. John Lutheran church. Exposition patches and prizes will be given to the boys at that time.

Seminar On Pain Offered At AVTI Here

Thief River Falls AVTI is offering a seminar entitled "A Psychological Approach to Pain Management" on Wednesday, May 14 in room 114 at the AVTI. Registration begins at 12:30 p.m. with the workshop from 1 to 4:15 p.m. This seminar is open to the public at $6 per person. Senior citizens admitted free.

Dr. Steve Levinson, clinical director at the day-night psychiatric unit, Northwestern hospital, will provide participants with a basic conceptual introduction to the psychology of pain, increase awareness of non-physiological factors which contribute to pain, and promote effectiveness in identifying and mobilizing psychological resources to combat pain.

Seminar meets the continuing education criteria for nurses for three contact hours. Detailed brochure available.

Pre-register by May 9 by contacting adult education, AVTI, highway one east, Thief River Falls, phone 681-5424.

Farmers Suffer, Not Soviets

Following editorial is from the Minneapolis Star:

Minnesota farmers have a right to be disgruntled. They took an economic beating last year, mostly through no fault of their own, and this year promises to bring them more of the same.

To compound their troubles, they're beginning to feel they were wrong in giving their support to President Carter's embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union. Rather than making the Russians pay what the State Department calls a "heavy price" for their aggression in Afghanistan, the embargo has proven to be little more than an inconvenience to the Soviets. They have had to shop around and pay a higher price, but they have been able to find other sources for most of the 17 million tons of grain denied them by Carter's action.

The embargo has accomplished two things, however. It has brought lower prices to American farmers — especially to Minnesota corn producers — and has created uncertainties among our trading partners. Those uncertainties could have an impact that goes beyond the short-term effects of the embargo on grain shipments to the Soviet Union. As a team of economists at the University of Minnesota's Department of Agriculture and Applied Economics noted, there could be substantial efforts by those trading partners to find other sources of grain, as well as serious drives toward grain self-sufficiency. The aim of those moves would be to reduce the vulnerability of importing countries to the "whims" of U.S. International policy.

Beyond that, the economists said, it seems unlikely that the Soviet Union will ever again let itself become dependent on the United States for grain. That would mean a slower rate of growth of foreign markets for American grain — a serious blow to farm producers. About a third of all U.S. grain had been sold abroad, until the embargo. That included about $1.75 billion of grain produced in Minnesota. To take up some of the slack, an "accommodation" of U.S. domestic policy would be required, meaning higher support or loan prices for farm products. That would be a further drain on the Treasury, making it even more difficult to balance the budget.

The consequences of the embargo, especially the drain of farm income, are beginning to stir some seismic rumbles in farm states. There is a feeling of betrayal among some farmers, who claim the president has not kept his promise to cushion them against the impact of the embargo. The American Farm Bureau Federation, the country's largest farm organization, says its members are "the hardest hit among the citizens making economic sacrifices." And the National Association of Wheat Growers charges that Carter's efforts to shield farmers from falling prices induced by the embargo are a "disgusting failure."

Coming on top of the current credit crunch, as well as last year's strikes and transportation breakdowns that hampered the movement of grain to export markets, the embargo has become the bitter frosting on an unpalatable cake. Prices should recover, although slowly, as the government buys up the grain that would have been shipped to the Soviets. Further expensive measures may be needed, however. What's becoming clear is that it's not the Soviets who will be paying; it's American farmers and taxpayers.

Campaign Spending

Following editorial is from the Morris Tribune:

Campaign spending limits, touted as a means of preventing candidates from "buying votes", can be a convenient method of perpetuating the dominance of the party which has enough votes to specify the spending limits.

Here's how it works. First, the party in power estimates its fundraising capacity in terms of dollars. This figure is then used as the basis of the spending limit, and the law is written in such a way that public financing is denied to any candidate who exceeds the limit.

If the opposition party cannot raise as many dollars as the party which organizes the legislature, the party in power has lost nothing by enacting the spending limit. But if the opposition party can raise more dollars than the party in power, the party which sets the limits has gained a great deal. The opposition party candidates will be denied the public funds which will be available to the party in power, and this will have the effect of neutralizing any benefit which the opposition party might receive from its ability to attract more support from contributors.

Thus, the party in power has a tremendous advantage if it can set campaign spending limits, which affect the use of public funds. In order to prevent such a manipulation of the electoral process, we must either eliminate public financing of campaigns in Minnesota, or distribute public funds without regard to the amount of private contributions which a candidate receives.

Gasohol—Is It Snake-Oil?

Following comments appeared recently in Farmland News:

Promoters and fast-buck artists are cashing in on a gullible thirst for information about gasohol from almost any source.

The trouble, says a Wall Street Journal report about those who are using gasohol as a come-on, is that fuel-grade alcohol "is a bit more difficult to produce than bathtub gin and many people are finding to their sorrow than they've been had."

Journal reporter Sue Shellenbarger cites investigations under way, including one in Kansas where "extravagant" advertising claims include a small kitchen still that's suppored to operate on potato peels, lemon rinds and other mealtime leftovers.

"Alcohol fuels represent a flag at the Almo, around which farmers and others can rally to regain energy independence for rural communities," the article quotes William Holmberg, deputy director of the Federal Energy Department's office of alcohol fuels. "That level of enthusiasm and patriotism makes people vulnerable to snake-oil salesmen."

At the outset of the gasohol boom, a dairy farmer in Alexandria, Minn., attracted much attention by building his own alcohol plant. For the past three years he's hired out as a consultant advising others on building 10 stills. Only three of the 10 are operating. Two are about ready and five others have various problems.

The Journal says Alan Zeithamer now figures his days as a consultant are numbered. "I expect we'll go back into farming a lot sooner than a lot of people think," he is quoted.

One of Zeithamer's clients, Clarence Berner of Randolph, Neb., says he has spent more than $144,000 on an alcohol plant near his filling station but has gotten only 300 gallons of low-grade alcohol for his effort.

The Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has issued 1,300 permits for home or farm alcohol stills in 16 southeastern and midwestern states since such permits were authorized two years ago. Latest check, last November showed 275 stills in seven southeastern states had produced less than 2,000 gallons of alcohol, much of it not up to fuel quality.

Many commercial plants are made by engineering companies "that just fabricate these things, deliver them at the farm gate and walk away," the Journal quotes E. Kendall Pye, associate biochemistry professor at the University of Pennsylvania.

Tips On Safety

Gleaned from the VFW auxiliary safety bulletin, these safety quips make good sense at any time:

There would be fewer motorist patients in hospitals if there were more patient motorists on the road.

If your cup runneth over, let someone else runneth the car.

Too many people like to be in front on the bus, the back of the church, and the middle of the road.

Use your dimmer at night but keep yourself bright.

Drive towards others as you would have them drive toward you.

Never mind who's right; walk so you'll be left.

The driver is safer when the roads are dry; the roads are safer when the driver is dry.

Life keeps rolling along if you stay in your lane where you safely belong.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Trying to interest Ole in a new radio, the salesman demonstrated the instrument. "Just turn this little knob," he said, "and you can get Minneapolis or Chicago."

"So vat," Ole replied, digging out his can of snuff. "All ay got to dew is turn dis top a liddle and ay get Copenhagen!"

The Galveston rancher had killed a man during a violent quarrel. Calling a lawyer in Dallas, he offered $100,000 for his defense. "I'll leave on the next plane," the lawyer said, "and bring three eyewitnesses with me."

FIENDISH DELIGHT is registered in the face of Gary Rux as he applies the first of two cream pies to the face of Randy Adamson. As president of the Thief River Falls Jaycees during the past year, Adamson issued a challenge to gain new membership. For each member of the chapter who signed up five new members, he agreed to take a pie in the face at the annual awards night program. Friday night he received his just desserts from Rux who signed up more than 10 new members.

STAYING IN TOUCH!

Answering Your Questions

Constituents write daily regarding various topics and in this column I would like to share with you a few of their questions and my responses. You may find you have similar concerns.

I've heard that the main reason for inflation is excessive government spending. What are you doing to reduce Federal expenditures?

I have introduced two constitutional amendments, which are now before the House Judiciary Committee and which I believe would do a thorough and complete job of holding government spending. The first, House Joint Resolution 14, would provide that appropriations made by the United States shall not exceed its revenues, except in time of war or national emergency, and to provide for the repayment of the national debt.

The second, House Joint Resolution 395, limits the growth of the Federal government and puts a reasonable and effective limitation on Federal spending. The amendment also provides that Federal expenditures rise no faster than the rate of growth of the national economy.

In addition, I have consistently voted against raising the debt limit on the Federal budget and against additional, expensive, governmental programs and departments. I am also a strong supporter of sunset legislation to eliminate outmoded, ineffective and wasteful programs.

How do you feel about eliminating mail delivery on Saturday?

I am opposed to this proposal and favor continuing mail delivery on the present schedule. This proposed reduction in mail service would surely hurt rural America and the Seventh District, particularly the farmers, all rural communities, small businesses and small town daily newspapers.

I believe that waste in government should be eliminated whenever possible, but it has not been proven that Saturday postal service is a waste. Members of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee have pointed out that this proposal would not greatly reduce spending. Furthermore, Postmaster General William Bolger told a House Subcommittee that the Postal Service could absorb the proposed cut of $250 million without abandoning Saturday delivery or closing small post offices.

Maintaining the current level of postal service, including Saturday mail delivery, is best for the Seventh District and I will strongly oppose any cuts.

Are you in favor of the use of gasohol and if so what are you doing to further the use of this energy alternative?

I am very much in favor of the use of gasohol and, at the present time, I am cosponsoring several bills to promote alcohol fuels. The Replacement Motor Fuels Act of 1979 would require refineries to replace an increasing percentage of gasoline with a "replacement fuel" such as alcohol from grain, with a goal of 10 per cent replacement by 1987. H.R. 4533 is a bill designed to encourage alcohol fuels and would provide for loan guarantees of up to $15 million each for at least 20 alcohol fuel plants and sets aside additional funds for research and development of fuel plants. Another bill I am cosponsoring, H.R. 1980, has been incorporated into the National Alcohol Fuels and Farm Commodities Production Act of 1979. This bill is currently on the House Calendar awaiting consideration by the full House and it would provide for a loan guarantee program for the construction of ethanol-production facilities for gasohol.

Conference Is Planned For Boy Scouters

Annual Voyageur Trails district boy scout planning conference will be held on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the American Legion club in Warren. All cub scout and boy scout leaders, committee members, scouting coordinators, commissioners and district committee persons are invited and urged to attend, according to Art Heinze, district commissioner.

Purpose of the planning conference is to receive input from all scouters and areas in the district regarding next year's district calendar. Decisions will be made on dates, times, places, additions, or deletions of training sessions, roundtable meetings, camporees, roundups, recognition banquet, unit inventory, Dad & Lad, winter events, commissioners meetings, district operations, manpower, and others effecting the scouting program in Voyageur Trails district.

Voyageur Trails district is made up of communities using the scouting program in Kittson, Marshall, Roseau, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Mahnomen counties. Scouting program is supported by United Ways, Communities Chests, and sustaining membership enrollments. Tom Przybylski is serving as district scout executive.

Traffic Safety Placemats To Be Distributed

Stop along the road for a quick bite of food this summer and you may encounter a highly visible hint on highway safety. In fact, right under your plate at many restaurants may be the Minnesota "We Care" traffic safety game placemat. Two million copies will be distributed throughout Minnesota by the department of public safety.

According to DPS commissioner John Sopsic, the safety game placemat is an attempt to get our state's motorists to stop and briefly think about driving habits often taken for granted. DPS plans to begin distributing the thought inducing placemat in May.

The placemat is comical, and hopefully entertaining. Liberal use of red, blue and green make it colorful and eye appealing.

The placemat is being distributed free to restaurants as part of the combined accident reduction effort (C.A.R.E.) Also being distributed by the project is a second placemat noting the involvement of the 50 state patrols in the CARE effort, thermal hot cups with the CARE message, and plastic car litter bags encouraging safe driving on Minnesota highways.

Idea for the placemat was originated by DPS public information director Harlan Olson. From there the idea was taken over by information officer Larry Etkin. Etkin designed the placemat and developed the rules through a series of informal trials with any other person in the DPS information office whom he could corner.

Four Seniors Accepted At Northland CC

Kyle Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Anderson; Mitchell Muzzy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muzzy; Anthony Loeffler, son of Mrs. Gladys Loeffler; and Michael Wefald, son of Mrs. Glenna Wefald of Thief River Falls have been accepted for admission at Northland community college in Thief River Falls for the 1980 fall quarter classes.

They will be graduating from Lincoln high school this spring. Mitch plans to continue his education in the field of law enforcement while Kyle and Mike plan to take up a general education curriculum. Tony plans to further his education in the field of liberal arts.

PBS-TV Offers Closed Caption Broadcasting

Prairie Public Television, like other public television stations around the country and stations affiliated with NBC and ABC, is now broadcasting selected programs using the new "closed captions" for hearing-impaired TV viewers. Prairie Public Television is offering Masterpiece Theatre, Once Upon A Classic, 3-2-1 Contact, Nova, Mystery!, Odyssey and Over Easy with the clever closed captions.

Captioned television programs are not new. Closed captions are new. The old captioned programs — with open captions — were broadcast with captions for everyone. Captions of that sort annoyed some TV viewers. The new captioning technique — closed captions — allows broadcasters to offer captioned programs for the hearing impaired without making the captions visible to all TV viewers. The invisible captions require a special decoder that makes the caption appear on the screen. The closed captioning system enables written translations to be converted into electronic codes and inserted into the regular television signal so that only those with decoders can view them.

Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) has been developing and testing this captioning system since 1972 with the support of the bureau of education for the handicapped at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Until closed captioning could be made readily available to the consumer, public TV has continued to provide the interim "open" caption service that includes some five hours of programming each week. Open captioning of the captioned ABC evening news will continue on Prairie Public Television even after the closed captioning service is in full swing. By the end of the year PBS hopes to be offering 12 hours a week of closed-captioned programs.

"Public television is particularly proud of its pioneering role in the development of the closed captioning service and its leadership in offering open captioned programs for the hearing-impaired over the last few years," PBS President Lawrence K. Grossman says. We're especially proud to see ABC and NBC join with us so that captioning can become an industry-wide service."

Closed captioning system makes use of line 21 on the TV vertical blanking interval, a portion of the screen which does not ordinarily contain video program information. Captions are inserted on line 21 and can be seen only on sets equipped with special decoders. These decoders can be turned on and off so that captions will appear only when the viewer chooses.

Decoders are being marketed by Sears, Roebuck and Co. under the name of "TeleCaption." TeleCaption will sell for about $250 through the Sears catalog — to begin with, Sears will offer the decoder through the catalog only. Later, Sears plans to make available a 19-inch portable color set with a built-in decoder called a captioning TV receiver.

Programs with closed captions will be offered by the four stations in the Prairie Public Television network, KFME, Channel 13, Fargo; KGFE, Channel 2, Grand Forks; KBME, Channel 3, Bismarck; and KSRE, Channel 6, Minot. Viewers who tune in Prairie Public Television on any one of many cable TV systems in North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Manitoba or Saskatchewan will also be able to receive public television's closed captioned programs.

Energy Issues Are Topics At St. Cloud Meet

Energy issues and future transit funding will highlight discussions at the Minnesota transit conference set for Wednesday and Thursday, May 7 and 8, at the Sunwood Inn in St. Cloud, the Minnesota department of transportation has announced.

Meeting will bring together transit system operators and those persons in local government responsible for transit operations within their areas. Workshops will give them a chance to discuss local transit challenges and opportunities.

Besides energy issues and future transit funding, the meeting will focus on federal and state transit legislation, ridesharing and money management.

St. Cloud metropolitan transit commission is hosting the meeting in cooperation with Mn-DOT.

Additional information may be obtained from Robert Works, director, Office of Transit Administration, Mn-DOT, 419 Transportation Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 (telephone: 612-296-2533).

DANE JONES, Jim Hayes, Blake Olson and Joni Courneya concentrated on a presentation by Zonie Easton, a member of the Art Adventure program, Thursday afternoon at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls, as she discussed American artist, Winslow Homer, and one of his works. The program offers its members an opportunity to share knowledge about art with children as well as give project members the opportunity to learn more about art themselves.

Land O' Lakes Producers Host Annual Meets

Northland milk producers voting unit of Land O'Lakes, Inc., and the Roseau-Lake of the Woods producers voting unit of Land O'Lakes, Inc. recently conducted their annual meetings at Greenbush and Roseau, respectively.

Officers elected to the board of directors of the Northland Milk producers, include Merton Kirkeide, president; Robert Melby, vice president; Don Christianson, secretary; Orin Swart, director; and Ernest Hemp, director. All are from Greenbush. Kirkeide will represent the members of the voting unit at the district meeting to be in Fargo November 18, and at the Land O'Lakes annual meeting in Minneapolis next February.

Officers elected to the board of directors on the Roseau-Lake of the Woods producers include Allan Magnusson, Roseau, president; Kenneth Broten, Roseau, vice president; Clair Knutson, Warroad, secretary; Gene Millner, Roseau, director; and John Lund, Roseau, director. Magnusson will represent the members of the voting unit at the district meeting.

Tom Haas, manager of the Land O'Lakes dairy production division, Minneapolis, spoke at both meetings on support prices, dairy production division operations and 1979 earnings.

UND Summer Students Must Enroll Soon

Teachers, school administrators and other persons planning to begin or continue graduate studies this summer at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks are encouraged to file an official intent to register card with UND by May 27.

That's the word from UND dean of summer studies George Schubert, who notes that the university annually enrolls a large number of "summer only" graduate students who work at their full-time professions during the regular school year.

More than 3,000 persons—including graduate and undergraduate students — are expected to enroll in the 1980 summer session, which runs from June 9 through August 1.

All graduate students, as well as currently enrolled undergraduates, are encouraged to file the intent to register card to expedite registration procedures on June 9, Schubert said. New undergraduate students coming to UND for the first time need not complete the summer session card, but should have completed UND's standard application for admission form.

UND summer session catalog containing the intent to register card is available by writing to the UND office of summer sessions, University Station, Grand Forks, ND 58202.

Art Festival At MSU Aids Handicapped

"A Very Special Arts Festival" showing how the arts can [illegible] and be helped by the handicapped is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday (May 9) in Moorhead state university's center for the arts.

Festival attracted over 500 handicapped children and adults in its premiere last spring and is expected to bring in even more this year, said Dr. Norma Buktenica of MSU, one of the festival organizers.

The special arts festival, Buktenica said, is meant to make people aware of the barriers that the handicapped face and the abilities they command. But ultimately, he said, it's to give handicapped people the opportunity to become involved in the visual and performing arts.

More than 25 local artists, many of them from creative arts studio in Fargo and from the Plain People, along with several handicapped artists, will conduct workshops and demonstrations during the festival. Activities will include drawing, music, sculpture, pottery making, dance, drama, mime, juggling and others.

Anniversary For Norwegian Group Is Set

Decendants from the Norway district of Hadeland, Land and Toten, will celebrate their 70th anniversary July 11-12 at S.W. State university in Marshall, according to Morgan Olson, coordinator from Minneapolis.

Mrs. Martin Berge of Marshall is in charge of arrangements. Public is invited.

Source persons for each of the Norway districts will include Dr. L.J. Opsahl of Willmar, president of the Toten group together with a genealogy specialist from Salt Lake City, Utah, who will assist Toteningers with their "roots" questions; Borghild Olson, LaCrosse, WI., for the Landings; Dr. Verlyn Anderson, Moorhead, for the hadelandings.

Food service and lodging will be available at S.W. State university or at restaurants and motels in Marshall. All programs will be conducted at SW State U.

More information about the 70th anniversary Hadeland-Land-Toten gathering may be obtained from Morgan Olson, 3416 Parkview Blvd., Minneapolis, MN 55422.

Public TV Station Gets Appropriation

Gov. Al Quie recently signed the $40 million omnibus appropriations bill which appropriates $175,000 to KAWE-TV. This is only the third time that the legislature has appropriated capital funds to any public television station in the state.

KAWE received construction funds from the state in 1977, when the legislature appropriated $440,000. The 1977 bill was originally written for $640,000, but $200,000 was cut in committee. Although the public TV project has secured $1.1 million in other funding, money cut from the 1977 appropriation was still needed to complete the project.

Station manager Don Checots said the $175,000 will be used to acquire studio and production equipment. This will give the station local production capability, a requirement for receiving the annual community service grant from the corporation for public broadcasting.

Construction of the new station has neared completion, and it is expected to be on the air Sunday, June 1.

More than 36,000 American communities now depend entirely on trucks for delivery of goods and services.

Rouse Given Scholarship

Some 300 University of Michigan law students received academic awards and recognition for work on scholarly journals and student organizations at the law school's annual honors convocation recently. Kevin Rouse, Thief River Falls, was a recipient of a scholarship in the law school student senate, for his position as committee member.

Buzz Johnson Ranks In Top 12 At NDSU

Milton (Buzz) Johnson, son of Mrs. Patricia Johnson, Thief River Falls is among the 12 highest ranking class members of the freshmen class at North Dakota state university.

High ranking class members and scholarship recipients were honored at the 45th annual honors day luncheon beginning with a reception and social hour this morning in the new fieldhouse at NDSU. Also recognized were the students' parents and scholarship donors.

Special Ed Offices Listen To Criticisms

Persons interested in special education who are having difficulty with the programs being offered may contact state and federal offices directly, according to information received by the Times late last week.

Parents may write or call Robert J. Wedl. Office of Special Education Compliance, Capitol Square Building, 8th Floor, 550 Cedar Street, St. Paul, MN 55101 (phone 612-296-2012) or Don C. Blodgett, Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, U.S. Office of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue SW, Washington, D.C. 20202 (phone 202-245-9661).

Criticisms from program participants can make a difference in improving special education offerings so that handicapped children receive a truly special education.

Lincoln high school junior Brenda Lund received news last week that she has been named to the 1980 Minnesota all-state high school swimming team. She'll attend a recognition banquet Thursday at the Radisson South hotel in Bloomington.

Brenda placed fourth in the diving competition in the 1979 Minnesota state high school girls swimming and diving championships last fall. It was her second state meet place finish after a sixth place showing as an eighth grader. She has a current string of three straight Section 3 diving titles.

"Brenda is very deserving of the all-state honor," acknowledged John Hustad, coach of the Prowlers' girls swim team. "She has been a very consistent leader on the team in both attitude and competitive ability for several years."

Appearing in her fourth straight state meet, Brenda was the only competitor at the 1979 state event who participated in both the swimming and diving portions of the meet.

Baseball Team Has Busy Week

This is going to be a very busy and very important week for the 1980 Lincoln high school baseball team. The Prowlers were scheduled to start things today (Monday) with a 4:30 p.m. game against Mount St. Benedict in Crookston. Rest of the week will feature Northwest Athletic Conference competition. The Prowlers host Crookston Tuesday and entertain Bemidji Thursday in 4:30 p.m. games on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond and will be at Fergus Falls Friday for a 3 p.m. doubleheader.

Bemidji has been most active in NWAC play to date. The Lumberjacks opened with a 4-1 decision over the Thief River Falls, lost a surprising 10-0 game to Crookston but bounced back to beat Fergus Falls with another 4-1 game Thursday. In both wins Bemidji lefthander Bryan Hickerson was the winning pitcher, raising his record to 4-1.

The Lumberjacks collected just six singles off Fergus Falls righthander Bob Roers, but "profited from loose Fergus fielding," reported Jim Carrington of the Bemidji Pioneer. All four Bemidji runs were unearned.

It was a third inning nightmare for Bemidji against Crookston when the Pirates sent 14 men to the plate to collect seven hits and score 10 times to break open a scoreless struggle. Soft-throwing Jeff Laniel pitched one-hit ball for four innings for the Pirates before Brian Bachmeier added a scoreless frame in the fifth and final inning.

Since Bemidji and Fergus Falls meet just once this spring, Thursday's win was worth two points in the NWAC standings for the Lumberjacks, giving them first place at the present with a 1-1 record and three points. Crookston is 1-0, Thief River Falls 0-1 and Fergus Falls 0-1, but 0-2 in the title-deciding point standings.

Bemidji has had a hand in 10 of the last 11 NWAC pennants, winning the thing outright every year except 1976 when they shared it with Crookston and in 1977 when Thief River Falls won the league title. Only other conference baseball championships for the Prowlers came in 1968, 1966 and 1963, the first year of NWAC baseball competition when Thief River Falls and Bemidji shared the top prize. Overall, Bemidji has won or shared 14 NWAC pennants in 17 years.

Miscellaneous

+ Marshall Olson, Crookston high school basketball coach since the 1976-77 season, has resigned from his coaching and teaching duties to enter private business in Crookston.

+ When Bill Jury was named the most athletic boy by a vote of classmates at last week's Lincoln high school senior awards banquet, it continued a family tradition that found his brother, Mike, earning the same award in 1976 and sister, Joan, named the most athletic girl in 1977.

+ After a distant second place finish to Thief River Falls in Thursday's Northwest Athletic Conference tennis meet, Crookston coach Jim Myrold told Lori Mateer of the Crookston Times, "Really, we were first of the other four schools. There was no way anyone was going to beat Thief River Falls. They're just an awesome team to watch." The Prowlers won it with 20 points, with Crookston getting 10.

TOM BJORKMAN hit an overhead shot against John Zanot of St. Cloud Tech during the championship match in No. 3 singles at Saturday's eight-team St. Cloud invitational high school tennis tournament. Bjorkman edged Zanot 7-6, 0-6, 7-6; winning a 5-3 tie-breaker in the final match of the day to give Thief River Falls two points and a title tie with St. Cloud Apollo in the final team standings.

Prowlers Sweep NWAC Titles For Third Consecutive Year

Dominating the Northwest Athletic Conference meet for the third straight year, the Lincoln high school tennis team swept all five first place medals Thursday for a perfect 20-point finish in the five-team event played at Fergus Falls. Crookston was a distant second with 10 points, followed by Fergus Falls 9, Bemidji 6 and East Grand Forks 5.

"That's what we wanted to do, and that's what we did," summed up Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson.

Not only was it the third straight NWAC title for the Prowlers, but it was the third straight year in which Thief River Falls has swept all five medals as Bill Jury took the No. 1 singles crown; Mitch Rustad No. 2 singles; Paul Koppang, No. 3 singles; Tom Bjorkman and Mark Collins, No. 1 doubles; and Bill Holmes and Mark Lundin, No. 2 doubles.

For Jury it was his fourth straight NWAC No. 1 singles crown, with Rustad winning his third straight NWAC No. 2 singles title.

It was Koppang's first conference medal in his first year with the Prowlers, but the doubles players all picked up prizes last year when Holmes won at No. 3 singles, Collins and Ludin won at No. 2 doubles and Bjorkman, teammed with now-graduated Bill Michalek, won at No. 1 doubles.

Thief River Falls closes out its 1980 regular season schedule this week when the Prowlers travel to Bemidji today. (Monday) for a 3:30 p.m. dual, then host East Grand Forks and Mahnomen in a 2 p.m. triangular Thursday on the Northland community college and Lincoln high school courts.

Alexandria Is Golf Winner At Park Rapids

Alexandria edged Fosston 311-313 Friday to win the 20-team Park Rapids invitational high school golf meet.

Perham finished third at 319, followed by Detroit Lakes 320, Thief River Falls, Park Rapids and Brainerd at 321, Roseau and Little Falls 326, Staples 328, Bemidji 329, Moorhead 330, Walker 333, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Bagley 334, Crosby-Ironton 342, Crookston 345, Mahnomen 352 and Aitkin 377.

Dave Geatz led the Prowlers with a strong 75, while Bob Fitzgerald shot an 80; Jim Geatz 82, Mike Anderson 84, Jon Onkka 84 and Jeff Imgrund 85.

Thief River Falls will golf at Detroit Lakes Tuesday, Grand Forks Friday and Roseau Saturday.

Clinic Tonight At Racquetball Center Here

Open for the first time Saturday, the T.R.F. Racquetball center will be open again tonight with a free racquetball clinic being offered to all members and non-members, according to Tom Ritchie, owner.

Classes for beginners and intermediates will begin at 6 and 8 p.m. with an introductory film to be shown at 7 p.m. The new facility, located off highway 59 in the southeast portion of the city, is now accepting members and offers other health and recreation services in addition to racquetball.

Hams Is Named LHS MVP In Basketball

Kyle Hams was named most valuable player on the 1979-80 Lincoln high school basketball team Friday at the Prowlers' post-season banquet in the Lincoln cafeteria.

Hams, a senior guard who averaged 16.7 points and 7.3 assists per game this past winter in leading the Prowlers to a 13-6 season record and a share of the Northwest Athletic Conference title, was also recognized for earning NWAC all-conference and WCCO radio all-state honors for the year.

Hal Swanson, a junior guard on this year's ball club, was named captain of the 1980-81 Lincoln basketball team. Swanson played most of his basketball with the Lincoln junior varsity in 1979-80. Hams and Todd Young captained the Prowlers this winter.

In addition to Hams MVP selection, other special awards went to seniors Greg Miller, most improved; Mark Schmitke, hustle award; and Jim Nyland, best defensive player. Dave Upham was named the most improved sophomore and Steve Olson was selected as the most improved freshman.

Athletic letters went to tournament team members, including seniors Keith Kaspari, Gregg Peterson, Mitch Muzzy, Hams, Schmitke, Nyland, Miller and Young; juniors Mark Lundin, Paul Koppang, Dale Dobias, Jim Vigness, Dave Kays and Swanson; and sophomore Kevin Sanders.

Letters also went to student managers Brent Waale, Keith Kruschke and Bill Kron.

TRF Fast Pitch Softball Teams Meet On Wed.

Organizational meeting of the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the basement card room of the city auditorium.

All teams must have a representative at the meeting to vote on the league's 1980 summer schedule.

TRF, Apollo Share Tennis Trophy . . .

Bjorkman Lifts Prowlers To Title Tie At St. Cloud

Tenacious Tom Bjorkman, playing at third singles for coach Whitey Olson's revamped Lincoln Prowlers tennis team, battled to a tie-breaker victory in the last match of the day Saturday to salvage a share of the team championship in an eight-team tournament held in St. Cloud.

Bjorkman's clutch championship match victory gave the Prowlers the two points they needed to tie St. Cloud Apollo 20-20 for the team title. As a result, the number one rated Prowlers remain undefeated through all tournaments this season. Apollo, Thief River Falls' top challenge in Region 8AA this spring, is rated fourth in the latest Class AA coaches' poll.

The second doubles tandem of Bill Holmes and Mark Lundin also kept their championship skein intact with wins over St. Cloud Tech, Stillwater and Apollo. The Stillwater win avenged the only loss the pair has suffered in tournament competition this year.

Mitch Rustad, moved to first singles in coach Olson's juggling act, pushed No. 3 rated Casey Merickel of St. Cloud Apollo to the limit before losing 7-6, 7-6. The loss on two 5-3 tie-breakers was Rustad's first loss of the season. He had handily defeated Mark Wandamacher of Stillwater and Jim Munson of Hastings to reach the championship round.

Bill Jury paired with Mark Collins at first doubles and lost their first match to Hibbing in three sets before rebounding to beat Hastings and Apollo in straight sets. Paul Koppang, moved to second singles, lost to Tony Tillemans of Apollo but came back to beat Todd Shopp of Virginia and Joe Sutherland of Stillwater. Hibbing won the championship at first singles and Tillemans took the title at second singles. The Prowlers won 12 matches and lost only three during the day.

But it was Bjorkman's late afternoon heroics that earned the plaudits of coach Olson. Bjorkman and John Zanot of St. Cloud Tech split the first two sets of their championship match, Bjorkman winning 7-6 on a tie-breaker and Zanot claiming the second set 6-0. The competitors took a breather in the stifling heat, then met in the final set with all other matches of the tourney completed.

Zanot took the first three games but Bjorkman battled back to a 3-3 tie. Zanot claimed the next eight straight points to go up 5-3, but Bjorkman broke Zanot's serve for 5-4 and held serve for 5-5. Zanot held service for 6-5 and had double match point on Bjorkman's serve before Bjorkman again battled back to tie the set at six-all.

It was Zanot to the lead again in the tie-breaker at 3-1 and service, but he double-faulted for 3-2 and then hit long for 3-3. Bjorkman won the next two points on his service to close out the match.

Thief River Falls is at Bemidji today for a triangular meet with the Lumberjacks and Grand Rapids, then will close out the home season Thursday by hosting East Grand Forks and Mahnomen in a triangular.

Team totals — Thief River Falls 20, St. Cloud Apollo 20, Hibbing 14, Anoka 12, St. Cloud Tech 10, Stillwater 9, Hastings 5, Virginia 5.

Lincoln Girls Hosting Golf Invitational

Only home appearance of the 1980 season for the Lincoln high school girls golf team was scheduled to start this morning (Monday) at 10 as the Prowlers hosted their annual Thief River Falls invitational on the Thief River Country Club course.

Host Fosston was a winner Thursday when the Greyhounds staged an 11-team invitational. Fosston finished with a 374, followed by Roseau 395, Mahnomen and Crookston 405, Moorhead 408, McIntosh-Winger 446, East Grand Forks 455, Bagley 463, Thief River Falls 471, Red Lake Falls 490 and Hallock 566.

Nancy Harris of Roseau and Lori Dolden of Moorhead led the field with 84s. Anette Haugstul of Fosston was third with an 88.

Thief River Falls scores included Janell Kain with a 101, Kathy Walker 105, Sue Gere 129, Mary Geatz 136, Patty Meyer 140 and Tammy Bergan 147. A 149 by Mary Beth Dondelinger did not count in the Prowlers' team score.

NCC Second To Morris Golfers At Fergus Falls

University of Minnesota-Morris was a 22-stroke winner over runner-up Northland community college Thursday in the Fergus Falls invitational golf meet.

Morris posted a four-man 320 to win the five-team event, followed by Northland 342, Fergus Falls 345, Willmar 354 and Brainerd 415.

Jon Noack of Fergus Falls was meet medalist with a 75 over the par-72, 18 holes. Gary Johnson of Northland was one shot back with a 76 on rounds of 38-38. Noack went 38-37.

Rest of the Northmen included Charlie Boyer, 43-42 for 85; Jeff Reese, 45-42 for 87; and Kurt Klosterman, 49-45 for 94.

Northland will compete Thursday in the Brainerd invitational at the Madden golf course beginning at 10 a.m.

Northwomen Close Out '80 Year This Week

Final week of the 1980 season will be a busy one for the Northland community college softball team as the Northwomen play eight games in five days.

It starts today (Monday) with Northland hosting Northwest Division rival Fergus Falls at 3 p.m. Itasca will be in Thief River Falls Wednesday at 3. Northland will visit Crookston Friday, before ending the season Saturday at home against Brainerd at 1 p.m.

All four starts are doubleheaders.

Northland is 3-13 for the year. Last week the Northwomen beat Crookston 15-7, 15-10 Monday; lost to Fergus Falls 7-4, 15-4 Wednesday; and played in an invitational tournament at Hibbing Saturday where they lost to Golden Valley Lutheran 13-0 and fell to Hibbing 20-19.

MSU Open Golf Meet Is Slated Mon., June 2

Moorhead State University Foundation will host its second annual Dragon open golf tournament Monday, June 2, at the Oxbow Country Club in Hickson, N.D., 15 miles south of Fargo. The summer classic is a benefit to raise scholarships for Moorhead State students.

Over $7,500 in prizes donated by local businesses will be awarded in the 18-hole handicapper, including a four-day, all-expenses paid trip to Las Vegas for each member of the winning foursome. A 1981 Buick Regal will go to the first player to sink a hole-in-one from the sixth tee at Oxbow; a 16-foot Hobie-Cat catamaran goes to the first player to one-shot the 18th hole.

Entry fee is $100 per player, including green fees, dinner at 6 p.m. and refreshments. Tee-off is at 1 p.m.

The tourney is organized on Texas scramble play, with four players on a team with staggered handicaps playing against equally matched foursomes in best-ball competition.

To enter, or for more information, call the public affairs office at Moorhead State, (218) 236-2555, or the golf pro at the Oxbow Club, (701) 588-4669. Registrations should be made by May 20.

Conservation Awards Go To Minnesota Men

Minnesota commissioner of Natural Resources Joseph Alexander has added his congratulations to the many others received by three state men for their recognition as outstanding conservationists.

The three were recently named winners of 1980 American Motors conservation awards. The awards have been presented annually since 1954 to citizen and professional conservationists for dedicated efforts in the field of renewable natural resources.

Among the winners named this year were Dr. P. John Komarek of Lonsdale, Wesley W. Libbey of Grand Rapids and Arthur S. Hawkins of Hugo.

Komarek was cited for his efforts in improving and creating wetlands habitat in Minnesota. Alexander said he was primarily responsible for restoration of Logue Lake, a 100 acre wetland that had been drained many years ago.

Wes Libbey has been active in conservation work for half a century and a leader in various conservation organizations, including the Greater Lake Pokegema lake association, a group of 400 lakeshore owners.

Hawkins is employed by the Minneapolis regional office of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

THIEF RIVER FALLS' Steve Hvidsten cleared a hurdle ahead of Warroad's Tom Roberts in a preliminary heat of the 120-yard high hurdles during Thursday's Quentin Jones invitational high school track meet. Hvidsten, a sophomore, wound up with a fifth place finish in the finals with a time of 17.98. Roberts later won the 300-meter intermediate hurdles in 42.26. East Grand Forks was the team champion in the tenth annual event staged on the Thief River Falls track.

Northmen Beat Red Raiders For First Time . . .

Northland, Brainerd Divide MJCAA Doubleheader Saturday

Scoring four times in the fourth inning, Northland defeated Brainerd 4-2 Saturday in the second game of a community college baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls to gain an MJCAA twinbill split. Brainerd scored four seventh inning runs to win the opener 9-7.

The second game victory was Northland's first ever baseball win over Brainerd, and marked the Red Raiders' first MJCAA Northwest Division loss in three years.

But like the guy who smacks himself in the head on TV and says, "I could have had a V-8," Northland coach Chet Engelman was thinking about what might have been, too.

"We should have won both games," offered Engelman, "but we gave it (the opener) away."

Northland pitchers gave up just one earned run in the two games as the Northmen improved their Northwest Division record to 3-5 and climbed to 7-5 overall. They'll be in Bottineau, N.D. for doubleheaders Friday and Saturday.

Brainerd 9
Northland 7

Northland carried a 7-5 lead into the top of the seventh inning of the first game, but couldn't hold on as Brainerd pulled out a come-from-behind 9-7 victory.

The Red Raiders loaded the bases in the seventh on a base hit and two errors, with another error at the plate scoring two runs to tie the game. Winning pitcher Paul Wippler then came up with an RBI single for the game-winner and Doug Collins laid down a sacrifice bunt for an insurance run.

Brainerd had built a 5-0 lead through 3½ innings, scoring three times with two out in the fourth on a bases loaded infield throwing error.

Northland got two runs back in the bottom of the inning on a solo home run by Dan Parent and a successful delayed double steal that scored Marcus Woods.

The Northmen went ahead 7-5 in the sixth as Woods and Morice Hendricks drilled back-to-back RBI doubles and Lonnie Serfling greeted Wippler, who came on in relief of starter Bob Layman, with a two-run home run.

Brainerd 2

After three perfect innings, Brainerd pitcher Bob Gessell ran into trouble in the fourth inning of the nightcap when he surrendered four runs and ended up a 4-2 loser.

Gessell hit Morice Hendricks to start things in the fourth. Tony Smith came through with an RBI single, stole second and went to third when Gessell threw past second base on a pick-off attempt. Joe Kraska doubles to left field for a run and with two outs, Scott Chapman hit a bases loaded two-run single to center for a 4-1 lead.

Brainerd, scoring on an RBI single by Mike Bzdok in the top of the first, pulled within 4-2 in the sixth when Northland was charged with four passed balls and Bob Layman singled home a run.

But that was all the scoring the Red Raiders managed off Northland pitchers Vince Parker, who went the first six innings for the win, and Kraska, who moved from behind the plate to the mound for a save in the seventh.

Indians, Spuds Hand TRF Two Tournament Losses

Grand Rapids scored seven runs in the last two innings, then outlasted a five-run Thief River Falls rally in the bottom of the seventh to take an 8-5 win Saturday in the first round of the Moorhead high school invitational baseball tournament.

The host Spuds, beaten by Minot 3-2 in the other first round game, routed the Prowlers 17-0 in the third place game. Minot won the event with a 13-4 drubbing of Grand Rapids in the championship game.

The double setback dropped the Prowlers' season record to 5-3 for the year. They'll be in Crookston to play Mount St. Benedict today (Monday) and will host Crookston Central Tuesday. Both games start at 4:30 p.m.

In the junior varsity portion of the Moorhead tournament, the youthful Thief River Falls team lost to Grand Rapids 12-3 and fell to Fergus Falls 16-4, dropping their record to 2-4. They'll entertain Crookston Tuesday at 4:30 on the fairgrounds softball diamond.

Grand Rapids 8
TRF 5

It was a 1-0 pitcher's duel between Grand Rapids' Jeff Magner and Thief River Falls' Jeff Ulrich until the Indians banged out four base hits and scored five runs in the top of the sixth inning en route to an 8-5 first round tournament win.

Magner contributed offensively, too, when he drilled a bases-loaded two-run single in the sixth that was followed by a three-run home run by Mike Miller.

"It was anybody's ball game up to that point," explained Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "They bunched some hits on us and scored, that's all. We played well. It was just one of those things."

Grand Rapids lengthened its lead to 8-0 in the top of the seventh when Randy Ahlm's fly ball to center field was lost in the sun for an RBI triple. He scored on a fielder's choice.

Thief River Falls battled back in the bottom of the seventh when Jeff Mongoven singled, pinch hitter Wayne Huseth walked and John Stimac singled to load the bases. Dave Odegaard hit a two-run double and Mark Harder belted a three-run home run to close the gap to 8-5.

In a remarkable reversal of form, Moorhead, a 1-0 loser at Thief River Falls earlier in the week, embarrassed the Prowlers 17-0 in the third place consolation game. Moorhead scored eight runs in the second inning and added seven more in the fourth — on five Thief River Falls errors. The game was ended early on the ten-run rule.

"We got whipped by Moorhead and the heat," explained Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "The heat definitely got to us. We were beat." The Spuds, said Cornell, were able to go home and get out of the heat between games; not so for the Prowlers.

And Moorhead, limited to four hits here last Monday, banged out 17 hits Saturday.

"Moorhead hit everything. It was unreal," offered Cornell.

Ninety-five per cent of all species in the animal kingdom are invertebrates — spineless creatures such as insects, worms, and crustaceans — according to the National Wildlife Federation. Among vertebrates, there are about 12,000 species of fish, 8,500 species of birds, 4,000 species of mammals and 3,000 of amphibians.

East Grand Forks Easy Quentin Jones Winner

East Grand Forks lapped the field Thursday in the sun-drenched Thief River Falls Quentin Jones invitational high school track meet. The Green Wave led from start to finish, winning exactly half of the 16 events and more than doubling the point total of runner-up Roseau.

Final count in the tenth annual event showed East Grand Forks with 151 points, Roseau 75, Warren 54, Warroad 53, Crookston 52, Thief River Falls 49, Red Lake Falls 28, Stephen 22, Marshall County Central 11 and Karlstad 1.

The results didn't surprise East Grand Forks coach Gary Berg. "I thought we'd score about 140," he said. "I've generally been pretty happy with everybody. They've all been having good times."

Sprinter Steve Driscoll and weightman Keith Johnson were double event winners for the Green Wave. Driscoll covered the 100-yard dash in 10.56 and did the 220 in 23.87. Johnson won the shot put with a toss of 48-5 and took the discus with a 135-9 effort.

But East Grand Forks' top performances came from miler Dave Lee, who set a new Quentin Jones record with a 4:39.37, and from the three Green Wave relay teams — all first place finishers.

In the relays, Todd Selk, John Roche, Dave Swanberg and Driscoll set a meet record with a 46.38 in the 440; Selk, Swanberg, Paul Helt and Scott Fettig went 3:57.99 in the sprint medley; and Lee, Kent Kohlhase, Ted Sundin and Helt ran a 3:45.2 in the mile.

Lee broke the mile record of 4:46.0 set by Wayne Lutz of Karlstad in 1977 and the Green Wave 440-yard relay team erased a 47.22 put in the record books by Crookston in 1978.

Three other meet records were smashed (maybe four if you count the temperature and sunshine) as Tim Knotek of Crookston went 6-0 in the high jump; Dave Larson of Roseau ran a 10:21.4 two-mile; and Eddie Christian of Warroad did a 2:05.7 in the 880-yard run.

The old high jump record was 5-10 by Mike Lubarski of Warren in 1977; the two-mile mark of 10:28.8 belonged to Todd Johnson of Warren in 1978; and the 880 standard of 2:07.91 was set by Lyle Johnson of Warroad in 1978.

The 880 might have been the best race of the afternoon as the top five runners all bettered Johnson's old record. Sundin finished second in 2:06.1, Tony Koftad of Roseau was third in 2:07.1, Steve Kruta of Thief River Falls was fourth in 2:07.4 and Kohlhase was fifth in 2:07.5.

Warroad was the only team other than East Grand Forks to win more than one event. Joining Christian in the winners' circle for the Warriors were Tom Roberts with a 42.26 in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles and Tim Pearson with a 54.03 in the 440-yard dash.

Rounding out the winners were Bob Lubarski of Warren, 19-5 in the long jump; Jim Brule of Red Lake Falls, 16.22 in the 120-yard high hurdles; and Jeff Regimbal of Stephen, 11-0 in the pole vault.

Next stop for East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls and Crookston will be the Northwest Athletic Conference meet at Bemidji Tuesday when the Lumberjacks will be going for their sixth straight NWAC outdoor title.

Can East Grand Forks beat Bemidji? "We know Bemidji is favored," admitted Berg. "But if we can out-do Fergus Falls, we figure we can be right up there because Fergus Falls will take some points away from Bemidji."

Ducks Are Finding Dry Nesting Sites

Migrant ducks, geese and swans returned to the Canadian prairies on schedule, but Ducks Unlimited, North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization, feels that nesting conditions this spring aren't likely to be as productive as those which greeted waterfowl in 1979.

"Western Canada simply has not had the kind of runoff we like to see this time of year," said DU executive vice president Dale E. Whitesell. "The fact that spring water conditions are not up to snuff with last year's comes as no surprise. All winter long we waited for a decent snowpack, but light precipitation and warmer-than-usual temperatures set the stage for a snowpack which was down 25 to 30 per cent from what would be considered the norm."

Whitesell reported that runoff throughout the prairie region of southern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba was light to nonexistent, and that spring water conditions in the parkland areas of central Alberta and Saskatchewan are normal to slightly below normal for this time of year. But he pointed out that tough conditions seem to have slumped from those existing in the early spring of 1979, they are not yet as severe as the dry weeks which marred the 1977 waterfowl nesting season.

Prowlers Beat Eagles By 6-3

A four-run fourth inning, highlighted by a lead-off home run by Jeff Ulrich, carried Thief River Falls to a 6-3 high school baseball win over Red Lake Falls Thursday on the fairgrounds diamond here.

It wasn't artistic, said Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "We made more mistakes than we made all year," he confessed.

Both teams scored in the first inning, with Kevin Erickson of the Eagles and Mark Harder of the Prowlers banging out RBI doubles.

A pair of Thief River Falls errors gave Red Lake Falls a third inning run and a 2-1 edge, but the Prowlers won it in the fourth when Ulrich homered, Kelly Gutterud scored on an infield ground ball and Dave Odegaard came through with an RBI single. The fourth run of the inning scored on a Red Lake Falls error.

Singles by Jim Hallamek and Ulrich made it 6-2 in the fifth inning. Red Lake Falls tacked on a run in the sixth when Mike Cameron led off with a double and later scored on an infield ground-out.

Wayne Huseth scattered five hits to pick up the pitching decision for the Prowlers who beat the Eagles 8-1 in the 1980 season opener at Red Lake Falls back on April 17. Dave Thorfinnson was the starter and loser for the Eagles.

TOP FINISHERS IN the 110-yard hurdles during Friday's girls high school dual track meet in Thief River Falls were Pam Healy of Red Lake Falls (dark uniform), who won it in 17.2; Patty Langlie of Thief River Falls, second in 17.4; and Patti Blackstad (closest to the camera), third in 17.8. The Prowlers, who will host their Thief River Falls invitational Tuesday at 4 p.m., beat the Eagles 89-30.

Lincoln Girls Invitational Track Meet Is Set Tuesday

Seven teams will compete Tuesday in the annual Thief River Falls girls high school invitational track meet. Field events start at 4 p.m., with running events beginning at 4:30.

East Grand Forks rates as a pre-meet favorite, according to Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer, with Roseau and Thief River Falls expected to offer the top challenges to the Green Wave. Rest of the field will include Crookston, Stephen, Warren and Warroad.

The Prowlers primed for their invitational Friday with an 89-30 dual meet victory over Red Lake Falls on the Thief River Falls track.

Thief River Falls won 12 of the 14 events, including a double triumph by Stacy Ehrenstrom who took the shot put with a toss of 31-6 and won the discus with a toss of 101-8.

That dual, and tomorrow's invitational represent the Prowlers' only home appearance of the 1980 season.

Top Athlete Awards Go To Four Amateurs, Pros

American Heart Association's first annual Laurel Wreath athlete-of-the-year awards will go to professionals Tracy Austin, the world's top ranked woman tennis player, and Terry Bradshaw, field general for Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers, and to amateurs Linda Fratianne, Olympic figure skater, and Kurt Thomas, world-class gymnast.

Laurel Wreath awards national chairman Tom Harmon, who announced the winners, explained that the program — the first and only nation-wide poll permitting the public to select the country's most outstanding male and female athletes from among all sports in both professional and amateur categories — is designed to focus attention on the vital importance of regular physical exercise as a deterrent to heart disease.

Five finalists in each classification — female professional, male professional, female amateur, male amateur — were nominated by a panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters from across the country. Nomination criteria included athletic achievement, high standards of sportsmanship, and a committment to physical fitness.

Voting was conducted in January of this year at the more than 1,000 Big Boy restaurants throughout the United States.

Ballots were tabulated later at the American Heart association national headquarters in Dallas, Texas. The AHA, one of the largest and most respected voluntary health agencies in the country, operates in all 50 states and has a corps of nearly two million volunteers. It supports basic research into the causes of cardiovascular disease — currently the nation's leading killer and crippler — surgical and non-surgical treatment as well as the development of training programs for medical professionals and public education in methods for reducing risk of heart disease through diet, exercise and other techniques.

The Laurel Wreath awards owe their name to the ancient practice of presenting a wreath or crown fashioned from a laurel branch as a token of public esteem for outstanding individual achievement. The bronze trophies — stylized male and female figures created by noted California sculptor Don Winton who also designed the Emmy Award — are mounted on onyx bases and measure more than 20 inches high. Each figure holds a cluster of four laurel wreaths, symbol of the awards program, overhead.

Tracy Austin

Terry Bradshaw

Linda Fratianne

Kurt Thomas

Tracy Austin, "best female professional athlete for 1979," is now a 17-year-old junior and an "A" student at Rolling Hills high school in Rolling Hills, Calif. She burst onto the international tennis scene, three years ago when, at 14, she was the youngest player ever to compete at Wimbledon.

Tracy, a professional for the past two years, achieved top ranking in April. Sister Pam and brothers Jeff and John — all standout tennis players — help keep Tracy in top form.

Quarterback Terry Bradshaw, "best male professional athlete for 1979," has led the Pittsburgh Steelers to five league titles and four Super Bowl championships. A first round draft choice in 1970, he has spent his entire 11 year NFL career with the Steelers. Bradshaw, who has missed only eight games because of illness or injury in his entire career, seems to set new records almost every time he takes the field and is considered certain for Hall-of-Fame honors.

In the off-season, the 32 year old Bradshaw can usually be found with his wife, skating star JoJo Starbuck, on their ranch in Grand Cane, Louisiana, not far from his hometown of Shreveport.

Linda Fratianne, "best female amateur athlete for 1979," has been skating competitively — and consistantly winning medals — since she was 12. The two-time world champion figure skater, now 19, entered the professional ranks earlier this year after winning her fourth consecutive world free skating championship and a silver medal in the 1980 Winter Olympic Games.

Linda and her two brothers and two sisters — she is the third of the five — are natives of Northridge, Calif.

Kurt Thomas, "best male amateur athlete for 1979," is generally considered to be the finest male gymnast ever developed in the United States. The 24-year-old Thomas — a diminutive five feet, five inches and 124 pounds — has improved steadily over the years and has consistently been the leading point winner for American gymnastic teams in international competition.

Kurt, the youngest of three brothers, earned his baccalaureate degree in health and safety education at Indiana State University. He and his wife Beth currently reside in Tempe, Arizona where he is on staff at Arizona State University.

Nominees for best female professional athlete included two other tennis stars — Chris Evert-Lloyd and Martina Navratilova — golfer Nancy Lopez and New Jersey Gems basketball star Ann Meyers.

Others nominated for best male professional athlete honors were Houston Oilers running back Earl Campbell, Boston Red Sox outfielder Fred Lynn, tennis star John McEnroe and golfer Tom Watson.

Finalists for best male amateur athlete included hurdlers Edwin Moses and Renaldo Nehemiah, marathoner Bill Rodgers and Oklahoma University running back Billy Sims.

Laurel Wreath awards national chairman Tom Harmon, currently sports executive producer for Osmond Communications of Salt Lake City, Utah, is best known as Michigan University's legendary "Old 98" ironman All-American halfback and Heisman Trophy winner, who later played for the Rams before establishing himself as one of the nation's leading sportscasters.

"We're proud that our first ever balloting has focused on such outstanding people from so wide a range of competitive athletics," Harmon stated. "Each of them exemplifies the values of sportsmanship and physical fitness the Laurel Wreath Awards are intended to emphasize."

Tom Blumberg, executive director of "Hiawathaland", reminds us that fishing is open in southeastern Minnesota:

"Every year about this time the fishing bug hits the fisherman. You look at your calendar and say, "How am I going to make it?" There is relief for this annual bug, close by.

Hiawathaland in southeastern Minnesota is open and the fishing on Lake Pepin and the Mississippi river are often overlooked by the fisherman. This area has some of the best fishing in Minnesota. The walleye, northern pike, largemouth bass, silver bass, muskie, sauger and great pan fish are available here. If your a bass hog hunter, the back waters of the Mississippi, south, near Weaver is your place to be. Big northerns in the 10-15 pound class are also in these waters. The season is open all year round on Lake Pepin and the Mississippi river with many places to launch your boat or to rent a boat.

Get that fishing tackle out and, clean it up. Then visit Hiawathaland and get the cure for that old fishing bug. Hiawathaland is a great place to fish, not only is Lake Pepin and the Mississippi good year round but the trout fishing is great. The brown and speckled trout abound. The trout season is open and the fishing in the Root river and other streams in Winona, Wabasha, Houston and Fillmore counties is something everyone should try.

Reports of several 3-4 pound trout have already been received. The rivers and streams did raise for a couple of weeks but they are back to normal and the fishing should be great. Don't forget the Zumbro and Cannon rivers. A leisurely drift down these rivers will net you some excellent smallmouth bass and an occasional walleye. Many camping facilities and canoe rentals are available along the river banks.

The lakes in Rice, Waseca and Freeborn offer the fisherman every kind of fish he or she wishes to catch. Many campgrounds and resorts are available with excellent facilities. These lakes open May 17, as does the rest of the state. The spring walleye fishing is excellent and the crappie fishing in several of these lakes is hard to beat.

If you have never tried Hiawathaland, I suggest you try one of these areas this year. You will be pleasantly surprised."

Jerry Fuller of Fuller's Tackle Shop in Park Rapids is our guest columnist this week:

Wise's fishermen's encyclopedia states that the Hubbard county area of Northern Minnesota has a greater variety of freshwater fish than any area in the world. In the Park Rapids area there are many small spring-fed lakes rather than one large body of water and the number of lakes as well as the variety of fish offer the angler a dazzling array of fishing choices.

While most area lakes have a specialty that they are noted for, nearly all have at least six game fish species and a few have as high as eight. In addition to the lakes, Straight river is one of the premier Brown trout streams in the state.

Rather than having to fish for just one species in each lake, the angler can try his largemouth bass luck early in the morning, switch to northern pike in the mid-morning, try for bluegill and crappie during the afternoon or perhaps catch a musky sunbathing or a school of smallmouth bass near a rocky ledge and then finish out the evening on a good walleye bar.

Opening season interest in this area is always strong in the walleye department. In years past, the Fish Hook chain of lakes, consisting of Island, Eagle, Potato and Fish Hook lakes has always opened well. All of these lakes have rivers flowing in and out of them and these spots are normally the place to be on opening weekend. Live bait — leeches, crawlers and minnows — are the order of the day, but the jig fisherman with the right color jig can do as well. In addition to the fish hook chain, Big Sand and the Bottle lakes of the Mantrap chain and the lower Crow lakes area also open well for the walleyes. If ice goes out late and the water is still cold, the walleyes will be in quite shallow water so light lines and small weights, baits and lures are indicated. Most years will find the walleyes in 10-14 feet of water directly in front of any flowage in the lakes.

While walleye draw the most attention, bass fishing is drawing more fans each year, both as a sport fish and as table fare. The Park Rapids area has at least 50 good largemouth lakes and fifteen with good smallmouth fishing.

The Upper Crow Wing lakes, the entire Fish Hook Chain, and many of the individual springfed lakes have good largemouth fishing, and in addition all 12 lakes in the Mantrap Chain have both large and smallmouth fishing.

All of these lakes have at least five other species in them besides their specialty fish so a typical opening will see anglers catching surprise northerns, unexpected crappies or maybe a Brown trout while they're angling for walleyes, or the angler may just decide to take time off for some pan-size bluegills. Variety is a byword for the Park Rapids area.

A BATON EXCHANGE between Thief River Falls freshmen Steve Kruta (left) and Lon Aune went smoothly in the final event of Thursday's Thief River Falls Quentin Jones invitational high school track meet — the mile relay. The Prowlers finished fourth with a 3:54.3 in the race. East Grand Forks was an easy team champion with 151 points. Roseau was a distant second with 75.

NUMEDAL . . .

Extending our sincere sympathy to the family and relatives of Mrs. Irving (Dorothy) Iverson, who passed away so unexpectedly on Tuesday, April 22, at the age of 63 years. Region One Development Forum Slated

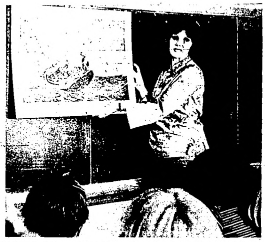
Beginning in June, Governor Al Quie and Lt. Governor Lou Wangberg will meet with local elected officials, community leaders and legislators at a series of six community development forums around the state. The forum for Region I, entitled "Minnesota Communities: Planning for the Future" will be held June 18 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

Forums will be cosponsored by a number of private, voluntary and public agencies. Focus of the forums will be building private-public partnerships for investing in Minnesota communities. Specific topics will vary with each forum but will involve such concerns as improvements in roads, sewers and water treatment plants; keeping the economy strong; meeting housing needs; encouraging energy conservation and the development of sound alternatives.

In addition to the governor's keynote address, there will be a panel consisting of local, state and federal resource people at each forum. There will also be a number of opportunities for small group discussions.

One-day sessions will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and summaries of the day's events will be available at the end of each forum. Noon lunch will be available at the university.

For further information contact: Government Training Service, Minnesota Building, 4th and Cedar, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, phone (612) 222-7409.



FIFTH AND SIXTH grade students at St. Bernard's elementary school in Thief River Falls were visited by Zonie Easton, a member of Art Adventure — a community service project — Thursday afternoon. Presentation was made of Winslow Homer's "Breezing Up" painting, followed by a discussion of the American artist's life, and questions asked by the students. From October to April, Art Adventure members make six visits to Thief River Falls schools, displaying paintings and sculptures to assist students in understanding various artists and their works. Although the program began two years ago, this is the first year visits have been made to St. Bernard's school.

Lloyd Wold To Be Honored For Service

Inter-county community council, Inc. has announced that a recognition award will be presented by the U.S. Community Services administration to Lloyd Wold for his contribution to programs for low-income citizens of the community during the past 15 years.

Lloyd Wold was elected to the board of directors in December of 1970, representing the public officials as a county commissioner from Polk county. He served in that capacity until June 18, 1975, when he was elected chairman of the board of directors of Inter-county community council. He has been with the agency for over 10 years.

NW Regional Board Reelects Strandquist

Northwest regional development commission conducted its annual meeting recently at the Best Western motel in Crookston, with 31 members present.

Sam Newman, director of the office of local and urban affairs of the state planning agency, addressed the commission on legislative actions pertinent to regional development commissions and also pointed out the importance of commissions to perform a good annual self evaluation of their work. Newman also awarded membership certificates to recently appointed commission members from Gov. Albert Quie.

Ervin Strandquist of Newfolden was reelected to a two-year term as chairman of the commission. Strandquist has been chairman since the formation of the commission in 1973. Board of directors elected for 1980 includes William Gatheridge, Humboldt, Kittson county; Kenneth Price, Stephen, Marshall; Werner Mahlum, Gary, Norman; Richard Kruse, Thief River Falls, Pennington; Duane Knutson, Fertile, Polk; Orrin Linder, Red Lake Falls, Red Lake; Wayne Juhl, Greenbush, Roseau county.

Fred Sorensen of Grygla was appointed representative of the governor's rural development council. One of the responsibilities of this council is the comprehensive development plan for the state of Minnesota. Council also awards some grant monies available for programs that will enhance the life of the citizens of rural Minnesota communities.

Commission elected 10 public interest group representatives to serve on the commission for a one year term. They are Ray Thompson, Warren, agriculture; Harold Thomforde, Crookston, business; Fred Sorensen, Grygla, financial institutions; Norman Cruse, Thief River Falls, industry; George Wikstrom, Kittson county, Labor; Verne Green, Newfolden, soil and water conservation districts; Cleo Cleveland, East Grand Forks, vocational schools; Rude Anderson, Roseau county, watershed districts; and Norma Hanson, Goodridge, women.

In other business, the commission awarded $21,316 to Kittson and Red Lake counties for transportation programs for the elderly, and to the Northwest Minnesota legal services through the Title III Bolder Americans act. Fifteen art projects throughout the region received $16,978.10.

Commission adopted the concept of an ad hoc task force to do an evaluation of the commission. Task force will consist of one commission member and one person at large from each country in the region to do an in depth study of the commission during the year and prepare a report for the commission to use in setting goals and objectives for the future.

Commission serves the counties of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Norman, Red Lake and Roseau. Its purpose is to facilitate intergovernmental cooperation and to insure the orderly and harmonious coordination of state, federal and local comprehensive planning and development of programs for the solution of economic, social physical and governmental problems in the region. Technical assistance is provided to units of government upon request.

Hearing On Sewage Set At Goodridge

Total estimated project cost of these proposed facilities is $773,000. Eligible portions of the project would be funded through the environmental protection agency (75 per cent), Minnesota pollution control agency (15 per cent), and by the city of Goodridge (10 per cent). The estimated annual operations and maintenance costs are $4,800. Total annual cost to the city, including debt retirement, would be about $13,500 of which the school district would pay approximately 30 per cent. It is estimated that a household in Goodridge can expect a sewage bill of $8.50 per month.

The council urges all city and township residents to review the fact sheets and the draft of the facilities plan which are available in Dr. Brown's office at the school and to attend Wednesday evening's hearing. The council will then decide whether or not to approve and submit the final plan to EPA and MPCA before the end of the month.

PBS-TV To Air Controversial Death/Princess

"Death of a Princess," a two-hour drama-documentary which has caused a political uproar in Great Britain, will be seen in America as part of public television's "World" series. The program, which examines the circumstances surrounding the 1977 execution of a Saudi Arabian princess and her student lover, will be broadcast by Prairie Public Television on Monday, May 12, at 7 p.m.

The recent British telecast of "Death of a Princess," a production of public television station WGBH Boston in conjunction with Britain's ATV, Ltd., touched off a diplomatic exchange which, according to published reports, included a Saudi threat to break formal ties with the United Kingdom plus implications of oil and other economic sanctions.

The "World" special recounts a reporter's journey through the Arab world to investigate the life and death of a Saudi princess and her lover. While a dramatized account, "Death of a Princess" is based on transcripts and records relating to the actual public execution of Princess Misha'al, granddaughter of Prince Mohammed, the elder brother of Saudi King Khadid.

"Death of a Princess" describes Misha'al's confinement in a women's palace after the collapse of an arranged marriage to a royal cousin. The film infers that, after being prevented from leaving Saudi Arabia with her lover, Misha'al was denied due process of Islamic law. The two were summarily put to death in a public place.

Despite protests from Saudi representatives, who were said to be particularly angered over a scene depicting the actual execution, Britain's independent ATV network aired "Death of a Princess" on April 9. The resulting Saudi furor, reportedly, prompted the British government to order its Jidda ambassador to cut short a vacation and return to his post. A subsequent British Foreign Office statement, expressing "profound regret" over any embarrassment suffered by the Saudis as a result of the telecast, has been condemned as inappropriately conciliatory by several members of Parliament.

WGBH's David Fanning, who served as executive producer of the program, said the intent of "Death of a Princess" is to give a sensitive view of circumstances in the Arab world which lent themselves to the Misha'al incident. "The film is far from an attack," Fanning said. "It's a very sophisticated journey into the private circles of the Arab world . . . The girl is a symbol of the Arab predicament — someone stretched three ways between the West, radical Arab politics and the strict ethic of the desert. Both (producer-director) Anthony Thomas and I share a great concern for the Arab world."

RLF Hospital Prepares For Hospital Week

"We're America's Health Team" is what St. John's hospital at Red Lake Falls and 6,000 other hospitals across the country will be saying to their patients, staff and communities during national hospital week May 11-17.

During St. John's hospital's observance of national hospital week, the following scheduled events will take place:

Monday, May 12 — 9 a.m., movie: "Child Safe"; 11:30 a.m., employee of the year dinner; and 7 p.m., lay advisory council meeting;

Tuesday, May 13 — 3 p.m., fire safety demonstration; 4:30 p.m., health kick day;

Wednesday, May 14 — 11:30 a.m., "Father McMahan Day" dinner; 2:30 p.m., movie: "Child Safe";

Thursday, May 15: 1 to 2 p.m., baby smiling contest; 5:30 p.m. employee picnic; and

Friday, May 16: 2 to 4 p.m., senior citizens day tour, coffee and bars.

In addition to the above scheduled events, the hospital will be giving free blood pressure checks and a $10 cash award to the first place winner of the baby smiling contest. Parents of children through six months of age are invited to bring them to the hospital conference room at 1 p.m. Thursday, May 15. All contestants will receive a prize.

National hospital week is sponsored each year by the American hospital association and its approximately 6,000 member hospitals to foster better communications and understanding between hospitals and their patients, employees and the communities they serve.

When possible, carpool with friends or co-workers. It makes sense that the fewer vehicles on the road, the less fuel will be used.

Gregg Brekke To Command Legion Post

Gregg Brekke was elected commander of Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion at the meeting held Tuesday evening in the club rooms in Thief River Falls.

Other officers elected include Floyd Johnson, first vice commander; Dr. David Brown, second vice commander; Claire Larson, third vice commander; and Charles Greentree, finance officer. New members named to the executive committee were James Smillie, Ed Haraldson and Maynard Wedul.

The school patrol was commended for the manner in which the program was conducted this year. A special recognition evening was planned for 5 p.m. on May 12 at the club rooms to serve hamburgers, French fries and soft drinks to all patrol members and their supervisors.

Delegates were nominated for the Ninth District convention to be held June 6 and 7 at Red Lake Falls. Special guest at the meeting was District Commander Kenneth Orvik of Ada.

The post also awarded $500 to the Ninth District American Legion band for the purchase of new uniforms and equipment.

Chamber Hosts Candidates For School Board

Meet the candidates session to provide a forum for the 11 candidates for Thief River Falls board of education office in Thief River Falls will be sponsored by the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the city auditorium.

"Each of the candidates will be given five minutes to discuss his or her opinion on running for the school board, thoughts on education and related items," stated Dale Dillon, chamber of commerce president. "This will be followed by a question and answer session to assist chamber members attending in making a decision prior to the annual school election to be held May 20."

Grygla Men Injured In Pickup Crash

Three Grygla area young men were injured when the pickup truck in which they were riding left the roadway, struck a driveway and overturned about four miles west of Fourtown at approximately 2 a.m. Friday.

Driver of the truck was Donovan Eugene Verbout, 20, and his passengers were Larry LeRoy Johnsrud, 21 and Gerald Ray Johnsrud, 23, all of the Grygla area. According to the state patrol office, the Verbout vehicle was traveling east and passing another vehicle when it went into the ditch, traveled for some distance before hitting the driveway into a gravel quarry, then flipped over the crossing and landed on its top. The pickup is said to be a total loss.

Verbout was reported transferred to a Fargo hospital and Gerald Johnsrud was hospitalized at Thief River Falls. Larry Johnsrud was treated and released.

Mrs. Terrian Reviews Art's Kidney Transplant

(Editor's Note: Art Terrian of Thief River Falls, who was featured in the Times a couple of years ago as a dialysis patient after kidney loss, has received a kidney transplant. It is people like Terrian that the Kidney Foundation of the Upper Midwest seeks to help, and it was the foundation that benefitted financially from the kidney foundation auction held Sunday at the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Art's wife, Thelma, wrote the following narrative regarding her husband's preparation, surgery and subsequent recovery.)

Art Terrian was put on dialysis June 18, 1976 at Metropolitan medical center in Minneapolis. He has been a dialysis patient at Grand Forks United hospital until he came to Hennepin county medical center March 29, 1980 for his kidney transplant. He had been on the transplant list since Nov. 14, 1979.

It was a very exciting day when the call came from Minneapolis saying he had passed all of the physicals necessary for a transplant. That meant that the cancer surgery he had undergone in 1977 was a complete success. We were told then it would be five years before they would consider him for a transplant, and at that time they weren't even taking anyone his age for a transplant.

So, last summer Art decided he'd see what the reaction was to his getting a transplant. We came to Minneapolis Oct. 2, 1979, met with the transplant clinic, and were told if he passed all the physicals and still wanted to risk the surgery, or rather the problems following surgery, they wouldn't tell him no.

They don't go out and recruit anyone in his age bracket (he will be 68 years old November 6) but they will do them if the patient is physically able to go through it. There are side effects from all of the medications necessary for a successful transplant, and sometimes it's not the thing to do. However, they felt that Art was up to going through it, and so far they were absolutely right.

He got the call Saturday morning, March 29, at 10 minutes past seven, that a kidney was available they thought was a good match for him. Was he interested? He sure was, and we were glad we were already up, dressed and ready for the day. He left on the 10 o'clock plane for Minneapolis and checked into the hospital on arrival. He had had dialysis in Grand Forks on Friday, but he was put on dialysis again, given four pints of blood while on dialysis, and also given the good news that the kidney did not reject his blood, so the surgery was on.

Another Grand Forks patient, Vivian Lykken from Grafton, N.D., was also called. She got her call at 5 a.m., so she arrived in Minneapolis just ahead of Art, and her surgery was also done. She got her kidney that evening. Art was going to get his after her's, but there were two emergencies so he had to wait until 7 a.m. Palm Sunday morning. Surgery started at eight o'clock and finished at 12:30.

I didn't go with Art when he went to Minneapolis, so the doctor called me Sunday afternoon after surgery, told me everything went well and he was doing fine. He was in intensive care for only one day. I came down here on Tuesday, April 1, in time to go with him on his first walk down the corridor after surgery.

He was already getting food to eat, although he still had his sub-clavical intervenous tube that he was getting the anti-rejection medication through. That lasted for 14 days, when it was removed. He was put on

Red Lake Indians File Petition On Land Ruling

Red Lake band of Chippewa Indians filed a petition with the United States supreme court last week requesting formal review of a central court of appeals decision, according to David Olin, Pennington county attorney. Pennington has been involved with other Minnesota counties in the past as joint defendant in this and other tribally-initiated jurisdictional lawsuits.

In January the court of appeals denied the tribe's request for expanded original reservation boundaries and additional hunting and fishing claims in a 2.6 million acre area, encompassing several northern Minnesota counties, including Pennington.

The counties involved will continue with the support and assistance of the state of Minnesota and the office of attorney general Warren Spannaus to jointly represent and defend the interests of county government before the supreme court if the court elects to review the case, attorney Olin stated.

Formal action by the court as to whether it will accept the case or not is expected to take three to six months, the county attorney said. Federal district court chief judge Edward J. Devitt first denied the Red Lake tribal claims in March of 1979. Olin expressed the opinion that the likelihood of the supreme court altering the decisions of Judge Devitt and the federal court of appeals at this point in time is slim.

The Red Lake band had sought a declaratory judgement that its members retain hunting, fishing, trapping and wild ricing rights in an area the band ceded to the federal government in 1889 and 1904. The area encompasses some 2.6 million acres adjacent to the present diminished Red Lake reservation.

Position of the Indians was basically that those rights were guaranteed them in an 1863 treaty and were not abrogated by the subsequent 1889 and 1904 land cessions.

The state of Minnesota and the counties disagreed, asserting that in 1889 and 1904 the Red Lake Indians expressly relinquished all their right, title and interest in the ceded area, which includes hunting, fishing, trapping and wild ricing rights.

In the conclusion of this decision in March of 1979, Judge Devitt stated that "The band's position in this case is based on scanty and inconclusive evidence. This evidence, claims the band, is sufficient, when combined with the rules of construction favoring the Indians, to mandate a ruling in favor of the band.

"The court is of the view, however, that if the rules of construction wre invoked as

Invite Public To Inspect Lincoln School

Persons interested in viewing the Lincoln high school complex on a firsthand basis prior to the special board of education meeting Monday evening have been invited to do so by Frank Hamerlinck, high school principal.

At the school board meeting scheduled for 7:15 p.m. in the Lincoln library, architect Ken Skold will present alternative plans and cost estimates on remodeling and renovation of the Lincoln complex. Public attendance at the meeting is encouraged.

People interested in looking over the Lincoln building may do so at any time, Hamerlinck said, but he has arranged tours for the benefit of those who would like to visit in a guided group. Those visits should be made Monday between 8 and 9 a.m., from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. or from 7 to 8:15 p.m.

OIL PAINTING by Kelly Leining, junior at Pershing high school in Plummer, will be one of a number of art projects on display Tuesday in the new art room of the school. The art show will be held the same night as the school's spring music concert. Mrs. Alice Larson is the art instructor at the school.

Burning Ban Extended To Pennington

Outdoor burning ban ordered by the Minnesota department of natural resources has been extended to include Pennington county, according to word received Monday by Duane Noel, Thief River Falls fire chief.

Pennington now joins a number of other northern Minnesota counties covered by the ban which prohibits all open burning until fire conditions improve. No burning permits are being given and all open fires are banned, including campfires and smoking out-of-doors.

Career Day Held At Newfolden

Newfolden elementary school students participated in career day activities Thursday and Friday when a number of people from the area donated their time to discuss areas of interest or occupation.

Some of the sessions were held in the school itself while others were in Newfolden community business places. Students registered for participation in four 20-minute sessions each day, thereby gaining exposure to a number of activity and work areas during the two afternoons.

Donating their services were the following:

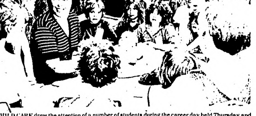
Thursday — Harvey Stokke, postmaster; Everett Doolittle, Marshall county deputy sheriff; Judy Alderson, assistant manager at Agassiz national wildlife refuge; Mrs. Donna Langlie, macrame; high school coaches Jim Pederson, Ron Ueland and Sam Gebhardt, physical fitness; Mrs. Vernon Samuelson, nursing; and Mrs. Edith Hagenbeck, waitress work;

Also Rev. Earl Eveland, fireman; Mrs. Shirley Verbout and Becky Brouse, hairdressing; Mrs. Ron Ueland, child care; Sharon Schmidt, natural foods; Lloyd Bengtson, grain elevator; Mrs. Sarah Ackerman, clay pottery; Gary Hamness, Arctic racing team support van; and Pat Collins, ambulance.

Friday — Joyce Magner, banking; Stuart Sethre, grocery store; Pauline Gustafson, teeth care; Howard Rokke, radio announcing; James Taggart, horse training; Roger Sackett and Dave Odette, remote control airplanes; Kevin Murphy and Mark Isaacson, scuba diving; Mark Carlson, photography.

Also Bernie Wilebski, oil painting; high school coaches, physical fitness; Mary Jo Davis, weaving; Linda Joppru and Ellen Bolen, dog training; Janice Olson, cake decorating; and Larry Molstad, cactus arranging.

Newfolden school officials and faculty members expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the volunteers in providing the career day program.



CHILD CARE drew the attention of a number of students during the career day held Thursday and Friday at the Newfolden elementary school. Mrs. Ron Ueland brought her five-month-old son to the school and demonstrated how to handle, bathe and change a child of that age. Schedule was arranged so that each of the elementary youngsters could attend four 20-minute sessions on each afternoon.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Valley Home Events Reported By Ella Overum

Eleven residents at Valley Home observed their birthdays during the month of April according to a report submitted by Ella Overum, a resident at the home.

Those having birthdays and the dates, were Hazel Anderson, April 3; Sigrid Griebstein, April 4; Alex Anderson, April 5; Myrtle Brown, April 10; Belle Erickson, April 15; Olga Klenk, April 17; Antonia Hruby and Dora Rustad, both on April 19; Carl Ryan, April 20; Amanda Langaas, April 24; Julius Sletten, April 28; and Mabel Ihle, April 29.

Each one received a birthday card and a cash gift from the Home, as well as a birthday card from the Catholic Daughters, who visit the home the first of each month.

Several of the birthday honorees served special treats to the residents and staff. On the day of their birthdays, Myrtle Brown and Julius Sletten served ice cream, Carl Ryan treated ice cream and cupcakes, and Olga Klenk, Belle Erickson, Antonia Hruby, Mabel Ihle, Dora Rustad, Alex Anderson and Hazel Anderson served dream bars.

Easter season was observed at the Home with a large number of residents participating in the Easter Egg hunt on Maundy Thursday headed by the CAP students. The eggs were hidden in the center and dining area. Joe Havlik won the main prize, an Easter basket. The students also presented an Easter program. In the afternoon, Mrs. Sandy Drevlow showed the film "Shroud of Jesus."

Good Friday afternoon a devotional meditation was given by Rev. Barrie Henke of St. John Lutheran church. Music was presented by the St. John Morning handbell choir, led by Pat Henke.

The Easter season was ushered in with the home's annual Easter hat parade with a number of prizes being awarded. The event concluded with lunch, featuring brown derbys.

On Easter Sunday a large number of residents were guests at the homes of relatives and friends.

Devotional programs during the month were given by Harvey Dyrud of Newfolden, Rev. George DeWall and family of the Bible Baptist church, who are in charge of services every Sunday afternoon; Rev. Don Knutson of Redeemer Lutheran church, Rev. Raynard Huglen of Newfolden, Rev. Julius Hovland of Trinity Lutheran church, who offers communion the fourth Wednesday of every month; Lester Brekke; and Rev. John Kleinwachter of St. Bernard's Catholic church, who offers Mass every Saturday morning.

Tuesday evening devotional programs were given by the Don Johnson family, Dean Paskewitz, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Trochmann, Norris Trochmann and Laurie Trochmann.

Also presenting programs at the Home during April were LuAnn and Nancy Sandland, who sang to the group; the cowboy pastor Andy Bouck of Michigan, N.D., who spoke and displayed his rope tricks; the Sunday school children from the Zion Lutheran church of Viking with Mrs. David Gabrielson in charge; the Martha circle of Trinity Lutheran church, who served a vareity of breads for the afternoon coffee.

Millie Werness, Tillie Sabo, Ella Johnson and Ann King, the aides who work the night shift, presented a program to the group on Thursday afternoon, April 24. The program included a skit and the solo, "Nickolena," sung by Mrs. Byklum with Mrs. Brekke as pianist. Following the program, they served ice cream cups and wafers.

Adding special interest to the month's activities was a two-week bowling tournament featuring eight teams with four residents in each team. Four residents served as substitutes. Members of the championship team were Hilda Johnson, Martha Knauf, Herbert Grinde and Carl Ryan. Winning the consolation honors were Elmer Everson, Mildred Fritzinger, Myrtle Curtis and Orville Grim.

Other activities included bowling at Oakland Park Nursing home; a bus trip to visit residents at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital and an afternoon of shopping in the local stores; a picnic dinner April 30th at the Hartz park with the staff assisting in serving the dinner; Bible studies every Tuesday morning with Judith Wold in charge and Mrs. Martin Hanson as substitute; films every Thursday evening, bingo every Monday afternoon, band practice on Thursday afternoons and choir practice Saturday forenoons. Regular meetings are also held by the resident's council.

Rites Thursday For Minnie B. Johnson, 84

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie B. Johnson, 84, a longtime resident of Highlanding township, Pennington county, will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Mrs. Johnson died Monday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. James Mattson will officiate at the services. Jerry Joringdal will be the organist and Mrs. James Dalager, the soloist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Richard Parnow, Clayton Grimley, Kenneth Lindquist, Dean Salveson, Arlen Johnson and Howard Johnson.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Minnie B. Bisbing, was born Oct. 8, 1895 at Lakefield to William and Cornelia Blackert Bisbing. As a young child, she moved with her parents to Freeman, S.D., where she attended school and grew to womanhood. In 1912, they came to Pennington county, settling in Highlanding township.

On Nov. 18, 1913, she was united in marriage to John M. Johnson at Thief River Falls. The couple farmed until Johnson's death on May 17, 1952. Following his death, Mrs. Johnson continued to live on the farm for sometime. She also lived for a number of years with her family in Goodridge and at Seattle, Wash. Since July 5, 1979, she had been a resident of the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital.

She was a member of Zion Lutheran church and a former member of Faith Lutheran church, Goodridge, where she was active in Ladies Aid and taught Sunday school. She was also active in the 4-H club program, serving as leader for 10 years.

Surviving are three sons: Harold and Roy Johnson, Arlington, Wash., and Lloyd, Sacramento, Calif.; five daughters: Mrs. Ame (Esther) Lindquist, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Clarence (Laura) Grimley, Moorhead; Mrs. Mable Halvorson and Mrs. Bob (Betty) Thompson, both of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Raymond (Agnes) Parnow of Goodridge; 27 grandchildren, 34 great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters: Mrs. James (Eileen) Salveson, Prairie du Sac, Wis., and Catherine Sutherland, Beaver Lodge, Alberta, Canada, and two brothers: Paul and August Bisbing, both of Beaver Lodge, Canada.

She was preceded in death by three brothers, one sister and a son-in-law.

Gina Brurud Rites Held At Bethany Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Gina Brurud, 84, of Thief River Falls were held today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m., at the Bethany Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls. Mrs. Brurud died Monday morning at Oakland Park Nursing home where she had been a resident since 1977.

Rev. Gene Broughton officiated at the services. Music was provided by Mrs. Arnold Hammer, who served as organist and soloist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Belmont Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Arnold Hammer, Lance Peterson, Douglas Peterson, Bruno Beiswenger, Louis Stenseth and Maurice Stenseth.

Mrs. Brurud, the former Gina Peterson, was born in Neilsville on April 1, 1896 to Ole and Marget Peterson, now deceased. She grew to womanhood in the Nielsville community and later moved with her family to Smiley township, Pennington county.

On Nov. 28, 1919, she was married in Thief River Falls to Millard Brurud. Following their marriage, the couple farmed at Nielsville. Later, they moved to Smiley township, where they resided until 1969, when they moved into Thief River Falls. Since then, she had made her home here.

She is survived by two brothers: Obert Peterson and Robert Peterson, both of Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died Jan. 29, 1971; two brothers and two sisters.

Lincoln Gets North Central Accreditation

Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls has been accredited for 1979-80 by the North Central association of colleges and schools, according to word received recently by Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools.

"During the review of the school's report and supplementary information, no deviations from policies or standards were noted," states the letter from John W. Vaughn, executive director of the commission on schools. "The school is to be commended for its efforts to provide for its students a quality program of education.

"On behalf of all schools holding membership in the association, we extend congratulations to the school, its staff and its community," the letter said.

Naomi Solem Services Set For Thursday

Funeral services for Naomi Elizabeth Solem, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem, rural Thief River Falls, will be held Thursday at 10 a.m., at the United Methodist church. Naomi Elizabeth died Saturday, May 3, 17 hours after birth at the United Hospital in Grand Forks, N.D.

Rev. Jonathan Law will officiate at the services. Mrs. Walter Larson will be the organist and Jane Olson will sing, "Children of the Heavenly Father," and "Jesus Loves Me." Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home.

Surviving are her parents, Valerie and Peter Solem, a brother, Robert, her paternal grandparents, Alfred and Rebecca Solem, all of Thief River Falls, and her maternal grandparents, Leo and Dora Anderson of Chicago, Ill.

Arnold Wahl Of Greenbush Dies Monday

Arnold Wahl, 80, of the Greenbush community, died Monday night at the Karlstad hospital.

Funeral services for Arnold Wahl will be held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Olland Lutheran church, north of Greenbush. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will repose at the Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, after 4 p.m., Thursday, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Another 7 to 11 per cent hike in food prices is forecast this year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Nearly three-fourths of the increase will go to the non-farm sector to pay for marketing costs.

Services Set For Thorval Krossen, 76

Thorval Krossen, 76, of 1700 Widman Lane, Crookston, and formerly of Trail, died Sunday at the Riverview hospital at Crookston following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services for Thorval Krossen will be held Thursday at 10 a.m., at the Valle Lutheran church at Trail with Rev. James Hanson of Crookston officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body is reposing at the Petterson Funeral home, Oklee, and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Thorval Krossen was born June 30, 1903 to Knute and Sigri Bratland Krossen on a farm near Trail. He lived and farmed in the Oklee-Trail area until 1958, when he moved to Crookston. There he was employed at the Riverview hospital from 1960 until he retired in 1970.

He was a member of the Valle Lutheran church, Trail, and Trinity Lutheran church, Crookston.

Surviving are two sons: Howard R. Krossen, McIntosh, and Kenneth, Duluth; a grandson, Mark Krossen, McIntosh; one brother: Ole Krossen, Bagley; two sisters: Mrs. George (Bertha) Bestland, Grand Forks, N.D., and Mrs. Anne Chrlstianson, Minneapolis; and three nieces.

He was preceded in death by a son, Richard, who died in 1967; his parents, four sisters and two brothers.

Rites Friday For Kenneth Hanson, 55

Funeral services for Kenneth Hanson, 55, of this city will be held Friday at 11 a.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Hanson, a former resident of the Grygla and Roseau area, died Sunday at Northwestern hospital.

DISTRICT WINNERS of star rating at the district music contest, these clarinet players will participate in the Plummer high school spring music concert Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Left to right are Mary Westlake, Debbie Koskela and Linda Hesse. The fourth member of the quartet, DeeAnn Huotari, is not pictured.

Rev. Carl Andersen, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, will officiate. Organist and soloist will be Mrs. Arnold Hammer. Interment will be in the Winner cemetery in Roseau county.

Pallbearers will be Gene Anderson, Kenney Hanson, Donald Johnson, Howard Beito, Oliver Fabian and Gary Anderson.

Kenneth Tilman Hanson was born July 12, 1924 in Reine township, Roseau county to Henry and Annie Hanson. He received his schooling at the Winner school. Later, he farmed for several years near Grygla and at Fourtown. He also worked for a number of years for the Herb Holthusen Construction company.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the United States Army.

In 1965, he began working for Arctic Enterprises, Inc., in Thief River Falls. He remained with the company until 1979, when he retired, due to ill health.

He was a member of the Eagles.

Surviving are his mother, Annie Hanson, Thief River Falls; two sisters: Mrs. Clifford (Thelma) Anderson and Mrs. Gust (Hattie) Johnson, both of Grygla; four brothers: Vernon Hanson, Moline, Ill.; Curtis, Coal Valley, Ill.; and Marvin and Ernest, both of Des Plaines, Ill.; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father, two brothers and one sister.

Bruce Blazer Services Set For Friday

Funeral services for Bruce Blazer, 71, of this city will be held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at the Assemblies of God church. Blazer died Sunday at Northwestern hospital. He had been ill for the past years with cancer.

Rev. James Hagemeister will officiate at the services. Music will be provided by Mrs. Hagemeister, organist, and Mrs. Sharyl Thompson, soloist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Sheldon Thompson, David Hoefs, Wilbert Johnson, Wendell Jorgenson, Lloyd Blazer and Earl Hoefs.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from Thursday noon until 11 a.m., Friday, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Bruce Herbert Blazer was born Jan. 23, 1909 near Oakes, N.D., to Harry and Cora Beckwith Blazer, now deceased. He grew to manhood in that community. In 1934, he came to the Goodridge community, where he worked as a farm laborer.

He was married on Jan. 23, 1937 at Goodridge to Irene Johnson. The couple moved to Thief River Falls in October of 1945 and have since made their home here. Blazer was employed here by Phillip's Auto Wrecking company for 27 years, retiring in 1974.

He was a member of the Assemblies of God church in this city.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Delaino Blazer, Crofton, Ky.; three grandchildren: Allyna, Arletta and Arlynn Blazer; two brothers: Oliver Blazer, Devils Lake, N.D., and Clarence, Mosses Lake, Wash.; and three sisters: Mrs. Edward (Ida) Hoefs, Menahga; Miss Martha Blazer, Park Rapids; and Mrs. Cora Weiss, of Willmar.

He was preceded in death by four brothers, Howard and Ira, and two who died in infancy.

Services Are Set For Enoch Johnsrud, 74

Funeral services for Enoch Johnsrud, 74, of Goodridge, who died Monday morning at Northwestern hospital, have been scheduled.

Services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., at the Ekelund Lutheran church with Rev. Gene Broughton officiating. Mrs. Dick Marquis will be the organist and Mrs. Arnold Hammer, the soloist. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Vernon Iverson, Glennie Iverson, Erling Dahlen, Leonard Johnson, Bennie Johnson and Harry Solberg.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until 11 a.m., Thursday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Enoch Johnsrud was born June 19, 1905 in Star township, Pennington county, to Ole and Julia Odegaard Johnsrud, now deceased. He received his schooling in the Fairview school, district 56.

He was married in 1927 at Duluth to Bonnie Saunders. Following their marriage, the couple lived in Duluth where Johnsrud was employed in a steel plant. In 1930, they returned to this area to farm in Star township.

He was a life-time member of the Ekelund Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife, two sons: Jack and Clifford Johnsrud, both of Goodridge; seven grandchildren, two great-grandsons, two brothers: Teloy Johnsrud, Goodridge, and Odin, San Francisco, Calif.; four sisters: Mrs. Bennet (Lillian) Johnsrud, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Fay (Odelia) Crye, Ladysmith, Wis.; Mrs. Harry (Alice) Mjelde, Northfield; and Mrs. Oscar (Clara) Torgerson, Minneapolis; and a number of nieces and nephews.

One brother, Cornelius, preceded him in death.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alma E. Sampson, 84, mother of John Sampson of Thief River Falls were held Monday at 2 p.m., at the Trinity Lutheran church in Crookston.

Mrs. Sampson died Wednesday, April 30, at Northwestern hospital.

Mrs. Sampson, the former Alma Johnson, was born in 1895 at Stephen and was married in 1925 at Crookston to Harold Sampson. She was the owner and operator of the Johnson Millinery shops in Greenbush and Shelly. She also worked at Bethesda hospital at Crookston as a dietician.

She is survived by two sons: Harold Sampson, Crookston, and John, Thief River Falls; three grandchildren, a great-grandchild, and four sisters.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in 1973.

H. Lofstrom Services Held At Strandquist

Hjalmar I. Lofstrom, 84, a former resident of Strandquist and Middle River, died Tuesday evening, April 29, at the Karlstad Memorial hospital.

Funeral services for Hjalmar I. Lofstrom were held Saturday at 10 a.m., at the Bethesda Lutheran church in Strandquist with Rev. Henry Moyer, Rev. Donald Peterson and Rev. John A. Riveness officiating. Vocal selections were by Mrs. Phillip Boen and Mrs. Douglas Thun with Mrs. Terry Johnson as organist. Interment was in the Fort Snelling National cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were fellow Legionnaires from the Middle River, Strandquist and Newfolden Legion post. Military honors were provided by fellow members of the same three posts.

Hjalmar Isador Lofstrom, a son of the late Andrew and Anna Lofstrom, was born May 13, 1895 in Lincoln township, Marshall county, near Strandquist. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community, farming with his father until he entered the U.S. Army in December of 1917. He served with the expeditionary forces in France for two and one-half years. Following his discharge from service in May of 1919, he returned to farming until 1940. He then engaged in various businesses in Strandquist and Newfolden and later managed the American Legion post at Middle River for several years. Following his retirement, he continued to make his home at Middle River. For the past two years, he had been in failing health and had recently become a resident of the Karlstad Nursing center.

In 1940, he was united in marriage to Frances May Olson at Newfolden.

He was a charter member of the Sam R. Hougard American Legion post of Strandquist, was an active member of the Hans Lian post of Middle River and held membership in the VFW post 2793 of Thief River Falls.

He is survived by two sons: Delmore Lofstrom, St. Paul, and Hjalmer, Jr., of Hood River, Ore.; three grandchildren: Tony, Karen and Michael; and three sisters: Miss Violet Lofstrom, Karlstad, Mrs. Kinda Braff, Monticello, and Mrs. George (Minnie) Koland of Bemidji.

Services Set For Gladys And Errin Renstrom

Joint funeral services will be held at Strandquist on Thursday for Mrs. Willard (Gladys) Renstrom, 60, and her granddaughter, Errin Renstrom, 4, who died Friday afternoon in an automobile accident at Strandquist.

Services will be held at 10 a.m., at the Strandquist school gymnasium with Rev. Henry Moyer of the Bethesda Lutheran church, Strandquist, and Rev. Donald Peterson of the First Lutheran church, Karlstad, officiating. Burial for Mrs. Renstrom will be at the Mission cemetery, near Strandquist. Errin will be buried at the Salem cemetery, near Stephen.

Friends and relatives may call at the Collins Funeral chapel at Karlstad after seven o'clock tonight (Wednesday). The bodies will also repose at the school for one hour prior to the time of services.

Complete obituaries will be published in a later edition of the Times.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS at Newfolden were participants in a career day held Thursday and Friday afternoons. Among the attractions was the racing team van utilized by the Arctic Enterprises snowmobile racing team. Gary Hamness (in background at left) of Arctic Enterprises helped explain to youngsters how the van is used and answered questions. Most of the youthful visitors to the van were captivated by Bob Elsner's racing sled.

Poetry Session Is Rewarding Experience

by Ruth Holmes

Recently the Northwest Regional library invited everyone in the community to hear three poets at a reading made possible in part by a grant from the Northwest regional development commission with funds from the Minnesota state arts board and the Minnesota legislature. It was a rich and rewarding experience!

The first thing attracting attention was the bookbus. There are two in the nation. One comes from New York and the other one is from Fargo. They are filled with chapbooks, small magazines and small presses. For the first time I found out about chapbooks, little pamphlets whose name means 'cheap'! Some unknown poet or prose writer will go from chapbooks to more established forms of literature. Sinclair Lewis put his prose into chapbooks before he became famous!

The first poet was Grayce Ray, who wore clean jeans and a sweater; she looked like the one you had coffee with this morning. She is an associate editor of the "Dacotah Territory" and some of her poems were "Poems From a Residential Hotel."

The next poet was Ted Kooser and in 1976 he was awarded a $6,000 writing fellowship by the national endowment for the arts. He comes from Nebraska where he edits his own "Windflower Press."

The last poet was an associate professor of English at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse: John Judson. His phrases wash over you like: "Our Words were moth husks left on the ashes."

Each poet gave a one-hour reading for the public and then spent from two to three hours with local poets like myself working with and criticizing our poems.

I chose four pamphlets, or paper books, by these writers. They came to $7 and the poets autographed them. I discovered "International Directory of Little Magazines and Small Presses." It is a directory that is an alternative to commercial publishings. It is non-commercial, 'irresponsible', and the individual life blood of literature.

The title of this experience was Words, Well-Wrapped. It was a gift!

Whirlpool microwave oven
8 GREAT Reasons You'll Love Your Whirlpool Microwave
REM7800
1. It's Cool . . . Microwaves reflect off oven walls, top, bottom, and doors . . . only the food absorbs the energy, so oven stays cool!
2. It's Economical . . . Nearly all the cooking energy is used to heat food, not the air and utensils.
3. It's Fast . . . Cooking or defrosting starts and stops at the time or temperature selected. You don't have to wait for oven to preheat.
4. It's Safe . . . Safety interlock switches prevent oven operation unless door is securely latched.
5. It's Clean . . . Since interior stays cool during cooking, foods do not bake on to walls, shelf or door. A damp cloth will wipe away most spatters and spills with ease.
6. It's Convenient . . . You can set your cooking time in minutes or seconds on the automatic digital MEALTIMER* clock or internal temperature selected on the MEAL SENSOR* temperature probe.
7. It's Flavorful . . . Foods are cooked in natural juices or small amounts of water.
8. It's Nutritional . . . Since foods are cooked in their natural juices valuable vitamins and minerals absorbed in the water are not thrown away.

Mylo Carlson Has Top Herd In Feb., March

Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association, listed the following herds as top in the association for February and March.

In first place is Mylo Carlson, whose herd produced an average of 51.1 pounds of milk and 2.02 pounds of butterfat; followed by Myron Erickson, 51.0 and 1.95; Orlan Stolaas, 49.6 and 1.82; Duane Krohn, 49.0 and 1.84; Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 45.9 and 1.70; Marvin Koop, 45.5 and 1.68; Chester & Steve Gast, 43.8 and 1.66; Duane Vatsaas, 43.5 and 1.61; James Muzzy, 41.1 and 1.68; and Hanson Heritage farm, 40.5 and 1.39.

For March top herds were listed as follows: Mylo Carlson, 52.7 and 2.10; Myron Erickson, 50.2 and 1.87; Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 47.0 and 1.71; Roy Nelson, 56.9 and 1.77; Duane Krohn, 46.6 and 1.67; Robert Rausch, 46.2 and 1.70; Orlan Stolaas, 45.9 and 1.67; Hanson Heritage dairy, 44.4 and 1.54; James Muzzy, 44.2 and 1.71; and Gordon Wetterlund & Son, 43.3 and 1.81.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. Amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low, even though the cows which are milking produce much milk.

There were 28 DHIA herds and four owner-sampler herds on February and March tests for a total of 32 herds on test for each month. There were 11 cows that completed records with over 625 pounds of fat in 305 days or less in February, and 15 cows that completed records with over 625 pounds of fat in 305 days or less in March.

Camp Offered For Mentally Handicapped

Camp Sunshine announces that the 1980 camping season will be held at Sand Hill Lake near Fosston during the month of June. Four one-week sessions are available.

Camp Sunshine has specialized in providing a camping experience for the mentally handicapped for the past 10 years. A variety of activities are available including: fishing, swimming, boating, camp-outs, cook-outs, nature hikes and an expanded arts and crafts program. Each camper's activities are individually planned according to capabilities and desires. A nurse is on duty 24 hours a day so campers who are on medication are accepted.

Camp Sunshine is a non-profit corporation sponsored by Region 1 Association for Retarded Citizens. Funding is provided through campership fees, local A.R.C.'s, and donations from organizations and individuals. If you would like more information about camp or wish to make a donation, please call Shirley Booth, 507 South Horace, Thief River Falls, 681-3459.

MACRAME HANGING created by Barb Helley, freshman at Plummer high school, will be among items on display in the school's new art room Tuesday. The art show will be combined with the school's spring music concert.

Auto Owners Speak Out On Gasoline Tax

Importance of the automobile to our lifestyle was underscored by a group of irate car owners who wrote to an automobile club to complain about new taxes which will affect motorists.

Automotive information council (AIC), noting that an additional 10-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax goes into effect May 15, compiled some of the comments:

—It is high time that our lawmakers woke up to the fact that not all car owners are wealthy. To many, a car is a necessity — not a luxury to be consistantly singled out for more and more taxes.

—Higher taxes will only serve to escalate inflation since a great majority of our essential goods and services are directly related to the price of motor transportation.

—I can't get to a drug store or the grocer without using my car — let alone get to work. Why must the brunt of this situation fall on me.

- Don't make my life more miserable than it is . . . without use of a car. I would not be able to leave my house for medical treatments, shopping, etc.

—Aren't these people aware of the fact that the economy of this country is dependent upon the automobile, and that the only thing they are accomplishing by the squeeze on motorists is total collapse?

—The guy who has to have a car to keep his job, in order to feed his wife and kids, is being forced out of his livelihood . . . get off our backs.

—The short-sighted politicians are determined to put the small business firm out of business. There is a limit to the costs I can absorb or pass on to my customers.

—We motorists have to live within our means. It's about time local, state and federal governments did the same.

Foot Care And Blood Pressure Clinic Slated

Foot care and a return blood pressure clinic for the rescreening of elevated blood pressure readings will be held Thursday, May 15, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the senior meals center in Newfolden.

The clinic is sponsored by the Marshall county nursing service and registered nurses will be giving foot care and rescreening blood pressures.

Weed Control Method Helps Reduce Costs

With diesel fuel prices already exceeding 90 cents a gallon and other farming necessities skyrocketing as well, many Minnesota farmers are taking a long hard look at their management program with an eye toward reducing overall expenditures while minimizing wear-and-tear on costly machinery.

"Today's farmer is faced with increasing costs at every turn," contends Dr. Gary Jacques, weed control specialist. "As such, many growers are making a conscious effort to find new ways to farm efficiently without forfeiting consistent weed control."

One method Minnesota farmers are employing to hold the line on overall operational costs is reducing the number of trips they make across their fields each year. Another method is the use of lighter, faster, and wider tillage equipment to prepare a seedbed and incorporate herbicides more quickly and efficiently, he explains.

"An increasing number of farmers who prefer to incorporate their weed control chemicals are also becoming concerned about the costs of deep tillage and the two pass incorporation requirements of certain herbicides. In fact, many are finding that a shallow, one pass incorporation of a herbicide, using a properly adjusted field cultivator with drag attached or multiweeder, can place the chemical in the weed germination zone quickly and efficiently," claims Dr. Jacques.

With farmer's time at planting valued at up to $700 per hour, time saved is money earned, the weed control specialist asserts. "Using typical size equipment, a tractor pulling a 30-foot field cultivator at six mph will cover 22 acres per hour, while that same tractor pulling a 21-foot tandem disc at five mph will cover 13 acres per hour. That's a nine-acre bonus for every hour of work.

"In addition to covering more acres in less time, utilization of a field cultivator can also save fuel, help reduce labor costs and aid in preserving soil moisture," Dr. Jacques contends. He does, however, point out that combining tillage practices with planting or application of herbicide or fertilizer will result in slightly smaller savings.

"You can't forget the second tillage operation that is usually recommended for incorporating conventional preplant incorporated chemicals either," he reminds farmers. "Extra time and fuel add up to more dollars per acre."

With current costs escalating at an unprecedented rate, many farmers are finding they can help put a lid on overall operational costs by taking advantage of the time, money and soil-saving benefits of using various types of lighter, wider and faster tillage equipment to incorporate their weed control chemicals.

Motorists Are Reminded To Heed Cyclists

If you've been aware of more motorcycles on the road lately, it could be because there are more, advises the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA). With the growing need for more efficient use of energy, many drivers are turning to the motorcycle as a way of saving fuel. This may affect you as a motorist.

If you're like most motorists, when you drive you are looking for other cars. Train yourself to also be alert to motorcycles, cautions Minnesota AAA. Realize that a motorcycle rider may need to make special maneuvers to insure his or her safety. A windblast from a passing truck or a danger situation may cause a rider to change lane positions. Be aware that cyclists have blind spots too, and be extra careful at intersections, where most accidents occur.

Motorists and motorcyclists must share the roadway. Learn to understand the special problems facing the motorcyclists, and cooperate to insure everyone's safety.

For free copies of "Eye That Cycle — Tips for Drivers," and "Eye That Cycle — Tips for Cyclists," write or phone: Minnesota AAA, Traffic Safety Dept., 7 Travelers Trail, Burnsville, MN 55337, phone 612-890-2500.

If you must drive alone, choose a route that will avoid congestion, long traffic lights, and rush hour traffic. The less time you sit with the engine idling, the less fuel will be wasted.

Minnesotans Reminded Of Burning Laws

As Minnesotans finish up their spring-cleaning projects and tend to their lawns and gardens, a problem arises: how to get rid of the leaves, shrub trimmings and trash that ambitious spring-cleaners have accumulated.

In most Minnesota cities and towns, the regular garbage collectors haul the trash to a sanitary landfill. But in many rural areas, trash collection service is not available.

Solution to this problem years ago was simply to burn the trash. Today, however, Minnesota has strict laws limiting open burning. Restrictions are part of a statewide strategy to achieve federal air quality goals, and to eliminate the nuisances and health hazards often created by open burning.

Open burning is allowed only with a permit, according to Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA) air pollution regulation (APC-8), and only certain reasons for burning are acceptable.

Only exception to the permit requirement is in unincorporated areas where no trash collection service is available. In these areas, certain refuse (papers, leaves, brush, but not household—food—garbage or plastics) from single residences may be burned, but only in approved waste burners. Burner must be made of fire-resistant material, hold at least three bushels, have a closed cover during burning and have no holes in the top or sides greater than one inch in diameter.

If a municipality has no trash collection service, open burning of household refuse may be allowed under the conditions described above after the local government has received permission from the MPCA.

All other open burning is strictly prohibited, unless an MPCA permit is granted. Acceptable purposes for open burning are: (a) disposal of diseased shade trees; (b) activities in accordance with accepted forestry, game management or agricultural practices; (c) disposal of trees and brush in areas outside the seven-county metro area; (d) disposal of materials generated by demolition of non-commercial or non-institutional structures; and (e) ground thawing for utility repair and construction.

Any unauthorized open burning is a misdemeanor, which carries penalties of up to $500 and-or 90 days in jail.

Permits may be obtained from local department of natural resources fire wardens, from MPCA-designated county officials, or from one of the MPCA regional offices in Brainerd, Marshall, Duluth, Rochester or Detroit Lakes. If there are any questions on where to get a permit, contact the nearest MPCA regional office.

A permit request will be denied if a reasonable alternative method of disposal is available, or if a nuisance or health hazard would result from the burning.

Even if the purpose for burning qualifies for a permit, there are conditions that must be met before the actual burning takes place.

First, the local fire authorities must be notified of the time and place of any fire authorized by a permit. Burning may not be conducted during an air pollution alert, during a DNR imposed burning ban or if the prevailing wind is blowing toward nearby residences. Further, the burning must be done as far away from public roads as is practical so traffic hazards are not created, and at least 600 feet away from occupied buildings other than those on the property where the burning is conducted. Finally, the recipient of the permit must be present for the duration of the fire.

Days of having to put up with the neighbors' smelly trash fire are over. Open burning has been recognised as a nuisance and a potential health hazard, and its control is necessary, the MPCA says.

Mrs. Terrian Reviews Art's New Transplant

a regular diet, although he had a fluid restriction yet, because his kidney was slow to start functioning.

He had four dialysis treatments after getting his kidney, which they do to keep the fluids and wastes from building up and overtaxing the new kidney. You see, the kidney is also in a state of shock, as is the body receiving it after surgery. Time is needed for them to — like Art puts it — get acquainted with each other. His kidney is really working well; he hasn't had dialysis since April 9. Since that time his kidney has "kicked in", as they put it, and his chemistries are returning to the range considered normal, which is something that hasn't been for a real long time. It is really something to produce that liquid gold and to know that it is quality!

Art looks great, as do the other transplant patients. Their color is so much better, and by feeling better, they naturally look better.

So now we are learning how to take his blood pressure, and all about his medications, because he will soon be released from the hospital. Then he will be an out patient, returning every day the first week, and every other day for five or six weeks. Then if everything is O.K. we can come home. So far, the time has gone by very fast, and I'm sure the next few weeks will disappear like we didn't have them.

Beat the High Cost of Heating—
Look Into A Low Interest Loan

The way we look at it, you've got two choices. As your heating bills go higher, you can keep lowering the temperature and start adding the long underwear, socks, sweaters, hats, scarves, mittens . . . or, you can make some energy saving home improvements that will keep the warm air in and the cold air out.

And while you're at it, you can also fix your roof, paint your house, repair the plumbing or do something else to make your house a better place to live.

Who's Eligible?

To qualify for a home improvement loan, you must
- Own the property you're improving.
- Be a reasonable credit risk.
- Have an annual adjusted gross income not exceeding $16,000

The property you are improving must be at least 15 years old or need energy saving improvements, or have health or safety hazards that need repairing.

What Improvements Can be Made?

You can obtain an MHFA loan for most basic and necessary improvements that make your home more livable. Loans are also available for the following
- Energy saving improvements such as wall or attic insulation, storm doors and windows
- Purchasing and installing solar equipment for space or water heating
- Furnace improvement or replacement.
- Permanent improvements such as wiring, plumbing or roofing that increase the market value of your property

Balloons Used To Help Astronomers

by William Waller
Smithsonian News Service

High-flying helium-filled balloons, at times the domain of party-going children and globe-hopping explorers, today are providing astronomers with a view of the heavens impossible from even the tallest mountaintop observatories.

With the help of telescopes aboard giant unmanned balloons, scientists have gained new insights into a wide variety of earthly and celestial phenomena — from the chemical reactions taking place in the earth's protective ozone layer to the sequence of events leading to the birth of distant stars.

"Balloons offer one of the best ways to take telescopes above the earth's thick, obscuring layer of air," says Dr. Giovanni Fazio, a scientist at the Harvard-Smithsonian center for Astrophysics in Cambridge, Mass.

The earth's atmosphere not only protects us from the sun's harmful radiation, Fazio explains, but it also distorts and filters out the light from more distant stars. For an astronomer, looking through the atmosphere can be as difficult as peering through a steam bath. For certain wavelengths of energy, such as gamma- and X-rays and ultra-violet and infrared light, the atmosphere can completely block any view.

"In addition to overcoming these obstacles, balloons are also the most efficient means for lifting heavy scientific payloads," Fazio says. "In fact, without them our 4,000-pound telescope would never get off the ground."

Moreover, unlike jets and rockets, balloons are non-polluting and vibration-free thereby providing a clean and stable platform to carry out sensitive experiments. And, compared with satellites, balloons are relatively inexpensive — several hundred balloon-borne missions can fly for the price of one satellite mission.

Constructed of thin polyethylene plastic, the balloons might be described as "overgrown dry-cleaning bags." They measure 20 stories tall when first launched, but as they ascend into thinner air, the initially underinflated balloons expand against the decreasing atmospheric pressure until they reach the diameter of a football stadium.

Typical altitude for a scientific balloon flight is about 20 miles, or well into the earth's upper atmosphere, the stratosphere. By comparison, this is about four times higher than the highest altitude reached by the Double Eagle II during its historic voyage over the Atlantic in 1979.

Over the past seven years, such balloons have provided Fazio's telescope with 14 high-altitude observing flights — and an equal number of crash landings. Fortunately, the telescope survived all 14 impacts, a tribute to its exceptionally sturdy construction.

Jointly operated by the Harvard-Smithsonian center for Astrophysics and the university of Arizona, the reflecting telescope and its detectors are specially designed to observe infrared light from celestial bodies. Loosely termed "heat radiation," infrared radiation is an invisible form of light that is redder than the deepest red detectable by human eyes.

"Since infrared radiation gets absorbed — or blocked — by the earth's atmosphere before ever reaching the ground, we are absolutely dependent on high-altitude observations," Fazio says. "With balloons, our program of mapping the infrared sky has become an exciting reality."

By tuning into the far-infrared, or deepest, portion of the infrared spectrum, the balloon-borne telescope has revealed striking and new information about the atmospheres around other planets, of regions where new stars are forming and of distant galaxies, including some where violent activity has been detected. On one flight, the infrared telescope found — based on measurements of infrared radiation — that both Saturn and Neptune seem to have internal heat sources; but, somewhat surprisingly, the planet Uranus, usually considered a "twin" of Neptune, apparently has none. Rather, its heat comes solely from the sun.

Some far-infrared observations have also complemented ground-based optical and radio observations to produce comprehensive maps of identical sky regions. By using these multi-frequency maps, it has now become possible to reconstruct the complex sequence of events leading to the birth of stars within dense clouds of gas and dust. For example, the balloon-borne telescope has produced some of the highest resolution maps of the milky way in infrared light, which is the main source of energy coming from the center of our galaxy.

During the two most recent balloon ascents, the telescope has pointed sideways to look at the stratosphere itself, site of the ozone layer which protects the earth from the sun's harmful ultraviolet radiation. The experiment produced valuable information on the complex chemical reactions taking place within this fragile and possibly threatened layer of the earth's atmosphere. Such data are used by many scientists trying to determine the possible danger from a breakdown of the ozone layer.

ALARM SYSTEMS used to detect illegal entry and various types of locks were on display when Deputy Everett Doolittle of the Marshall county sheriff's department participated in the Newfolden elementary school career day last Thursday. In the background is MariLou Anderson who helped arrange the event and is a fifth grade teacher at the school.

Smithsonian-Arizona

telescope experiments, along with most of the world's scientific ballooning, are carried out at Palestine, Texas, home of the national scientific balloon flight facility. For the past 16 years, this facility has played host to a potpourri of experiments requiring high-altitude observations. Ultraviolet, X-ray, gamma-ray and cosmic-ray astronomy all have benefited greatly from such experiments.

From the payload's release out of the monstrous jaws of the special launch device called "Tiny Tim," to its unpredictable landing somewhere in East Texas, balloon-borne astronomy has a unique character that sets it apart from both the mountain top and satellite-borne versions.

"You haven't tasted the true flavor of balloon astronomy until you go out with the balloon facility's 'Roadrunners' when they recover your experiment," Fazio points out. Armed with tracking aircraft, four-wheel-drive vehicles and special cranes, this team of intrepid payload-retrievers frequently ends up waist-deep in muck or 25 feet off the ground in treetops retrieving their precious quarries.

Sometimes, the Roadrunners arrive too late. On one such occasion, a 20-foot-tall gamma-ray experiment landed upright on some ranchland in Texas. The frightened rancher, startled by a whirring and clicking metal cylinder in his backyard, riddled it with buckshot until he was sure it was dead.

According to Fazio, "There is no such thing as a routine balloon mission." So, despite 14 successful balloon flights behind him, he still gets "enormously excited" on each new mission. Two flights are scheduled for this fall. Indeed, for astronomers such as Fazio, scientific ballooning offers opportunities and adventures as uplifting as the balloons themselves.

Matero, Steva Attend State AAUW Session

Deborah Matero and Shelley Steva attended the state convention for the American Association of University Women (AAUW) in Owatonna May 2-4. The convention was entitled "Challenge of the 80's: Women in Harmony", and was attended by over 400 women from all over the state.

Among the highlights of the three-day convention was the silent auction that was held before the Saturday evening banquet. Chapters from all over the state brought something to sell. Thief River Falls branch gave one of Inez Mostue's Scandinavian dolls. Its sale helped raise some of the $1,600 that will go for scholarships.

April 29 — Wes Skibicki of Thief River Falls reported that someone had stolen his Motorcraft 12-volt battery valued at $52 from his Case tractor while it was parked near the north end of the Land O' Lakes turkey plant.

April 29 — Clayton Lolland of 1260 N. Dewey reported that someone had stolen 180 feet of underground electrical cable valued at $117 from his yard.

April 29 — Dawn Berggren of 307 N. State reported that someone had stolen her yellow Huffy one-speed bicycle valued at $80 from her yard.

April 30 — Delores Perkins of Country Acres apartments reported that someone has stolen two 25-foot rubber water hoses and two sprinklers from the yard of apartment 1912, and a rug from the hallway of the apartments. Theft estimated at $54.

May 1 — Main avenue and Third street 12:12 p.m. — Stephen Hagen of Thief River Falls was traveling south on highway 32 when Roger Smeby of Grygla, was traveling south on highway 32 in a pickup and turned into the Hagen car pinning it against a parked car. Damages to both vehicles estimated at $300. No injuries were reported.

May 1 — Jerry Winans of Northland community college reported that three paintings were missing from the rear hallway in the college, believed to be taken at the same time a couch was reported stolen from the college April 21. Paintings were valued at $170.

Pennington county sheriff's department reported the following cases:

April 29 — Kermit Maidment of Thief River Falls reported that someone had entered a garage owned by him located in Silverton township and had stolen a Marquette 180 amp welder valued at $300 and a truck tire size 7 x 50 valued at $150.

May 1 — Julie Odegaard of Thief River Falls was traveling south on county road 74 and went off the dead end. Odegaard suffered bruised ribs and other cuts and bruises. Vehicle was reported totaled.

Glen Davidson Is National Merit Finalist

Glen A. Davidson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Duane Davidson of Thief River Falls and a senior at Maplewood academy at Hutchinson, has been named a finalist in the National Merit scholarship competition for 1980.

Students who attain finalist standing in the program distinguish themselves in a highly select group and represent fewer than one-half of one per cent of the nation's graduating secondary school seniors. Only the approximately 14,000 finalists in each program are considered in the rigorous competition for over 4,300 Merit scholarships that are currently awarded annually.

Glen, who will be attending Union college in Lincoln, Neb., will receive his first year of tuition free as a result of the scholarship rating.

Criticizes DOE For Scheduling Hawaii Meeting

In a letter to energy secretary Charles Duncan, Congressman Arlan Stangeland criticized the department of energy for planning to hold its national conference on renewable energy technologies in Hawaii.

"There are several reasons I feel the location of this conference should be changed. The most obvious is the waste of fuel required by participants in travelling thousands of miles from the continental U.S.," he said.

"During a time when fuel conservation and complete utilization of alternatives and renewable energy resources should be a prime concern of all citizens, the location of the conference sets an irresponsible example. I question DOE's concern for conserving energy."

Stangeland added that the cost of flying such a long distance will reduce the number of participants in the conference and he says, in light of the nation's current energy related problems, maximum participation by energy experts and concerned individuals would be beneficial. He feels people would be more willing to travel to the conference if it were more centrally located and the cash outlay by participants was much less.

"I'm also concerned with the impression this conference will leave with the nation's taxpayers, many of whom have never travelled to Hawaii but would like to. In addition, I would like to know how many government employees will be flown at taxpayer expense to participate. It almost appears to simply be one more expensive government junket.

"Under no circumstance should the taxpayers of this country ever be forced to subsidize conferences in which primary consideration is given to the selection of a site which will make the best vacationing area, instead of a location that will best serve the true purpose of the conference," Stangeland concluded.

The DOE conference is scheduled to take place next December and Stangeland said he is hopeful his letter will convince DOE officials to find a more practical location.

Say Counseling Can Cut Bad Marriages

by Jeanne Hanson
'U' M News Service

Weddings may be dramatic, but so are the divorce statistics. Forty per cent of this summer's marriages will end in divorce and they will end quickly. Of the last million marriages that ended this way, nearly two out of ten were over before the second anniversary. On the average they lasted less than six years.

"Couples should spend a tenth of the time planning a wedding and get some premarital counseling on their relationship instead," said David Olson, professor of family social science at the university of Minnesota. His premarital counseling inventory, called PREPARE, is being used by an increasing number of clergy members, who do most of the premarital counseling in this country. It is really a "relationship inventory," he said, and is just as useful for couples already married.

You can use the following items to assess your own relationship, no matter how many Junes you've passed together. These items are drawn from the 125 listed on the copyrighted inventory, one from each section. You and your partner should respond separately. On a scale of one to five, one is "agree strongly," three is neutral, and five is "disagree strongly." Discuss your agreements and disagreements, when you're done.

Realistic expectations. I believe there is only one person in this world to whom I could be happily married.

Personality issues. When we are with others, I am sometimes upset with my partner's behavior.

Egalitarian roles. In our marriage, the husband should have the final word on most of the important decisions in the family.

Communications. When we are having a problem, my partner often gives me the silent treatment.

Conflict resolution. Sometimes we have serious disputes over unimportant issues.

Financial management. Sometimes I wish my partner were more carefu in spending money.

Leisure activities. I am concerned that my partner and I don't spend enough of our leisure time together.

Sexual relationship. I would be willing to try almost any sexual activities my partner would like to do.

Children and marriage. We agree on the values and goals that we want for our children.

Family and friends. I am worried that one of our families may cause troubles in our marriage.

Religious orientation. My partner and I disagree about how to put our religious beliefs into practice.

Idealistic distortion. We are as well adjusted as any two persons in this world can be.

There is no such thing as passing or failing here, Olson said, but about 5 to 10 per cent of the engaged couples taking the full inventory show a serious pattern of disagreement — and their counselors advise them not to marry. "This is low," he said. "Probably three out of ten couples would be better off not marrying."

Getting some counseling before marriage is important because people are not yet locked into set ways of communicating, Olson said. Identifying problem areas early also prevents them from growing, and most problems do not go away. Discussing the strengths of a relationship is important too, he added.

But it's not easy to get couples to be realistic about marriage before the ceremony, Olson said. Premarital counseling without a written inventory often focuses only on general marital problem areas or on future problems. This allows couples to continue believing that "it will never happen to us," he said.

Our culture fosters many myths about love and marriage that interfere with relationship assessment, Olson said. "People think there's one best person to marry, for example, but there are at least 20 other people out there with whom you could have a good relationship," he said.

"We also have much too high expectations for marriage," he added. "It can't give you everything and make you happy forever."

People think they know their partners before marriage, but they rarely do, Olson said. Marriage partners choose each other on the basis of attractiveness, background characteristics like education and income, and how good they feel about each other. "Almost no one even considers the way their partner handles things like conflict and growth. They should ask themselves questions like "Will we listen to one another or try to control one another? Will we be supportive and good for each other?"

Another especially unfortunate myth is that if someone really loves you, he or she will know what you're thinking. It's better to say what you're thinking, Olson said.

Even though many marriages begin in myth, Olson is still optimistic about marriage. People are getting married older, when they know themselves and others better, he said. Also, the divorce rate should begin to settle down as more people live together, perhaps with some sort of contract, instead of marrying. And churches and counties are moving toward a waiting period for marriage.

"Marriage is one of the most important decisions you make," Olson said. "It takes at least as much time and commitment to make it work as a career does."

JAMES S. PETERSON, Thief River Falls, was among 48 St. Olaf college seniors who was initiated into the college's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, at a recent ceremony. Excellence in scholarship is the primary requirement for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, though no minimum grade average is stipulated. General achievement, broad cultural interests and recommendation of faculty members are other considerations. No more than 10 per cent of the members of a senior class may be elected to membership.

New President Named At '80 DU Convention

Some 700 volunteer leaders of North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization attended Ducks Unlimited's 43rd International Convention in Houston, Texas April 22-26. The event marked a return to the city which hosted DU's annual convention in 1950 — a convention whose purpose each year is to help promote nationwide fund-raising efforts catering to the habitat needs of wild ducks and geese.

During the convention Ducks Unlimited's board of trustees elected as president, Robert D. Marcotte, 54, an insurance executive from Omaha, Neb. who has actively served the organization in a variety of leadership capacities for 25 years. Other top Ducks Unlimited officers elected in Houston include S. Preston Williams, Kansas City, Mo., chairman of the board; and Henry J. Nave, Pinehurst, N.D., chairman of the executive committee.

"We've come a long way in our fund-raising efforts for waterfowl since the Houston convention in 1950," said Marcotte. "The record shows our total income for that year was less than $400,000, an interesting figure when you compare it to the $24 million-plus we're shooting for this year." According to Marcotte, DU's board of trustees approved a record $19.7 million commitment to be transferred during 1980 to DU (Canada) where it will be channeled into wetlands restoration work. "It is in Canada," he said, "that Ducks Unlimited's funds are critically needed. These wetlands are, in fact, where 70 per cent of North America's waterfowl are produced." Marcotte added that the board of trustees also announced the commitment of nearly half a million dollars to Ducks Unlimited de Mexico (DUMAC) for the development of prime wintering waterfowl habitat there.

Ducks Unlimited executive vice president Dale E. Whitesell was pleased with what he termed the "conservation spirit" exhibited by DU supporters in Houston. "There's no doubt in my mind," said Whitesell, "that DU's volunteers have the singleness-of-purpose spirit needed to meet our 1980 fund-raising goal of $24,287,747. The constructive convention workshops in Houston highlighted how our volunteers can effectively raise that amount of money. In short, generate the same sort of momentum which has enabled Ducks Unlimited to raise nearly $110 million for waterfowl habitat over the past 43 years."

LAMPERT Outdoor Living SALE

2 DAYS ONLY! FRI - SAT MAY 9th & 10th

DECK AND FENCE LUMBER

Redwood is naturally very durable and, unless you wish to change the color, it needs no preservative or finish. Redwood is a great outdoor performer, if left to weather it will turn a soft gray color in two or three years.

Just look what you could do! Add some style to your back yard and increase the value of your home at the same time.

Live it up...outdoors. A deck literally adds a garden room. It can be everything from a private "sun tan" corner to a barbeque/dining/entertainment center. Besides the added space, this extra room extends the outdoor living. In early spring and late fall, even when the ground is soaking wet, you and your family can enjoy your deck comfortably.

Lampert redwood deck packages start at $89 for a 6' x 8' deck.

Research Shows Drug Inserts Are Confusing

by Alice Tibbetts
'U' M News Service

People who take prescription drugs will soon be provided patient package inserts that explain each drug's purposes, possible risks and side effects. Most patients will not understand the information.

Patient package inserts (PPIs) were proposed by the food and drug administration in 1979 to give patients more information about their prescription drugs. Currently, such inserts are required with only a few drugs, but soon they will be mandatory in all prescription drugs, including refills. But recent research done at the University of Minnesota shows that written drug information may scare and frustrate patients more than it helps.

Richard L. Holloway, assistant professor of family practice and community health, and Margaret L. Eaton, an instructor in the college of pharmacy, have found that the drug information on such inserts is too technical and confusing to be helpful.

Eaton and Holloway tested written drug information collected from medical associations and pharmacists on a group of patients at the Minneapolis Veterans Administration hospital. Most of the drug information, they found, is written at a tenth-grade reading level or higher. Newspapers and general instructional materials for the public, on the other hand, are written for about the eighth-grade reading level.

Patients were first tested for reading ability and were randomly divided into two groups. One group received the tenth-grade level material; the other group received material that had been rewritten by Eaton at the fifth-grade reading level.

Researchers found that everyone in the test group could understand the materials written at the fifth-grade level, but that the patients had to be very good readers to understand material written at the tenth-grade level. The information each group received was identical, Eaton said, but the fifth-grade material was more simply written.

Patients were confused by the technical terms used in drug information, Eaton said. Phrases that even Eaton and Holloway did not understand were included in some of the inserts. "People in medicine have used technical terms for so long that they don't realize how confusing their vocabulary is," Eaton said.

"Long, technical words are often difficult to replace," Holloway said. "We couldn't define 'anticoagulant' in simple terms so we rephrased the information to read, 'this medicine will prevent blood clots'. It is often the length of the word that scares people. "Thrombophlebitis" is a difficult word that simply means a blood clot in your leg."

The largest group of people taking prescription drugs are older people who are often less educated than younger and middle-aged people, Holloway said, and drug information should be written to their level.

"If people are going to invest their time and energy into reading drug inserts, the inserts should do some good," Eaton said. "It only confuses the patients and wastes their time to use unfamiliar medical terms.

"We hope our study will influence the writing style of PPIs," she said, "because some of the most recent inserts are the worst." Estrogen, a female hormone used in birth control pills, is one of the few drugs that currently requires a package insert. "There was no conscious effort to make the insert understandable to the patient," Eaton said. "Even I didn't understand it."

Livestock Changes Noted For MN. Fair

Minnesota State fair's livestock program will undergo four major changes for the 1980 exposition. These changes include: inclusion of market livestock in the 4-H competition; shifting the dates of the Future Farmers of America livestock show; consolidation of the open class swine show to four days; and the addition of an open class dairy goat show.

Four-H livestock show was previously limited to breeding stock. The change will allow 4-H members to exhibit market livestock as well as breeding stock during the 4-H show, August 29-September 1.

The 4-H market livestock auction, previously held in conjunction with the 4-H horse show in September, will take place the final day of the fair, Sept. 1. The auction will be organized and conducted by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association.

Addition of market livestock to the 4-H show allows the FFA livestock show to be moved to the first four days of the fair, Aug. 21-24. In past years, the 4-H and FFA livestock shows were held concurrently during the exposition.

Open class swine show will be consolidated from eight to four days, Aug. 25-28. This change will permit exhibitors with more than one breed to show their entire stock during the four days.

Open class dairy goat competition will be added to the exposition Aug. 29-Sept. 1. Five purebred classes (Alpine, LaMancha, Saanen, Toggenburg and Nubian) and one class for recorded grades will be included in the competition.

Open sheep and cattle shows will continue to be split in 1980. Beef cattle and half the sheep breeds will be shown Aug. 21-24. Dairy cattle and the remaining sheep breeds will be exhibited Aug. 25-28.

Horse competition will continue with a format similar to past years. English breeds will be shown Aug. 21-26 and Western breeds will compete Aug. 29-Sept. 1. Poultry competition will also remain basically unchanged with chickens Aug. 21-26 and rabbits, pigeons, waterfowl and turkeys, Aug. 27-Sept. 1.

For complete information on livestock competition and the 4-H market livestock auction, contact Entry department, Minnesota State Fair, Falcon Heights, Minn. 55108; phoe (612) 2217.

New Brochure Explains Home Fire Safety

A new brochure, being released by the information office of the Minnesota department of public safety, accentuates mobile home fire safety but has useful information for all home owners, according to commissioner John Sopsic.

Featured in the publication is a plan, illustrated in red and blue drawings, on how to react if a fire starts in the home.

Stressed is the "early warning" process. Fire Marshal Wes Werner said this includes: (1) Having smoke detectors; (2) developing a fire evacuation plan and practicing it; and (3) escaping quickly when there is a fire.

Brochure is available from staff members of the fire marshal's office and will be distributed by fire departments in the state. Content was developed by Stan Carlson with design and layout by Larry Elkin of the public safety information office.

Two From Area Receive BA At Concordia

Two area students were among 532 graduates receiving bachelor's degrees Sunday at Concordia college, Moorhead.

Karen Easthouse, Goodridge, received a Magna Cum Laude BA with a major in elementary education and a minor in science teaching. Maribeth Vigstol, Plummer, received a BA with a major in home economics and a minor in music.

Main speaker for the event was William H. Lazareth, director of the department for church and society of the Lutheran church in America.

Prowlers Still Rated No. 1 In Class AA

Thursday will be the final home appearnace of the 1980 season for the Lincoln high school tennis team as the Prowlers host East Grand Forks and Mahnomen in a 2 p.m. triangular on the Lincoln and Northland community college courts. If you get a chance, go take a look at the Prowlers. They're good.

Thief River Falls maintained its position as the No. 1 ranked team in Class AA tennis last week in the second listing of the state tennis coaches association poll. The Prowlers were ranked No. 1 before the season started and their list of wins has kept them there.

Top ten Class AA tennis teams in the new poll were: 1. Thief River Falls; 2. Minnetonka; 3. Rochester Mayo; 4. St. Cloud Apollo; 5. Burnsville; 6. Hibbing; 7. Anoka; 8. Edina West; 9. Fridley; 10. Henry Sibley.

Only Thief River Falls' position as No. 1 remained unchanged from the preseason poll that included No. 2 Burnsville; 3. Edina West; 4. Virginia; 5. Henry Sibley; 6. Rochester Mayo; 7. Irondale; 8. Minnetonka; 9. St. Cloud Apollo; 10. Edina East.

Chris Coombs of Edina West and Bill Jury of Thief River Falls remained 1-2 in the individual rankings, followed by Casey Merickel of St. Cloud Apollo, an eighth grader; No. 4 Bob Bateman, Edina East; 5. Dan Shannon, Minnetonka; 6. Steve Paulsen, Northfield; 7. John Mugford, Cretin; 8. Steve Fosdick, Ramsey; 9. Mel Chez, Hibbing; 10. Per Ekstam, St. Louis Park.

Noticeably absent from the individual rankings is Thief River Falls' Mitch Rustad, No. 2 behind Jury in the Prowlers' line-up, but surely one of the ten best players in the state.

In Class A it's No. 1 Blake; 2. Blue Earth; 3. St. Paul Academy; 4. Pipestone; 5. Breck; 6. Rochester Lourdes; 7. Gilbert; 8. Minnehaha; 9. Madison; 10. St. Cloud Cathedral.

Gregg Anderson of Blue Earth is tabbed No. 1 in the Class A individual rankings. Andy Odegaard of Roseau is No. 10.

It's interesting to note that first round Class AA state tournament team matches later this month will pit Region 8AA against Region 6AA. And right now Thief River Falls of Region 8AA is rated No. 1 by the state coaches and Minnetonka of Region 6AA is No. 2.

The 1980 Minnesota state high school tennis tournament — both Class A and Class AA competition — will be played indoors at the 98th Street Tennis Club in Bloomington Wednesday through Saturday, May 28-31.

Miscellaneous

+ Lincoln high school girls softball team will compete in a four-team tournament at Wadena Saturday where the host Indians, the defending Class A state champions, posted recent back-to-back wins over Pierz 36-1 and Pine River 20-0.

+ Former Roseau high school hockey standout Mike Stone will attend the Winnipeg Jets National Hockey League rookie camp starting September 7, reported Cal Marvin of the Warroad Lakers. Stone, who played two years at the University of North Dakota, played defense for Marvin's Lakers this winter. He's expected to land a spot on the Jets' CHL team in Tulsa next winter.

+ Tom Campbell set a new Bemidji high school record when he cleared 6-9 to win the high jump event in Saturday's Doc Savage relays at Grand Rapids. Duluth Central won the team title with 103 points to 100½ for the Lumberjacks.

+ By action of the board of education of School District 353, Karlstad high school has been renamed Tri-County high school beginning with the 1980-81 school year. They'll be the Tri-County Rabbits.

THE BAR BENT, then fell off as Lincoln high school freshman Kristy Peterson tried to clear the four-foot level during the early stages of the Thief River Falls girls invitational track meet. A chilled spectator looked on during the wind-swept, snowy afternoon Tuesday. Crookston won the meet with 137 points. East Grand Forks was a distant second with 80.

Crookston Wins TRF Track Title

Crookston was a surprisingly easy winner Tuesday at the chilly Thief River Falls girls high school invitational track meet.

Amid freezing temperatures, wind and snow flurries, the Pirates ran up 137 points to out-distance East Grand Forks, considered the pre-meet favorite in the seven-team field. The Green Wave finished with 80 points and were pressed by an unexpectedly strong Thief River Falls showing that produced 78½ points, followed by Roseau with 76, Stephen 17 and Warren 17.

The cold weather claimed Warren, sending the Ponies home early.

Crookston picked up five individual wins in the 15-event meet as Ruth Friederichs ran the two-mile in 13:39.78; Shannon Benson covered the 110-yard hurdles in 17.98; Sue Sprague put the shot 31-10¾; Renee Montreuil ran the mile at 6:15.96; and Jana Bornhoft did the 440-yard dash in 1:04.90.

East Grand Forks picked up four wins as Vicki Dupont took the long jump with a 14-1½ effort; Sabrina Laudermilt won the 100-yard dash in 12.72; Jayne Olson captured the high jump by clearing 4-8; and the Green Wave mile relay team closed out the afternoon with a 4:42.33.

Thief River Falls won three events, including a pair of victories in the relay races where Brenda Lund, Roz Berg, Patti Blackstad and Karla Nelson ran a 1:59.31 in the 880-yard event and did a 55.82 in the 440-yard feature.

"They did quite a job," praised Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer, who was pleasantly surprised with the Prowlers' strong showing. "I'm really happy. I didn't think we'd be that close to second place."

Thief River Falls' third win was supplied by Stacy Ehrenstrom with a 90-9 toss in the discus.

Rest of the events were won by Rae Ann Derry of Roseau with a 27.60 in the 180-yard hurdles; Helen Rickenberger of Warroad with a 29.24 in the 220-yard dash; and Shelly Moren of Roseau with a 2:40.08 in the 880-yard run.

Thief River Falls' 1980 regular season features just two more meets — Friday at East Grand Forks at 4:30 p.m. and Monday at Roseau at 4 p.m. The North Half Region 8AA track and field meet will be held Sat., May 17, at Moorhead.

COMPETING IN the long jump, Thief River Falls' Robyn Dallmann sailed through the air Tuesday during the girls high school invitational track meet staged by the Prowlers. Crookston won the seven-team meet by a 57-point margin over runner-up East Grand Forks.

1980 Tennis Team . . .

Prowlers Close Out Schedule

A perfect regular season record will be the incentive Thursday when the Lincoln high school tennis team closes out its 1980 schedule by hosting East Grand Forks and Mahnomen in a 2 p.m. Triangular meet on the Thief River Falls courts.

The Prowlers rolled to their sixth triangular victory of the season Monday at Bemidji with a pair of 5-0 shutouts over the Lumberjacks and Grand Rapids for a perfect 10-point day. Grand Rapids collected 3 points and Bemidji had 2.

It was Thief River Falls' 13th outing of the season and every one has been a victory for the Prowlers who are 3-0 in straight dual meet competition; winners in six triangular starts; and champions in four tournaments.

Post-season tournament play starts next week. The North Half Region 8AA competition will be played at Crookston, with team matches scheduled Thurs., May 15, and individual matches set Fri., May 16. Region 8AA matches will be played at Brainerd May 20-21.

Outdoor Track Meet . . .

Bemidji Wins NWAC Title

Bemidji made it nine-in-a-row Tuesday by winning the Northwest Athletic Conference outdoor track meet for the sixth straight year. The Lumberjacks have also won three straight NWAC indoor titles, giving Bemidji nine consecutive conference wins over the past six years.

Hosting the event on their new all-weather track, the Lumberjacks finished the frigid meet with 84 points while East Grand Forks and Fergus Falls, expected to challenge Bemidji for the title instead battled to a 69-69 second place draw. Crookston collected 18 points and Thief River Falls had 14.

Sophomore Bruce Johnson turned in the Prowlers' best performance, a second place 4:43 in the 1600-meter (mile) run that was won by Bemidji ace Ron Wolfe in 4:28.

"Bruce did very well for those conditions," explained Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann, referring to the 40-degree temperatures and snow flurries.

There are two meets left on Thief River Falls' regular season schedule. The Prowlers will run Friday at East Grand Forks at 4:30 p.m. and will compete Monday at Grand Forks at 4 p.m. Both are multiple-team events. The 1980 North Half Region 8AA track and field meet will be held Sat., May 17, at Moorhead.

TRF Places — NWAC Track

1600 meters — 2. Bruce Johnson, 4:43; 800 meters — 5. Greg Ness, 2:08; 110 meter high hurdles — 4. Steve Hvidsten, 17.8; 300 meter intermediate hurdles — 4. Lincoln Golfers Share Second At Detroit Lakes

Grand Forks Red River was an easy winner Tuesday in the Detroit Lakes high school invitational golf meet.

The Roughriders won it with a five-man 394 team score, with Thief River Falls and Alexandria sharing second place at 419. Rest of the 20-team field included Bemidji 424, Perham 426, Detroit Lakes 431, Grand Forks Central 433, Ada 434, Wahpeton 439, Breckenridge 442, Staples 451, Park Rapids 453, Fergus Falls 455, Hawley and Moorhead 457, Mahnomen 462, Barnesville 472, Crookston 484, Crosby-Ironton 486 and Detroit Lakes junior varsity 524.

Ted Schaefer of Red River was meet medalist with a 75, finishing one shot ahead of Mike Johnson of Alexandria.

For the Prowlers, Tony Loeffler shot an 81, Jeff Imgrund 83, Wade Hoppe 85, Bob Fitzgerald 85 and Dave Geatz 85. Jim Geatz' 86 did not count in the Prowler's team score.

It was the fifth tournament of the spring for the Prowlers who were champions at the Bagley-Fosston invitational, third at Crookston and Alexandria and fifth at Park Rapids.

Thief River Falls will golf in the Grand Forks invitational Friday and will be at Roseau Saturday. Both meets start at 9:30 a.m.

Area Students Will Compete In Orienteering

Northwest orienteering meet will be held Saturday and Sunday at Camp Trowbridge near Vergas and Tamarac wildlife refuge.

Saturday at Trowbridge will feature practice orienteering, mini-sessions and night orienteering. Sunday the students will travel to Tamarac for the competitive meet.

Schools from the Northwestern part of Minnesota will be participating with over 100 students expected. Mini-sessions on Friday evening will demonstrate areas of outdoor activities including backpacking, canoeing, outdoor photography, trapping, range estimating, survival and dog training.

For more information contact Dennis Jacobs or Coleman Nordhausen at the DNR fisheries headquarters in Detroit Lakes, 847-8275.

Prowlers Blank Blue Wave 12-0; Lose NWAC Game To Pirates 6-5

Three first inning runs and a 4-0 lead didn't hold up Tuesday as Thief River Falls dropped a 6-5 Northwest Athletic Conference high school baseball game to Crookston.

The defeat on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond dropped the Prowlers into the NWAC basement with a 0-2 record. Thief River Falls hosts league-leader Bemidji Thursday at 4:30 p.m. and will be at Fergus Falls for a 3 p.m. doubleheader Friday. Crookston, unbeaten in two conference starts, but trailing Bemidji in the title-deciding points column because of the Lumberjacks' recent two-point victory over Fergus Falls, will be playing the Otters Saturday in a doubleheader at Fergus Falls.

Thief River Falls began the busy week with an easy 12-0 five-inning win over Mount St. Benedict Monday at Crookston.

The split left the Prowlers with a 6-4 overall season record.

TRF	5

On April 17 Thief River Falls opened its 1980 baseball season at Red Lake Falls in the sunshine, no wind and 70 degree temperature. On Saturday the Prowlers played in a tournament at Moorhead in 90 degree weather. Tuesday it was overcast-windy, 40 degrees and snowing at times. And the weather overshadowed the baseball as Crookston came from behind to win 6-5.

"Saturday we got cooked out; today we got froze out," sighed Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell.

The weather seemed bearable when Thief River Falls was scoring three times in the bottom of the first inning. It became unbearable when Crookston scored four times in the third and then took the lead with two more in the fourth.

The first seven Thief River Falls batters all reached base against Crookston lefthander Scott Izzo in the first inning. Three of them scored, two of them were forced out on the base paths and two others were left stranded. All that with just one hit.

Jim Hallamek, Dave Odegaard and Mark Harder all walked to start the inning. Hallamek scored on a fielder's choice ground ball hit by Jeff Ulrich that cut down Odegaard at third, but moved the runners up on a throwing error as the Pirates tried for a double play. Mark Schmitke's ground ball went through shortstop Brian Bachmeier for two more runs and a 3-0 headstart for the Prowlers.

It looked as if it was going to be the Prowlers' day for sure in the second when consecutive at-bats by Odegaard and Harder produced "bad hop" singles and a run. Odegaard caromed one off Bachmeier's shoulder, stole second and third and scored when Harder's seemingly routine ground ball bounced crazily over Bachmeier's head.

Crookston tied it 4-4 in the third, though, by combining four base hits with three walks and two Thief River Falls errors. The big blow was a two-out, base-loaded opposite field single off the end of the bat by Rick Schmitz that fell just inside the left field line and scored three runs.

Thief River Falls scored twice in the bottom of the inning for a 5-4 edge when Jeff Ulrich led off with a solid double to left field and Schmitke walked. Kevin Sanders grounded into a double play, moving Ulrich to third and he scored when catcher John Panzer overthrew third trying to catch Ulrich scrambling back to the bag after he had changed his mind about trying to score on a wild pitch. He was half-way down the line and would have been an easy out with a good throw.

Crookston won it in the fourth when Thief River Falls starting pitcher Kelly Gutterud had trouble throwing in the cold weather. He left after an error and two walks loaded the bases. Panzer, who had reached base on an error, scored the winning run when relief pitcher Wayne Huseth did not come up with the ball on Jerome Simmon's bunt in front of the plate. Same type of play — a bases loaded bunt by Schmitz — scored Jeff Laniel, who had walked, for the winning run.

POPPY DAYS

by

Marie Youmans

Member, Thief River Falls VFW Auxiliary

Poppy days are soon here,
Put on your boots and get in gear.
We need all the help that we can get,
To make this march the best one yet.
We can honor our Veterans in so many ways,
Let's not forget it's your help that pays.
Wear a blood red poppy on Poppy Day,
It's our way of saying "You are really O.K.".
So if you feel you can spare a dime
I'm sure you'll feel it was worth your time.

Bill Michalek Wins Tennis Title In NCC

by UND SID Lee Bohnet

University of North Dakota men's tennis team placed second in the 50th North Central Conference championships last weekend. The Fighting Sioux, defending champions, hosted the event in the Grand Forks Racquetball and Tennis Centre.

University of Northern Colorado won its first NCC title, in just their first tennis campaign, with 52 points. North Dakota had 31½, North Dakota State 24, South Dakota State 16½, University of Nebraska-Omaha 8½, University of South Dakota 4 and Augustana College 3 points in the two-day tourney.

Bill Michalek, freshman of Thief River Falls, teamed with Terry Wynne, junior of Grand Forks, and won the number three doubles title over Greg Brendel and Dave Pond of Northern Colorado in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2. That was the only title to elude the Bears of Northern Colorado. UNC won all six singles flights and the other two doubles crowns. The Fighting Sioux were runnersup to the Bears in four of the singles titles and at Number One doubles.

Michalek teamed with Wynne at number three doubles all season. They led the Sioux with a 15-3 record.

North Dakota coach Tom Wynne said, "We had a good season. Northern Colorado is going to represent the conference well at nationals. (NCAA Division II is May 15-18 at Edwardsville, Illinois). Bill and Terry showed their best last weekend. Bill's excellent serves and Terry's excellent volleys and half-volleys proved to be the winning edge at number three doubles. We didn't win the trophy but we bettered our 1979 dual mark." (UND was 9-4 for the spring 1979 season.)

Heckroth Leads Local Shooters At Grand Forks

Area shooters from the Marshallton Gun Club put on a great trapshooting exhibition Saturday and Sunday at a registered shoot in Grand Forks.

Shooting the top score in four of the six events and winning the long yardage trophy in Sunday's handicap was Jim Heckroth, owner of the Marshallton Gun Club. Heckroth fired a 99x100 in Saturday's singles and a 97x100 in the doubles event. On Sunday he broke a perfect 100x100 in the singles and a 90x100 in the doubles. His fifth win came in the handicap event where he won the long yardage honors.

Heckroth also won the high over-all for the two day shoot by breaking 565x600 clay targets.

Saturday's handicap event was dominated by Fran and Pam Johnson, from Greenbush. Pam shot the top score of the event by breaking 96x100 targets. Husband Fran was next with a 94x100. They both received a yardage punch for their fine scores.

Allen Steinhauer, of Thief River Falls was also a class winner in Saturday's doubles. Al broke 88x100 to win the class D doubles trophy.

Pat Fischer of Thief River Falls won the class A singles on Sunday by breaking 99x100 clays.

Other local shooters that competed in the two-day event were Stan, Wilson, Marc Horlen, Peter Tri and Paul Vogt.

Shooters at the Marshallton Gun Club are warming up for a big two-day shoot which will take place on May 17-18. Shooting will start at 9:30 a.m. on both Saturday and Sunday. The public is invited.

Racquetball Facility Now In Full Swing

"We're in full swing," quipped owner Tom Ritchie Tuesday in noting that his T.R.F. Racquetball facility is operational and the public is invited to stop by, view the operation and even play a game or two of racquetball under the guest fee system.

The center will be open to the public for the rest of the week with the daily schedule being from 6 a.m. to midnight Monday through Friday during the month of May. Hours Saturday will be 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday will be 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Court reservations may be made and information on membership is available at the center, located east of highway 59 in the southeast part of Thief River Falls. Registration will also be held for one free membership and for racquets and balls. Films will be shown throughout the day on Saturday to help acquaint the public with the sport which is new to this community.

The center also offers sauna, whirlpool and body building and exercise equipment.

Campground Closed By DNR

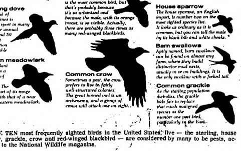
Campground at Gooseberry Falls state park near Two Harbors will remain closed this summmer to allow reconstruction of the campground and sewage system. Other facilities in the park will remain open for public use and enjoyment, said Don Davison, DNR parks and recreation director.

He said total reconstruction of the campground and the water and sewer systems is underway and will be completed late in the year. The work was initiated to correct sanitation problems from obsolete facilities built by the W.P.A. program about 1940.

TRYING TO SCORE from third base on a wild pitch in the third inning, Crookston's John Panzer was tagged out at the plate by Thief River Falls catcher Jim Nyland during Tuesday's Northwest Athletic Conference high school baseball game played in Thief River Falls. Umpire Paul Williams watched the play after Nyland grabbed the ball on a rebound off the short backstop behind the plate. The Pirates beat the Prowlers 6-5.

Of the most frequently sighted species . . .

FIVE OF THE TOP TEN ARE "PESTS"



Starling
The starling has been so successful since it was brought here from Europe that it's now probably our least loved bird. In winter, it's drab and spotty, but in summer, it acquires a metallic sheen. Its numbers now seem to be declining.

Mourning dove
This habitué of telephone lines is hunted for sport in many states — the annual kill is around 50 million, yet the population remains stable.

Western meadowlark
This abundant westerner is a frequenter of fields and fencerows. The southern part of its range overlaps with that of a near twin, the eastern meadowlark.

Horned lark
The seventh most sighted bird in recent surveys, the horned lark likes open spaces, and takes as readily to coastal flats as it does to plains.

Robin
Some people think the robin is the most common bird, but that's probably because it's so urbanized and because the male, with its orange breast, is so visible. Actually, there are probably three times as many red-winged blackbirds.

Common crow
Sometimes a pest, the crow prefers to live in fairly well-structured colonies. The great horned owl is an archenemy, and a group of crows will attack one on sight.

Red-winged blackbird
There may be more red-wings than any other U.S. bird — at least it was the most often sighted species in a recent survey. The male's red wing patch is unmistakable, though the drab female looks more like a large sparrow.

House sparrow
The house sparrow, an English import, is number two on the most sighted species list. It looks as ordinary as it is common, but you can tell the male by its black bib and white cheeks.

Barn swallows
Aptly named, barn swallows can be found on almost any farm, where they build distinctive mud nests, usually in or on buildings. It is the only swallow with a forked tail.

Common grackle
As the starling population dwindles, the grackle bids fair to replace that much maligned species as the number one pest bird, particularly in the East.

OF THE TEN most frequently sighted birds in the United States, five — the starling, house sparrow, grackle, crow and red-winged blackbird — are considered by many to be pests, according to the National Wildlife magazine.

Non-Game Bill To Benefit All State Wildlife

Minnesota wildlife classified as "non-game" will receive the benefit of improved management as a result of additional funds expected to be provided through a bill passed at the recent legislative session.

The bill, sometimes referred to as the "chickadee check-off", will allow Minnesota taxpayers to donate $1 or more of their tax refunds for non-game wildlife conservation purposes. The check-off will apply to individual income and property tax refunds beginning with 1980 tax returns.

Carrol Henderson, DNR non-game wildlife specialist, said Colorado has a similar tax check-off provision and is expecting to receive about $800,000 this year for protection and enhancement of non-game species.

Traditionally, most money for wildlife conservation programs has been raised by hunting and fishing related excise taxes and license revenues, he said. Resulting programs have benefitted non-game wildlife but primary efforts were directed at game species.

"Now, all people who care about wildlife can use the check-off provision to donate money for an exciting variety of wildlife projects", said Henderson. "Even a dollar donation will help."

Money raised will be used to benefit everything from backyard wildlife to bluebirds and bald eagles, he explained.

Among projects already underway, Henderson listed the following:

+A statewide survey of common loons, sandhill cranes, herons and egrets.

+Non-game research on bald eagles has helped identify problems with lead poisoning and to eliminate the source of lead contamination.

+An island in the Duluth harbor has been partially cleared for nesting by common terns and piping plovers.

+Prairie chickens have been stocked at the Lac qui Parle wildlife management area, and another proposal calls for restoration of trumpeter swans in western Minnesota.

+Another project will involve transplanting river otters to the Minnesota River valley in western Minnesota.

Persons desiring more information on the tax check-off or the non-game program should contact Carrol Henderson, DNR Section of Wildlife, Third Floor Centennial Building, 658 Cedar Street, St. Paul.

SELECTED 1980 WOMEN'S bowler of the year was Bonnie Aaseby of Thief River Falls. Entrants for bowler of the year competed in a tournament Saturday afternoon, with the top five winners competing in the roll-off Sunday. Winner from fourth and fifth place played the third place winner, with that winner playing the second place winner before playing against Aaseby who remained in first place through both days of the tournament.

Red-Wing Blackbirds Become A Pest Across The Country

One sure sign of spring's arrival in the northern U.S. is the cheerful presence of the red-winged blackbird. But many are no longer cheering at the sight of what may be the nation's most populous bird, according to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine.

The red-winged blackbird is earning a reputation as a "pest" bird, right up there with the starling, cowbird and grackle, all members of the "blackbird" family. "Last year, in Pennsylvania alone, their immense flocks destroyed an estimated $15 million worth of corn, grapes and other crops," reports the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication. "At airfields, they are a hazard on runways. Some people claim they're a threat to human health and livestock."

Glut of blackbirds, which is easing somewhat in southern states, is now getting serious as far north as Pennsylvania and could spread to other parts of the country, warns National Wildlife. And in Pennsylvania, the birds are beginning to move from the country to the cities during the winter roosting season.

"Huge flocks of blackbirds, perhaps 100,000 strong, seem to be moving from the countryside into small, nearby urgan areas, where they're replacing starlings as the number one roosting bird pest," John George, a wildlife biologist at Pennsylvania State University, told National Wildlife. George and a research team he heads believe that the blackbird problem could become a national one unless some solutions are found in the Keystone state.

It's estimated that there are more than half a billion blackbirds in the U.S. at midwinter, and 40 per cent of this total are red-wings. One reason the red-wing ppoulation is growing is that it is extremely adaptable and prolific bird. They originally inhabited marshlands, but now they can be found in bushes and trees far from the water. "The birds may choose to breed on colonies," explains National Wildlife," "and the males — easily identified by their scarlet epaulets edged in yellow — may command 'Harems' of as many as three borwnish females." And a female may hatch 12 chicks in a single breeding season.

Drainage of wetlands and clearing of forests are forcing great numbers of redwings into small cities and suburbs, where, ironically, there are more trees. And in these communities, the red-wings, along with other blackbirds, can be serious nuisances. To control them, roosting sites have been sprayed with detergents, which dissolve the olqs in the birds' feathers, destroying their insulating usefulness. When water is then sprayed on the victims during cold weather, the birds die from exposure. When this method was used in Kansas in 1978, about a million blackbirds were killed.

Many animal-protection groups protect this method of control, as do many biologists, such as Richard Dolbeer of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "We are now recommending a broad range of alternatives, such as planting corn that is more resistant to bird damage, thinning roost areas, and using mechanical scare devices and chemical repellents," he told National Wildlife. The agency is also recommending some "public tolerance," he added.

Until more can be learned about the birds' habits, some areas "will probably continue to have too many blackbirds from time to time," National Wildlife concludes.

Every Day Is Poppy Day For Poppy Workers

For hundreds of long-term disabled veterans in Veterans administration hospitals and domiciliaries and in state veterans homes, every day is V.F.W. Buddy poppy day.

These are the men who assemble the poppies, tie them in bunches of 10 and pack them in boxes of 500 or 1,000 for shipment to some 10,000 Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts and auxiliaries throughout the nation.

Poppy assembly is a year-round project in some 10 veterans facilities and a part-time program in others. Some are under the direction of the V.F.W. organization in the state in which they are located, and others are supervised and directed by the National V.F.W. Buddy poppy department.

The assembly procedure varies from facility to facility, depending upon the emphasis given to the various aspects of the program by the project director.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars pays the disabled veteran for his work. In most cases, the money provides extra income for the disabled veteran to pay for the little luxuries which make hospital life tolerable.

Sometimes the poppy assembly is used as a therapy program, under direct supervision of hospital personnel, to provide exercise for fingers and hands crippled by wounds, disease and the effects of old age.

One of the most successful adaptations of the Buddy poppy assembly program is its use as a step toward the rehabilitation of psychiatric patients. The experience and training in concentration and supervised work in assembling poppies has led to more complicated duties and eventual discharge.

From the time it leaves the hospital until it graces the coat lapel or dress front of the individual citizen, the poppy provides care for the widow and orphans of deceased veterans at the V.F.W. national home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., provides funds for veterans rehabilitation services on the state and national level; pays for direct relief to the families of needy and deceased veterans; and serves as a memorial to the dead of all wars of the U.S.

More than 15½ million Buddy poppies will be assembled this year and will be sold by V.F.W. posts and auxiliaries throughout the nation. Each of them will have traveled a long way; and each will have helped to make someone happier.

The annual sale of Buddy poppies is the only public solicitation conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The sale in this area will be held soon.

Indians File Petition On Court Ruling

the band requests, we would be using those rules to remake history in derogation of the clear wording and intent of the relevant enactments and agreements."

He cited a supreme court decision from 1943 involving the Choctaw nation which stated: "Of course treaties were construed more liberally than private agreements, and to ascertain their meaning we may look beyond the written words to the history of the treaty, the negotiations, and the practical construction adopted by the parties.

"Especially is this true in interpreting treaties and agreements with the Indians; they are to be construed, so far as possible, in the sense in which the Indians understood them, and in a spirit with generously recognizes the full obligation of this nation to protect the interests of a dependent people. But even Indian treaties cannot be re-written or expanded beyond their clear terms to remedy a claimed injustice or to achieve the asserted understanding of the parties."

Judge Devitt stated simply in his conclusion, "We hold that the Red Lake band does not retain hunting, fishing, trapping or wild ricing rights in the areas ceded in 1889 and 1904. The clerk is directed to enter judgment accordingly."

Memorandum accompanying the judge's decision including his summary of facts as follows:

Prior to the influx of white settlers, the Red Lake band inhabited a large area of northwestern Minnesota encompassing about 13 million acres. In 1863 the band, in its first significant treaty with the federal government, ceded about 10 million acres of their land to the United States. This cession, known as the 1863 Treaty at the Old Crossing of the Red Lake river, was negotiated by Alexander Ramsey. The treaty contains no mention of hunting and fishing rights, but the transcript of Ramsey's negotiations with the band makes clear that the Indians were promised they could continue to hunt and fish on the ceded land until it was settled. See Journal of Proceedings Connected with the 1863 Treaty at the Old Crossing of the Red Lake River, at pp. 8, 15, 27, 37-38, 47, 54 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 53).

After the 1863 treaty at the Old Crossing, the Red Lake reservation consisted of about 3.2 million acres. It is in this area, not the entire original 13 million acres, that the band now claims it has retained hunting, fishing, trapping and wild ricing rights.

The second land cession by the Red Lake band occurred in 1889. In that year Congress passed the Nelson act, which authorized negotiations for the purchase of land from the Red Lake band. A three member commission, which became known as the Rice commission, was appointed to conduct negotiations. The commission was instructed by Congress to obtain an agreement with the band "for the cession and relinquishment in writing of all their title and interest in and to" the lands the band agreed to sell.

Any such agreement, upon approval of the President, was to "operate as a complete extinguishment of the Indian title" to the ceded land. See Nelson Act of January 14, 1889, c. 24, 25 Stat. 642 (Amicus' Exhibit M).

Pursuant to the Nelson act the Rice commission negotiated an agreement with the Red Lake band for the cession of about 2.4 million acres of the band's land. In that agreement the band agreed to "grant, cede, relinquish and convey to the United States all our right, title and interest in and to all" of the 2.4 million ceded acres. Neither the Nelson act, the agreement, nor the transcript of the negotiations contain any reference to reserved hunting, fishing, trapping or wild ricing rights in the ceded area.

The final land cession by the Red Lake band occurred in 1904. Congress authorized negotiations by the act of March 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1077, and inspector James McLaughlin negotiated an agreement with the band in 1902. The agreement contained language of conveyance similar to the Nelson act, and, like in the Nelson act, no mention was made of reserved hunting, fishing, trapping, or wild ricing rights.

The agreement was not ratified by Congress because of disagreement over method of payment, but Congress in 1904 did consummate the cession on terms substantially identical to the 1902 agreement, except for method of payment. See Act of Feb. 20, 1904, 33 Stat. 46. As a result, the size of the Red Lake Reservation was reduced to about 543,000 acres. The reservation was increased to its present size when approximately 160,000 acres were restored to tribal ownership pursuant to the 1934 Indian Reorganization act, 48 Stat. 984.

Subsequent to the 1904 cession, the state of Minnesota has consistently enforced its gaming laws against band members who hunt and fish in the area ceded in 1889 and 1904, except for the area later restored to tribal ownership. Both the state and the federal government have taken the position, up until 1976, that band members have no unique hunting, fishing, trapping, or wild ricing rights in the ceded area.

Moreover, while band members have often violated state gaming laws over the years in the area at issue, there is virtually no evidence that, up until commencement of this litigation, the band seriously contended that the state had no jurisdiction over its hunting, fishing, trapping and wild ricing activities in the ceded area.

RIBSY (Leslie Williamson) pants eagerly as he waits for his new master, Henry (Kathy Achenbach) to take him home. In the background, bus driver (Bob Kinsman) is suspicious of the young boy and his new friend who plan to ride the bus home together. Scene occurs during the production of Henry and Ribsy, one of four sketches to be presented tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Lincoln high school auditorium under the direction of Karyn Enestvedt and student directors, Dave Lewis and Katy Kinsman.

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, will meet in the Council Chambers of the City Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. on May 20, 1980, to consider an improvement project which would involve acquiring and developing property for off-street parking and specially assessing benefited property owners as provided for in Minnesota Statutes, Sections 429.011 to 429.111 and 459.14.

The area proposed to be assessed for such improvements is the following described property: Original Townsite Blocks 18 through 22, 27 through 31, 34 through 38, 55 through 59, and 63 and 64; Owner's Rearrangement of Blocks 61 and 62, Original Townsite; Block 1 of Porter's Addition. The estimated cost of such improvement is $600,000. Such persons as desire to be heard with reference to the proposed improvement will be heard at this meeting.

s-Gerald A. Wigness,
City Clerk

Dated this 28th day of April, 1980.

Notice of Hearing

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Chapter 11 of the City Code of Thief River Falls that Woodland Construction Inc. of this City has applied for a variance to Section 11.18 of the City Zoning Ordinance.

Granting this variance will allow the applicant to construct an addition to the Art Stordahl residence at 1200 Taft with a rear yard setback of 12½ feet instead of the required 35 feet. Legal description is Lot 14 and 52.5' of Lot 13, Block 4, Bratrud's Rearrangement.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that a hearing will be held on the above matter on the 19th day of May, 1980 at 7:00 p.m. in the City Auditorium. All property owners within 350' of the request will be notified by mail. Any persons having questions on this matter may call the City Planning Office at 681-6780 or write the City Planning Office at Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN.

Dated this 6th day of May, 1980.

Notice of Hearing

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN PURSUANT to Chapter 11 of the Municipal Code of Thief River Falls, that Sid's Motors, Inc. has requested a rezoning of property located in Lots 13 and 17, Block 16, Porter's addition to Thief River Falls.

The property is presently zoned R-2 medium density residential and the proposed zoning is C-2 highway commercial.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the Planning Commission will hold a hearing on the above rezoning on the 19th day of May, 1980 in the Council Chambers of the City Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. at which time all persons desiring to be heard thereon may be heard. All property owners within 350' of the affected property will be notified by mail and may direct any comments they might have to the City Planning Office at 681-6780 or in writing Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Dated this 6th day of May, 1980.

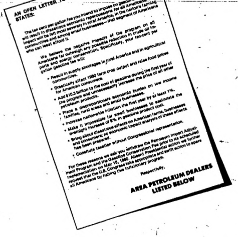
FARMERS, BUSINESSMEN and CONSUMERS ALERT!

MAY 15, 1980

A BAD DAY FOR AMERICA . . .



AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES:

The ten cent per gallon fee you intend to impose on gasoline on May 15 will result in disastrous economic repercussions for all Americans. The impact will be felt most severely in rural America, in the nation's farming communities and among small businesses—that segment of Americans who can least afford it.

We believe the negative impacts of the program on all Americans far outweigh any possible reduction in crude oil imports and energy conservation. Specifically, your ten-cent per gallon gasoline fee will:

- Result in supply shortages in rural America and in agricultural communities.
- Drastically affect 1980 farm crop output and raise food prices for American consumers.
- Add $10.3 billion to the cost of gasoline during the first year of the program and unnecessarily increase the price of all other petroleum products.
- Place a disproportionate economic burden on low income families, rural areas and small businesses.
- Increase nationwide inflation the first year by at least 1%.
- Make it impossible for small businesses to assimilate the overnight increase of 8% in gasoline product cost.
- Bring about disastrous effects on American farms, businesses and consumers; no economic impact analysis of these effects has been prepared.
- Constitute taxation without Congressional representation.

For these reasons we ask you withdraw the Petroleum Import Adjustment Program and the Gasoline Conservation Fee prior to its scheduled implementation on May 15, 1980. Absent Presidential action we further request that the U.S. Congress take appropriate and swift action to spare all Americans by halting this inflationary program.

Respectfully,

In Loving Memory
Of our son, Robert (Butch) Manning, who was taken from us suddenly 14 years ago May 7, 1966.

What would we give if we could say,
Hello, Son, in the same old way.
To hear his voice, see his smile.
To sit with him and talk awhile.
So you who have a Son,
Cherish him with care,
For you never know the heartache
Until you see his vacant chair.

Sadly missed by his Mother and Dad.

When Souls Communicate

When souls communicate — it's like prayer. There may never be a word spoken . . . just a sigh, a wish, a hope, a longing. A child trying to express some simple feeling to its Mother. Mother trying to express her devotion to her child.

All prayer is founded on the idea that God loves us and cares about the things that affect us. Jesus taught us to pray "Our Father . . ." He wanted men to see God's love on the parental level.

When you feel the need to pray, reach out with your heart to God. You may not be able to find words. Yet He hears, He understands those deep feelings we find hard to express.

In church our efforts to communicate with Him are strengthened by the fact that many others are praying with us. They need Him just as much as we do. And we need their longings, their hopes and wishes and feelings to help us express our own. Join us in prayer at your local church or synagogue.

Funeral Service For Living-Not The Dead

by William Hoffman
'U' M News Service

The funeral service is changing. No longer solely a matter of death and the dead — of wakes and eulogies and processions — today the funeral is as much a matter of life and the living.

"We've removed the taboo of death to a large extent, but not the mystique of death," said Robert Slater, director of the University of Minnesota department of mortuary science.

Death remains a mystery and so there remains a deep human need for ritual to mark it. But funeral directors are giving more time than ever before to counseling and supporting the survivors and providing death education within the community, Slater said. "Actually only about 10 per cent of a funeral director's time is spent with the dead," he said.

Several students in the mortuary science program are former high school teachers and coaches who became disillusioned with teaching but wanted to continue working with people — which is what they will do as funeral directors, Slater said.

The mortuary science program, established in 1908, was the first program of its kind to be organized as part of a state university. It is the only program in the country that offers a bachelor of science degree in mortuary science. It also offers a master of education degree in school health education for mortuary science students.

Nearly two-thirds of the students in the program are Minnesota residents, Slater said, and most of them have had no prior connection with the funeral business. Students who enter the program from other states are more likely to have parents or relatives in the funeral business, he said.

More and more women are becoming interested in careers as funeral directors. Nationally only about one per cent of funeral directors are women, but the mortuary science program at Minnesota averages about 10 per cent women a year, according to Slater.

"Women are not any more limited than men in funeral service. In fact, sometimes they've proved to be especially sensitive toward people in grief," Slater said. "Of course, there are certain standards that must be met by both male and female students, but I think we're overcoming the 'role model' of the male funeral service director."

Enrollment in the mortuary science program has remained fairly stable for the past few years, despite reports of ominous trends for the funeral trade.

Cremations, often done without a memorial service, are rapidly becoming more common in some parts of the country. Sales of family cemetery plots are down. An overall decline in religious practice has added to the trend, and the publicity stemming from congressional investigation of malpractice in the funeral industry hasn't helped. Federal trade commission is proposing to regulate the industry for the first time.

But perhaps no where is the funeral business in better shape than in the Midwest, where traditional family and religious ties remain strong. "Some claim that immediate cremation is the death knell of the funeral service, but if that is true we certainly haven't heard it here," Slater said.

Only about four per cent of those who die in Minnesota are cremated, and most of those cremations follow a regular funeral service, Slater said.

Nor have corporate concerns in the funeral business made much headway here. Most funeral homes are locally owned and managed, often by business partners who have merged operations.

Indeed, in many cases the funeral home has become a community center of sorts. "I think the really exciting thing today is the funeral director's environment," Slater said. "The funeral home has become a community resource center on death education and an activities center for group support programs."

The funeral service director these days spends a lot of time "out in the community — at hospitals, adult education centers, and schools — helping people to better understand death and dying," he said. "Death education is now taught in 2,000 high schools across the country, 90 per cent of the time by funeral service directors."

Attitudes toward death are changing, as demonstrated by the popularity of Elisabeth Kubler-Ross's book "On Death and Dying" and the hospice movement for the terminally ill, among other things. But the need for ritual remains.

"We don't know of a culture without a funeral rite," Slater said. "Even though our culture has taught us to deny death, ultimately we recognize a need to observe it with proper ceremony."

AMERICAN EYES ARE SMILING

The enchanted land that gave the world Irish coffee... is now ready to present a very special liqueur.

Whether after-dinner liqueurs actually aid digestion as gourmets insist they do, many hostesses agree they really top off a good meal.

Serve those postprandial drinks after you leave the table, just before the coffee. Be sure to include brandy for those who prefer their spirits dry and, for real elegance, something new and different like Baileys Original Irish Cream Liqueur, imported solely by Austin, Nichols & Co. of New York. It sold out completely just after introduction here in September 1979 but is now available again.

No one knows exactly why, except that, as David Dand, managing director of R & A Bailey & Co., Ltd., of Dublin, points out, "People just like the taste of the product. Once they try it, they buy it—a lot of it."

It's a blend of rich, fresh, Irish dairy country cream and Irish spirits, both flavors many people love. Though officially classified as a liqueur, it represents a technological breakthrough in the production of a shelf-stable dairy and alcohol product.

Developed over a period of five years, it may be the stuff legends are made of, too. In fact, it was born with legends attached, like the Gaelic word for cream that means "the top." It's also the top-selling liqueur in the United Kingdom and the third largest selling spirit in Australia.

Another legend says the Irish once used whiskey mixed with cream as a stomach comforter. They'd take a drop of Irish whiskey, drop in a dab of cream, stir, shake and toss it down. In the morning, their "tums" would be righter than rain.

Fact or legend, that may be, but it's no fiction that this subtly flavored new beverage seems to many to transcend all existing classifications.

Glaucoma Can Be Controlled In Early Stage

One out of every 50 Americans over age 45 has glaucoma, wheather they know it or not, according to Raymond C. Croissant, M.D., president of the Minnesota association of ophthalmology.

"Glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness. Everyone over age 40 should have a medical eye examination every two years, to detect glaucoma," Dr. Croissant says. "This is because a person usually will not experience any warning symptoms until it is too late." Ophthalmologists — physicians and surgeons specializing in eye care — have the medical training and equipment necessary to detect and treat this common but serious disease.

Glaucoma is a condition in which the pressure of fluid within the eyeball is too high. The eye has a certain normal range of pressure, just as a tire does. If eye pressure is pumped up too hard for a period of time, it presses on the optic nerve — the seeing nerve. This pressure will gradually destroy the nerve and cause blindness.

Most common type — open angle glaucoma — accounts for over 90 per cent of the cases. Almost invariably, there are absolutely no symptoms to warn the patient. Rarely, in far-advanced cases, one may notice poor vision or narrowing of the field of vision, which is called tunnel vision. However, these symptoms occur so slowly that the person usually is not aware of them.

Definite glaucoma cases are quickly diagnosed by the use of the tonometer, an instrument which measures the internal pressure in the eyeball. Borderline cases are more difficult to identify by use of the tonometer. Other tests, including a tenography test and visual field test, are used by ophthalmologists to detect these borderline cases. Additional tests are available to the ophthalmologist to measure how far glaucoma has progressed in a patient.

"The disease can progress to the point that a person sees only objects directly ahead, and yet may be able to read 20-20 on an eye chart," Dr. Croissant says. "At this stage, however, the optic nerve is seriously damaged and sight will be lost. Medical treatment can control glaucoma and prevent further damage, but it can not undo the harm that has been done."

If detected early, glaucoma can be controlled by eye drops or oral medication before vision is impaired. But glaucoma diagnosed later may not respond to any combination of medical treatments, and surgery will be necessary to lower the pressure. If not diagnosed and arrested, glaucoma will result in blindness or near blindness that can not be corrected.

"It is essential that glaucoma be treated before irreversible progress of the disease," warns Dr. Croissant.

For more information on glaucoma and other eye problems, a brochure called "Seeing Well As You Grow Older" is available free of charge. Send requests with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to the Minnesota Association of Ophthalmology, 1575 University Ave., St. Paul, MN, 55104.

Six Per Cent Of Minnesotans Unemployed

Minnesota's unemployment rate in March was six per cent, down one-tenth of one per cent from February and up 1.2 per cent from March 1979, Commissioner Rolf Middleton of the Minnesota department of economic security reported recently.

Comparable national unemployment rate for March was 6.6 per cent.

Compared to March a year ago, the size of the Minnesota civilian labor force increased 5.7 per cent; the number employed increased 4.3 per cent; and the number of unemployed increased 33.5 per cent.

Minnesota's labor force in March was 2,104,600 persons, up 27,000 from February and up 113,300 from March of last year.

Number of persons employed in March was 1,977,800, up 26,400 from February and up 81,500 from March a year ago.

Number of persons unemployed in Minnesota in March was 126,800, up 600 from February and up 31,800 from March a year ago.

Production workers in manufacturing were paid average weekly earnings of $292.93 in March for working an average of 39.8 hours at $7.36 per hour.

In March 1979, production workers averaged 40.2 hours at $6.77 per hour for average weekly earnings of $272.15.

Heart Survey To Measure Health Effects

Incidence of heart attack and stroke in the United States is decreasing at a steady rate but no one is sure exactly why. A $2 million door-to-door "heart health" survey of the seven county Twin Cities metropolitan area will be used to try and find out.

Minnesota heart survey is sponsored by the national heart, lung and blood institute and the University of Minnesota laboratory of physiological hygiene.

Declining rates of heart attach and stroke were first noticed in 1968. Since then, the rates have declined at about two per cent each year, according to Dr. Russell Luepker, director of the survey and assistant professor in the laboratory.

Many factors may have influenced the changes in these disease trends. "We don't know if it is because the medical care is better, because public awareness is greater, or because health habits are chainging," said Henry Blackburn, director of the laboratory. "We want to measure the contributions of these and other medical and cultural changes in lowering the rates of disease."

Through interviews with people in their homes and through a short physiological test given at neighborhood survey clinics, the researchers hope to determine how people's eating, smoking and exercise habits influence their blood pressure, obesity and cholesterol levels. These factors directly affect the incidence of heart attack and stroke, Luepker said.

Rates of heart attack and stroke may be decreasing partly because people are better informed of health risks, Blackburn said. "The survey will allow us to measure the effectiveness of many community health influences, including media coverage, health care and the recent emphasis on fitness and weight control." This information will help in the development of new ways to explain and predict future disease trends, Blackburn said.

Survey, which began in mid-March, will last for five years and will include 2,000 new people each year. Participants will have their health data returned to them and to their doctors if they request it, Luepker said.

Offer Advice To Deal With Prank Calls

Have you ever picked up your receiver and heard the person on the other end say obscene things or not say anything at all? You're not alone. There are many people who have experienced this type of annoying (or perhaps even traumatic) situation. Majority of these "crank calls" are of the ring-and-hand-up variety.

During the summer months crank calls seem to increase sharply. Consequently, with summer fast approaching, here are a few tips for you in dealing with these irritating calls:

(1) Hang Up — As soon as you hear an obscene word, improper question or long silence, hang up. If you think it's a friend, hang up anyway; if the call is legitimate, the party will call back.

(2) Keep Cool — Don't ever let the caller get the impression you're angry or upset. He or she could very likely be looking for just that sort of response from you.

(3) Don't Panic — That ring may be no more than a wrong number. Don't be hesitant to pickup the receiver and find out. But remember, be equally quick to hang up on an obscene, lewd or annoying party.

(4) Don't Encourage Callers — Your witty response may be even more of a reason for the caller to aggravate you by telephoning you again.

(5) When Seriously Threatened, Call the Police — If the call is something more than a prank, police attention should be sought immediately.

Census Taking Has Unusual Challenge

More than 200,000 Americans, temporarily employed as census takers, started knocking on the doors of their countrymen April 16 in an effort to count those not yet enumerated in the 1980 census, the U.S. Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, announced.

Nearly 87 per cent of those households asked to mail back their questionnaires on or after April 1 had done so by April 14, according to the bureau. The task now is to find the remainder and also to continue the traditional door-to-door census, taking that has been going on this month in parts of the West, Maine and the northern tips of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Sometimes reaching the door is the most difficult part of a census taker's duties.

On the island of Molokai, for example, a census taker must fly in from Honolulu and then ride a donkey to find some of the population. Some remote households in the Rocky Mountains are being reached by census takers on skis. Near Baton Rouge, La., census takers will pilot airboats on the bayous to call on those who have not mailed back their census forms.

On their appointed rounds, census takers are expected to visit pool halls, nudist camps, jails, all-night movie houses, mansions and houses of prostitution (always seeing and hearing no evil, since a strict federal law requires that personal information collected in a census must be kept confidential).

Four-wheel-drive vehicles prove to be invaluable for census takers who must ascend snowy Mauna Kea on the island of Hawaii, traverse the rough tracks along California's Lower Klamath river, or scale the hills of West Virginia, where swinging rope bridges often must be crossed on foot.

In other rural areas of the South and Southeast and in much of Appalachia, jeeps and pickup trucks, and occasionally even horses, are essential to navigate the muddy roads and steep hilly country. A special challenge is provided by mountain moonshiners who often will not give information except to someone they thoroughly trust. Census takers must convince these people that they represent the census bureau, not the treasury department.

Some of the biggest challenges of all are in urban areas. Inner city ghettos, it goes without saying, have been found difficult to enumerate. It can be safely said that the census bureau's greatest expenditure of time and effort is made in these core city neighborhoods.

Interviewing can be difficult where one least expects it. For example, there are still parts of Long Island that are so hard to reach by conventional transportation that enumerators must be dropped off on beaches by the Coast Guard. After that, they're on their own, hiking or hitching rides in dune buggies.

Or how about the unseen people of New York City — those who live in the steam tunnels under the city? There, they stake out territory, set up households, cook their meals, and of course are protected from the cold and wet. Census takers have to visit them, too, and get their statistics.

Census takers can be identified by their official red, white and blue badges, worn on the lapel, and the official U.S. census satchels they carry during their rounds. Anyone with reason to believe that someone is impersonating a census taker should call the local police.

Someone whose household did not receive a form by mail should call the U.S. census district office for that area to be sure that their household is not overlooked.

A household's answers to census questions are confidential by law. Census takers are sworn to secrecy, and are subject to a fine of up to $5,000 and-or up to five years in jail for a proven violation of the confidentiality law.

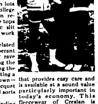
Fashion FORECASTS
WHAT TO EXPECT
CASUAL AND COLORFUL



The brilliant idea in clothes is color — bright, bold and beautiful — making casual wear wonderful and wearable just about everywhere, as well as economical to own and care for.

Warmup suits are receiving a warm welcome in lots of sports. On some college campuses they're even replacing jeans. When the tops are teamed with chic slit skirts, they can even work well in the office.

Sweatshirts and related fleecewear, in exuberant hues, are also getting rave revues especially among the folks who are combating the energy crisis by generating a little energy of their own — by running, playing racquet ball and getting into all sorts of sports.

Many of them are finding that in order to keep their good looks, fashions need to be made of a fiber that's engineered for a specific job.

One fiber that's attuned to today's active lifestyle is Creslan acrylic. It makes possible multi-purpose, smart, colorful fleecewear that provides easy care and is available at a sound value particularly important in today's economy. This fleecewear of Creslan is America's number one choice for sports and spectacular wear.

Many of the finer designers of casual wear are using such man-made fibers to make the most of the fashions they create for men and women.

Early Treatment Can Save Eyes, Doctor Says

With advances in medical eye care, most people can expect to have reasonably good vision to a ripe old age. Many serious eye conditions can be prevented, corrected or treated if diagnosed early, according to Raymond C. Croissant, M.D., president of the Minnesota association of ophthalmology.

Glasses are an important aid in seeing and reading for most older people. The need for glasses at this time of life is mainly due to the gradual weakening of the ability to focus the eye on near and distant objects, called presbyopia.

"In younger people, the lens is elastic and can change its shape. This allows us to focus on objects both in the distance and very close," explained Croissant. "With age, the consistency of the lens changes, making it more resistant to changes in shape. This results in a decreasing ability to focus."

Presbyopia affects everyone starting at about age 45. Fortunately, with the help of corrective lenses, this weakness is readily overcome. Reading, writing and doing fine work at close range can be enjoyed for many years.

Many older people are disturbed by dark spots which may seem like flying insects before their eyes. The spots are seen when looking at a white ceiling, the sky or a white paper, and move when the eye moves.

"These spots are very common and are harmless shadows behind the pupil," Croissant explained.

However, the sudden appearance of a shower of shadows may be more serious and may represent a broken blood vessel caused by a torn retina. A dark curtain in one side of the vision, or a decrease in vision which comes a few hours or days after a shower of spots are other signs of a separation of the retina.

A detached retina can usually be repaired by surgery if discovered early. If such spots occur, an ophthalmologist should be consulted without delay to examine the eye and determine whether the spots are harmless or serious.

There is a group of eye diseases which affects the central vision as people grow older. Central vision is what makes it possible to see great distances clearly and read small print. Central vision is also called daylight vision because it functions best in bright light. On the other hand, peripheral vision is what makes people aware of things beside, above and around them, even when looking straight ahead.

"People with central vision diseases may be able to see well enough to take proper care of themselves, move and walk readily, and even do some types of work not requiring sharp vision," Croissant noted. "However, they cannot do close work, identify faces of friends and relatives, or watch television and movies without special help."

Treatment of diseases of central vision is largely concerned with prevention and slowing down the progress of the disease. Early detection by a medical eye examination is important.

Diabetics may develop a condition known as diabetic retinopathy which can cause detachment of the retina.

"Until recently, this very often resulted in total blindness. Now, however, with laser therapy, much can be done to slow the progress of this condition," Croissant said.

Not all diabetics will develop diabetic retinopathy. But all diabetics should have an ophthalmological examination once a year for early diagnosis if the condition does develop.

For more information on these and other eye problems, a brochure called "Seeing Well As You Grow Older" is available free of charge. Send requests along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Minnesota Association of Ophthalmology, 1575 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55108.

PIONEER TALES from the Pennington County Historical Society

by Inga Geving

A large group enjoyed the slides and lecture on their trip to Norway by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harstad at the historical society meeting April 15. The scenery was beautiful and the talk interesting.

Recently I received a clipping that will be of interest to everyone. It reads, "John Lancaster Pennington Sr., a former Minneapolis resident, died in Pompano Beach, Fla. He was a grandson of Edmund Pennington, one of the founders and early president of the Soo Line railroad, for whom Pennington county, Minnesota was named." The article was in the Minneapolis Tribune of April 18.

Mothers day is soon here, and we thought you would like a poem written by Dr. Gambell, of whose writings we spoke in the last "Pioneer Tales." In his interesting and gifted way he speaks of a mother's heart and concern for her son. I am sure you will agree that this pioneer doctor, who once served this area, included every thought that runs through a mother's mind for all her children. How well he put it into words. He must have been a very understanding man. As I read his stories I find them full of love and feeling — never an unkind word, only good thoughts and praise, even for the animals. We are richer because he served here.

A Mother's Reverie
Francis H. Gambell, M.D.

You can take away my boy
now grown to manhood.
You can put him into battles across the sea.
But you ne'er can take from me the memories
Of him who cuddled in my arms so peacefully.

You can take away his sense of tender feelings.
You can engender hate and a desire to kill.
But you cannot steal from me my own dear loved one —
His happy smile, his loving arms are with me still.

You can clothe him with the clothing of a soldier;
You can put a jaunty cap upon his head.
But I see him still, just as I used to see him,
Dressed in his little kiddie suit and booties red.

You can fit him out with arms and ammunition;
And on his back, the heavy blankets added too,
But I see him as he ran to me, so happy —
Coming home from school with the work he had to do.

You can put him on an island
far from nowhere;
You can cut him off from all his home ties, too.
But I see him as he cried his very heart out —
Because he was away, from home but one night through.

You can scar his face with missiles and with shrapnel;
You can take away the beauty of his form.
But you cannot take from me
the smile that lingers
Nor yet the comely grace that made my heart grow warm.

You can make him, for protection, dig deep foxholes;
And you can make him climb from boats and wade ashore
But I see him in the back yard, in the sand pile,
With not a thought of bitter battles e'er in store.

You can put him where the wind blows cold and icy;
And you can keep him at the post in army form.
But I still have in my mind
how, on wintry days
I tied his scarf so snug, to keep him nice and warm.

You can send him with great missiles through the sky lanes —
Across the mountains, rivers and beyond the sea.
But I still keep thinking, thinking, in my own way
Of all the joy he had when he went out with me.

You can shock him with the blasts of heavy bombers;
You can make him dread the sound of whistling shell.
But I still remember how his eyes would brighten
Whene'er I sang the little lullaby he loved so well.

You can feed him on the fare
that's fed the soldiers;
And for the work he has to do it may be fine.
But 'way back somewhere I keep myself a'thinking
That he's prefer to have the baking that was mine.

You can give him cots and bunks to rest when night comes;
You can cover him with army
blankets, too.
But my eyes grow wet with moisture, as they used to,
As I tucked him in and murmured, "God keep you".

So the cruelty of war is ever present.
Like the monster, it consumes
our very best.
But for mothers — yes, all mothers — it can never Erase from us some joys that in our bosoms rest.

NEWS OF NUTRITION

Added Nutrients Are Identical To Natural

More than 92% of ready-to-eat cereals are now nutritionally fortified, up from about 20% a decade ago.

Vitamins and minerals added to foods like breakfast cereals to enhance their basic nutritional value are chemically and biologically identical to nutrients naturally present in food. In fact, U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations prohibit any statement in food labeling which differentiates in any way between vitamins naturally present and those added to a food.

These added vitamins and minerals are utilized by the body just as those already present in food, the Cereal Institute reports. The virtual disappearance of rickets and pellagra in the U.S. as a result of nutrient additions to foods is evidence of the biological effectiveness of such added nutrients.

More than 92 percent of ready-to-eat breakfast cereals today are nutritionally fortified, representing a 20 percent increase from a decade ago, according to a new Cereal Institute booklet, "Breakfast Cereals and Nutritional Fortification." A typical cereal provides 25 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances of at least seven vitamins and, frequently, iron in a one-ounce serving.

Fortification at this level is appropriate for cereals, the Institute says, since many nutritionists recommend that breakfast provide 25 percent of the day's nutrients and calories.

The process of adding nutrients to cereals is complex. Nutrients that are stable to heat may be added before cooking, but heat-sensitive vitamins must be added after all processing stages involving high temperatures have been completed. In fact, nutrients are added to some cereals at as many as six different stages during processing.

Keeping Tab On Costs

Following comments were provided by the U.S. chamber of commerce:

In a day of computer printouts that keep your pay stub up to the minute and snatch an overdrawn check out of mid-air, the federal budget doesn't even bother to tally how much is spent in a year on regulation of the U.S. economy.

The "prudent" fiscal 1981 budget, revealed in January, again failed to make such a calculation, to the dismay of the U.S. chamber of commerce.

Through its own efforts, the chamber combed through different agency figures to conclude that regulatory spending would rise by 12 per cent, compared with an overall budget increase of nine per cent.

In periods of high inflation, regulatory activity has a sharp impact on the cost of doing business and consumer prices.

"A true regulatory budget must recognize the total cost of regulation," writes Martin Lefkowitz, senior economist for the chamber. "Unfortunately, the budgeting process in this regard has been woefully deficient." In 1977, for example, the federal government budgeted $427 million to enforce pollution abatement and control but, in reality, total pollution control costs ran $37.5 billion, or 87 times the federal government regulatory expense.

Fortunately, the office of management and budget, which has been working to curb overregulation by agencies, has now come forward with a legislative proposal that may recognize this shortcoming. Legislation, according to a news report, would establish the government's first system to assess the costs of federal regulation, including compliance by business.

In times of double-digit inflation, such information is essential to help formulate policy. In fact, its absence helps explain why we are in deep trouble.

Mighty Mosquitoes

It only took a few days of warm weather this spring to bring out the first crop of hardy northwestern Minnesota mosquitoes. The ferocity with which these insects attack is well known, and it occasionally causes a bit of exaggeration. Consider, for instance, the following column by Charles (Harpo) Dexter in the Bemidji Pioneer:

I read somewhere recently that if you're bothered with mosquitoes around your yard, the surest cure is to attract Purple Martins to your place by putting up martin houses.

It seems that one Purple Martin will consume 250,000 mosquitoes in a single season. So if you know how many mosquitoes you have, you should be able to figure out how many martins you need.

It was quite evident to me that the article was written for a nationally circulated magazine and that the author* was not acquainted with Northern Minnesota. When it comes to mosquitoes, we have a different breed of cat up here, believe me.

In Northern Minnesota, if you're bothered by having too many Purple Martins, the surest cure is to put up a mosquito house. One Northern Minnesota mosquito will consume five purple martins in a single season. So if you know how many martins you have, you should be able to figure out how many mosquitos you require. The only major problem is in counting them. And with mosquitos like these, enough is enough. You just don't want any more than you need.

But the beautiful part of my plan is that it's a lot easier to attract mosquitos than it is to attract Purple Martins. Also, if the mosquitos run out of martins it doesn't prompt them to leave. They are quite diversified in their eating habits and will merely start consuming some other form of life. Like people, for instance.

Just last week I saw three of our mosquitos attack a bald eagle. They didn't completely consume him. But by the time they were through with him they had him so thoroughly defeathered that he looked like a turkey that was ready for the oven.

To understand the capabilities of a Northern Minnesota mosquito you have to know a bit about him. Here are some facts to consider.

An adult Northern Minnesota mosquito is two hands high, a half meter long and weighs, on the average, three pounds. He has a wing span of 28 inches and a drill bit that is eight inches long and as thick as a lead pencil.

Incidentally, that drill bit is diamond tipped, which enables it to penetrate house walls, steel car bodies or the double layers of human skin with amazing ease.

The adult, experienced Northern Minnesota mosquito seldom stings you on the arm or the leg. Experience has taught him that too often he drills clear through the appendage and sucks nothing but air, and air is deadly to a mosquito. The experienced northern Minnesota mosquito usually attacks the neck, the back or the buttocks. And there is at least one case on record where 50 Northern Minnesota mosquitos buried their drill bits into the buttocks of a 200 pound man, then carried him away to where he could be consumed at their leisure.

The reason that the Northern Minnesota mosquito has so little control over its depth of pentration is because its drill bit is flexible. When he first applies pressure, it bends like a fiberglass vaulting pole. And the more the pressure the more it bends. Then, when the skin is broken, the drill straightens with a snap from the Kenetic energy, and plunges to its full depth. Small bones and tendons are no deterrent to a determined northern Minnesota mosquito's final thrust.

Northern Minnesota mosquitos do not carry malaria or yellow fever. They don't need it. Five of them can pump you dry in ten minutes so why waste a good disease?

If what I have told you has piqued your interest in the Northern Minnesota mosquito as a controller of Purple Martine, you can probably obtain full information and complete instructions for building and erecting a mosquito house from your local Agricultural Extension Office.

And if I remember right, our local extension agent claims that if only ten per cent of our area's home owners were to erect mosquito houses, we could completely rid our entire area of Purple Martins in a single season.

Some Solution!

A feature article received in the mail the other day from the University of Minnesota news service contains observations by David Olson, professor of family social science at the university in Minneapolis.

Olson is convinced that there would be less marital disappointment, unhappiness and dissolution if couples contemplating marriage would submit to some counseling prior to tying the knot. He is probably right. Attention to counseling sessions could well reduce the number of slip knots that are tied at marriage altars every year.

The university professor cites "myths" which he says interfere with the relationship assessment. "People think there's one best person to marry, for example," he said, "but there are at least 20 other people out there with whom you could have a good relationship." At times it would seem that, married or not, some people think they should find all 20.

In spite of the trauma of divorce, statistics now show that four out of 10 of this summer's marriages will end that way — half of those before the second anniversary. That's really a disgusting statistic. It is a sad reflection of individual judment and commitment and shows, in our estimation, the inclination prevalent today for people to place self above all else. Marriage vows — so solemn when spoken — mean no more to many people than bartering for a used car.

What we thought was particularly interesting about the article, however, was Olson's reason for being "optimistic about marriage". He said that people are getting married older, and that ". . .the divorce rate should begin to settle down as more people live together, perhaps with some sort of contract, instead of marrying".

That's some solution! If the key to reducing divorce is to increase the number of people living together without marriage, we are inclined to think the solution is worse than the problem. Olson shouldn't be optismistic — he should be appalled.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Internal Revenue Service gives everyone three choices: The long form, the short form, and the 10-year sentence.

"I think. . ." began the witness under courtroom examination.

"The law isn't interested in what you think, sir," interrupted the prosecuting attorney. "This court is interested in only what you saw."

"Well, I can't talk without thinking," the witness retorted. "After all, I'm not a lawyer."

. . It has been reliably reported that one out of four people in this country is mentally unbalanced. There's no cause for alarm, however. . . unless you have three friends who seem perfectly normal.

FOOD PROCESSOR makes for BETTER EATING

STARRING: LUNCHBOX ATTRACTION

Peanut butter is a natural for sandwiches — especially when you make it yourself with a food processor.

Today, the food processor is putting new twists into the art of sandwich-making. An all-star sandwich to make a child's—or adult's—lunchbox a standout event might be a raisin-studded homemade peanut butter sandwich. Containing only peanuts, pure homemade peanut butter is rich in nutrition and richer in flavor. The Farberware food processor is unique in its variable speed control that lets you make the peanut butter then blend in raisins without even changing blades.

Children can enjoy making the stars themselves. Using a cookie cutter, cut a star from a light slice and another from a dark slice of bread and interchange. You can even make the bread yourself! A food processor can make bread-making as easy as pie. The new plastic bread blade on the Farberware food processor kneads dough like a professional baker.

A food processor also lets you turn leftovers into new meals. Whip up a Turkey in the Straw sandwich from shredded leftover turkey and lettuce. The variable speed gives you more control by slowing down the processing.

For these and other food processor recipes, write Farberware, Product Information Center, Dept. F.P., 1500 Bassett Avenue, New York 10461.

Hints For Using Your Food Processor

- For better mayonnaise add 1/4 of the oil to the bowl with egg, vinegar and seasonings. Add remaining oil very slowly through feed tube.
- Whipped potatoes are fluffy, not starchy when processed at a slower speed.

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

How would you respond to a politician who doubled your taxes in four years, then told you he was going to balance the budget by raising taxes another $70 billion next year?

What would you say to a politician who told you he was drying up the credit market for farmers, small business owners, home buyers and everyday consumers, but allowed the federal government to use its credit card to the tune of $161 billion during the past four years?

That's exactly what the Carter-Mondale Administration has done since 1976. The federal government's total tax collection has more than doubled since then, going from $300 billion to over $600 billion. During the four years of the Carter presidency the national debt has increased by $161 billion.

Now, the administration recommends that Congress balance the federal budget by cutting $2.5 billion in spending, put off spending another $12.5 billion and raising taxes by another $70 billion. This tax hike will come in the form of inflation's impact on the federal tax structure ($31 billion); the president's fee on imported oil ($11 billion); the windfall profits tax, which consumers are already paying because of the president's decision to decontrol oil prices ($14 billion); and higher social security taxes ($14 billion).

For the more than 90 million Americans who just finished paying their taxes, this mismanaged economic policy spells higher taxes, increased federal spending and no relief from soaring inflation and interest rates.

The government has at least three armies available to fight inflation and bring economy under control. It has an interest rate army, to discourage people from borrowing, a spending restraint army to balance the budget and a tax reform army.

Right now, only the interest rate army is being used. Because we don't have a coordinated effort by all three armies, the credit squeeze is hurting small business owners, farmers, home buyers and sellers and anyone who needs credit to survive.

On April 15 — tax deadline day — I introduced my 21-31 solution to mobilize all three armies.

The Durenberger 21-31 solution balances the federal budget by putting a ceiling on federal spending of 21 per cent of the Gross National Product — the value of all goods and services produced in our country. Under this limit, government could no longer spend more than it takes in. It forces government to get rid of the unnecessary programs and to operate those that are left with greater efficiency.

The Durenberger 21-31 solution is an anti-inflation program that gives each wage earner more control over the money he or she earns. Inflation is a two-edged sword. On one side, the consumer loses more and more of his or her purchasing power to inflated prices. On the other side, the wage earner who receives a cost-of-living pay increase just to stay even with inflation is pushed into a higher tax bracket. Instead of staying even, he or she pays higher taxes on the entire salary and falls farther behind. For the average worker, a one per cent increase in salary means a 1.6 per cent increase in taxes.

My proposal will end that system by indexing inflation out of the tax brackets. It will end government's windfall inflation tax — the tax that has more than doubled government's revenues in the last four years.

These two programs — a 21 per cent of GNP cap on federal spending and indexing, which would save taxpayers $31 billion in 1981 — are the cornerstones of the Durenberger 21-31 solution.

If we get the tax reform and budget reform armies moving, Carter can pull back the interest rate army and save a lot of lives.

FETUS FACTS

If you are a typical mother, don't ask where you went wrong if your infant is a thumbsucker. You are completely innocent. Thumbsuckers are born, not made. Medical pictures of the fetus show that many babies are already well into the habit of thumbsucking by the seventh month in the uterus. In fact, all kinds of preparations are going on before birth to get baby's mouth ready for its complex tasks.

Did you know that teeth are already beginning to form in the [illegible] are growing. The rest of the permanent teeth wait until right after birth to start forming inside the gums.

Sometimes, shortly after birth, parents or physicians may notice little white spots on the upper palate (roof of the mouth). These are little keratinized structures (keratine is a tough, fibrous protein found in nails, hair and teeth). They are not significant and normally will disappear in 10 to 14 days.

INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

Everyday Fare With Flair

Economical, easy-to-make meat balls take on a veritable Continental air when you handle them a little differently and serve with a tasty sauce and fluffy, hot rice.

Rice is economical—costing only about three cents a serving. The cost is deceptive because a pound of rice when cooked, makes 14 half cups! That can give you a significant savings and this can give you a spectacular meal.

MEAT BALLS WITH SAUCE VERTE

1 pound lean ground beef
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 teaspoon basil
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 cup hot beef broth
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 cups hot cooked rice

Combine meat, onions, bread crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and pepper; mix thoroughly. Form into 8 balls 1-1/2 inches in diameter. Brown on all sides in oil. Drain off fat. Combine remaining ingredients except cornstarch and rice; blend until smooth. Pour over meat balls, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Stir 2 tablespoons water into cornstarch. Pour into sauce; cook, stirring constantly, about 1 minute or until thickened. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 4 servings.

FREE FUEL
when you purchase a Koehn ROW CROP CULTIVATOR!
...For Fast 'Pit Stop' ...
The high speed Koehn Row Crop Cultivator is remarkably fuel efficient. You can do 90 to 100 acres a day with a four-row unit, and proportionally more with larger sizes!
But Koehn says — "THAT'S NOT ENOUGH!"
In these times of high energy costs, Koehn wants to help more. So every farmer who buys a Koehn Row Crop Cultivator this spring and settles up before June 1, 1980 will receive a rebate check equal to four gallons of fuel for each row of the unit you purchase (Example: 4 row unit x 4 gallons 16 gallons).
So make your best deal. When you settle up, we'll give you an Energy Saver postcard to send to Koehn. Koehn will send you a check within 4 weeks.

GOLF FACTS and FANCIES

Nothing does more for the confidence or the bank account of a young golf professional than to win a tournament on his first PGA tour. Just ask Bob Byman, winner of the 1979 Bay Hill Classic in Orlando, Fla., which is sponsored this year by Brown and Williamson's Rich Light Cigarettes.

"Naturally, it was the biggest thrill of my golfing career," Byman said at his home in Raleigh, N.C. "I can't remember ever being so excited."

Byman used the 1979 Bay Hill win to launch a rookie season that earned him more than $94,000 in prize money.

"Bay Hill was my only win," he said, "but it gave me confidence to play well in other tournaments. I've wanted to play the PGA tour since I was a kid, and I feel I'm on schedule."

As with most golf professionals, the career of the 24-year-old pro has had its ups and downs. As the recipient of an Arnold Palmer scholarship to Wake Forest, Byman played on college golf teams that won consecutive NCAA national championships. In 1977, however, he failed to qualify for the PGA tour and decided to play professional golf in Europe.

"It was one of the best decisions I've made because I won two of the six tournaments I entered," he said. "The pressure and level of competition were not really as high as on the American tour, so I was able to adjust gradually."

Byman also credits several tour veterans for helping him adjust to top level professional golf. "Orville Moody has been just great and Gary Player gave me a lot of good advice when I was in Europe," he said. "In fact, the tour veterans in general are a very nice group of golfers."

RIVER VALLEY . . .

Another landmark, the old Solberg school house located on the Arne Olson farm in Hickory township, went up in smoke last Saturday by runaway grass fire of an unknown cause.

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
Oklee, Minn.

The River Valley homemakers group will meet at the Julian Gunderson home Wednesday, May 7 at 1 p.m. Hostesses are Birdie and Shirley Gunderson. An interesting program is on the agenda. You are cordially invited to come and enjoy the day.

Birdie Gunderson spent the weekend at her daughter's home in Oklee while Audrey made a business trip to the Cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tasa and mother Sena spent Sunday at Baudette visiting with daughter and family, the Bob Solhiems.

Evelyn, Shirley and Connie Lundeen and families helped little Jimmey Dulka celebrate his first birthday last Friday. Birthday cake and coffee was served by his mother for the special event.

Mrs. Richard Rustan, Glenda and Sandra and Mrs. Bob Halvorson attended the piano recital at the Methodist church in Thief River Falls Friday evening. Glenda and Sandra took part in the recital.

Sandra Rustan spent last week in Minneapolis. She practiced for the honor concert where Sandra will be participating June 8.

Sunday dinner guests at the Verner Arveson home were Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Hanson and family of Detroit Lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Swanson and Trevor, Mrs. Loren Arveson and children of Thief River Falls.

Look Who's Here

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Hilgeman are proud parents of a baby girl, Frances Marie, born April 20 at Fosston hospital, weighing 7 lbs., 5¼ oz. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hilgeman of Minneapolis. Greatgrandmother is Luelle Lundeen of Thief River Falls.

The Gunder Hansons visited with brother Norman at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Norman is feeling much better but will be hospitalized for some time.

Mrs. Lyle Mandt visited with Louis Mandt at Oakland Park nursing home last week.

An old landsite, the Wankebarn near Gully, was destroyed by grass fire last week. The farm is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arlan Fores. The house went up in smoke several years ago by an unknown grass fire.

Mrs. Bob Halvorson spent Sunday afternoon visiting her parents, the Rich Rustans.

Mrs. Joe Scholfer and Mrs. Bert Coan were visitors and Monday dinner guests at the Selma Anderson home in Thief River Falls.

WEATHER OR NOT

1. Who are the Animal Weather Forecasters? Your pets! Yes, dogs and cats have a long-standing reputation for being able to tell what the weather will be. For example, there's an old New England saying that goes, "When eager bites the thirsty flea, clouds and rain you soon shall see."

The Pennsylvania Dutch believe that if a cat sleeps with her head lower than her body, a storm is due. If the cat washes her face, she knows it is going to rain.

2. Ever wonder what happens to bees during the winter? They survive the cold weather by congregating in large clusters. The bees in the center do a dance. And after warming up, they change places with the wallflowers on the outside of the crowd. It's an exhausting job.

Humans have it easier. According to the CertainTeed Home Institute, by simply adding the proper amount of fiber glass insulation to our attics, we can retain our home heating much longer and the only dance we need do is one for joy, when we see our lowered fuel bills. (Savings vary. Find out why in the seller's fact sheet on R-values. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power.)

3. What living creature has the most dramatic instinct for forecasting the weather? It's the leech! If you put a leech in the bottom of a glass jar, the leech will remain quiet during calm weather. However, 24 hours before a storm, the leech will know it and will start a climb upwards!

Be selfish take care of your future

Porphyrins Provide Color For Living

by William Hoffman
'U' M News Service

The chemistry of life comes in living color. Indeed, without color life would be impossible.

Purplish pigments called porphyrins are chemical compounds found throughout nature and in all living things. They have even been found in meteors, suggesting the possibility of life in outer space.

When magnesium combines with a porphyrin, the result is chlorophyll, the green photosynthetic coloring matter in plants. When iron combines with a porphrin, the result is heme, the red coloring matter in blood.

But when porphyrins are not properly metabolized by the human body, life can be threatened. Substances that make porphyrins — called precursors — build up and can cause acute attacks of abdominal pain, paralysis, respiratory problems and mental distress.

These are some of the symptoms of porphyria, a rare hereditary disease caused by a defective gene. People who suffer from it produce too many porphyrins or precursors in their liver or bone marrow, depending on the variety of the disease.

Sometimes excess porphyrins are passed in the urine, giving it a wine red color. Sometimes they enter the tissue, causing the skin to blister and grow hair to protect it from exposure to light.

One variety of porphyria widespread among South Africans of Dutch stock has been traced back several centuries to one of the early settlers. Another type, common in Sweden, has been traced back to a clergyman who went to northern Sweden in the 17th century to convert the Laplanders to Christianity and had children by a Lapp girl.

Porphyria has been called "the royal malady" of English monarchs. King George III's "madness" is blamed on the disease. And it has been implicated as the real fiend in werewolf folklore because some of its victims grow facial hair, going outdoors only at night because of their sensitivity to light.

Porphyria is "a marvelous disease," as diseases go, and research on it has produced "an excellent union of technology and medical science that has led to successful treatment of some varieties of the disease," according to Claus Pierach, associate professor of medicine at the University of Minnesota.

Pierach is assistant director of the university's unit for teaching and research in internal medicine at Abbott-Northwestern hospital in Minneapolis.

Pierach and Zbyslaw Petryka, a medical research associate, worked under Cecil J. Watson, a University of Minnesota regents' professor of medicine and national expert on porphyria and diseases of the liver.

Much of what is known today about porphyria can be credited to Watson, who was chief of the university's department of medicine for more than 20 years before he retired in 1969.

Watson once worked with German chemist and Nobel prize winner Hans Fischer. Through his research with natural compounds, Fischer discovered "what makes blood red and grass green," Petryka said.

Of the disease's several varieties, the most serious is acute intermittent porphyria (AIP). An AIP victim may have "an attack every few months or years, or never. Attacks are accompanied by abdominal pain, vomiting, respiratory problems and sometimes paralysis.

"The stomach pains and nervousness brought on by an attack of AIP are often seen as tension problems," Petryka said. "Sufferers are put in psychiatric wards and treated with barbiturates, which can be deadly to porphyria victims." Misdiagnosis of AIP is not uncommon, he said.

In the early 1970s, Watson, Petryka, and others involved in porphyria research engineered a breakthrough for treatment of AIP.

By giving an AIP victim infusions of hematin, a compound related to the heme of the blood, it was learned that certain porphyrin precursors could be brought under control and the porphyrin level reduced. Hematin infusions led to the rapid recovery of most AIP patients.

"We've had miraculous results with hematin," Petryka said. "In some cases paralysis has been reversed and patients have been removed from artificial respirators."

Hematin is prepared at Abbott - Northwestern hospital laboratories and flown on request anywhere in the world. Recently an order was sent to Moscow.

"We serve a very small market," Pierach said. "Maybe once a week we send an order, but there is nobody else who does it. When a patient has an attack of AIP, his or her doctor checks the medical literature and discovers that a hematin infusion may be necessary and that the compound can be obtained here."

Pierach emphasized that hematin provides a treatment but not a cure for AIP. "People must understand this. We are learning more about porphyria all the time. We know more about how it works than we do about high blood pressure, for example. But there is no known cure."

Genetic element of porphyria is still not well defined. And even when more is known, Pierach said he would be surprised if genetic engineering ever brings a cure.

CORN facts & fancies

A valuable—but vulnerable—crop, corn is attacked by more than 350 insects. Fortunately, properly used soil insecticides help maintain the health of the crop. By carefully following instructions and cautions on use and storage, one can increase an insecticide's effectiveness—and decrease the danger of contamination of food or feed products.

An effective insecticide has recently received a broader label to include most of the major soil pests that infest the nation's corn fields. Cyanamid's COUNTER® 15-G is now labeled as a nematicide as well as a soil insecticide. It will control nematodes, seedcorn maggots, wireworms, symphylans, Southern corn billbugs, as well as corn rootworms—all at the same low rate.

The corn plant presents an enigma. Incapable of propagating itself as a wild plant or as a recent descendant of a wild plant, corn was cultivated by the Indians long before Columbus's voyage. Yet botanists still have been unable to find its wild ancestors.

Health Care System Makes Much Progress

From one Presidential election campaign to the next, from the unfinished business of one Congress to the new business of the next Congress, countless proposals for federalizing the national health care system have been paraded before the American public.

Health care has been a matter of public concern for longer than most of us seem to realize. Certainly the nature of the debate has changed dramatically since eager collegiates argued the pros and cons of "socialized medicine" with youthful fervor back in the 1930's.

All the while, of course, the American health care system has made vast progress toward becoming the best in the world.

Far too many advocates of nationalized health care — basically, the notion that the federal government must guarantee everyone health care, regardless of cost — tend to be oblivious to this accomplishment.

Thus, it comes as a breath of fresh air that as Congress looks into the current flock of legislative health schemes, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce makes the point that "the debate on national health care requires fresh thinking as we begin in the 1980's."

Americans not only live longer and healthier lives than ever before under our system of private hospitals and doctors, augmented by public services; all but five per cent of our citizens also enjoy some form of health insurance to protect them against burdensome costs.

Critics of the system are constrained to speak less and less of comprehensive national health insurance schemes. Instead, they use catastrophic illness — a highly emotional problem for a family when it strikes — as their main selling point. But here again they want the public to overlook the tremendous gains that have taken place to protect families from possible bankruptcy.

"Protecting all Americans against financial ruin due to health care costs is a laudable goal," O. H. Delchamps Jr., of Mobile, Ala., chief executive officer of a family-owned grocery chain throughout the Gulf Coast states, said as a witness for the U.S. Chamber recently before the Senate Health committee subcommittee on health care. "However, such protection is already provided — mostly by employers — making a government - mandated program unnecessary."

From 1973 to 1978, the proportion of American workers covered against catastrophic medical cost of $100,000 or more rose from 24 per cent to 88 per cent. Over half of these have $1 million protection, and a third unlimited benefits. Overall, 95 per cent of all Americans have some type of catastrophic insurance, and practically none of these have less than $10,000, according to data compiled by the Health Insurance Institute, the research arm of the health insurance industry.

How has this come about? In large part because employers are constantly improving benefits provided their employees. According to a widely respected analysis of employee benefits made for many years by the chamber, employers between 1967 and 1978 increased their spending for insurance — mainly for hospital, surgical and medical care — from $4.02 a week per employee to $14.88 a week, or by 270 per cent. Only outlays for workers' compensation — insurance protecting injured workers from loss of income — rose more sharply.

"An estimated $48 billion in 1979 was spent by employers for group health insurance premiums to cover employees and their dependents," said Delchamps. "Indeed, 90 per cent of all group health insurance is bought through the workplace, with employers paying 70 per cent of the cost."

Federal government, meanwhile, will spend an estimated $62.4 billion in fiscal 1981 for health care — the major share to provide services for 23 million poor beneficiaries and for the aged and the disabled.

It behooves those still clamoring for catastrophic insurance — a foothold for those wanting greater federal involvement — to recognize the realities of today's circumstances.

It is time to discard the myths of the past and take note of the passing parade.

Senior Citizens

Twenty registered at the center Thursday, April 24. Toni and Dee Kleinwachter called, Toni bringing us the material for a quilt we had promised some time ago to finish for her. Alvin Erickson and Marcy Nelson were coffee guests.

We missed Mildred as she had gone to Middle River for an all day Green Thumb meeting. Some of our other regular members attended the LCW convention at Lancaster so they were absent, also.

We fluffed up stuffing and more pillows were filled. Some ladies were busy crocheting the edge on the afghan blocks. When this was all done we had time to also enjoy a few games of bingo or at least until all had won a prize. Some of us won two prizes, the allotted number one can win during the games.

Ruth Anderson gave a door prize that Polly won and Irene's door prize went to Ruth Harper. Elsie Kimbrough gave a prize and two door prizes that will be given away some other Thursday.

Mildred furnished lunch that Polly and Irene served.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Nelson and Chad returned home Sunday afternoon after enjoying a two week's vacation trip to Malakoff, Texas, where they had visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Blotner and Chad. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Blotner and Chad, who will spend a few weeks visiting at her parental home, the Gayhard Nelsons and other relatives.

Hulda Stromberg visited Irene Larson Saturday afternoon and was a luncheon guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stennes, Gerry and Wendy visited at Gilman Stennes' Sunday.

Adeline Stennes and Iola Rokke attended the WMF convention in Thief River Falls Saturday.

Technology In Our Lives

Ingenious Ideas: Helping Save A Life... Feeding A Hungry Nation

Today many operating room procedures are faster and simpler, thanks to ingenious packaging technology.

Many disposable surgical supplies like gloves, catheters and sponges are sealed in St. Regis medical packaging paper and then sterilized in the package just prior to use in the operating room.

This packaging material from St. Regis is designed to micro-fine tolerances — permeable enough to allow penetration of the sterilization medium, yet impermeable to bacteria.

Protective packaging is also helping the food industry keep perishables safe from moisture and insects.

Processed grains and other dried foods are particularly vulnerable. The longer the storage periods and shipping distances, the greater the danger of spoilage and infestation.

The problem was tackled by developing a special bag with a film liner, several layers of tough kraft paper, a new method of sealing and an insect resistant outer ply.

Extensive testing by actual shipments to foreign destination proved the superior performance of the St. Regis bag. Today, bags of this design are used regularly to protect precious foods shipped throughout the world by the U.S. government and distributed within the foreign countries by such voluntary agencies as CARE, Catholic Relief Services and Church World Service.

From resources of the good earth, ingenious advances in technology help produce products for the good life.

Foreign Language Popularity Grows

by Paul Dienhart
"U" News Service

Until recently, Americans defended their ignorance of foreign languages with the kind of swaggering chauvinism that brooked no assault. Immigrants found that the quicker they shed their native languages, the sooner they were considered Americans. And foreigners seemed eager to learn English, the "universal language."

For the most part, universities went with the flow. While there was high-minded talk of languages being essential to a liberal education, the true mission of language departments was to train specialized scholars of literature. Language training for the mass of undergraduates was often a sideline.

Language departments at the University of Minnesota are fighting back on terms the language critics can understand — practical terms. They recently received reinforcements in the form of the report of the President's commission on foreign language and international studies. "The United States' incompetence in foreign languages is scandalous. Nothing less is at issue than the nation's security," the November report states.

Currently, fewer than one per cent of American high school students study a foreign language for four years, and only 15 per cent take any language courses at all. Abroad, it's the reverse: there are more teachers of English in the USSR than there are students of Russian in the USA.

One often-repeated example from the report is that, while there are 10,000 Japanese salesmen in New York who speak perfect English, few of the 1,000 American salesmen in Japan know any Japanese. That just might, the report implies, have something to do with a U.S. trade deficit of $29 million a year.

"For a long time, if you wanted to deal with the United States — and everyone had to deal with the United States — you had to know English. Things have changed," said Peter Robinson, chairman of the University of Minnesota's French and Italian department. "Japan, the Soviet Union, Germany, the Middle East and China have emerged as forces in the world. They're nationalistic enough so that if we want something from them they'll insist we use their language."

The commission report was savvy enough to use "national security" as a major argument for language study. In the United Stats, money for foreign language programs has always followed the political winds. The first big push came after World War II.

Then there was the post-Sputnik boom, the big valley of detente, and the rising interest associated with the present saber rattling.

But it's financial security, not national security, that seems to be getting college students more interested in languages. A foreign language may still be part of a liberal education, but there's a growing realization that it also might get you a good job. "Almost any American who's fluent in Arabic has unlimited job potential," said Prof. Caesar Farah, who runs Minnesota's Arabic program.

At Minnesota, there are 100 students in beginning Chinese. One of the department's best students is now in law school: he felt it wouldn't hurt a lawyer's career to know Chinese. Another student is very deliberately pursuing a business degree while studying Chinese and Japanese.

Even Latin, the so-called dead language, is making a comeback. "The students feel it's practical. It helps them build their vocabularies and understand the terms of science," said Gerald Erickson, director of the undergraduate Latin program.

Numbers of majors have stayed pretty constant in Spanish, French and German, the three biggest language departments, despite the fact that the traditional job for language majors is teaching, a job market that has dried up. The explanation may be the double major: use language skills to make you more employable in another field.

"The doubling up makes for more specific job skills," said Thomas Plummer, chairman of the German department. "a person with a double major in German and business could study economics at a German university for a year, gaining fluency and business credits at the same time."

"We promote Spanish as a good companion for majors in fields like journalism, business and agriculture," said Nicholas Spadaccini, chairman of the Spanish department. A newsletter sent to Spanish majors includes such items as the date of the law school admissions test. "We think it's perfectly correct for a Spanish major to have the option to go to law school," Spadaccini said.

The commission report contains 120 recommendations. The major ones say spend more money — as much as three times the $67 million currently spent on international studies and languages.

More money would certainly help, language department chairmen agree. Because of cutbacks in staff, there's an estimated 1,100 to 1,500 students who won't be able to get into university classes in the Spanish, French and German programs next year. And many language professors complain that present classes are too large to effectively teach languages.

"We'd be fools to say we didn't agree with the report," said Dale Lange, president of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) and a University of Minnesota faculty member. "It may be our only chance to turn things around for the next 25 years.'

The university can improve language education by rewarding good teaching, John Rassias, member of the president's language commission and a Dartmouth professor, said at a Minnesota seminar recently. "I don't want to put down studying literature or publishing papers, but all too many good teachers are being forced out because their colleagues aren't giving them their due.

"Thousands of students are sitting in language classes bored out of their gourds with no inkling of what language can accomplish."

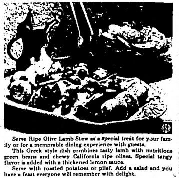
Try This Greek Style Lamb Stew Today



Serve Ripe Olive Lamb Stew as a special treat for your family or for a memorable dining experience with guests.

This Greek style dish combines tasty lamb with nutritious green beans and chewy California ripe olives. Special tangy flavor is added with a thickened lemon sauce.

Serve with roasted potatoes or pilaf. Add a salad and you have a feast everyone will remember with delight.

Ripe Olive Lamb Stew

- 1 2/3 cups canned pitted California ripe olives
- 3 pounds boneless lamb shoulder
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped onions
- 1 cup canned ripe olive liquid
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound green beans
- 3 eggs
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/4 cup lemon juice

Drain canned ripe olives; save liquid. Cut lamb into small pieces. Heat oil. Brown lamb in oil. Remove from pan. Add onions and cook until tender but not brown. Return lamb to pan. Add 1 cup canned olive liquid, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Reduce heat; cover and cook slowly about 1 1/4 hours or until meat is almost tender. Meanwhile, string beans and cut into 2-inch pieces. Add olives and beans to meat and cook 15 to 20 minutes longer, until beans are tender. Beat eggs with cornstarch until light. Beat in lemon juice. Slowly stir 1 cup hot liquid from stew into eggs. Add to stew and cook over very low heat until thickened, about 5 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Getting A Dog Is A Major Decision

About one-third of all American households include at least one dog, although two-canine homes are not unusual.

It's hard to resist the cute innocence of a small puppy, but buying the first one that grabs your heart can lead to anything from disappointment to disaster; after all, even the most adorable puppy can grow into the type of adult you hadn't anticipated.

"All too often, families will buy a breed of dog solely upon the recommendation of a friend," said Dr. Michael Pullen, an extension veterinarian at the University of Minnesota. "The American Kennel club recognizes at least 125 breeds, each with its own characteristics. Not every breed will be right for you. Before you buy your dog, honestly evaluate your family's needs and circumstances. Just because your friend is wild about her toy poodle doesn't mean this breed is right for your family."

Before you make a final decision, here are some questions and answers to consider:

Should I buy a mongrel or a purebred dog?

"Since a purebred dog can cost as much as $500 or more, many people are tempted to accept a free mongrel from a neighbor or a dog pound," Pullen said. "A mongrel from a well-tended, healthy litter may grow into a healthy, loyal, bright, obedient dog, but you've no guarantee of its final size and disposition. When you buy a purebred, you're buying a degree of predictability. Each breed has its established characteristics which most members of the breed display. For instance, it's an atypical collie that isn't gentle."

Should I buy a male or a female?

"There's a standing argument about which gender makes a better pet and I suspect no one will ever end the controversy," Pullen said. "Some breeders claim the female is more docile and lovable while others swear males are more loyal and protective. Females tent to be protective of children, sometimes too much so. Some are harder to housebreak than males, and are more likely to wet when excited. If they're not spayed their estrus, which occurs twice a year 21 days at a time, can cause problems. Some females bleed quite heavily and females in heat will attract males from blocks around.

"Males, on the other hand, have been known to be very aggressive and tend to pick fights with other males, so that walking them can be a headache. It's hard to make reliable generalizations about which gender will be best for a given family.

What about size?

"It probably goes without saying that if you live in a small city apartment, a large dog such as a German shepherd or a St. Bernard is not the right dog for you," Pullen emphasized. "Unless they're well-trained, large dogs require a strong arm and a strong will at the other end of the leash. However, large dogs tend to be rather lethargic and can, if they must, learn to live in cramped quarters. Many of the smaller breeds are quite active indoors and may seem constantly underfoot in a small house or apartment.

"Large or small, some breeds have more energy than others and require vigorous daily exercise. This is true for breeds such as the Irish Setter, Standard Poole, Boxer, Great Dane, Golden Retriever, Doberman Pinscher and the German Shepherd."

Will my dog eat me out of house and home?

"You can safely figure a grown dog will eat about an ounce of food per day for every two pounds it weighs," Pullen remarked. "The largest breeds, such as the Great Dane or the St. Bernard, can eat up to five or more pounds per day, while a 30-pound dog, such as a medium-sized Poodle or a hefty Cocker Spaniel, will eat about a pound of food a day. Even if you buy an economy size 25-pound bag of dry food, your daily cost for a big dog can be about $1.45, or about $530 a year, depending on the cost of the dog food."

Is there a breed that doesn't shed?

"The Bricon Frise, Poodle, Kerry Blue Terrier, Bedlington Terrier and Irish Water Spaniel are good choices if shedding turns you off," Pullen said. "Even allergy sufferers can live with these breeds, although you may find an occasional hair or two. All of these breeds require skillful grooming which most people leave to the professionals. Trips to the doggie beauty salon can cost anywhere from $10 to $15, depending on the groomer, the dog and the job to be done.

"Some dogs are guaranteed to shed and require daily attention. Many people fall in love with the exotic looks of an Afghan, Old English Sheepdog or Shih Tzu, but grow weary of the grooming needs of the pet. As the old saying goes, if you got it, flaunt it, but also groom it or your pet will quickly become a matted ball of fur."

Which dogs make the best watch dogs?

"Most dogs are protective by nature and will bark at strangers, friend or foe," Pullen said. "Certain breeds have been traditionally used as watch dogs: German Shepherd, Doberman Pinscher, Belgian Sheepdog, Bouvier des Flandres, Belgian Terrier and Bernese Mountain dog. Except for the German Shepherd and Doberman, most of these dogs are fairly uncommon in the United States and all are large animals. Smaller protective breeds include the Norwegian Elkhound, Boxer, Puli, Standard Schnauzer, Bulldog and Chow Chow. Welsh Corgis act like guard dogs, but are too small to really do much good in confrontation situations."

Which breeds live the longest?

"Longevity is more a reflection of size than breed," Pullen noted. "Larger dogs are usually outdoor dogs and are therefore more prone to contracting illness or suffering injuries, as a result of a dog fight or an auto accident. Smaller breeds are usually kept inside and are thus protected from bad weather and hazardous situations. Very large breeds rarely live beyond age 10."

Which breeds are best with children?

"Out of fear, anger or confusion, any dog can be driven to bite, but some breeds need a little more persuation than others," Pullen said. "It's very important to teach children that a dog has no other way to say it's being hurt than to growl and-or bite. In fact, if your child is less than six years old, you might consider holding off a year or two before buying a dog.

"In any case, the gentle breeds include the Golden Retriever, Labrador Retriever, Shetland Sheepdog, Collie, Collie-Shepherd mix, Poodles, Basset Hound, English Cocker Spaniel, Cockapoo, Newfoundland and the Bichon Frise. The toy varieties may seem cute and harmless, but only the Pug will put up with a moderate amount of tugging, pulling and squeezing from children."

Where should I buy my dog?

"A pedigreed dog should always be purchased from a reputable dealer," Pullen said. "The breeder will ensure that the puppy has been wormed and vaccinated and will provide a certificate of registration and pedigree. In addition, most will guarantee the health of a puppy for up to two weeks after the purchase."

For more information on buying a dog, write to the Minnesota Purebred Dog Breeders association, P.O. Box 642, Minneapolis, MN 55440, or the American Kennel club, 51 Madison Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10010."

New Help Found For Ringing In Ears

It can seem as loud as the bells of Notre Dame clanging in Quasimodo's ears, or as soft as a faint breeze whispering through a sea shell.

Tinnitus, the medical term for ringing in the ears, or head noises, affects over 36 million Americans and is a more prevalent affliction than hearing loss and deafness combined.

It can hum, hiss, buzz, flutter, roar, ring or screech. It can be constant or intermittent. And the causes are mostly unknown.

"Some people aren't bothered by the sounds," says Dr. Arne Teigland, a specialist in hearing disorders and rehabilitation at Moorhead state university. "Others are driven to drink, drugs and even suicide by them."

Teigland, an associate professor and audiologist at the university's speech and hearing clinic, is a victim of tinnitus himself.

"The sound I hear is faint and almost indescribable," he said. "It kind of resembles a cricket chirping very softly."

He's been able to hear that sound every waking moment for the past 15 years. But unlike many victims of tinnitus, it doesn't bother him. "I can live with it," Teigland says. "Others can't."

Tinnitus, derived from the Latin verb tinnire (to ring), was first diagnosed over 2,000 years ago by the father of medicine, Hippocrates. But even though it affects one out of every seven people at some time or another, and seven million of them severely, according to the newly formed American Tinnitus association, little research or medical interest has been invested in the problem.

Until just recently, tinnitus has been slighted as a tolerable medical mystery, Teigland said. Doctors couldn't do much about it. And the most common treatment available was only a suggestion: learn to live with it.

Although most causes of tinnitus aren't evident, Teigland said, many people with ringing in their ears can be helped with a new procedure that "masks" the annoying sound with a more pleasant one.

Moorhead state clinic last week received a tinnitus analyzer purchased with a $1,500 donation from the Fargo-Moorhead Quota club. The analyzer, the newest item in tinnitus treatment, reproduces thousands of sounds and is used to identify the annoying ones that tinnitus victims hear.

Once the annoying sound is identified, Teigland said, the analyzer is also used to find a louder or more pleasant sound to cover up the bothersome one.

"It's like trading one noise for another," Teigland said. "Once we find an appropriate masking noise, it's duplicated in a battery-powered device that fits inside the casing of an ordinary over-the-ear hearing aid. The device, called a masker, transmits a steady sound in the ear of the tinnitus victim that covers up the tinnitus."

The masking device, Teigland said, can cost over $400. But for some people, it's a sanity-saving investment.

Some researchers are experimenting with drugs, such as the anticonvulsants used to treat epileptics, that seem to muffle the unrelenting sounds of tinnitus. Biofeedback is another technique that's been used with limited success. But masking, Teigland said, seems to be the most effective and popular method available to date.

But even masking can't bring relief to all victims of tinnitus, Teigland said. Sometimes the ringing is so high pitched that masking is impossible. And sometimes, for an unknown reason, tinnitus resists all forms of masking.

Another complication is that tinnitus is often associated with hearing loss. Occasionally, the victim's hearing is so depressed that masking is useless.

Known causes of tinnitus range from the simple — a misplaced hair lodged against the eardrum — to the serious — a malignant tumor growing on the auditory nerve. But most, Teigland said, fall in between the extremes. And for most cases, the cause is a complete mystery.

Scientists speculate that many tinnitus sounds are traceable to diseases or infections in the middle ear, innate physical abnormalities or head injuries. But accumulations of ear wax and even diabetes and syphilis have been linked to tinnitus.

One frequent and apparently growing cause of tinnitus is exposure to intense noises, Teigland said. Loud noises can permanently destroy the tiny hair cells in the delicate hearing organs of the inner ear. And as society becomes noisier, Teigland said, it figures that tinnitus will show up more often.

People who work in noisy environments — some factory and construction workers, rock musicians, artillery gunners, for example — are explainable victims of tinnitus.

Most serious victims of tinnitus are middle aged or older. But children as young as 14 have complained about head noises.

Teigland said that tinnitus can be brought out or accentuated by fatigue, caffeine, alcohol, nicotine and tension. Part of the treatment for tinnitus, he said, is to recommend relaxation, rest and abstinence from cigarettes, coffee, chocolate, colas and liquor.

Heavy use of aspirin, an ototoxic (damaging to the inner ear) drug, also contributes to tinnitus, sometimes a side-effect to arthritis patients who consume a lot of aspirin. Some tranquilizers, high blood pressure medicines and other drugs may also cause ringing in the ears.

Tinnitus, to some, appears loud, constant and unbearable. But loudness is very subjective when considering head noises, Teigland said. Some perceive the sound to be much louder than it actually is. Often, he said, it's more irritating than it is loud.

"People can learn to ignore external noises, like the hum of an air conditioner or the sound of traffic. But internal head noises aren't so easily ignored. And their persistence tends to amplify the sound, at least the appearance of the sound."

Teigland said that head noises are seldom louder than 10 decibels, equivalent to the intensity of leaves shimmering in a gentle breeze. More often the sounds are in the six decibel range, like a quiet whisper at five feet away.

In the extreme, Teigland said, at least one case of tinnitus has been measured at 70 decibels, similar to the sound of a normal conversation or of busy traffic on a city street.

But despite the scientifically measured decibel level, Teigland said, victims can perceive the sounds to be as loud as a jet engine. "And it can be totally disabling."

About a third of all tinnitus victims hear their alien sounds in only one year. But for some who hear noises in both ears, the experience can be frightening. Like the effect of stereo headphones, Teigland said, equal sounds coming from both ears can appear as if they're emanating from the center of the head. "Fearing that it might be a psychological rather than a physical problem, some are afraid to seek help for it," Teigland said.

In rare cases, tinnitus victims hear a virtual symphony of sounds — different pitches coming from each ear and an additional pitch coming from the center of the head.

"We're really at the threshold of understanding the problem," Teigland said. "We're just now learning how to treat the symptoms. The next step is to find the cause. Right now, masking is the most exciting and effective breakthrough in tinnitus research."

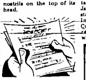
Using the new tinnitus analyzer, Teigland will begin accepting appointments to evaluate possible treatment for local tinnitus sufferers. The evaluation includes a three-hour battery of written and clinical tests. A thorough medical examination, however, is required before Teigland will even consider a case.

"Up until now," Teigland said, "we couldn't do much to treat tinnitus here. Now, with the analyzer, we don't feel quite so helpless."

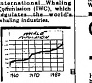
WHALE facts & fancies

The water-spouting of a whale is part of its breathing process. The whale inhales air above the water every few minutes and blows it out from nostrils on the top of its head.

At present, Japan's pelagic whaling vessels harvest only the minke species, which is abundant and reproducing faster than the small percentage taken under strict quotas. Japan is a member and staunch supporter of the International Whaling Commission (IWC), which regulates the world's whaling industries.



Japan has traditionally depended upon whaling for much needed protein. Whale meat, one of the most nutritious proteins in the Japanese diet, is more palatable to the Japanese than beef, which was once proscribed by their religion. If Japan were to replace whale meat with beef, it would take 310,000 head of cattle to replace the whale meat consumed by Japan in a single year.



Since 1972, most whale populations have grown steadily as a result of the IWC's strict catch-control measures. Whale species declared endangered because of excessive hunting in earlier days can no longer be hunted by commercial whalers, thanks to the IWC, which is now dominated by nonwhaling nations.

Power Lines Can Benefit Habitat

Electric power transmission line rights-of-way — slashes of wasteland meandering across the countryside or beneficial habitat for wildlife?

They can be either, depending upon how wisely these high-voltage corridors are managed, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Service's national power plant team has just completed a technical assistance manual to promote beneficial use by aiding wildlife biologists and right-of-way managers in designing and directing wildlife management plans for transmission line rights-of-way.

The Interior Department agency estimates that 300,000 miles of transmission lines occupy about 5 million acres of land throughout the United States. Much of this land is suburban, rural, forested, or uninhabited by people — conditions ideally suited to wildlife under the right vegetation and land management programs.

With the acreage devoted to rights-of-way expected to double or triple in the next 30 years as national energy development accelerates, the Fish and Wildlife Service has produced a management manual that combines the goals and expertise of utility right-of-way maintenance personnel with that of wildlife biologists.

Up to this time, economics has dictated the manner in which most utilities create and maintain transmission line rights-of-way, the most important considerations being transmission reliability and safety. Relatively little attention has been given to management plans that integrate fish and wildlife needs into the overall design, construction, and maintenance of these corridors. The Fish and Wildlife Service's new manual, Management of Transmission Line Rights-of-Way for Fish and Wildlife, suggests that consultation with wildlife biologists in the initial stages of right-of-way planning will permit better management than if such consultation comes after the corridor is established.

Bulldozing, scraping, and other nonselective methods of clearing land promote erosion and destroy wildlife habitat unless a right-of-way is quickly stabilized by planting or seeding. Management of Transmission Line Rights-of-Way for Fish and Wildlife suggests that selective vegetation control methods, either chemical or mechanical, permit the establishment of a stable, low-growing plant base that inhibits the invasion of tall-growing woody species. In this way, right-of-way maintenance costs for utilities are reduced and high-quality wildlife habitat is produced.

Advance planning for fish and wildlife can also prevent needless problems for right-of-way managers. Indiscriminate use of herbicides can eliminate plant species useful to wildlife and may pollute nearby streams.

Management of Transmission Line Rights-of-Way for Fish and Wildlife is a three-volume manual which describes general strategies for effective right-of-way management. Various techniques for maintenance of cover vegetation are integrated into general wildlife management techniques, enabling users to develop specific management plans for any of 61 biological regions of the United States. The emphasis, however, is on biological communities rather than single species, and techniques are based on plant responses to various ways in which land and vegetation are currently altered and managed.

Volume 1 presents general vegetation management strategies and background information on right-of-way costs, engineering constraints, land use rights, vegetation maintenance, and wildlife management. Volumes 2 and 3 present ecological information on selected plant and wildlife species in the eastern and western United States, respectively.

"With this kind of information and approach, biologists and right-of-way managers will be able to assess the management implications of transmission line right-of-way siting and other habitat modifications on fish and wildlife and provide that information to decisionmakers," said Lynn Greenwalt, director of the Fish and Wildlife Service. "This manual is a part of our Biological Services Program which is providing the type of information necessary to incorporate environmental considerations into resource development decisions."

Management of Transmission Line Rights-of-Way for Fish and Wildlife is available for $22 (the set) from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20240 (specify stock numbers: Vol. 1 — 024-010-00520-3; Vol. 2 — 024-010-00521-1; Vol. 3 — 024-010-00522-0). Individually, Vol. 1 sells for $5.50, Vol. 2 sells for $6.50 and Vol. 3 sells for $10 (specify individual stock numbers for single volumes).

Insistence On Sanctions In House Bill

A bill to require all nation's receiving foreign assistance from the U.S. to support sanctions against Iran has been introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Congressman Arlan Stangeland, a co-sponsor of the bill, said "Freeing the hostages must be done as soon as possible and following the failure of the recent rescue attempt, economic and political pressure must be pursued. If the U.S. is able to gain support from other nations which deal with Iran, the release of the hostages could be expedited."

The Seventh District Congressman added that a major part of the world community which has not responded to the call for sanctions against Iran is the non-aligned "third world" nations.

"These nations are seen to have great influence on the government of Iran and it is thought that if they were to join the world community in denouncing the actions of Iran, it could bring release of the hostages," he said.

The U.S. currently sends over $4 billion in foreign assistance throughout the world each year and the majority of the funding, over $3.5 billion, is provided to non-aligned or third world countries.

"It is my feeling," Stangeland said, "that these nations, or any nation for that matter, which receives foreign assistance from the United States government should wholeheartedly support all measures to free the hostages. The militants holding the hostages are criminals and outlaws. Every nation in the world risks tremendous loss if the situation in Iran is allowed to continue. The credibility of international law deteriorates each day the hostages are held by these desperados. If nations receiving our aid cannot find it within themselves to uphold the law and assist in sanctions, they should not receive another dollar of foreign assistance."

Drivers Test Machines For Handicapped

Minnesota is making another significant contribution to the handicapped, according to commissioner John P. Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Driver and vehicle services, a division of public safety, in February installed automated driver license testing machines designed for the handicapped or senior citizens. State has had automated testing machines in four Twin Cities metropolitan stations since 1971.

Minnesota thus becomes one of the first states to offer the "sit-down" testing machine, according to Robert Burmeister, an assistant chief examiner in Driver and vehicle services. A total of 134 machines costing $453,000 are being added to testing stations throughout the state. Eighteen of them will have the tilted screens more accessible to handicapped and senior citizens.

Driver testing machines are an educational tool in that they provide the applicant with an immediate view of correct answers to all questions including those that have been answered incorrectly. Machine testing method is also considerably more efficient. "It makes a record of questions which are continually being answered incorrectly," Burmeister said.

Testing machines generally enhance the public's ability to perceive traffic safety problems as they relate to driving habits, according to Tom Boerner, director of the office of traffic safety. Boerner said the machines more than pay for themselves with efficiency and automatic tabulation of results.

Another important addition to the machine testing material this year is a slide section on motorcycles. Minnesota, like other states, is experiencing heightened interest in motorcycle laws, particularly relating to testing.

Driver testing machines for the handicapped are being installed at stations in Anoka, Chaska, Hastings, Proctor, Rochester, Mankato, Austin, Bemidji, Duluth, Moorhead, St. Cloud, Virginia, Winona and at five metropolitan stations in the Twin Cities. The first machines were installed in late February. A second set is being delivered by June 1.

Opening each of the performances will be the 23-member Northland community college choir with Phyllis Dalager as director. They will sing such selections as "Hosanna in Excelsis Deo", "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind", "With A Voice of Singing", "My Gentle Harp" and "How Excellent Is Thy Name."

Chlorine Gas Forces Pupils Out Of Lincoln

A chlorine gas leak at approximately 11 a.m. Thursday at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, brought the Thief River Falls fire department to the school with gas masks to enable them to enter and ventilate the area.

The accident happened when a chlorine gas cylinder being used in a chemistry room at the school came apart. Instructors on the upper floor of the school got students out of the building where they remained for approximately half an hour while the area was ventilated, according to Duane Noel, Thief River Falls fire chief. There were no injuries to anyone in the school.

Week Honors Law Officers

Proclamation of law enforcement week May 11-17 was recently issued by Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson.

The week, set aside by laws of the United States Congress, is designated to honor law enforcement officers.

Decision Made On Signal At First And Pennington

"T.R.F. CARGIRLS" will participate in the North Country Auto Showtime to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Thief River Falls sports arena. A number of young ladies — including Jill, Jody, Chickie, DeeDee, Kim, Linda, Kari, Jill and Lori, pictured above with one of the show entries — will form the "Cargirls' corps which will be on hand both days of the show to talk about cars with show visitors. More than 70 entries have currently been received for the auto showtime which is sponsored jointly by the Prairie Schooners and Street Wizards car clubs of northwestern Minnesota.

Special meeting of Thief River Falls city council members with representatives of the Pennington county board last Wednesday evening became a closed meeting at which a decision was reaffirmed on the proposed signal construction at First street and Pennington avenue.

Present at the special meeting were aldermen Ole Engelstad, Ambrose Wysoski, Dr. Don Goodrich, J.J. Womack and Mayor Bob Carlson, along with city attorney Robert Wurst, county board members Otto Stenberg, Albert Koop, Roger Hoffman and Glen Taso, and Arvid Olson, county engineer.

Also present were the two owners of the Valley 24 grocery store located at the site of the proposed signal construction — Floyd Hagman and Wayne Bjerken — and Cliff Larson, engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation.

Again, Larson defined the laws specifying parking in the vicinity of a signal — no nearer than 20 feet from the painted crosswalk, and no nearer than 30 feet from the nearest signal.

Parking would then be eliminated in front of the store, and "the business would be eliminated", according to the store owners.

Emphasizing that he was not present at the meeting to make a decision on the issue, Larson stated that, the signal cannot be moved, but it may be deleted, although costs would still have to be paid since the material for the signal has already been ordered and has arrived.

"The first thing that should be considered is whether or not to put the signals in or to throw away the $27,000 we are talking about," alderman Wysoski stated. "After that we should decide on the parking for the store."

Following a closed session of approximately 20 minutes — during which members of the news media and the two store owners were asked to leave the meeting — a decision was reached to proceed with the signal project on First street and Pennington avenue and to provide additional on and off street parking for store customers. Mayor Bob Carlson announced the unanimous decision when the public was readmitted to the meeting room.

The city's street committee and the county board will work with the store owners so they will not be harmed by the decision to install the lights, Mayor Carlson said.

According to the store owners, they had sent a letter to the city through their attorney, placing a price on the business and offering to sell it to the city. It was not revealed following the closed meeting whether the letter had been discussed during that portion of the meeting.

Norway Trip Is Dream Of Lifetime For Ken Finstad

by Bonnie Reed
Times Reporter

Whether he realized it or not, Kenny Finstad began working on the dream of his lifetime when he was eight years old.

He built his first sailing vessel out of a hog trough when he was eight, which he and his brother, 6, used for sailing across ponds.

"We were out one day, when nature called upon my brother," Finstad said. "He stood up in our boat and it tipped over. Mother came outside and took a dim view of us out in the pond and that kind of dimmed my ideas about sailing for awhile."

But if his sailing adventures would have stopped there, his later life would have possessed much disappointment. So he pursued his career, and at 15 he converted a rowboat into a sailboat and went sailing in Maple Lake and Lake Sarah near Mentor.

In 1945, Finstad and nine other sailors, including one of Benito Mussolini's cabinet members he said, rented a sailing vessel and sailed from northern Italy to Palermo — the capital of Sicily, an island of southern Italy in the Mediterranean Sea — to Nice, France.

"We picked up some girls that needed a way back to France," he said. "We weren't going to let them ride for free so we made them pay $50 apiece. In all we got $1,050 for taking them to Nice, where we unloaded them. The whole trip took about 14 days. We sailed almost all around the Mediterranean.

"Sailing is one of the cheapest means of transportation," he continued. "It's so calm and peaceful out there. Once you've sailed, you'll never want to go back to power."

At this point, we are brought to the scene of a huge white sailboat situated in the yard of the Northland Shoe Repair shop in Thief River Falls — and therefore in the yard of Kenny and Doris Finstad. It has been sitting there since last August, and many of us, traveling down Eighth street, have probably wondered why or how it got there.

'Liv', the 26-foot boat, named after Finstad's grandmother, whom he described as a woman "having a heart of gold" and "one who never complained," is the beginning of an adventure which will take Finstad, and his next to the oldest son, Wendell, 28, to Norway.

"All my life I've wanted to sail to Norway, and if I go, I'll be the first one from our family to make it there," he smiled. Finstad's plans are to meet his relatives in Trondheim — a city and port in central Norway — the country possessing many of the Finstad family's memories.

"It's bigger than it looks," he said, describing the boat.

The boat has a width of eight feet and from the bottom of the keel (when the keel is down) to the top of the mast is 38 feet.

"When she's under full sail, she looks like a big gull," he smiled.

STANDING BESIDE HIS sailboat which he expects will take him to Norway next year, is Kenny Finstad, owner of Northland Shoe Repair in Thief River Falls. The boat is 26 feet long, eight feet wide, and 38 feet high from the bottom of the keel to the top of the mast.

Model Cars To Be Shown At AutoShowtime

A special event has been added to the North Country Auto Showtime to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Thief River Falls sports arena. A special car show will be held for car model hobbyists.

The contest is open to both boys and girls of all ages. Classes are as follows: Tiny Mites, through age 6; beginner, ages 7-8; Novice, ages 9-10; Junior, ages 11-12; Senior, ages 13-15; and Pro, age 16 and older. There is no entry fee for the model car contest and entrants will receive a free pass to the auto show. Souvenir T-shirts will be awarded to the first and second place winner in each class. Individuals interested in entering the contest can contact Marty Lendobeja at 681-1232 evenings for special information. No pre-registration is necessary.

Auto Show Has Over 70 Entries

More than 70 entries have been received for the North Country Auto Showtime to be held in the Thief River Falls sports arena Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18. The show is being sponsored by the Prairie Schooners and the Street Wizards car clubs of northwest Minnesota.

The show is open to any type of vehicle with several classes of competition. Entries are still being sought for all classes, especially antiques and special interest vehicles. Entries to date have been received from North Dakota, Minnesota and Canada. Early indications are that this will be one of the largest shows of its kind in the area, according to show officials.

Several unique features have been added to the schedule. The TRF "Cargirls" will be on hand to talk to spectators about the vehicles shown. "These young ladies are expected to attract their own group of admirers," stated Randy Adamson, who is in charge of publicity for the sponsoring clubs.

Also to be held is a model car show. Entry for the model contest will be free, and will allow the model car exhibitor free admittance to the car show. Souvenir T-shirts will be given to the class winners.

Commercial display booths will be located around the arena by area businesses.

Sponsoring car clubs, the Prairie Schooners and the Street Wizards, will have show times from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Awards will be given out at 4 p.m.

School Board Candidates Cite Views

Eleven candidates will have their names on the ballot when Thief River Falls school district voters go to the polls Tuesday, May 20, to elect three members of the School District 564 board of education.

Because of the large number of candidates, interest by the public in the election is extremely high. It is expected that voter turn-out on election day will be strong since there are a number of issues affecting the local school district and spring field work should be near completion — a factor which will contribute to a larger rural voter turn-out.

To assist voters in becoming more familiar with the candidates and determine how they will cast their votes on Tuesday, the Times has invited each of the candidates to prepare a summary statement on themselves and their candidacy. The first of these summaries is being carried in this issue with the remaining five candidates to be featured Wednesday.

Readers are urged to become as informed as possible about the candidates and to vote for the selections of their choice on May 20.

Thank you, voters, for your personal interest and concern in the field of education. To the editor and Thief River Falls Times staff a special thanks for giving me as a candidate the space to express my views. District 564 has produced good strong citizens for our community and state. We have been a leader in our area as a progressive school system. We need to continue with this philosophy.

Yet today, I know we are faced with faculty unrest, building condemnations, cutbacks in educational and extracurricular programs. I

Lady of Snows Represented At State CDA Meet

Thief River Falls women represented the local Our Lady of the Snows court 2023, at the 29th biennial convention of the Catholic Daughters (CAA) of America held April 25-27, at the Holiday Inn in Fergus Falls.

Representing the local court were Ione Gonsorowki, Helen Glass and Sister Placid Paul.

The theme of the state convention was "Let the Word of Christ Dwell on You." State Regent Esther Palubicki of Perham presided. Sister Jeanne Therese, SSJ, St. Paul, spoke at Saturday's session. She acknowledged the support the Minnesota Life care centers had received from the Minnesota Catholic Daughters during the past two years and also reviewed the progress the centers have made. The delegates voted to continue supporting this project for another two-year period.

Twenty-two new members were accpeted into the order at the convention Mass celebrated by the State CDA chaplain Bishop Victor Balke of Crookston, assisted by Rev. Joseph Firdgen, Fergus Falls, and Robert Landsberger, Perham; with Esther Palubicki as presiding officer and Lu Knuttila, Perham, presiding district deputy.

Elected and installed as state officers were: Catherine Hauck, St. Peter, regent; Rose Guillemette, Mankato, first vice regent; Kathleen Altobell, Moorhead, second vice regent; Joan Barkovic, International Falls, secretary; and Dorthea Hadlick, Blue Earth, treasurer. National director Dorothy Willette, Winnebago, served as installing officer.

The National convention will be held in Baltimore, Maryland in July with Catherine Hauck and Rose Guillemette representing the Minnesota Catholic Daughters.

Cynthia Jean McConnell Speaks Vows In Alabama

United Methodist church at Vestavia Hills, Ala., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Cynthia Jean McConnell and Leon Caldwell Harbin, III, on Saturday, May 10.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford T. McConnell of Birmington, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Harbin, Jr., or Grenada, Miss.

Special guest at the wedding was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harold (Alma) Elofson of this city.

Rev. Robert C. Morgan officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Wayne Gill, organist, and Mrs. French Ogleetree, soloist.

Vows were exchanged before a background of emerald palms and jade foliage, above which candles glowed in spiral candelabra. The altar was centered with a massive white arranagement of gladioli, mums, Fuji mums and carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown with an overlay of tulle accented with delicate embroidered flowers. The gown featured an empire bodice with Dutchess neckline and tiny cap sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with a chapel train. Her chapel-length veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap covered with embroidered floral motifs, matching the flowers that edged her gown and framed her veil. She carried a nosegay of white silk roses, orange blossoms and white daisies, accented with tiny yellow forget-me-nots.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Leslie McConnell. Bridesmaids were: Miss Patti Harbin of Grenada, Miss., sister of the groom; Miss Kim Richardson, Birmingham; Miss Wanda Ray, Miss Molly Quin, Miss Carolyn Kassel, all of Jackson, Miss.; Miss Melissa Turnely, Grenada, Miss., and Miss Gay Anapol, Clarksdale, Miss. Her attendants wore yellow chiffon floor-length gowns and carried silk nosegays of mixed spring flowers.

Leon C. Harbin, Jr., attended his son as best man. Groomsmen were: Frank Harbin of Grenada, brother of the groom; Harold Wayne, also of Grenada; John Kimbrough, Coffeeville, Miss.; Russ Durfey, Canton, Miss.; Billy Berry and Ed Exum, Clarksdale, Miss., and Grey Myers, Danville, Ky. Serving as ushers were Keith River, East St. Louis, Ill., Hank Garrett, Clarksdale, Miss., and William Hooper, Oxford, Miss.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Vestavia Country Club.

Stanley Donarskis Feted On 25th Anniversary

Twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Donarski of Thief River Falls was observed on Sunday, April 20, at St. Bernard's Catholic church.

The observance began with a Mass and renewal of the vows at 2 p.m., with Rev. John Kleinwachter and Rev. James Bernaurer as concelebrants. Music was provided by Kristy Gerardy, organist; Sister Marguerite Streifel and Llewelly Troska, guitarists, and Jane Mackenroth, who sang the special selections: "All I Ask of You," and "You Are Near." Assisting at the Mass were Joe and David Donarski, servers; Tom Kleinwachter, reader; Lucy, Ann, Diana and Marc Donarski, gift bearers; and Jim Lambert, Don Stanislowski, Sister Caroline Liebl and Mrs. Joan Engelstad, communion distributors. Ushers were Ken Donarski, Harry Donarski, Eugene Kleinwachter and Robert Kleinvachter.

An open house in the church dining hall followed. Reception host and hostess were Laures and Theresa Kleinwachter. Mrs. Jeff Fournier presided at the guest book, Tami Kleinwachter and Ann and Joe Donarski were at the punch bowl and Jim Kleinwachter of Stephen carried the gifts.

Centering the serving table was square, three-tiered Lady Windemere cake decorated with pink and yellow roses and drop flowers. Silver leaves and sugar bells, touched with blue and centered with a rose, surrounded the four square cakes that formed the base. Topping the cake, baked and decorated by Viola Houske, was a silver anniversary ornament featuring a bride and groom, a 25th emblem and doves. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Robert Kleinvachter and Mrs. Jule Hanson. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Jack Hoppe and Mrs. August Borowicz.

Bernadette, Lucy, David, Joe and John Donarski, Alan Kleinwachter, Dona Donarski, Mrs. Conrad Donarski and Judy and Mrs. Ken Donarski were in charge of the tables. Members of the church guild and fellow members of Mrs. Donarski's church circle were in charge of serving.

Honor guests were members of the original wedding party, Wayne Donarski, who was the best man; Clare Kleinwachter, the ring bearer; and Patricia Donarski, the flower girl; Mrs. Donarski's parents: Art and Selma Kleinwachter of Strandquist; and Mrs. Wayne Donarski, Mrs. Clara Kleinwachter and Jule Hanson.

Unable to attend but sending greetings were attendants: Wallace Kleinwachter, Katherine Karpen, Dorothy Ranstrom and Audrey Ney.

A large number of relatives and friends from Thief River Falls and the surrounding area attended the event.

Planning and hosting the anniversary celebration were the couple's children: Cathy Beverford of California, Bernadette, Wendell, Joseph, John, David, Lucille, Ann, Diana, Marc and Paul. All were present, with the exception of Cathy, her husband and daughter, Jaclyn, Donarski's only grandchild.

All who assisted at the open house wore corsages and boutonnaires made by Mrs. Donarski and her daughter, Lucy.

Confirmands Pederson-Langlie Feted At Dinner

Nancy Lynn Pederson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertyl Pederson was honored at a dinner on Sunday, May 4, following her confirmation at Bethlehem Lutheran church, Newfolden.

Also honored was Shawn Langlie, who was also a member of the confirmation class.

The dinner, hosted by the Pedersons, was served at the Newfolden Community center. Highlighting the serving table were two decorated cross cakes in honor of the confirmands.

Special guests were Nancy's godparents: Mrs. Donald Turney and Mr. and Mrs. David Bakke; her grandparents, Mrs. Olga Pederson and Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Bakke; and Shawn's family, Mr. and Mrs. Noral Langlie, Shawn, Dannie and Tim.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Pederson and Laura Louise of Moorhead; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hensey, Lakota, N.D.; Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Pederson, Scott and Eric of Gonvick; Randy Pederson, Moorhead; Rochelle Roseland, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knutson, Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Haugen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dahl, Jeff, Brenda; Randy and Kelly, Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Barbara Johnson and Harlan Bakke, all of Newfolden;

Also Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pederson, Viking; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Bakke, Heather and Darren; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Pederson, Shane and Crissa, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bottem, Mrs. Eleanor Ness and Mrs. Mary Hellquist, all of Thief River Falls; Marie Launderville, Lorna Skadsem, Allen Lindemoen, Mr. and Mrs. David Bakke, DeAnn and Deland, all of Newfolden, and Donald Turney of Grand Forks, N.D., together with Nancy's brother and sisters: Brent, Pam and Brenda.

Oakland Park Activity Review By Wendy Reller

Contrary to popular belief, we haven't really closed up shop here in Oakland Park Nursing home's activity department. We've just been so busy, we haven't had time to let you in on all all the bustling activity around us! I'll attempt to bring you up to date in this article, with the special events and daily news happenings which took place during February, March, or April.

From month to month, we continue to enjoy parties with games sponsored on alternating weeks by the American Legion auxiliary and, the Eagles auxiliary. We bowled each month against the residents of Valley Home; winning in February (with Louie Mandt as high bowler), and losing in March and April (when Ray Welch was high bowler). A Bible study was conducted once a month by Mrs. Mae Isaacson of Trinity Lutheran church. Happy hour, on the 3rd Friday of each month, was as exciting as ever, with live entertainment and refreshments provided each time. In February, our guest was Art Stordahl of Thief River Falls who plays the organ. In March, we enjoyed the fiddle music of Clayton and Omer Broten, and in April, we listened to Joe Vallet, pianist with the Kitchen band.

Many afternoons were spent enjoying special afternoon programs and lunch provided by church circles or ladies aid groups in the area. In February Hannah circle from Trinity Lutheran served a lunch with program. In March, Joanna circle from Trinity Lutheran served a lunch with program; and Ruth circle from Calvary Lutheran in St. Hilaire served a lunch with singalong, and distributed Easter baskets to the residents. In April, the Silver Creek ALCW served a lunch with program; the Bethlehem ALCW from Newfolden made personal visits with residents; and Elizabeth circle from Trinity Lutheran served ice cream to residents after their evening meal.

Monthly birthday parties are hosted by church circles as well as by families of our residents. All were invited to attend. Birthdays celebrated in February included Art Stenberg (with a cake from Inga Berg, and Mrs. Otto Stenberg); Adlyn Williams (with a party given by her church circle from Trinity Lutheran) Olga Harstad (with a party hosted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Orville Harstad) and a joint party for other residents with February birthdays given by a circle from the Evangelical Free church. Birthday parties in March were given for: Bea Erickson (who provided fresh homemade doughnuts for all staff and residents), Olga Evenson (by her daughter, Sylvia Jaranson), Percy Nabben (by his sister, Adeline Moe) and all residents with March birthdays by a circle from Our Savior's Lutheran church. Birthday celebrations in April were held for: Delia Olson (by her daughter, Donna Rolland), Mildred Ofstedahl, (by her daughter Marge Hanson), Julia Hveem and Lena Solberg (by daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry Solberg), Adell Berge (by her husband, Albert Berge), Deloris Brandon (providing her own cake and ice cream) and all residents with April birthdays by the United Methodist Women.

Other afternoon programs and special events which highlight the last 3 months include the following:

In February — An antique show — displaying a variety of old treasures belonging to OPNH staff; a Valentine's day celebration — including: a "Why We Like You" awards ceremony, a "King and Queen of Hearts" cornation (crowning Art Stenberg king and Emma Copp queen), a "Name That Romantic Tune" contest, a Valentine delivery and lunch; and two afternoons with the AVTI cosmotology students — getting haircuts and permanents.

March events included a slide show featuring the "American Missionary Fellowship", presented by Jim Koch; an accordion music program, by John Albrecht; a musical program by students of Oak Hills Bible institute, Bemidji; a guitar singalong by Karl Dalager of St. Hilaire; and a wedding style show, with all staff invited to model their wedding dresses.

April activities featured a "Norway" slide show, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harstad (son of Olga Harstad); a program of singing, preaching and roping tricks, performed by Andy Bouck, the "Cowboy Preacher" of North Dakota; a Volunteer Tea honoring all OPNH volunteers with an afternoon of refreshments and a program featuring the talents of various residents; and Sunday school program presented by the youngsters from Zion Lutheran church in Viking.

The Ministerial association in this area continues to provide us with Thursday afternoon worship services, as well as Communion services the first Friday of the month.

PRACTICE FOR THE eighth grade mixed chorus spring choral concert to be presented Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Northland community college auditorium, continued Thursday afternoon, as students performed to the music of Buddy Holly — one of the selections of the concert entitled "The Best of Buddy Holly."

State Resort Inspection May Prevent Fires

"Everything we are doing today will help keep a promise for a fire-safe tomorrow. This will benefit our own residents and out of state visitors."

State fire marshal Wes Werner was commenting on the work of state inspectors who are zeroing in on a second year of continuing inspection of Minnesota motels, hotels and resorts under tougher legislation passed in 1978.

In 1979 the state fire marshal division began annual inspections. In the past the state was required inspections of all motels, hotels and resorts. However, adequate manpower was not available to conduct these mandated inspections, Werner said.

1978 legislation provided 10 added positions and funding. Language of the state fire code was clarified as well as broader application of the Minnesota Uniform Fire Code.

Werner said the standard operating procedure for inspectors requires a meeting with the owner or management. During the initial meeting, inspectors will present credentials and explain purpose of the inspection. Subsequently, the owner or person in charge is asked to accompany the inspector on a joint inspection of the facility. After the inspection has been completed, an exit interview is conducted with explanation of the code violations, if any, and the method and time allowed for compliance.

Major areas of concern during inspections are proper exits from guest rooms, food service areas, entertainment and amusement areas, heating, electrical wiring and flammable and combustible liquids and gases. Inspectors will also check evacuation methods and alarm devices. Attention will be given to portable fire extinguishers, sprinkler systems and compliance with state law which requires smoke detectors by January 1, 1980.

Violations of the Minnesota Uniform Code and related laws are punishable as a misdemeanor with penalties up to $500 and-or jail terms.

Questions or concerns should be given to the State Fire Marshal's office in St. Paul at 612-296-7641.

Poison Info Service Set For Summer

Minnesotans will soon have a new place to turn for help in dealing with poison emergencies, according to state health officials.

A statewide poison information service, scheduled to begin operation some time this summer, will offer poison information and referral help to health professionals and the general public. Service will include a 24-hour, toll-free telephone number.

Local hospitals already provide poison information in some areas of the state, according to Jim Parker, of the state health department's emergency medical services section. Largest of these local services is the Hennepin poison center, at the Hennepin county medical center. Hennepin facility handles about 30,000 calls a year.

None of the existing poison programs is staffed to serve the entire state, Parker said, and none offers a toll-free telephone number.

State health department hs requested proposals from agencies interested in operating the new service. Applicant chosen by the department will receive up to $125,000 in state grant money, to operate the service for one year. Additional funds may become available later, Parker said.

Department is also looking for eligible persons to serve on a special advisory council, which will assist the state Health Commissioner in selecting a recipient for the poison information grant. By law, Parker explained, the council's seven members must include a nurse, a pharmacist, private citizen with no professional or financial interest in poison control, and physicians specializing in toxicology, pediatric medicine, emergency medicine, and internal medicine. No more than three of the council members can be residents of the Twin City Metro area, and no more than one can live in a single county.

Council members will serve without pay, for terms of one to four years, Parker said. Most of the council's business will be conducted by mail. Council will remain in existence only so long as state funds remain available for the poison information program.

Persons seeking appointment to the council must file an application with the Secretary of State by May 31. Anyone interested in serving, or nominating someone else to serve, should contact the Office of the Secretary of State, Room 180, State Office Building, Wabasha St., St. Paul 55155, or phone (612) 296-9218.

"TEMPTATION," written by Dave Lewis, a student at Lincoln high school, was one of the short sketches presented at Lincoln high school last Thursday as part of "Spring Frolics," a group of four sketches directed by Karen Enestvedt and student directors Dave Lewis and Katy Kinsman. Victim in the sketch is Ruth Lindquist (pictured) who is tempted by the chief (Tracy Brown) and angel (Wendy Erickson) into making use of or ignoring a pack of cigarettes planted before her by the Chief.

School Election Eligibility Noted

With interest apparently running high in school board elections to be held May 20 throughout the area, questions of eligibility for voters have been raised.

Generally, according to the laws of the state of Minnesota, all mentally competent persons satisfying the age, citizenship, residence and registration requirements may vote at a school election, provided they have never been convicted of treason or a felony unless they have been restored to civil rights.

To be eligible a person must be 18 or more years of age, a citizen of the United States, resident of the school district and a resident of the state of Minnesota for 20 days.

Not eligible are any persons convicted of a felony or treason who have not had their civil rights restored; any person under guardianship; any person who is adjudicated to be non compos mentis or insane; or any person who is not properly registered (no voter registration is required in any area school district).

Because of the adoption of the 26th amendment to the United States constitution in 1971, any person 18 years or more of age is now eligible to vote in school elections, provided he or she meets the other requirements for voting. Since Minnesota has not adopted the civil law rule that minors are persons who have not attained the age of 21 years complete, a person becomes 18 on the day preceding the 18th anniversary of his birth for voting purposes. A person born May 21, 1962 is eligible to vote May 20, 1980.

The residence of any person shall be held to be in that place in which his habitation is fixed, without any present intention of removing therefrom, and to which, whenever he is absent, he intends to return.

A person shall not be considered to have lost his residence who leaves his home to go into another state, or county in this state, for temporary purposes only.

A person shall not be considered to have gained residence in any county into which he has come for temporary purposes only, without the intention of making such county his home.

If a person goes into another state or other county with the intention of making it his residence or files an affidavit of residence there, he shall be considered to have lost his residence in this state or county.

If a person removes to another state with the intention of remaining there for an indefinite time as a place of residence, he shall be considered to have lost his residence in this state, notwithstanding he intends to return at some future time.

The place where a person's family resides shall be considered his residence, but if it is a temporary establishment for his family, or for transient purposes, it shall not be so considered.

The residence of a single person shall be considered to be where he usually sleeps.

In Minnesota a felony is a crime for which a sentence of imprisonment for more than one year may be imposed. If the felony sentence is stayed, and the defendant is placed on probation and is thereafter discharged without sentence, the conviction is deemed to be for a misdemeanor.

There are no educational requirements for voting in Minnesota and a voter does not have to be able to read, write or even understand the English language. The lack of mental competence will not deny a potential voter the right to vote — only a court order declaring a person non compos mentis or insane is the vehicle that will deny this right.

Voter registration is not required for voting in Thief River Falls or other area school district elections.

Norway Trip Lifetime Dream For K. Finstad

The fiberglass boat is equipped with beds to sleep five people, a table, stove, galley head, and "storage space all over," he emphasized.

Finstad's wife, Doris, added some finishing touches to the boat by making the curtains for its interior. She also made all the foam pads for the beds.

Finstad has been experimenting with his boat by taking it out in stormy weather up at Lake of the Woods, he said.

"I call up there and if they say it's too rough for fishin', I tell 'em I'm comin' up. It's better if it's stormy — that's the way the North sea will be."

The only time he sails is in foul weather, he said. And, some of the islands up on Lake of the Woods are a good way to get used to the feeling.

"Among the islands is the place to learn to sail," he said. "Storms can come up pretty fast out there. They'll make a sailor out of you!"

The boat has great speed because of its design after a Viking ship, he said. Once Finstad made a trip from Warroad to Oak Island — a distance of 53 miles — and it took him seven and one-half hours.

"It's designed to go from 15 to 20 miles per hour," he said. "And in a fair breeze, it should make 250 miles on one day, which is good for a sailing vessel," he said.

The problems he has encountered while out in stormy weather have been few, he said. About the third or fourth time he was out a rudder broke, which was about the worst thing that's happened so far.

The boat is structured so that if it tips over it pops right up again, due to the counter balance caused by the keel which weighs 800 pounds, he said.

The boat was purchased from Luger Marine in Minneapolis, Finstad said, where they manufacture only the hull and cabin. "You build the rest yourself," he said.

Finstad worked on the boat for approximately three weeks after purchasing it and another three weeks this spring to get it ready for Lake of the Woods — and more trial runs.

It stands now, almost complete. The only missing parts are the flag staff, a compass, and two fire extinguishers which are required by law for any boat over 20 feet, he said. He also plans to put a radio in it which will carry 100 miles and a direction finder, although he emphasized, "the best navigation is celestial, but you can't always see the sun or the stars when you're out there."

Finstad plans to leave on his voyage from Duluth, around May 15 of next year. He will sail such places as the Great Lakes, the Irish sea (which he says is "always rough"), around Africa, Germany and the Caribbean Sea. His collection of charts ordered includes areas such as the east coast of Canada and Iceland. Although he plans to be gone through the summer, he said that his voyage to Trondheim should not take more than six weeks.

"The St. Lawrence Seaway will be the last land we'll see 'til we get to Norway," he said.

And what about Finstad's wife? Well, "she reluctantly goes along with the idea," he said.

One problem the sailors may encounter while on their voyage are the trade winds that blow across the water until August," Finstad said. However, the idea of sailing with 'Liv' for six months does not frighten him.

"I've been in the war for four years," he said. "I suppose there's a little bit of fright in sailing, but it's not the same kind of fear." Sailing's not bad. It's in a man's blood. It must be my ancestors.

"If we go over, we have our life jackets," he said. "They keep you floating 'til someone can find you."

The seaman's wife enjoys sailing too, she said, although "I am more of a landlubber," she laughed. "I go along on his trips to Lake of the Woods; I feel I have to. If I don't go, I'm scared I might miss something."

Neither Finstad nor his wife can swim. "What's the use of knowing how to swim?" he said. "If you're washed overboard, that's it."

Finstad has been renting boats at Warroad for so long he finally decided he wanted to make his own boat, and he did.

"It's just too bad that man has to wait so long to be able to afford something he enjoys," he said, staring at the ground.

Finstad has been in the shoe repair business for 13 years, along with maintaining his hobby of sailing. Before the shoe repair business, he did construction that took him all over the world, he said.

"Oh yeah, I've been around," he said, shaking his head.

"My wife and I have raised six children," he added. "And they all got a better education than what I ever got."

As for his future adventure, he offered the thought: "If there is no adventure in a man's soul, he may as well lie down and die.

"Maybe I'm just a dreamer," he said, "but a man's gotta have dreams. If something should happen out there I'd only be sorry for my boy, not myself. What better way is there to die than like the Vikes at sea?"

As for now, Finstad will continue preparing for his voyage to Norway.

"I just hope my second, third and fourth cousins will be there to meet me at the dock!" he laughed.

KENNY FINSTAD and his wife, Doris, have been in the shoe repair business at Northland Shoe Repair in Thief River Falls for 13 years. But after this year, Finstad's work will end as he plans to sail to Norway with his 26-foot fiberglass sailboat, 'Liv'. "A man's gotta have adventure in his soul," he said.

Services Set For Clinton Knutson, 64

Clinton Knutson, 64, of this city died Sunday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Clinton Knutson will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Richard Larson officiating. Interment will be in Holt cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from Tuesday noon until 11 a.m., Wednesday, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Anna Schenkey Rites Held At Middle River

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Schenkey, 78, of Middle River were held Wednesday at 3 p.m., at the First Lutheran church in Middle River. Mrs. Schenkey had been failing health for the past year. She died Saturday morning, May 3, at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Donald Fredine officiated at the services. Debbie Gryskiewicz was the soloist and Mrs. Floyd Peterson, the organist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Middle River, in charge of arrangements.

Serving as pallbearers were Eldon and Lonnie Gormsen, Steve Holmes, Mike Schenkey, Steve Hanson and Jeff Scramstad.

Mrs. Schenkey, the former Anna Dagney Scramstad, was born Nov. 23, 1901 in Como township of Marshall county, near Middle River, to Enok and Dorthea Scramstad. She attended school and grew to womanhood in Como township and was baptized and confirmed at Our Savior's Lutheran church at Thief Lake. Later she moved into Middle River and was employed there for many years at the Rex Cafe.

On Oct. 26, 1950, she was married at Fertile to Oscar Schenkey, a Middle River contractor. Following their marriage, they made their home at Middle River.

She was a member of the First Lutheran church of Middle River and was active in the Lutheran church women's group.

She is survived by a stepson: Lawrence Schenkey, Middle River; two stepdaughters: Mrs. Squire (Donna) Holmes, Middle River, and Mrs. Vernon (Leona) Temanson, Greenbush; 11 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Clara Hanson, Middle River, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in June of 1972, four sisters and three brothers.

Services Held For Gladys And Errin Renstrom

Joint funeral services for Mrs. Willard (Gladys) Renstrom, 60, and her granddaughter, Errin Renstrom, 4, were held Thursday at 10 a.m., at the Strandquist school. Mrs. Renstrom and Errin died Friday afternoon, May 2, in a two-car accident near Strandquist.

Officiating at the services were Rev. Henry Moyer and Rev. Donald Peterson. Soloists were David Gustafson and Ivan Sjoblom. Mrs. Wayne Larson served as organist. The Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements with Mrs. Renstrom buried at the Mission cemetery and Errin at the Salem church cemetery.

Pallbearers for Mrs. Renstrom were Eddie Nelson, Alton Henrickson, Earl Hougard, and Ronald, Donald and Jerry Carlson.

Serving as Errin's pallbearers were Ben Kleinwachter, William Safranski, Rick Carlson and Hugh Nelson.

GLADYS RENSTROM

Mrs. Renstrom, the former Gladys Bernetta Kittelson, was born Nov. 2, 1919 in Lincoln township, Marshall County, near Strandquist to Charles and Annie Kittelson, now deceased. She attended school and grew to womanhood in Lincoln township and was graduated in 1939 from the Strandquist high school.

On July 3, 1945, she was married at Halma to Willard Renstrom. Since their marriage, they have lived and farmed in the Strandquist community. From 1965 until 1974, she operated the Renstrom Cafe in Strandquist and for the past three and one-half years, she had been employed by Arctic Enterprises at Karlstad.

She was an active member of the Bethesda Lutheran church of Strandquist, serving for many years as Sunday school teacher and superintendant.

She is survived by her husband, a son, Timothy Renstrom, Strandquist; four daughters: Mrs. Russell (Grace) Wollin, East Grand Forks; Mrs. Carl (Carol) Britten, Halma; Mrs. Carl (Susan) Troska, Stephen; and Mrs. Rodney (Darlene) Gryskiewicz, Grand Forks, N.D.; six grandchildren, three sisters: Mrs. Art (Alyce) Anderson and Miss Agnes Kittelson, both of Strandquist, and Miss Lily Kittelson, Salt Lake City, Utah; and two brothers: Arnold and Melvin Kittelson, both of Strandquist.

She was preceded in death by one granddaughter, a sister and three brothers.

ERRIN RENSTROM

Errin Christine Renstrom, a daughter of Timothy and Leona Renstrom of Strandquist, was born March 19, 1976 at Karlstad. She was baptized at the Salem Lutheran church near her home and attended Sunday school there.

She is survived by her parents, her paternal grandfather, Willard Renstrom, Strandquist, her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wals, Stephen, and several aunts and uncles.

She was preceded in death by her paternal and maternal grandmothers.

Elmer Bratsch Former TRF Banker, Dies

Elmer W. Bratsch, 71, once vice-president of the Union State Bank in this city (now First Northwestern State bank; died May 1 at Venice, Fla., where he spent the winter months. His permanent residence was 7205 Country Club Drive, Minneapolis, 55427.

Funeral services for Elmer Bratsch were held Monday, May 5, at Calvary Lutheran church in Golden Valley. Interment was in the Sunset Memorial gardens.

Bratsch's career in banking spanned more than 50 years in Minnesota. He was associated with banks in Dawson, Tracy, Litchfield, and Thief River Falls, leaving here in the mid 50's. At the time of his retirement, he was president and chairman of the board at Golden Valley State bank, where he had been associated for more than 20 years.

He was a member of the Minnesota Bankers association, Independent Bankers Association of Minnesota and was former president of the Metropolitan area Independent Bankers association.

He was also a member of the Calvary Lutheran church council, the Golden Valley Country club and an honorary life member of the Golden Valley Lions club.

He is survived by his wife, Alma; a son, Gene Bratsch, Plymouth; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Dwyer, Elk River, six grandchildren, and two brothers, Clarence of Danube, and Jesse, Anoka.

He was preceded in death by a son, David, who died in 1968.

Arnold Wahl Services Held At Greenbush

Funeral services for Arnold E. Wahl, 80, of Greenbush, were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Oiland Lutheran church near Greenbush. Wahl had been in failing health for the past 15 months. He died Monday evening, May 5, at the Karlstad Memorial hospital.

Officiating at the services were Rev. Gustav Nordvall and Rev. Robert Ludwig. Mrs. Allan Zak was the soloist and Rev. Ludwig, the organist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Lester Erickson, Randy Erickson, Dale Austinson, Delphine Wahl, Christ Hamness and Ray Hanson.

Serving as active pallbearers were grandsons: Chris and Dale Hamness, Wayne and Kenny Hanson, and Robert and Earl Wahl.

Arnold Eiler Wahl, a son of the late Iver and Synnove Wahl, was born Sept. 10, 1899 in Soler township of Roseau county, near Greenbush. He was baptized and confirmed at the Oiland Lutheran church, near his home, and attended school and grew to manhood in Soler township.

On Oct. 11, 1932, he was married at Plentywood, Mont., to Gwendolyn Skerritt. After their marriage, the couple resided at Scobey, Mont., for three years, before settling on their present farm in Soler township.

He was a member of the Oiland Lutheran church.

Surviving are his wife, a son: Oswald Wahl, Strathcona; four daughters: Mrs. Carl (Fern) Miller, Scobey, Mont.; Mrs. Charles (Juanita) Newquist, Alamogordo, N. Mex., and Mrs. Chrest (Nora) Hamness and Mrs. Ray (Sonja) Hanson, both of Strathcona; 16 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren; a brother, Erling Wahl, Greenbush, and a sister, Mrs. Sylvina Hoyer, Minneapolis.

He was preceded in death by a son, four brothers and four sisters.

Correction

In the obituary for Minnie B. Johnson of Highlanding, incorrect information was inadvertently submitted to the Times, listing a daughter, Mrs. James (Eileen) Salveson of Prairie du Sac, Wis., as a sister. Mrs. Johnson had only one sister, Catherine Sutherland of Alberta.

Dear friends,

The sharing of grief is vital to the recovery from grief. Those who come to a funeral visitation carry away with them a portion of the bereaved's brief, as well as depositing some of their own grief. Mental health requires that humans share each other's grief.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Tom Johnson Workshop Set At NCC May 13

Tom Johnson music workshop is scheduled in the Northland community college auditorium in Thief River Falls May 13.

Workshop is coordinated by the Minnesota State department of education, and funds are provided through a Minnesota State arts board grant. Application forms for registration are mailed to music educators in schools of Northwest Minnesota, and James Solsten of Thief River Falls is serving as the music education host.

In December of 1979 composer Tom Johnson appeared at the Walker Art center in Minneapolis, for a workshop with music educators entitled, "Risks of An Unrehearsed Performance."

Through this workshop, music educators had an opportunity for the first time in Minnesota to work with a composer of New Music in a classroom rehearsal situation.

New Music is post-cage experimental music that utilizes traditional Western music forms in non-traditional ways along with Eastern rythm structures and patterns, including Japanese and Indian music. The music is often performed by composers or by groups led by composers because of new instrumentation (electronics, computers, and rhythm machines), and in the absence of an academically accepted system of notation.

Music educators became familiar with New Music, enabling them to participate in the New Music America, second international New Music Conference, June 1980. Students participating in seven regional workshops will be the nucleus group to attend New Music America to participate as performers.

The Walker Art center worked for the first time with educators in a music education workshop setting providing a new direction for educators in an arts environment previously used for exhibit purposes only.

Tom Johnson will appear at seven sites in May for one-day workshops with music educators, administrators and students. Select orchestra students from these seven sessions will make up the core group for the performance ensemble in June.

No Sympathy Here

Columnist Bob Bork of the North Hennepin Post had some caustic comments for the professional sports scene in a recent issue of the Post. This is his assessment of "Pro Athletes and the $$$ Sign":

Major league sports fans complain about the high salaries paid to players, and some suggest boycotting the games to keep the treasury funds low. Scratch that, with some 36,000 at the Twins opener.

And how about the National Hockey League? They play from October until May, counting playoffs, saturating any given area with games. When playoff time arrives, everyone but the peanut vendor's union qualifies for the Stanley Cup. And they bleed the fans for every last dollar. The North Stars and Montreal were in the quarter-finals, playing a best of seven? Who ever heard of a best of seven in the second round of eliminations?

The salaries will continue to zoom, and before long the first round will be a best of 15, with the finals automatically scheduled for July 4 — unless a Canadian team wins, at which time the game will coincide with one of their national holidays.

Then, of course, we can't forget the fact major league baseball players might just walk away from the stadiums May 22. If it happens, I hope baseball takes off the rest of the summer. I think the owners can survive, especially with their strike insurance, but how will those $200,000 a year hot dogs make it without a check?

But think of the photo possibilities for the media. The star outfielders bagging groceries at the local supermarket, or the 20-game winner selling cars in a market where there are very few buyers. Or, can you visualize one of the players switching to slowpitch, where his batting average suddenly drops 200 points?

Didn't really mean to get this far and not mention the pro football players. Last chart I saw, they were the lowest paid, on the average, of any professional athlete. I think the average pay was something like $70,000. Maybe we can get one of those government aid-loans for them?

The Cornerstone

John Canfield, an officer in the U.S. air force, won second place in a national contest on the theme "What the First Amendment Means to Me" with the following essay:

The First Amendment means freedom of expression. Whether this expression is in the form of a political speech, a group of religious outcasts worshiping, a seathing newspaper editorial or angry citizens protesting at a town council meeting makes no difference; all these actions are protected by the First Amendment. The cornerstone of our Constitution, this amendment promotes the unbridled exchange of ideas.

When they guaranteed these rights, our Founding Fathers took a daring move in giving so many personal freedoms to such a large segment of society. Some feared granting these broad intellectual freedoms. The First Amendment guaranteed the right to make one's thoughts public — an insane idea some suggested. History confirms that these skeptics had basis for their fears.

For better or for worse, communication has always been used to structure and to change our world. The Bible, The Magna Charta and the harangues of Adolph Hitler all illustrate the profound effects that the transmission of thoughts has had on civilization. But when they wrote the Constitution, our Founding Fathers seemed ready to experiment with a free society. Unrestrained debate would solve problems, not create them, the Constitution's authors seemed to reason, for outside interference was unequivocally denied: "Congress shall make no law . . . ." they wrote.

With few exceptions, these five words have stood firm for more than 200 years. If anything, it might be argued that over the years we've strengthened First Amendment rights. Freedom of the press — which to me is paramount among the First Amendment rights — is a good example of the direction these constitutional guarantees have taken. From the Alien and Sedition Acts to the New York Times Co. v. Sullivan case, those interpreting these crucial five words literally, the absolutists, have fought tenaciously against strong opposition for a free press.

And I'm thankful for their dedication. Without it, I fear we might not be living in a democracy. Humans naturally want to suppress opposing opinions. But thanks to the First Amendment, dissenters, as well as mainstream thinkers, are protected. This protection has contributed greatly to our country's development.

America is a mutable society which has used this characteristic to its benefit. And a free press's tremendous influence on our country has helped to make most changes positive and to keep the country from becoming a stagnant, mediocre society. Important to other First Amendment rights, a free press gives every citizen the opportunity to hear all sides of all issues. The civil rights struggle is a good example of the press's ability to create an awareness which is then expressed through the various other First Amendment-guaranteed outlets to bring about change. Should this power be controlled?

Some advocate censorship, saying that with this tremendous influence comes an obligation to be responsible. The First Amendment, however, does not address responsibility on the part of the press, organized religion or even the private citizen. I say the responsibility should come from within. In the case of the press, editors, not judges, should edit. It's just too easy to gag one's opponents.

The First Amendment and its most important modern day element — a free press — then signify to me the essence of democracy: government by the people. Through the free exchange of ideas, Americans can rule themselves. No one person can solve America's problems, but with a strong First Amendment, 200 million individuals can debate about our future, with America as the winner.

Olympic Precedents

Following editorial is from the Wells Mirror:

We've all heard a lot of talk lately about the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics and whether or not the United States' action will set a dangerous precedent by mixing politics and sports.

Overlooked throughout all this discussion, however, have been several past actions by Soviet officials to use boycotts as political weapons.

The following are some of the events the Soviets have boycotted, as reported by Sports Illustrated:

+Dual track meets with the U.S. in 1966, 1967 and 1968, as a protest of American involvement in Vietnam;

+The 1967 World University Games in Tokyo, because of a dispute over the exact wording of North Korea's name;

+The qualifying round of the 1974 soccer World Cup, because it was to be held in Chile;

+The 1975 modern rhythmic gymnastics world championships, to protest host Spain's execution of Basque terrorists;

+The 22nd Chess Olympics in 1976, because it was held in Israel;

+Both the 1978 world shooting and 1979 women's world basketball championship, because in each instance South Korea was the host;

+Because of political reasons, the Soviets have also refused to play Chile in the Davis Cup, and have boycotted numerous sports events staged in West Berlin, including the European table tennis championships (1963), the women's team handball world championships (1965), the junior world championships in modern pentathlon (1973), the world speed skating sprint championships (1976) and the world archery championships (1979).

The Soviets also threatened to boycott the 1968 Summer Games in Mexico City unless South Africa was excluded (a tactic which worked), and get this, actually stayed out of (boycotted) what their leaders called the "bourgeois Olympic movement" for 34 years, from 1917 until 1951.

This year, however, things are apparently different, for both the Soviets and the International Olympic Committee are protesting that the United States' move is unfairly mixing politics with sports — all because of some silly little invasion of another country by the Soviets.

Borrowed Nonsense:

It takes an election year to bring out the most cutting humor. One recent comment is the speculation that God made idiots for practice, then made politicians. Another is that President Carter not only relieved the Iranian hostages of the responsibility of paying their income taxes by April 15, he is also arranging for them to get absentee ballots in November.

"Hurry! Hurry!" sputtered the excited voice on the fire department phone. "Yew got tew get out here right avay; my barn is on fire!"

"How do we get there?" asked the chief.

"Vell," responded the caller after a short pause, "don't yew still got dat red truck?"

PLACING THE BUMPER STICKER on Mayor Bob Carlson's car to kick off an energy conservation and safety program in the city of Thief River Falls, are left to right, Ken Froschheiser, past president of the Pennington county safety council; Mayor Carlson; and Sheriff Charles Richards, president of the Pennington county safety council. Stickers were obtained from the Minnesota department of safety and are an attempt to make citizens more conscious of the 55 mph speed limit. Stickers will be made available to citizens through grocery stores, according to Richards, and will also be distributed to every city employee in Thief River Falls.

Balance The Budget NOW!

Fiscal responsibility by the Federal government is increasingly demanded by the American people, and I have made this one of my priority goals while serving in Congress. It is for this basic reason that I cannot support the First Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal year 1981.

Constituents have told me by mail, in my questionnaire and in person they want a balanced budget and reduced Federal spending. I concur wholeheartedly with their wishes and have sponsored two constitutional amendments to balance the budget, but by supporting this first budget resolution I would be neglecting my duty as your Representative and not fulfilling your wishes.

Balancing the budget can be done in two ways: by cutting spending or by raising taxes. Unfortunately for the American people, the Budget Committee chose to raise taxes, and increase the burden of the taxpayer. They are still telling the public the budget is balanced but not explaining that their means of balancing it is at your expense. People have been led to believe that with a balanced budget their personal tax liability would be less, but under the proposed, supposedly balanced budget, the liability will be greater.

Reducing Federal expenditures and balancing the budget are necessary if we are to control inflation. Everyone will have to tighten their belts and make some sacrifices, keeping in mind that inflation causes more harm to senior citizens and others on fixed incomes. Budget cuts may hurt now, but in the long run they will be much less painful than allowing inflation and excessive Federal spending to continue.

The Committee budget would increase Federal spending to a level $118 billion higher than actual Federal spending in 1979 and $48 billion plus deficit. In addition, in order to balance the 1981 budget, the Committee proposes to raise Federal taxes to a level of $148 billion higher than the actual tax burden in 1979 and $90 billion higher than 1980. Overall, this budget has an increase of 14 per cent in Federal spending, or approximately a $990.00 increase in the tax burden on the average working american.

The President sent to the Budget Committee in January a budget which set spending at $616 billion, but economic conditions have changed and the President and the Committee agreed to reestimate spending at $619 billion. The Committee then deducted funds to reach recommended outlays of $611.8 billion. Unfortunately, the Congressional Budget office determined there were errors in the original estimate and the original budget recommendation was again reestimated, upward by 17 billion to $636 billion. With CBO reductions of $16.5 billion, the real spending level under the Committee resolution is $629.5 billion, not $611.8 billion. Since revenues have been at $613.8 billion, the Committee budget will result in a deficit of some $5.7 billion instead of producing the $2 billion surplus as had originally been anticipated.

The possibility that this budget is balanced is even further out of line when the fact that $18 billion in spending for off-budget activities, such as various loan programs, are included in the totals, which was not done by either the President or the Budget Committee.

I am opposed to this way of balancing, or allegedly balancing, the budget and support instead an Amendment by Congressman Latta of Ohio which offers a substitute budget to reduce spending by $14 billion over what the Committee has recommended and to provide for a $32 billion tax cut in calendar year 1981.

Next week I will explain in greater detail my reasons for supporting the Latta Amendment and why this alternative balanced budget would be in the best interests of the American taxpayer.

4H CLUB

Holt

The Holt 4-H club met April 30, 1980 at the Holt Village hall. It was parent's night so parents of the officers presided at the meeting. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Richard Kjensrud, Flag pledges were said. Roll call was answered by, "Are your parents here?" There was no secretary's report. Mrs. Ken Garthus gave the treasurer's report.

Old business: Share-the-Fun is over. A big thanks was said to Karen Kjensrud, Tim Kjensrud and Dana Peterson for participating.

New business: Members are supposed to think of ideas for a banner for the 4-H building during the fair. Members were reminded about final enrollment. Community pride was discussed. Those on the committee for community pride are: Mrs. Ken Garthus, James Garthus, Barbara Garthus, and Nikki Leach.

A motion was made to give $25 to the Tri-Community scholarship fund. The county 4-H picnic will be June 15, at the Old Mill state park. The county softball tournament will be held at that time. Lake Sarah 4-H camp will be held June 11-13. The camp is for any 4-H member age 11-13. County day camps for kids grades 2-5 will be held in July at the Old Mill State park.

The Junior leader conference will be June 16-20 in St. Paul. 4-H Sunday is May 11 and our club has been asked to participate in the church services that morning. The next meeting is scheduled for May 15 at 8 p.m.

The meeting was then adjourned. Songs were sung. A fashion show was presented by Mrs. Richard Kjensrud, Mrs. Art Cloutier, Mrs. Elroy Benitt, Mrs. Ivan Johnson, Mrs. Ken Peterson, Mrs. Ken Garthus, and Mrs. Walter Leach.

Vernon Reierson gave a project talk on foods. Lunch was served by the Eldon Moe, Ronnie Davidson and Bryce Abrahamson families. There were 24 members, 15 parents, and six visitors in attendance at the meeting.

Governor Quie Explains Veto Use On Bills

"Last week I exercised my authority of line veto 15 times. The reason? The legislature simply overspent," states Gov. Al Quie.

"It was not easy to look at the many bills left on my desk when the legislature adjourned April 12 and decide where the cuts should be made. But one thing was clear in my mind and that was the legislature had passed bills that exceeded our projected revenues. As the leader of this state I had the responsibility to see that we, as a state, lived within our means. And thus, I spent many hours with my staff and commissioner of finance Wayne Burggraaff to determine where cuts should be made.

"In total we decided that $5.5 million in appropriations could be delayed this year. I vetoed, line by line, $4.3 million in the supplemental appropriations bill; $1 million in the school aids bill; and $80,000 in the omnibus tax bill," Quie said.

"The most difficult decision I had to make was whether or not to veto the entire supplemental appropriations bill. This bill has been nicknamed "the garbage bill" by legislators because it contains proposals that had not been approved by the legislature on their own merits. Therefore, when the appropriations bill is negotiated on conference committee, legislators ask for their pet projects, which have not passed the legislature through normal channels, to be tacked onto this bill. Thus, the name "garbage bill." This bill contains many discarded, undesirable items. However, because it is the appropriations bill and must be passed to keep state government operating, the legislature approves it, despite its bad spots.

"This year in announcing that I would sign the 1980 appropriations bill," the governor added, "I stated that I would not accept another 'Garbage bill.' I warned legislators that in future years I would not stand for the practice of tossing all unfinished business in the appropriations bill. If that occurs again, I will be forced to veto the entire bill. I made this annoucement early — at the end of this session, in preparation for the 1981 session — so that legislators will be fairly warned. I believe that the people of this state deserve better legislation.

"I also believe my line item vetoes stand as a message to legislators. Earlier in the session I outlined the limits of our state projected revenues and I stated that I would veto measures that exceeded that amount. I will not accept a spendthrift attitude of government and that is why I choose to make $5.5 million in line item vetoes this year," he concluded.

A V.F.W. Buddy poppy in your lapel marks you as one concerned about the welfare of the less fortunate.

Over $2 Million Available For Energy Survey

Over $2 million in state and federal funds are now available for cities and counties to pay the total costs of detailed building energy surveys — called maxi-audits. Deadline for application to the Minnesota energy agency is June 30.

In addition, money is available to partially fund building energy programs for townships, American Indian tribal governments, schools, hospitals and public institutions such as half-way houses, and vocational rehabilitation centers.

Over $3.5 million in federal money went to 336 Minnesota institutions earlier this year from this program. Majority of this funding went to schools and hospitals, as few cities and counties applied.

Energy Agency Director Mark Mason said, "The audits are much too good a bargain to pass up, since they tell which conservation investments give the best return. Past audit programs show the savings in energy costs average 32 per cent per building. And for groups facing the difficult decision of closing some buildings, the audits will tell which buildings cost the most to operate."

This is the second phase of a $50 million grant program and the last chance for cities and counties who apply to receive full funding for the audits. It is also the last chance for townships, Indian tribal governments, and public care institutions to receive 50 per cent funding.

Public or private non-profit schools and hospitals may also apply for maxi-energy audit funds now. However, they will have another opportunity to apply in winter, 1980. After maxi-audits are complete the schools and hospitals are also eligible for money to install energy conserving measures.

To qualify for the maxi-audits applicants must complete an energy report and a mini-energy audit, which is a brief inspection to find low-cost, easy ways to save energy. Although many institutions have already completed this phase, all or partial funding is still available for those who have not.

Applicants should not begin the maxi-energy audits until after funding has been approved since they cannot be reimbursed for work already done. Funds will be available after September 30.

Applications will be available after May 15 from the Energy Agency, 150 East Kellogg Boulevard, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. Contact J. Evans Grigsby, (162) 297-2332.

Agassiz Health Agency Views 4 Proposals

Project review committee of the Agassiz Health systems agency will meet at 1 p.m. Thursday to review four proposals:

(1) A certificate of need application from United Hospital, Grand Forks. United proposes to relocate renal dialysis, phychiatric, administrative services and laundry from St. Michael's unit to the Medical Park site and to add 22 medical-surgical beds and increased square footage in ancillary areas. $23,500,000;

(2) North Dakota family planning program, North Dakota department of health review & comment, $1,087,039 total, $498,308 federal; Agassiz is reviewing the sites at: Grand Forks, $163,570 total, $60,000 federal, Devils Lake, $77,541 total, $34,837 federal;

(3) Children's grant — Center for human development, Grand Forks, Review & Comment, $121,540 total, $31,039 federal;

(4) Consultation and Education grant — Center for Human Development, Grand Forks, Review & Comment, $73,260 total; $15,000 federal.

Applicants will make presentations; committee members and staff will offer comments and analysis; and there will be opportunity for public comments. Recommendations of the review committee will be presented to the full board of directors for action June 19.

Forest History Center Tours Are Announced

Minnesota historical society staff member, Terry Tobey, announced recently that the center is now taking reservations for conducted tours of the forest History center in Grand Rapids. While the forest History center will not be open until May 15, large groups such as school groups, organizations, Boy scouts and civic groups are encouraged to contact the center's office to reserve a time for their visit to the center.

Individuals, families and smaller groups are encouraged to visit the forest History center at anytime during normal open hours. The center will be open for the season from May 15 through October 31, seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Currently there are tour times open for larger groups interested in experiencing the out-of-doors features of the forest History center. This season, the center's reconstructed 1900 logging camp will again be open. Camp, accurately reconstructed by the Minnesota historical society, consists of eight log buildings: the office-store, bunkhouse, cook shack, horse barns, blacksmith shop, saw filer's shack, and a root house. Costumed tour guides, dressed in the clothing of 1900 lumberjacks, portray and explain what life in a logging camp deep in the Minnesota north woods was like 80 years ago.

In addition this season, the forest history center will open two new features to visitors: a nature trail and a reconstructed 1934 Minnesota forest service ranger cabin. Nature trail, complete with trail markers and a self-guided borchure, winds through part of the center's 105 wooded acres and also along the Mississippi river. Ranger cabin, slated to open later this spring, will feature a costumed tour guide who will be on hand to explain and portray the role of the early DNR foresters.

For more information on reservations, tour times and hours of operation, please contact the forest history center office at 218-326-1390, or write to the Forest History Center, route 6, Box 305, Grand Rapids, MN 55744.

Expect Wheat Production To Cost 25% More

Production costs for all wheat in the United States in 1980 are projected to increase by 25 per cent over 1979, according to a study made possible by a grant from the Minnesota Wheat Growers association. Don Loeslie, a wheat farmer from Warren, who is coordinating the project for the Minnesota Wheat Growers association, reports that the cumulated production cost for wheat in 1980 is projected to average $4.59 per bushel compared to $3.66 per bushel in 1979. "This is substantially above prices at the present time," Loeslie states.

"Petroleum, fertilizer and seed are among the variable cost factors that will generate the greatest increases," Loeslie stated, "each averaging a 35 per cent increase over last year. Leading the way in production costs increases, however is interest payments which have increased by a whopping 52 per cent over 1979!"

Total variable costs for 1980 are projected at $53.04 per acre in the study with variable costs plus fixed costs totaling $146.89 per acre. Loeslie reported that the land costs are computed on the basis of bushels of production and not in dollars and cents. Where land is rented, a one-third share of the crop to the landlord is the average practice.

"Using the concept of one-third share of normal crop production to compute the return on investment," Loeslie stated, "avoids using land prices or cash rent values that vary between geographic areas." The study assumes an average 1980 crop yeild of 32 bushels per acre.

According to Loeslie, the study is being carried out by Chase Econometrics under a contract with the National association of Wheat Growers. Financing for the project was made available from the Minnesota Wheat Growers. Loeslie added that although the initial study is for all wheat in the United States, a separate study will be completed soon defining the production costs for wheat producers in Minnesota.

He explained that the purpose of the study is to obtain some concrete data on production costs as well as gain some insights into further prospects for use in developing policy positions for submitting to Congress and the administration to encourage additional action to bolster prices.

Chief's Corner

by Ken Froschheiser
Chief of Police
Thief River Falls, MN.

Now that spring is here and the outdoor activities have picked up, I would like to take this opportunity to discuss three areas of concern that we are experiencing:

(1) The department has received complaints in reference to working on vehicles on the streets or sidewalks. This is in violation of the city code and violations will be prosecuted. Besides doing damage to the street from gas, oil and other substances, it creates a very dangerous situation. Imagine for a moment what could happed if a young child crawled underneath a vehicle that was on jacks, or a car went into a skid from going over a slick surface such as oil deposits. This could very well be a disastrous situation and cause liability to the person responsible. The department will be watching closely for these violations and prosecuting the violators.

(2) Mopeds are becoming a very popular means of transportation. However, we seen them operated on sidewalks, without registration and in a very unsafe manner. Mopeds are motorized vehicles and they must be operated according to motor vehicle laws. You must be a licensed driver to operate a moped. Young people who have reached the age of 15 and do not have a drivers license must hold a special moped license. In short, moped operators are responsible to the laws of driving as well as operators of motorcycles and automobiles. The department shall prosecute all violators for the violation observed.

I should remind all moped owners that they were liable if they permit illegal operation of a motor vehicle. In other words, an owner of a moped can be prosecuted for permitting someone else who is not licensed to operate the vehicle, or when the vehicle is being operated by someone else and has no current registration. Mopeds are vehicles and shall be treated as such.

(3) Along with mopeds, another problem area is bicycles. Many violations are observed every day. Bicycles must stop for stop signs, signal their turns, ride with traffic on the same side of the road, have a light or reflector at night and carry no more passengers than the bicycle is built to carry. In other words, bicycle riders must follow the same traffic rules as motor vehicles.

Once again, the department shall be enforcing bicycle laws and prosecute the violators through the court system. Later on this summer the bicycle patrol will be on duty and enforce bicycle laws within the city.

Let's all have a safe and happy summer and not let a foolish mistake turn it into a tragedy.

Freeze Placed On Hiring Under CETA Program

U.S. department of labor is notifying all prime sponsors under the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA) that hiring for public service jobs under Title VI of the act has been frozen effective Friday, April 25.

Labor department said it is taking the action because under the president's proposed 1981 budget revisions, the number of public service employment Title VI openings has been reduced from the present 200,000 to 149,000 as of Sept. 30, 1980. In addition, the president proposes to defer $203 million of 1980 budget authority to 1981.

Title VI enrollment as of March 31, 1980, was 196,000; the hiring freeze is designed to bring enrollment to the required 149,000 by September 30 and, also, to effect the $203 million savings. Labor department plans to monitor Title VI enrollment levels monthly, and should the 149,000 target be reached before the end of the fiscal year, it will consider lifting the hiring freeze.

Notices are being sent out to the 473 state and local government units which serve as prims sponsors by the 10 regional offices of the Labor Department's employment and training administration, which administers CETA. A separate counter strutural public service employment program under Title II of CETA is not affected.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Here are some questions for parents with children in School District 564 regarding head lice (Pediculosis) in our schools:

Did you know that, at the time of this writing, the 24-28 known cases of head lice were discovered in less than 10 per cent of our school children and that the remaining students have never been checked thoroughly for lice since the first reported cases over three weeks ago — and there are no intentions of everyone being checked? Yet, we were informed via radio and by calling the schools that it is "under control", when, indeed, it is not — now cases are still being discovered!

Did you know that some children (maybe more than we will ever know) who were checked in school and found not to be infected were checked at home the same day and did, indeed, have lice?

Did you know that when you were informed to buy the pesticide (medication) at a local drug store, and shampoo the heads of every family member and then thought it would keep you from becoming infected, that you were misinformed? This is a toxic prescription and not to be dealt with lightly, neither is it a preventative and should not be used unless you have the lice. In several cases that we know of, one shampooing did not kill the lice!

Did you know there were children in the grade school swim meet at Franklin school recently that had undiagnosed head lice at the time? (By the way, chlorine water does not kill head lice!) Did you know that this complication in our school is no longer a real concern of our school officials but has been passed off as our responsibility as parents?

(Did you get a note home from school regarding head lice? Have you read the note? Have you heeded the instructions on it? DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOU ARE LOOKING FOR? – most people today have never seen head lice. If your child has, unfortunately, been infected with the lice, have you been treating it correctly and keeping him or her home from school until you are sure he or she no longer has it? It spreads rapidly, especially in the schoolroom where there is such close contact between children – such as sharing combs and caps and whispering together!!)

Did you know that some very concerned teachers, and rightfully, so, have been accused of "over reacting" and of being "nuts" by some of our "professional" school officials regarding this issue? Where is our concern about the mental anguish of the child who has become infected with the lice and the child who fears he may get them by being too close to his best friend or the children sitting on either side of him in the classroom or by just plain being in attendance at school? (We've been led to believe that mental anguish is a form of child abuse.)

Did you know that if the very first cases of head lice in our schools had been handled correctly and immediately upon notification that we would not have this problem today? We've been told that the state health department says we do not have an epidemic here and we've also been told that it is easy to get rid of with pesticides and sprays and that it isn't as bad as we thought it would be — well, all of that is very debatable! Since, at the time of this writing, there has been very little honest checking on this matter, how do we know we don't have an epidemic??

If you are a concerned parent, please call your school officials and board members immediately; time's awasting! So far, we have only found one real concerned board member and he has been unable to find enough concerned board members and officials to even call a meeting to see what can be done about this very real and spreading issue!! Believe us, something can and should be done about this NOW!! We are convinced that the "right actions" have not yet been taken.

Sincerely;
Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harder
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tangquist
Mrs. Ronald Trontvet
Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peterson

Dear men and boys of Thief River Falls:

I know this letter is late, but please read it. I do not think it's fair that girls get to join our sports and we can't join their sports. If you approve of this, write to me. Here is the address: Bradley J. Hanson, RR 5, Box 11, Thief River Falls, Minn. 56701.

that I have made an investment in this area. My three children, all of whom are in this school system, and my wife Ellen have also made this investment. Your children and my children will continue to represent our community based upon the investments we make in them now. All of us should want to increase and protect our interest in these "investments".

A major portion of my life has been involved in, and with, the educational process . . . as a student earning a B.A. degree in marketing research and later, working toward a Masters degree. In 15 years I have had the opportunity to experience the need for education from two separate viewpoints. As a teacher of social studies and mathematics, I experienced the feeling of excitement in seeing children learn and develop. As a member of the Detroit (Michigan) school board curriculum planning committee, I developed future course programs and adopted text books for all grade levels. Both of these experiences have provided vast insight into the needs of children and, I feel, well qualifies me to address the forthcoming issues and challenges we will be facing in the future.

In the near future there will be many impassioned issues confronting us . . . building programs, curriculum, teacher's salaries, etc. I am concerned that the correct decisions will affect everyone and, obviously, be a challenge. These challenges must be met head on with foresight and long-term planning.

Future estimates project our K-6 enrollment to increase almost six per cent by 1983. During this period can we be sure that our facilities are adequate enough to accommodate these additional children? We should be concerned that our facilities provide the proper atmosphere conductive to academic advancement and safety. Can we put a price tag on our children's safety? Will our present curriculum be sufficient for the future of ever changing educational needs?

Will our faculty be provided with the proper incentives to challenge our children's capabilities? We should review programs that will continue to keep, as well as attract, teachers who work with our children's minds.

The school board is in the business of providing for the education of children now and into the future. Your tax dollars must be prudently invested. I would determine the goals of our students and community, review all possible alternatives and weigh each one with your ultimate interest in mind. Sound decisions must be made and I wish to have the opportunity to be involved. I believe I am qualified to represent your interests.

The setting of priorities and working toward these goals, with just and fair results, would be my obligation to you and your children.

Borsheim . . .

feel we need strong leadership in our board, commitment to our ideals and the faith to move forward with good solid planning.

I believe our children are one of our greatest resources and as parents one of our greatest responsibilities. We need to challenge them with positive ideas and provide them with an atmosphere that stimulates their learning process. We need a strong unified staff that's willing to meet this responsibility. I am willing to accept this challenge as a board member.

I am a full time mother and housewife. My elementary and secondary education was at Warren. I am a former National Honor Society member and Girls Stater. I came to Thief River Falls in 1964 and obtained my formal education at Northwestern hospital school of X-ray technology. I have worked several years as an X-ray technician, both at Northwestern hospital and Falls clinic PA. I married a local businessman, Milan, owner of Borsheim Printing. We have two sons, Mark, 10 and Wayne, 9. My family and I are members of Trinity Lutheran church.

I have the time and willingness to serve on this board. What I want for my two boys I desire for all our children in this district. I do not pretend to have the magic solution, but I want to do my share. That is why I am seeking public office; I can bring new input to the board. I ask for your support and vote in this election May 20.

boards and committees. It is my belief that I have been fair with the people I have worked for and with. I believe my overall concern for my country led me to run for the Board of education. Things that happen on the local level have an important bearing on what happens in the state and nationwide.

Our school district has various problems, of which school facilities are the most important. Our older buildings are giving us operational costs and maintenance costs that are way above the state average for school districts. I would like to see a total district effort in improving or eliminating the drug and discipline problems. Losing quality teachers bothers me also. In the last few years, Minnesota has lost over 960 teachers and there is a teacher shortage predicted by 1985.

Bussing is another issue, especially with the youngsters who have to get ready for school bussing so early in the morning. Drivers are very important in this respect. We are always in need of good, responsible drivers.

Now, let me state briefly what my thoughts are: Any educational problem is our problem. Therefore, I would want all the exact information available to me to help you. Let's have total common sense, commitment and cooperation between superintendent, school board, administration and teachers. A happy family always works better together.

I would want to help and advice from all walks of life for a balanced picture. Give a boost to the administrative people and teachers so they can teach and discipline students. I certainly feel we need better school facilities -- especially in the high school area — all the activities possible for children and a good sense of pride and winning spirit. This school district I know will think all of this through and provide the necessary help for our children.

My thanks to the Times for letting me express myself in this manner and to the many readers in School District 564 and even bigger thank you.

on the parenting advisory committee and the health occupations advisory committee.

My memberships in the local Kiwanis, Gideons and Boy-scouts have also allowed me varied opportunities to serve. I consider community service a privilege and the responsibility of anyone interested in improving our quality of life.

The board of education for school district 564 is faced with some important decisions. With the recent closing of some areas of Lincoln high school, the board and administration must address how to maintain the education of our children safely and consistently.
